One 2nd Egg Show

The second Annual Mentone Egg Show opened Thursday afternoon with a program for the kiddies. Every kid in town and the immediate vicinity came in to enjoy the antics of a dog, pony, monkey and bear show and childish squeals of delight filled the auditorium as the stage show got under way. Farmers and poultrymen swarmed in with their eggs until late Thursday night and it was finally necessary to extend the entry dead-line to 9:00 Friday morning. More than 25% more eggs were entered in the various contests this year than were entered last year. Everyone responded in a very favorable manner.

Thursday evening a large audience gathered at the hall and were delighted with the full length of the building complete with service, paper hats, favors, programs, noise-makers etc., and the speakers table, beautifully decorated with fresh flowers, was laid along the west end of the building, creating on the whole a very festive appearance. Everyone was dressed in his Sunday best and judging from the noise, was in the best of spirits. It was indeed a gala occasion! The Mentone high school band, resplendent in white, opened the evening with several rousing numbers. This band, and particularly their leader, Mr. Walter Bowers, is indeed to be congratulated on their accomplishment of the last year. Just a little over a year ago this band was started from 'scratch' and is now growing into an organization that the community can be proud of. After the concert, these high school boys and girls were introduced to the Governor, Hon. Clifford Townsend, and then went to the school cafeteria where their dinners were served.

A word of appreciation should be added here for the sound equipment furnished by Murray Thorne, who kept the assembly in order throughout the evening.

The Harrison Center ladies aid are to be complimented upon the splendid way in which the dinner was served. Serving nearly 600 people and getting it on the table while it is still hot is no small task, but the ladies and their waitresses did it in a very commendable manner. H. V. Johns, with Frances Clark at the piano, led the group in singing a few old familiar songs. After the banquet had been cleared away the Matthews family entertained for the second time during the show. Toastmaster, Hobart Creighton, introduced the chairman of the entire Egg Show, Mr. Ora Besson, who spoke a few words of welcome. Lowell Knoop, who won sweepstakes at the Egg Show last year was introduced. The Coffing Sisters then entertained with several vocal and instrumental numbers of which a group of southern airs was especially beautiful. A medley of Hoosier songs was dedicated to our Governor. These girls cannot be complimented too highly and we hope to have them back with us again.

There were representatives from four railroads present, namely, the Wabash, Winona, Erie and Pennsylvania. Lieut. Gov. Henry Schricker, who was also present, briefly expressed himself as being proud tonight that he lived in northern Indiana. The meeting was then turned over to the speaker of the evening, Gov. M. Clifford Townsend, who gave an inspiring talk to the farmers for the period of almost an hour. A farmer himself, he related many serious as well as humorous incidents of his life on the farm. He spoke highly of the 4H club organization and on the whole presented an excellent speech that was well received by the assemblage.

Jim Besson Wins Prize

Monday night, out of a group of over a hundred, the name for the eggs of this community was chosen. Jim Besson was the winner of the $10.00 prize by submitting the name 'Tippecanoe Valley' eggs.

Next week all the names that were submitted will be printed on this page.

Creighton; third and fourth, Gail Creighton; fifth, Billy Byers; sixth, Lowell Knoop; seventh, Irwin Knoop.

CLASS 7. First Max Copletzter; second, Bob Tucker; third, Katherine Chinworth.

CLASS 8. First, Franklin Nelson; second, Barbara Creighton; third, Jim Besson; fourth, Dale Nellans; fifth, Emery Davis; sixth, Avonell Blue; seventh, Edgar Teeter.

CLASS 9. First, Junior Taylor; second, Franklin Nelson; third, Lawrence Ulmer.

Prize for largest egg went to Zeth Huffer, smallest egg, Len Culp and friekiest egg, Franklin Nelson.

Swift & Co. sent one of their men, Judge Fred Besson of Keokuk, Iowa, formerly of this place, who presented the Creighton Bros. rotating cup to the winner of Class 4, Mrs. Ida Blue. He also presented the Kurtin & Kurtin rotating trophy as well as a $25.00 Elgin wrist watch to the contestant whose eggs ranked highest in Classes 6, 7, 8 and 9, Max Copletzter. This latter trophy was won on exterior quality only.

