IMPROVING SLOWLY

Ed Creakbaum remains in a serious condition at the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester since suffering a heart attack recently. However, he has sufficiently improved that it was reported he was to be given an opportunity to be out from under the oxygen tent for short periods today.

START FORECLOSURE

M. O. Smith is seeking to foreclose a mortgage on 23 acres of land situated just west of Mentone city limits. A portion of the mortgage was extended on from Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Romine to Mr. and Mrs. George Osman, now of Syracuse, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Connell of Bourbon and Mr. and Mrs. Gary DeGroot of Kanakee, Ill. The suit is due to a default by the Osmans, et al.

Killed In Highway Crash

Indiana's Memorial Day traffic toll reached into Kosciusko county when Lester Atchison, 57, of Route 5, Warsaw (the Palestine community) and his son-in-law, Sgt. Raymond D. Busenburg, a former resident here and a native of Silver Lake, were fatally injured near Carmel while enroute to the 500-mile race at Indianapolis.

Mr. Atchison was killed instantly when the car in which he was riding, driven by Sgt. Busenburg, collided with a truck loaded with fertilizer and operated by James E. Elliott, 41, of Route 3, Rushville.

Sgt. Busenburg, stationed at the Bunker Hill Air Force base near Peru and a resident of Rte. 1, Bunker Hill, died of his injuries shortly after 6 o'clock Thursday evening in Riverview hospital at Noblesville.

Raymond Busenburg, Jr., aged 10, also riding in his father's car is in serious condition at the Noblesville hospital.

Elliott, the truck driver, required treatment at the hospital but was released prior to noon with only minor injuries.

Officers said Elliott, headed north, turned his truck left onto a county road at its intersection with U. S. 31, a mile north of Carmel (about 10 miles north of Indianapolis). They said he turned directly into the path of Sgt. Busenburg's auto, which was headed south on U. S. 31.

After the collision, the Busenburg car teeled off the truck and into another auto waiting at the intersection.

Atchison died instantly of a fractured skull and crushed chest. A skull fracture proved fatal later to Sgt. Busenburg. His son has a fractured leg and possible fractured hip.

Double funeral services were held for Mr. Atchison and Sgt. Busenburg at 2 p. m. Monday at the Church of God in Warsaw. Rev. O. L. Johnson and Rev. Robert N. Coleman officiated. Burial of both was in Oakwood cemetery with a full military service at the gravesides by the Bunker Hill Air Force base personnel.

Mr. Atchison was born May 25, 1900, in Piercetown, the son of Isaac and Martha Atchison. He was a lifetime resident of this county and in 1935 was married at Joliet, Ill., to Patricia Rock-

80 Boys In Little League

Virgil Cooper reports that the Little League baseball squad has about 80 active participants. It is planned to have a league of four teams of large boys and two of a younger group, and that a regular schedule will start in about two weeks. A few practice games have already been held.

Daughter Is Born

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Gobble are the parents of a six and three-quarter pound daughter, Judith Ann, born Wednesday at the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gobble.

well. Mr. Atchison was employed at Bourbon as a buffer for the Orthopedic Equipment Company. Has 4 Children

Surviving are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Raymond Busenburg, of near Peru (the wife of the other accident victim and mother of the injured boy), and Mrs. William Johnson, of Warsaw; two sons, Robert, at home, and Eugene, of Fort Wayne; four sisters, Mrs. Mary Brown, of Columbia City, Mrs. Orlu Curtis, of Piercetown, Mrs. Audie Curtis and Mrs. Vida Newby, both of Warsaw; one brother, Lloyd Atchison of Warsaw; and 13 grandchildren.

Mr. Atchison served in World War I and following the war enlisted in the Marines for four years.

Sgt. Busenburg was born at Silver Lake, December 24, 1924, the son of Loren and Minnie Mae (Vantrese) Busenburg. He had spent the past eight months at Bunker Hill, going there from Boardman, Oregon. He was an air force recruiter.

He was married September 1, 1946, in Warsaw to Alice Atchison.

Surviving in addition to his wife are the injured son, Raymond, Jr.; a three-year-old daughter, Vickie Sue; a sister, Mary Busenburg, and his mother, Minnie Busenburg of Mentone; and a brother, Dale Busenburg, of Ronanda Beach, Calif.

Sgt. Busenburg enlisted in the Navy during World War II, and following the war enlisted in the Air Force.

Mrs. Riner
Re-appointed

The Kosciusko county board of education voted Monday to retain Mrs. Pauline Riner of Mentone as county school attendance officer.

Mrs. Eldora Neher, of Silver Lake, a teacher in the Claypool school, made application for a combination job of county attendance officer and assistant in the audio-visual aids library.

This combining of two positions was proposed by the county visual aids supervisor, Owen Frey.

The board, however, would not approve combining the attendance officer's position with that of the proposed job of library assistant, and voted to retain Mrs. Riner in her present capacity. The vote was 12 to 5.

The county attendance officer's present salary is $2,960 per year plus mileage allowance.

To Build At Taylor Univ.

The Taylor University Trustees at a special session May 13, awarded contracts for the construction of a men's dormitory and food service center at Upland, Indiana.

The general contract was given to the Bowman Construction Company of Marion, Indiana, for $462,330.00, the lowest of five bids.

The plumbing, heating and ventilating contract was awarded to Liniger's, also of Marion, for $98,980.00. Other contracts were awarded to the McKay Electrical Company of Fort Wayne, for $36,319, and to Hillman's of Ft. Wayne, on a bid of $39,500.00 for kitchen equipment.

This project is the first major step in a five million dollar development program. Harold Camp, Vice President in charge of Development, stated.

The new facilities will ease the present housing facilities and will permit a larger enrollment in the fall of 1958. At present the college dormitories are filled, and a number of students are living in homes in the Upland community.