CLASS 10. First, Franklin Nelson, who took Sweepstakes Ribbon, Sweepstakes Kurtin & Kurtin Rotating Trophy and $25.00 in prize money. Some comment was made upon the fact that Mr. Copletzter ranked highest in classes 6, 7, 8 and 9 and questions were asked as to why Mr. Nelson, who had the best dozen eggs in the show, did not take this prize as he was entered in these classes. The explanation—classes 6, 7, 8 and 9 were judged for exterior quality only; Nelson won sweepstakes on the interior quality of his eggs as well as exterior. While Copletzter's exterior quality was superior to that of Nelson's, the latter far outclassed every dozen by the interior quality of his eggs. We hope this will clear up any controversy.

Second prize of $20.00 was won by Dorothy Creighton and third prize of $15.00, by Gail Creighton.

Judges in this contest were Fred Besson of Keokuk, Iowa, Mr. Bruckner, Purdue University and W. C. Werner of Winamac, Ind.

At 2:30 the entire audience moved

One morning in 1808 two Frenchmen who were in love with the same opera singer, took off in balloons from the Tuileries Gardens, in Paris, each armed with a blunderbuss to pierce
the envelope of his rival's balloon.
When they were half a mile up both discharged their pieces. One of the balloons burst and its occupant was dashed to bits, while the other sailed safely away. This is the first record of a fight in the air.

An old and widespread burial cus-

THINGS WE'D LIKE TO KNOW

Dave Morgan

Sometimes its rather interesting for a fellow to indulge in a bit of self-analysis; interesting to the extent that he can see for himself that rapid changes have taken place. Changes that he was not conscious of at the time.

This is especially true, I expect, with we young-folk who are approaching the ripe old age of twenty-one years. It seems that so many kinds of activity attract us and thus are continually upsetting our former plans. For instance, the group of young people who live on the farm.

During the past ten years, a number, yet so very few, of farm homes have taken on the conveniences and improvements that city and town dwellers have long since acquired. The main item being electricity which has placed the old wind mill and the water bucket into discard.

However, this is not the case in a great majority of farm homes; especially where farms do not yield sufficient funds to finance improvements as well as supply needs. This being true, young people seeing the advantage of their city cousins, have been continually bending their paths city-ward.

The writer, being one of that particular group, is trying to rid himself of the peculiar feeling that this 'business of living' is run purely on a theoretical and romantic basis. After all, these things that seem attractive on the outside, apparently have a 'bug' somewhere, just like a used car. "But what is the 'bug' and where is it", we ask. We'll probably find out all about it after having some actual experience, but "Will we know how to kill the bug after we find it?" we ask again. Rather discouraging isn't it?

There are some of the writer's former school-mates who are actually being content with the farm. He hears them talk about raising corn to feed some hogs until they can eventually make a down payment on a small farm. And they are happy while planning it.

Then there are others who wish to try their various lucks as doctors, lawyers, engineers, musicians etc.; the writer marvels that they seem to have found their places and are contented. But here he seems to be one who has asked life what it has in store for him and has received a cold stare for an answer, which seemed to say, "Start something young feller, just dare to start something."

Etna Green News

Mrs. Lorinda Guy who has been spending the winter with her daughter in Marion, Ind., returned to her home last Sunday.

Evangelistic services began last Tuesday at the Christian church and will continue until Sunday, May 9. Some favorable interest has been manifested.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Meek of Warsaw were in town last Tuesday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Zene Cassner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cassner of this place spent a few days at the latter's home last week and left Thursday for Petosky, Michigan. Mr. Cassner is a barber by trade working in northern Michigan during the hot summer months and in Florida during the winter.

Evangelist Gerrett, Rev. and Mrs. Bourne and daughter, Mrs. Lewis Mason and Mrs. L. A. Melick spent a portion of last Friday in South Bend and Mishawaka.

Mr. Raymond White who has been working as mechanic at the Ford Motor Sales and Mr. Merl Riley who has been employed at the Etna Green Elevator Co. took positions as section men on the Pennsylvania Railroad last Friday.

What might have resulted much more seriously was a collision between Eugene Sponseller, 9, who was riding a bicycle and a young lad, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Stackhouse of four miles northwest of town who was driving an automobile. The accident occurred on the main corner in town, corner of Walnut and Broadway streets Thursday and was witnessed by only a few citizens. It is reported that the bicycle belonged to another boy and that Eugene had only borrowed it and it was about demolished but no one was seriously hurt. It would seem that the carelessness of many of our young lads in their running and playing on state road 19 and in driveways of service stations should interest our town authorities to the extent of making some effort to break it up before fatalities result.

The movies and talkies will soon appear, So gallop your troubles away, Bring yourself and kiddies to Etna Green, On Saturday the 8th of May. (Leamme)

SENIOR NEWS

The Senior class day program was held in the cafeteria room of the school house Tuesday at 2:15 p.m. Several parents and friends of the class attended the gala affair, aside from the wholesale attendance of the school. We cannot present the program to you on this sheet inasmuch as there were several vocal numbers involved, but we thought you might be interested in our class history, class will and class prophecy.

CLASS WILL OF '37

By

Edith Whetstone and Helen Marvel

We, the Seniors of '37 have spent twelve years in work, and along with this work we have collected many things. Our sympathetic hearts realize the needs of the coming Seniors, therefore: Judy Busenburg bequeaths her popularity among boys to Mary Beth Deaton. Winefred Mollenhour is willing to give up her agility to make eyes and her place by the window to the love birds of '38. Donald Boggs bequeaths his romantic way of making love to Everett Mikel. Katherine Eiler bequeaths her forceful actions and large vocabulary to Lucile Lightfoot.

Joy Louise Long wills her curly locks to Mr. Bowers for the admiration of the Senior girls of '38. Justin Long solemnly gives his office position to Bob Tucker, the prospective office girl. Doris Matthews bequeaths her ever faithful lipstick and rouge to Ruth Baker. Edith Whetstone hands her very faithful Talma class ring to Elaine Sullivan. Louise Paulus sacrifices her calm disposition to Mr. Fenstermaker. Bill Cook bequeaths his delightful manner of entertaining in spite of late hours to Lester Taylor.

jorie Long. Willadene Janke wills her extreme height to Mary Alice Long. Jim Parks, the all-star stenographer gives up his position to Harold Horn. Helen Shoemaker bequeaths her ability to Miss Langell, so her clothing class will prove more interesting. Donald Elick bequeaths his grace in dancing to Doyle Webb. Ernest Wagner wills his janitor job to Sam Blue. Let's have a warm assembly next year Sam!

Alice Meredith bequeaths her fascination for entertaining Amish boys to Winnie Windbiggler. Marcelle Leininger is willing to give up her excess avoirdupois to Mary Alice Long. Doris Wilttrout bequeaths her ability to walk down Main St. to Miss Langell. Helen Marvel bequeaths her ability to pass notes and whisper without getting caught, to Jean Burns. Last but not least, DeVon Hibschan has nothing to will but is ready to lend his magnificent ears to Mr. Kelley to enable him in hearing paper-wads whizz through the air during assembly periods.

CLASS PROPHECY

By

Doris Wilttrout and Louise Paulus

One day in 1950 we, Doris and Louise, went down seven leagues under the sea in our privately owned submarine. As we were cruising around, we saw there a funny little man riding a sea horse. Under his arm he carried a large soap bubble. Approaching us he reined in his steed and asked us what we were doing in his private domain.

"We are trying to find some of our fellow classmates of 1937", we explained.

"Well, sit here on my sponge davenport and I shall see what my bubble has to say", he replied.

Gazing into the crystal, he said, "I see a tall blonde boy, pleasantly plump, lulling the beautiful ladies of the world to sleep with his Bing Crosby voice. This was none other than Donald Boggs.