... Chevrolet with Turboglide!

Chevy's come up with the newest, sweetest, smoothest automatic drive—Turboglide. It's the first and only triple-turbine transmission!

Turboglide is something really new and different in automatic drives. In the first place, there's only one forward-speed position on the control panel. There's no "Low" needed.

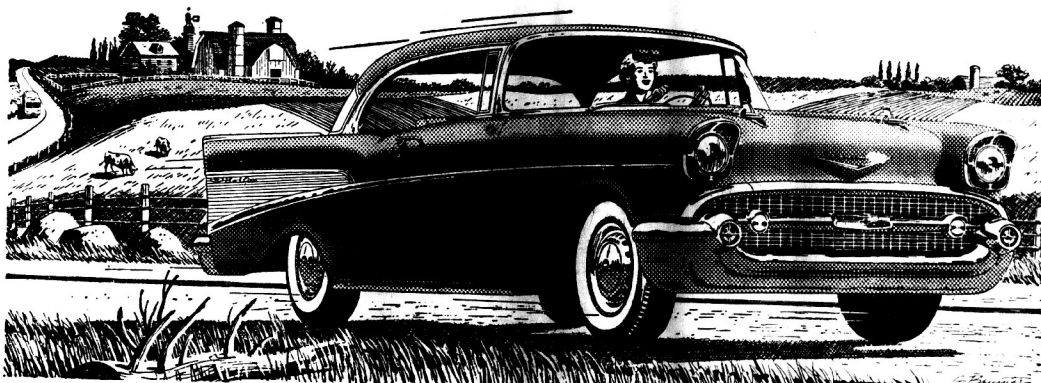

Turboglide handles everything with the oil-smooth action of triple turbines. You travel from a standstill to top cruising speeds with never a lurch or lag to mar your motion.

When you see a steep downhill stretch ahead, you set the selector at "GR" (Grade Retarder) and Turboglide helps slow you down.

Try Chevy's new, nothing-like-it automatic drive. It's optional at extra cost—and worth it.

Vertical Integration

The trend of integration in agriculture depends on both economic and social factors, say Purdue University agricultural economists Patrick J. Luby and Dick Darley.

The economists define vertical integration as the practice by business firms of acquiring or coordinating operating units which perform different agricultural activities.

Actually, the economists point out, integration is not new—the farmer who raised corn and hogs and then butchered the animals for home use practiced integration.

Development of farm-co-operatives was a move by farmers to integrate more of their buying and selling activities, Darley and Luby explain.

Outside agriculture, integration has been evident in recent years in the steel, oil, automotive and other industries.

A recent example of integration in agriculture has been the broiler industry. There both management and capital needed for production and marketing were supplied by firms in allied industries, such as feed manufacturers.

"Such integration has probably resulted in lower production and marketing costs, but has taken some degree of the management control from the farmer," the economists declare, adding:

"This is often contrary to the agrarian social philosophy of many people."

Luby and Darley explain that "the farmer may gain more security through reduction of some risks, a more stabilized income, capital to build a more efficient unit and a more rapid incorporation of new technology."

But through integration, the farmer may "become more like a hired laborer, for a professional manager—a status not too unlike wage earners in other industries," the economists declare.

Obstacles to integration are listed by Darley and Luby as "lack of managerial ability, lack of capital and the difficulty of mass producing and controlling quality of agricultural products." These factors may combine to limit the extent of integration, they point out.

"Thus the trend of integration in agriculture will depend on whether economic conditions are favorable for gaining control over production and marketing processes," the economists assert.

"Even if economic conditions are favorable, integration may not take place if public opinion or social pressure is opposed to the 'bigness' and power to which vertical integration might lead," they conclude.

MASONS IN SESSION AT INDIANAPOLIS

Representatives from the 545 Masonic Lodges in Indiana, together with visitors from 12 States and the Province of Ontario, Canada, were expected to be present at the two-day annual meeting of the Grand Lodge F. & A. M. of Indiana, governing body of the Masonic fraternity, which opened at Indianapolis, Tuesday. The gathering was expected to attract more than 700 representatives and guests.

Chief item of business at the annual was to be a report on the opening and initial operation of the new $2,000,000 hospital at the Indiana Masonic Home in Franklin. Under construction since the fall of 1955, the new hospital is expected to be operating at its full 200-bed capacity by early winter.

Egg producers have been advised by Purdue University Poultrymen to "look carefully for signs of red poultry mites in both the laying and brooding houses." The mites are most likely to be found in cracks near the perches. Warm weather favors mite development. A good spraying with a one and a half percent lindane solution can control mites, the poultrymen say.

Loose Smut On Wheat

Lafayette, Ind.—With wheat just beginning to head, Indiana farmers have been advised by Seed Certification Service officials at Purdue University to inspect their fields for loose smut.

Smut not only causes yield loss but grain from severely infected fields should not be used for seed.

Black heads appear instead of normal ones at heading time so the percentage of the disease and the percentage of the loss can be determined by counting groups of 100 heads in scattered areas of the field.

If a field averages 10 black heads per one hundred heads, the loss in yield will be about 10 percent. By combining time, the black spores will have blown away leaving only a stem which is more difficult to detect. However, at this stage the smut damage has already been done.

Older wheat varieties such as Vigo, Seneca and Saline and the newer Knox have all shown varying degrees of susceptibility to current races or "families" of smut.

The newest varieties—Dual and Vermillion—are resistant to many races of loose smut but are susceptible to some.

Since all currently recommended varieties are susceptible to certain races of loose smut and chemical seed treatment will not control it, farmers should inspect their fields now to determine the prevalence of the disease.

The only recommended loose smut control method, hot water treatment of the seed before planting, is an involved process. As a result farmers should use seed from a source known to have a low percentage of the disease. Certified seed must have less than one percent loose smut. Stinking smut, which gives off a foul odor at combining time, is easily controlled by chemical seed treatment.