Excitedly we gave him our attention. "I see a blue eyed maiden standing in a field admiring a fine herd of dairy cows. Farther out in the field I see a short, 'White' man, carrying a bucket of milk." Alas we find that this is Marcelle Leininger and that she has become absorbed in the dairy business.

He continued, "I see a professor with a beard and long hair slightly mussed, studiously staring into a test tube at some substance, which turns out to be a fluid to aid people from becoming embarrassed over toe dancers." This certainly must be Justin Long.

"I see an old maid school teacher, with blonde hair done up on top of her head, who will rise to prominence in politics. She will be the first lady senator from Indiana. She will also write several books among which will be 'The Wiles of Bachelors.'" This is Julia Ann Busenburg.

"I see a Salvation Army parading down the street. Suddenly the man beating the drum steps out into view. It is Ernest Achley Bonneo Riley Potatoe-Bug Wagner, which is the name of the company he is with."

"I see a girl who is studying piano in Paris. She has become a world famous artist and plays for the King of England. She is also accompanist for Donald Elick who has long hair and is a very talented trumpeter. They will finally be married in Constantinople. There they will compose 'The Lover's Rhapsody.'" The girl is Doris Matthews.

"Jimmy Parks will lose all his love suits and will live to be a bachelor. Finally he will be captivated by a young Hawaiian girl and will move to Hawaii.

"Winefred Mollenhour and Billy Cook are married and rising to world fame in their appearance at Paris, as Russian dancers Galinski and Spalinski.

"Rex Bush has risen to fame in governmental affairs. He has succeeded in becoming the dictator of the United States, and has a whole staff of Bolsheviks under him. He got his early training from Mervel Smith.

"Helen Marvel is assistant filling station a tendant at a little black and white station near Silver Lake. She is very fetching in her greasy trousers.

"Joy Louise Long has married her old suitor, Rex Remy, and they go to Alaska on exploring expeditions. They are going to bring back some icebergs for a Florida museum.

"Edith Whetstone is going into a partnership with Harold Walters for the purpose of providing a home for stray dogs. Later they will take their collection abroad and will put on acts, demonstrating the canine cleverness.

"Helen Shoemaker has become a famous monkey-trainer. She is with a large circus, which is touring Europe. She will return shortly and take up toe dancing.

"Alice Meredith has become a great movie actress. She will play opposite Slim Summerville in 'The Amish Go Modern.'" She will return later and become the wife of an Amish man and will spend her time converting him into an ideal hen-pecked husband.

"Katherine Eiler has become world famous because of the great feat she has accomplished. She performed the unbelievable task of building a bridge across the Atlantic ocean! All trade between the two continents will be carried on over this bridge.

"Willadene Janke has become a famous nurse and the special nurse of John D. Rockefeller. Since she has won his admiration, he plans to leave her a large sum of money. Upon receiving this inheritance, she plans to build an institution for homeless canaries.

After hearing all this, we thanked him for his information and went our way, hoping that we might see again all our class mates with whom we shared so many good times back in Mentone during our high school days.

CLASS HISTORY

By

Katherine Eiler and Willadene Janke

In the year of 1932, a magnificent edifice was completed on the eastern outskirts of the fair city of Mentone. It was established with the intention and purpose of cultivating and refining the content of the local urchins intellectual capacities.

There were twenty-six diminutive quaking freshies entered in the high school the second year after the completion of the new building. At the end of the first year we lost Mildred Ball, Ivo Wagner, Franklin Champel and Reva Schooley.

Our Freshman year was deluged with innumerable duties of adjusting ourselves to the new curricula, the six stern, vigilant men who posed as teachers, along with one timid receding lady teacher, who is none other than Rosalind Mentzer. We entered into a big spurge this year in the form of a Freshman-Sophomore party.

The Sophomore year was entered into very gleefully because we could now look down upon the Freshies. This year the class went back to ancient history and 'did as the Romans do' and served a Latin supper. The only losses sustained this year were Paul Jones, Maxine Wideman and Frances Cochran. As compensation for these losses, we received Helen Marvel of Sidney.