Plant breeders are working to develop varieties completely resistant to loose smut and hope that superior wheats with resistance to all races of the disease soon will be released.

Spray To Field Dry Corn

Lafayette, Ind. Spraying nearly mature corn with a leaf-killing chemical failed to hasten appreciably field drying of the grain, experiments at Purdue University show.

Paul L. Crane, Purdue agronomist, began exploratory experiments in 1953. These compared effects of endothal and sodium cyanamid as pre-harvest sprays, but results were inconclusive.

Effectiveness on endothal and hand-removal of leaves on three Indiana hybrids were tested in 1955 and 1956.

In the 1955 experiments, both spraying with endothal and hand defoliation resulted in slightly lower moisture than the untreated plots 10 days after treatment. However, 22 days after treatment, grain from the treated plots was no lower in moisture than that from the untreated plots and the moisture content was considerably above safe storage level, Crane reported.

"The absence of any large effect from either chemical leaf killing or hand defoliation strengthened the idea that moisture is still being supplied to the ear from the stalk at this stage of maturity," the agronomist asserted.

To test this theory, ears were detached at the stalk without disturbing the husks and suspended from the stalk with a small, soft wire through the shank. Corn in this experiment conducted in 1956, "dried significantly faster."

The 1956 endothal treatment did not significantly lower the average percent moisture in the corn, while the hand-defoliated treatment "accelerated moisture loss compared with the untreated or the endothal treatment."

"Some future pre-harvest spray may effectively increase the rapidity of field drying in corn by stopping water movement to the ears," said Crane.

The dosage would have to be sufficient to kill the stalk, but "a requirement for such a treatment would be that it not appreciably increase lodging."

Sudangrass is Good Pasture

Sudangrass is the best emergency or supplementary crop for good pasture during July, August and September, a Purdue University extension agronomist has advised farmers.

Lester Smith says Sudangrass makes excellent pasture for dairy cows. He says two acres of the pasture will carry three head of cattle.

A warm weather plant, Sudan is best seeded soon after corn planting time. It will be ready to pasture in five to six weeks after seeding. In emergencies, the crop can be seeded as late as mid-July.

Soil and fertilizer needs are about the same for Sudangrass as for corn. If no soil test has been made, 250 pounds per acre of an 0-20-20 or equivalent fertilizer should be applied of high nitrogen, dark colored soils and 10-20-20, 10-10-10 or equivalent fertilizer on light colored loam soils. Light colored sandy and sandy silt loam soils often need 40-100 pounds of additional nitrogen if manure or legume sod is lacking.

Greenleaf, the best variety to grow, should be drilled at the rate of 25-30 pounds per acre. The variety is noted for its juicy palatable stems and more growth of green succulent forage late in the summer. Because of its leaf disease resistance, Greenleaf is able to make considerable growth from fall moisture.

Piper and Sweet Sudan are other good varieties but are more susceptible to leaf diseases than Greenleaf.

about 14 inches high. Alternate grazing by dividing a field will give more pasture days. Sudan not needed for pasture can easily be made into silage. Smith says the soft dough stage is best for silage.

A mixture of Sudan and soybeans also can be used for hay or silage. The soybeans can be drilled with the drill set for 4-6 pecks on the oats scale with 10-16 pounds of Sudangrass broadcast or dropped through the small seed attachment. The soybean-Sudan mixture can be cut from the time the first heads appear on the Sudangrass until seed is well formed in the soybean pods.

Prevent Sleeping Sickness

Prevention of encephalitis—sleeping sickness—depends to a great extent on the control of mosquitoes, according to George Nuffer, rural health specialist at Purdue University.

Nuffer says the disease, also called brain fever, is found primarily in wild and domestic birds such as chickens; pheasants and pigeons. It is transmitted from the birds to humans by mosquitoes which bite first the infected bird and then the susceptible human.

Incubation period of the disease is not known exactly but usually ranges from five to fifteen days. Mild infections may occur but the disease is often severe and frequently fatal.

Until the disease is eliminated in our animal population, Nuffer says the prevention depends on the control of mosquitoes.

Various types of sprays containing five percent DDT may be used to kill mosquitoes which seek safety in homes.

However, according to Nuffer, mosquito control is a community problem and breeding areas should be sprayed or eliminated.

Air Force Buddy Flight

S/Sgt. William H. Luck and M/Sgt. John R. Miller, USAF recruiters located in the South Bend Post Office Building, announce that an Air Force Buddy Flight is now being formed.

The Commander of the Recruiting Service in Chicago has appropriately named this Group the "Lucky Miller Flight." It is being formed primarily for the June High School Graduates in this Area who do not plan to enter college immediately, however, any young man may apply.

The "Lucky Miller Flight" will leave South Bend the morning of June 13th by train for Chicago. The group will leave Chicago by Air to begin four weeks of basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas. "The Gateway to the Air Force" and will remain together until the individual members enter one of the many technical schools operated by the Air Force in various parts of the nation.

S Sgt. Luck emphasizes the policy adopted by the Air Force which encourages those who wish to go to college to do so, because a young man will be of much more service to himself, and to his country, by fulfilling his military obligation after he has completed his education.

The young man who can not, or does not wish to, enter college now may join the "Lucky Miller Flight" and receive valuable technical training offered by the Air Force that will qualify him for an excellent job after his Military Service. At the same time, he may take advantage of a voluntary college program offered by the Air Force in which he may begin his college education. Many young men have earned college degrees while serving in the Air Force with the Air Force paying 70% of the cost.

M/Sgt. Miller states that there are a number of vacancies presently open in this Special Buddy Flight so if you and your friends are considering joining a service and want to begin your tour of duty together now is the time to investigate opportunities that only the Air Force has to offer. Anyone desiring further information may call S/Sgt. Luck or M/Sgt. Miller at CE-22310 or visit their office located at room No. 208 Post Office Building, South Bend, Indiana. Information is without obligation.

Mr. and Mrs. Rea H. Ward attended the wedding Saturday evening of Ronnie Davis and Miss Barbara Highlands of Ft. Wayne. The wedding was performed by Rev. C. C. Collins at the Simpson Methodist Church. The groom is the son of Mrs. Ward's brother, Dwight Davis of Fort Wayne.

One who thinks enough of your patronage to pay to send his message to you, is worth patronizing.

Church Of Christ News

Next Sunday, June 9, the people of the community are cordially invited to attend the services of the church of Christ. Delois White of Kokomo will be the guest speaker in the absence of the regular minister, Ralph Burris, who will be on vacation.

The principle work of the local church this year is supporting the work at Rochester. It is hoped that the Rochester congregation will soon be meeting in the basement of their building on East Fifth Street. The basement of the Indiana limestone building will be completed at this time. The average attendance for the nine o'clock service is about 30. Ralph Burris speaks at the nine o'clock service and Dale Kelley at 7:30 p. m. If you are in Rochester, drive by the building and go in and look around.

The services at Mentone have been well attended during the winter, although there has been much sickness. The average attendance for May was 93 for Bible Study, 117 for the morning worship, 78 for the evening worship and 51 for the Thursday evening Bible study. The average contribution was $141.22.

Interesting Bible lessons are taught by capable teachers each Sunday morning and Thursday evening. All services are designed to worship God in spirit and in truth. Visitors are appreciated at every service.

NEW MEMBERS WELCOMED AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Show Your Child The Real USA

How to make the summer's vacation an educational experience for your children is outlined in the current issue of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine. Leisurely sightseeing, with careful explanation and understanding, will help give your boy or girl a better perspective of what has made America great.

Here is the checklist, prepared by the editors, of things to show your children this summer, and in summers to come!

The wilderness: If you want to get the thrill the early settlers felt when they anchored their tiny ships in the bays and harbors of the New World, plan a camping trip in one of the wilderness areas set aside by state and federal governments. Or, drive to the edge of the wilderness and hike into its solitudes. Play a game of making believe that no other white man has ever come that way.

The Indians: One of the biggest preoccupations of the early colonists was the Indian. Long since confined to reservations, you can still see them and get the feel of how they once lived. All Indian reservations are open to visitors.

Pioneer life: You can almost relive the daily lives of the early pioneers because in many parts of the country their houses, churches, factories and tools have been preserved. You can see a Conestoga wagon, attend an authentic possum hunt, pan gold like a forty-niner or take an all-day trip on a mule-pulled canal-boat. Tourists have been lucky this year in being able to see three tiny square-rigged ships sail up the James River in Virginia and reenact the landing of the first colonists.

The battlegrounds: The thrills and horrors of the wars which were fought to secure this country and preserve it, can be relived by inspecting the artillerymen's log huts at Valley Forge, or looking down the Little Big Horn and the desolate spot in Montana where Custer fell beneath the tomahawks of the Sioux warriors.

Stern-wheelers, locomotives: In the early days travel by boat was as common as travel by car is today. And you can still travel through many parts of the country by steamboat or ferry. Stern-wheelers ply the Mississippi much as did the steamboats of Mark Twain's day. Many a port city has its own excursion boat and overnight steamers still sail from Baltimore and Washington to Norfolk.

The change from canalboat and ox cart to the steam locomotive was the most dramatic transportation change in history. Today the iron horse is going the way of the farm horse, but you'll still be able to see them.

Country fairs: Try to see a fair where the old country way of life is making its last stand. Here a youngster can see things that his grandparents may have forgotten to tell him about—matched teams of oxen hauling stone-laden sleds; plowing and corn-husking contests; home cooking without benefit of prepared mixes.

Farms and factories: The typical American takes the ways we make our farms and factories hum all for granted. But our rugged individuality combined with a knack of doing things mechanically had the United States outproducing every other nation in less than a hundred years. Every young person should see the workings of at least one factory. And, of course, anyone can visit a farm, too.

Legislation and courts: The political freedoms that are so cherished by America didn't just happen. They were fought for and worked for and should be vigilantly guarded by alert citizens. Anyone can watch the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives in session. Or, you can sit for a day or two in your local police or municipal court and see for yourself what happens to people who are arrested and brought to trial.

No one likes to put too much method into his vacation, but a flexible plan can help balance your tours and sightseeing so that you see U. S. History in the whole. It's a way to help children understand and love their country. And it ought to be fun for the grown-ups, too.

Who Puts Up This $42,000,000? YOU AND YOUR FELLOW TAXPAYERS DO!

There is no sense, rhyme nor reason, in spending $42,000,000 (forty-two millions of dollars) of yours and other taxpayers' money to duplicate existing electric service facilities.

These services are available without asking you and your fellow-citizens to put up $42,000,000 for something not needed. Thinking citizens are demanding less public spending... meaning lower taxes to be paid by you... not more spending... meaning higher taxes to be paid ultimately by you!

The story was well covered in the following editorial and cartoon which appeared in The Indianapolis News, May 13:

The Road to TVA Socialism

1. Uncle Sam pays 3½% interest on money it borrows—but an aluminum company from another state will be subsidized by government money at 2%... a loss of many millions of dollars to you and other taxpayers.

The Hoosier Energy Cooperative, Inc., made up of nine members of the Rural Electrification Membership Corp., is launching an invasion into the field of private enterprise that fully merits the bitter criticism it has received from the heads of two Indiana private power companies.

With a "soft-money" 35-year, 2% loan of $42 million from the government, the cooperative is planning to build a huge steam generating plant near Petersburg and nine-county transmission lines. An aluminum company will be built nearby by a private firm which also will invest in the co-op generating plant.

Here is a case of the original concept of government aid in lighting farmers' homes jumping the fence.

Hoosier Energy is going into the business of selling electricity to industrial customers. This was unthought of back when the Rural Electrification Administration was conceived.

But it is an old story in government intervention. The Tennessee Valley Authority was first offered as a flood control and navigation project. With the construction of dams, TVA did "what comes naturally" and went into the hydroelectric power business.

But it hasn't stopped there. Now TVA is up to its ears in the business of running steam generating plants. Money for more steam facilities is in the current budget.

Through the years the real—though hidden—losses of TVA have been underwritten by all the people of the United States while one region has reaped the benefits of this subsidization.

Electric co-ops pay little or no federal income taxes, R. A. Gallagher, president of the Public Service Co. of Indiana, pointed out in protesting the Hoosier Energy deal.

But private utilities are heavily taxed. Thus, in effect, taxpayers will be underwriting the Hoosier Energy project, too. There is no evidence anywhere that private utilities cannot meet the industrial electricity demands in Indiana.

A. D. Brown, Evansville, president of the Southern Gas and Electric Co., called the cooperative power plant scheme "Socialism creeping in without knowledge of voters or taxpayers."

At best the project is something on the road to Socialism, particularly when one recalls the distortion of the original aims of TVA.

How long before another REMC group in Indiana arranges to get another government "soft-money" loan to build another big cooperative power plant?

It is something to disturb many friends of the original REA idea. It is another instance of the government pushing back Socialism with one hand and pulling it forward with the other.

3. Electric Co-ops pay no Federal Income Taxes—but YOU do... and WE do!

4. It's true—the electric companies of Indiana have done and are doing the job AMPLY.

5. True friends of REA can't favor this socialistic plan of using taxpayers' money to give one industry advantage over others—at the taxpayers' expense!

This cartoon accompanied the editorial above.

Train And Auto Tangle

A Studebaker auto belonging to a Mrs. Binkley suffered about $300 damage last Friday evening when a Nickel Plate freight train hit it at the Main street crossing in Mentone.

It was raining when Mrs. Binkley came to the railroad track and she turned out a little wide to pass an approaching auto. In so doing her wheel hooked on the rail and became wedged along the track in such a manner that it couldn't be moved. A wrecker was called and then a train was heard in the distance. Jim Anderson went down the track to "flag" the train and Mrs. Binkley stayed with the car as long as she dared blinking the lights. The freight train stopped about 20 feet beyond the car, which was about twenty feet too far to protect the auto.

No one was injured.

Farmers Union to Hold Public Wheat Vote Discussion

At least $575,910 will be at stake for businessmen of Kosciusko County when farmers go to the polls June 20 to vote in the National Wheat Referendum.

According to information by Dale Wright, president Kosciusko County Farmers Union, farm buying power involved in the Wheat Referendum is at least 78 cents a bushel on the 1958 crop. Multiplied by the average production of 27.0 bushels for this county, amounts to more than $449,210 that will be saved here by a referendum "Yes" vote. There are 2283 farmers that grow wheat in this County.

These dollars are spent for goods and services by the farmers of Kosciusko County. Two-thirds of the nation's wheat farmers must vote "Yes" to marketing quotas on their 1958 wheat crop if these dollars are to be saved.

Mr. Wright stated, "A 'Yes' vote will mean a Government price support of $1.78 a bushel next year—75% of parity."

If more than one-third of the wheat farmers vote "No"—thus rejecting marketing quotas—there will be no price support in 1958. Thursday evening at 8:00 a public meeting will be held in the recreation room below the Lake City Bank in Warsaw to discuss the wheat vote. All wheat farmers are urged to attend.

John C. Raber, President Indiana Farmers Union, will be present to discuss and answer questions on the wheat Referendum.

Farmers who stored wheat in terminal elevators both for Government loan and open market will also be present to answer questions.

To be eligible to vote June 20, anyone who has an allotment of more than 15 acres of wheat in 1958 can vote. A wheat producer is someone who owns or has a share in a wheat crop.

That means that if you or your wife operate your farm jointly, or any of your sons have wheat acres of their own, or any relatives have an interest in the farm, all can vote. Both landlord and tenant can vote.

Many Fine Vacation Spots

Whether you're headed east or west on your vacation, you can be rewarded with new vistas and expanded facilities this summer, according to the Touring department of the Chicago Motor Club.

In Yellowstone National Park, for instance, the new $5 million Canyon Village, which replaces the old Canyon Lodge, opens on July 1 with 500 motel-type units, providing accommodations for 1,550 persons.

The main lodge in the development also houses a lounge, gift shop, dining room, coffee shop and cafeteria. Besides the guest accommodations, nearby dormitories will provide quarters for some 320 employees.

Twenty miles south of Yellowstone, in Grand Teton National Park, the new Colter Bay development opens June 16 with a diversity of facilities. Included in this area on the shore of Jackson Lake are 125 log cabins, space for 112 trailers and 250 campsites. Other features are a boat landing ramp, general store, cafeteria and self-service laundry.

The Four Corners area, one of the last frontiers—where the borders of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah and Colorado meet—is also being opened to motor travel. Within this broad region are Mesa Verde National Park, several national monuments, and Monument Valley, which in time will be one of the most popular features of the West. New roads are now under construction in the surrounding Indian reservations.

In the East, Cumberland Gap National Historical Park currently is undergoing extensive development.

The park, consisting of 20,000 acres around Cumberland Gap is the pioneer gateway to the West. It is located at the converging point of three states—Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia—about 60 miles from Knoxville.

Accepted as a federal area in 1955, the park will undergo extensive construction. The first part to be completed in mid-August, cost about $170,000. It includes a two-mile road to the scenic overlook 1,000 feet above Cumberland Gap, a large parking area, a small museum, and mountain-top hiking trails.

Under a 10-year program, $7 million will be spent to restore the Gap to its original appearance.

Cumberland Gap was an important early link to Kentucky and the west. Daniel Boone and George Rogers Clark were early trailblazers, and were followed from 1775 to 1796 by some 200,000 pioneers streaming across the Wilderness Road on foot and on horseback.

Of strategic value during the Civil War, the Gap changed hands four times, although eastern Tennessee remained loyal to the Union. Nearby is Lincoln Memorial University, with one of the nation's largest collections of Lincolnia.

Children give Pop Top Rating

Each June hundreds of Wisconsin youngsters send in letters for "My Pop's Tops," the Father's Day contest sponsored by the Milwaukee Sentinel. Here are excerpts from past entries:

"My pop's top because he lets not get a bad temper. He don't get mad easy but when he does he allus has a good reason—me."

My pop's tops because he lets me help him work in the garden even if I don't want to."

"He lets me take accordion lessons. He lets me practice outside. When I practice outside he goes inside. He can tell better from a distance."

"He is very considerate. Our family which has five kids always wanted a cockie spaniel dog. Pop said no cockie spaniel, then he came home one day with a dash hound. A dash hound is better because we can all pat him at once and no fights."

"He is never to tired to sit strawled out in his easy chair telling stories while we children wash up the dishes."

"Every child should love their father because if it was not for their father where would they be? Nowhere, that's where they'd be. If it was not for fathers you wouldn't see hardly no children around Milwaukee."

—Charles House in Milwaukee Sentinel.

HERE ARE THE FACTS on REMC Plan to Build Power Plant

Unnecessary—Wasteful Use of People's Money

$42,000,000 INVOLVED

- Benefits only a favored few.
- You and other taxpayers would pay for it.
- REA moves away from its original purpose.

The following editorial from the Indianapolis Star, May 17, 1957, presents the unbiased, objective facts:

See What The Kids Are Doing

A plan for a Federally subsidized electric generating plant in southern Indiana ought to be flagged down. A group of Rural Electrification co-operatives has formed a bigger co-operative to build the plant and sell power, to themselves among others. It is clear that the other customers would include at least one large industrial plant, the prospective builders of which would also put some capital into the power co-operative.

The co-operative expects to borrow $42,000,000 of long-term, 2 per cent government money. At this point the taxpayer should start getting interested. His interest should get deeper when he considers that as a co-operative the concern would be exempted from Federal corporation income tax.

The Rural Electrification co-operatives were originally set up with the idea that they would fill a need which would not otherwise be met. The purpose was to enable farmers and other rural dwellers to get electric service which they could not obtain otherwise except at prohibitive initial cost for installation of lines. Federal subsidy, in low-cost loans and tax exemption, was to be used to provide a service otherwise unobtainable.

The new proposal is of a different sort. It is to provide power to replace power now being purchased from private concerns. And it is to make subsidized power available for planned industrial use. There is no claim that private companies could not or would not provide the power, at fair, regulated rates. The only purpose is to obtain power at lower rates—at the taxpayers' expense.

An official estimated that the subsidized plant would save $17,500,000 for its beneficiaries over the 35-year loan period. Where would the $17,500,000 come from? A substantial part of it would be the difference between the 2 per cent and normal interest, which would be made up by the taxpayers. Most of the rest would be in tax exemption and other special privilege for co-operatives, also made up by the taxpayers.

Why? Why should the taxpayers of Indianapolis and the rest of the country pay part of the electric bills of a group of select rural residents, and a favored industry or two, for the simple reason of providing them with cheaper electricity?

There is neither common sense nor public interest in this kind of use of public funds and the privilege of tax exemption. It is an example of the kind of Federal activity we can eliminate with very little fear of disastrous consequences.

1. The government has just borrowed money at 3½%. With the REMCs paying 2% on $42,000,000, this is a loss of $630,000 the first year. Over the 35-year period of the loan, this would represent—to you and other taxpayers—a loss of many millions of dollars!

2. This is not providing farm electrification!

3. How much would the favored industrial corporation save? Note that normal interest rates these days are not less than 3½%.

4. True friends of REA can't favor this socialistic plan of using taxpayers' money to give advantage to a favored few—at the taxpayers' expense!

Moral Values In Athletics

Everett Dean, all-time great college basketball and baseball coach, delivered the address at the Taylor University annual T-Club Awards Banquet in Recreation Hall, Wednesday, May 29.

Mr. Dean was introduced by Athletic Director Don J. Odle, and spoke on the "Human and Moral Values of Athletics." He cites several expressive terms as basis of these values. Sportsmanship was the first. It is a synonym with the Golden Rule of the Bible, stated Dean. Sportsmanship is a way of life that men and women develop through athletics. The next term was Freedom—four freedoms of the constitution: freedom of assembly, equal opportunity, speech, and religion. He said, "Athletics under good leadership is the greatest equalizer in the world for the human race."

Cooperation was his next term. This through the team play characterizes athletics and tends to develop a more selfless attitude in the mind of the participant. The final term that Mr. Dean used in expressing the human and moral values of athletics was citizenship. Athletics make men and women aware of the necessity of obeying the rules in school and out, for the good of all people concerned.

Igo - Smalley

Miss Shirley Igo and Wayne Smalley exchanged marriage vows at 3:00 p. m. Sunday in the Mentone Methodist Church. Rev. Wayne Johnson of Claypool, formerly of the Beaver Dam E. U. B. Church, performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with palms and an archway of greenery and red cluster roses. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Igo of Claypool, RFD. The parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smalley of Akron RFD.

Nuptial organ music was provided by Mrs. Jay Swick of Akron RFD. Her numbers included "Indian Love Call"; "Melody of Love"; "I Love You Truly" and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life". Mrs. Swick also accompanied Mrs. Robert Boggs, a cousin of both the bride and groom, as she sang "Because"; "Give Us This Day"; "With This Ring" and as the couple knelt at the altar Mrs. Boggs sang the "Bride's Prayer."

The bride chose a gown of white nylon lace styled with a strapless bodice covered by a jacket with long sleeves coming to points over the hands. The skirt was fashioned of tiny ruffles from waist to the waltz length hem line. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible with pink sweetheart roses and rosebud streamers.

Mrs. Jim Randall of Akron RFD was the matron of honor. She was in mint green white flocked nylon styled with a scoop neckline in front and a deep V in back. The full waltz length skirt was topped by a white chiffon cummerbund with flowing panels in back. She wore a watched scalloped tiara headpiece and carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Ned Igo and Mrs. Miles Igo, sisters-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Larry Kline of Muncie, wore identically styled gowns in pink with pale green cummerbunds. They carried nosegays of pale green and white carnations. Dianne and Dewayne Igo, niece and nephew of the bride, served as ring bearers, she in pale green and he in navy blue. Darlene Igo, also a niece of the bride, dressed identically to her sister scattered red rose petals from a tiny basket in the path of the bride. Linda Smalley, sister of the groom, held the

The mother of the bride was attired in a gown of rose floral sheer with white accessories and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds. The mother of the groom wore a gown of pale blue sheer with white accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

A reception for 200 followed in the church basement. The serving table was centered by a beautiful white three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with pink roses. Fruit was served with the cake by Joan Tucker; Mrs. Ralph Coplen, Warsaw; Miss Carolyn Moorehead, Warsaw; and Mrs. Gerald Smalley, Akron RFD. The wedding reception was planned in detail by Mrs. Robert T. Hoover of Mentone, who also baked the cake. She was assisted by Mrs. Allen Herendeen and Mrs. John Teel.

Swine Day August 23rd

Faster gaining hogs have brought about a change in the date for Purdue University's 57th annual Swine Day.

J. H. Conrad, Purdue swine research specialist, has reported that the event will be held Friday, August 23, three weeks earlier than usual.

Conrad said the advanced date is necessary in order that March farrowed pigs will be at satisfactory market weights of 200-220 pounds at Swine Day. In the past few years, the hogs have been weighing 240-260 pounds September.

when the event was held in mid-July. The high market for hogs in recent years has been coming in July and August rather than in September—the traditional peak month of a decade ago.

Tours of experiments at the Swine Farm, three miles north of the campus on the County Farm Road, will be conducted in the morning. An afternoon of speaking program is scheduled in the Hall of Music.

To Maintain Egg Quality

A Purdue University extension poultry specialist has reported that top quality in fresh eggs can be maintained in summer as well as winter if the producer will follow recommended practices.

Melvin L. Wilson said important factors include time, temperature and humidity.

The interval between the time the egg is laid until the body heat has been removed must be reduced to a minimum.

Wilson recommended that eggs be gathered four times a day in hot weather. The eggs should be taken to the egg storage room in wire baskets and cooled as quickly as possible. The quicker the eggs are cooled, the better the chance producers will have to get a good price for them, Wilson said.

The temperature in the farm egg storage room should range between 50 and 60 degrees. This temperature is not only important for cooling the eggs but also for holding them until they are picked up for marketing.

Relative humidity in the egg storage room should be between 70-80 percent. If the egg room is dry, moisture will be removed from the eggs, causing a loss in quality. Egg cases with fillers and flats should be stored in the cool, moist egg storage room. Eggs packed in dry warm cases will cause further loss in quality.

"Egg producers should remember that eggs are perishable and must be handled accordingly in order to obtain top quality," Wilson concluded.

Portable Hog Shades

Portable shades, considered by many hog producers as a "must" can be built with little expenditure of time or money.

Richard Hollandbeck, Purdue University extension swine specialist, says shade is important to hogs. Since the animals do not sweat, a cool environment is essential to insure rapid gains and economical utilization of feed.

Enough shade should be provided, according to Hollandbeck, "to allow a free circulation of air around each hog." About eight square feet of shade for each 200 pound market hog will be required. Between 12 and 15 sq. ft. of shade should be available for each mature sow and boar.

Portable shades can be made from lumber, angle iron or pipe. Regardless of the material, the frame must be well braced to withstand abuse by the hogs and the strain of being dragged from field to field.

A height of five feet will allow a free circulation of air. If the shades are to be used by cattle, they should be a little higher.

A common practice is to stretch woven wire over the top frame, using straw or old hay as a cover. A layer of corn cobs will help hold the material in place.

The portable shades can be easily moved to a clean location when necessary. Hollandbeck says this is not only a good sanitary practice but also results in a wider distribution of manure.

The shade, feed and water should be located close together to permit the hogs to eat, drink and sleep without taking long walks they often refuse to make in the heat of the day.

Gasoline Is Dangerous

The Chicago Motor Club has issued a warning to motorists against carrying gasoline in improper receptacles or keeping them in a closed car or trunk compartment.

It was pointed out by the motor club that more and more motorists have been buying a gallon or two of gasoline for use in power lawn mowers or out-board motors.

In many cases, the gasoline is poured into buckets, jars, bottles or uncapped tin cans which permit dangerous fumes to escape. This is particularly dangerous in summer when hot weather increases the risk of explosion or fire.

Gasoline should be carried in a metal container that can be properly capped, according to the club. Even then, it is wise to have a window open, refrain from smoking, and not to leave the car parked in the sun for an extended period. Never, the club warned, should children be left alone with a container of gasoline or any other flammable liquid.

Service station and garage attendants are urged to cooperate by refusing to sell gasoline unless the customer has a proper container.

(Ed. Note: A serious fire resulted in our county recently when a jug containing gasoline burst and the gasoline was ignited from a water heater pilot light. The jug was tightly capped and when it was brought in to the warm air in the home the expansion of the gasoline burst the jug.)

New You Can Own A Part Of Historic Plymouth

PLYMOUTH, MASS.—Sturdy little Mayflower II has now beat her way out of the doldrums and picked up the Northeast Trade Winds which will soon bring her into this historic port. Here her namesake first dropped anchor 337 years ago. The voyage has captured the imagination of millions all over the world.

Plymouth, a town with a normal population of about 14,000, anticipates a half million visitors within two weeks of the Mayflower's arrival date, and four million more between now and Thanksgiving Day. More than three thousand vessels, both large and small, are expected to sail out to Provincetown to meet, greet and escort Mayflower II into Gurnet Light, which marks the entrance to Plymouth Harbor.

What most people don't know is the fact that for a single dollar bill they can now legally own a piece of the ancient, historic land of their Plymouth forefathers. John Caldwell, head of the Plimoth Ancestors Company of Plymouth, Mass., originated the idea of selling an undivided interest in an undivided inch in a tax-free lot of land within the limits of what is fast becoming America's most famous town. Real estate sales are booming for the hill-top tract that lies within walking distance of Plymouth Rock itself. With every one inch plot goes a legal deed complete with notarization and printed seal, together with a replica of an old Plimoth Plantation map.

Caldwell is working on a first-come-first-served basis. Orders are being processed as fast as facilities permit. He's trying to mail out deeds within 48 hours of the time letters arrive at the Plymouth Post Office. He hopes his land holds out. Each piece of this old Plymouth property is only an inch square but thousands feel that it's well worth the buck.

Fat and Soft With Prosperity?

"Fat, dripping prosperity," says Carl Sandburg, famed poet and philosopher, is weakening America, and the absence of tough going can mean ultimate ruin. When the desire to have it extra good overrides most other motives in life, a civilization is on the toboggan, he declares.

Uncle Sam presents a picture of a fat boy concentrating on deluxe upholstery, cozier trips between juke-boxes, pheasant under glass, a sedan for every mood, two turkeys in every pot and the four-car garage. America was built by pioneers who rode the covered wagons, broke trails through the wilderness, fought off Indians and made it the hard way.

Read Junior a story of how the Pilgrims thought it a swell year if nobody in the family was scalped more than twice by savages and he will demand to know why the trouble couldn't have been settled by mediation boards.

"The Village Blacksmith" would be clear to him, except for that stuff about "his brow is wet with honest sweat, he earns whatever he can, and looks the whole world in the face for he owes not any man."

You have to define the word "sweat" and explain that it's still legal. But you really hit a rock when you quote the "owes not any man" line. "But, Pop," the kid asks, "didn't he have 25 years to pay for the blacksmith shop? And did it make sense for him not to get the forge, bellows and horseshoes with federal help and on time?"

Mr. Sandburg says there must be "an element of struggle and toll in life." We'll buy that. But Americans think a struggle means trying to get a discount on white-wall tires. —H. I. Phillips, Associated Newspapers

Delinquent Tells Story As Warning To Other Youths

Police reporter Bill Hazlett of the Wichita Beacon, largest paper in Kansas, did an interview recently which deserves an additional audience. This is an effort to give him that.

Hazlett took his notes from James Michael Penney, a 16-year-old inmate at Wichita's City Prison Farm, where he is serving eight months for petty larceny. The teenager had just been paroled after burglarizing a Dodge City lumber company. The total take there was $2.22 and a 5 to 10 year jail term.

Here's what Penney wrote:

I write this in hopes that some of you young punks will read it and take heed. My name is James Michael Penney. I'm what some people call a juvenile delinquent.

The truth is, I'm a smart-aleck punk that don't know beans from peas about anything.

Right now, I'm in the City Prison Farm for petty larceny and destruction of property. Not too long ago I was picked up on charges of burglary and was sentenced to a 5 to 10 year prison term. I was recommended for parole and got it.

I hadn't been back in Wichita too long when I was picked up on this petty larceny and destruction charge. I have served 30 days. When I'm finished here, I'll be sent to Hutch (the State industrial reformatory at Hutchinson) for about 10 months.

Myself, I feel I deserve what I got.

In here you get only two meals a day. You get up at 5:30 a. m., make your bunk, wash your face and comb your hair. Then you get breakfast. Usually it consists of oatmeal or a hard-boiled egg. Maybe some bacon every other day.

Then for 15 hours a day you walk around, play dominos or twiddle your fingers. You can't even lay on your bunk. If you are lucky, you get on a work detail, and get a chance to see the sun and sweat a little.

Punks, you aren't hurting yourself by your actions as much as you are hurting your family, and especially your mother. If most of you would just grow up, go to Sunday school or church instead of your running around, you wouldn't wind up in the mess I'm in.

I hope some of you can profit by my mistakes. Like the old saying goes, "Don't commit the crime if you can't do the time."

Something tells me most kids like myself are pretty good, but you'd better wake up before it is too late. This is no kind of life to be living.

It isn't hard to be bad, but it takes guts to be good. Quit making fools out of yourselves. You know what's right and what's wrong. And if you get stumped you can always turn to the Bible. Ask yourself what Jesus would do in a case like yours.

The trouble with all of us is trying to grow up too fast. I'm learning how to take life as it comes and I'm learning the hard way.

When your folks tell you not to do something, or raise heck with you, it's for your own good. Take the word of a guy who knows. I'm paying now. But when I get out I'll start all over.

Thank the Lord you've got a chance now to go right.

Hay which is stored too wet may lose from 15 to 40 percent of its feeding value, according to Purdue University agronomists. Wet hay generates heat which evaporates into the air. This means less energy will be available to the animals that eat the hay next winter.