The illustrious Junior aggregation attached Everett Ream and Glenn Clingmpeel, this year, but they were lost in the hustle before the year was passed. We carried one of the smallest classes through high school. As the Junior year drew to a close, it was the duty of the Junior class to give the departing dignified Seniors a farewell. This was accomplished and the Junior-Senior reception resulted. The Juniors then manufactured a streak of ambition and gave a play entitled "Lady Spitfire". Thus ended the third chapter.

On September 8 there arose out of the crowd, twenty-one very dignified and intellectual giants who were to make up the Senior class of 1937. They immediately occupied the vacant "Kings Row" and settled down to a year filled with the duties and pleasures of Seniors.

Here we are now, after graduation, feeling like we did when we were Freshies, for we have to begin all over again. We are just entering the first grade in the school of experience.

WEDDING

Timmons-Blackburn

On Friday, April 30, Miss Beulah Blackburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Blackburn and Rev. Kenneth Timmons, son of Mr. John R. ### BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

AWARDED PINS

Mary Mellott and Margaret Swick were awarded pins for excellence in sewing. These pins were made available by the DeBarry and Simplicity pattern companies. The girls were presented with the pins by Miss Langell, Home Economics instructor, on Friday, April 30. They represented the clothing I class as having made the best garments for the year. The class voted on the best garments which were judged on the basis of workmanship, suitability to the individual and the occasion, the general appearance, color and texture of the material, style and individuality.

Miss Mellott and Miss Swick made blouses alike for their first project. The blouses were made of crimson red rayon of a linen-like weave and were fashioned with a peplum, puffed sleeves and a high collar which fastened to form a bow. Red buttons and buckle completed the trimming.

Miss Swick's winning dress was made of printed broadcloth, which had a green and orange floral pattern on a white background. The dress was fashioned with a tailored collar and lapels, with huge puffed sleeves and a flared skirt. A contrasting green button and buckle completed the ensemble.

Miss Mellott's dress was of semi-princess style made of a paisley print in red and blue. The dress was attractively trimmed with blue piping around the pockets and diagonally across the front. The collar was also of blue pique. The dress is fastened with twelve buttons of matching blue down the back. The buttonholes were also bound in the contrasting blue material.

YOUTHFUL QUERIES

Last week, the writer spoke of himself as 'the writer', which is probably the most conventional method used in expressing personal opinions and experiences, but is probably the most inconvenient. The writer, with the willingness to try most anything once thinks that for the sake of convenience and space he'll try the first person method. The writer assures you that his intentions and efforts are entirely ethical and legitimate; and if anyone feels that he is being overly egotistical, he assures you again that he will try to keep within the bounds of unselfishness. So, here goes anything or nothing.

Every once in a while, I hear some young persons complaining that their parents don't understand them. On the other hand, I hear their parents lamenting that young folks aren't as good as they were in days gone by. Why, I wouldn't be afraid to bet that Adam once said to Eve, "look at those fool boys trying to start their alter fires with flint! A person would think they were too good to rub sticks together like I do."

And so it seems to have been from time immemorial. When Dad alleviated the old process of corn cultivation, Grandfather thought the world had come to its dropping-off-place. Now Sonny wants a tractor to get the work done quicker (easier) and is Dad in a 'stew'.

A certain writer has said that even though there is a constant misunderstanding between age and youth, age without the dissatisfaction of youth would shift the world's progress into reverse. On the other hand, youth, without the experienced counsel of age would make an awful mess.

Oh well, I suppose that such a condition is to be taken for granted, since the condition has been prevalent for so long a time, but it would be gratifying to know how it is that some religious leaders often remark that the younger generation is slipping. Such statements go very well until some shameless oldster starts out with—"D'ya remember the time when...." and tells of some confounded orneryness that Granddad and he got into when they were boys.

Of course, aside from this particular criticism, youth in general is a pretty decent lot, even if I am a part of it.

One considerate preacher has said, "The trouble with young people in general, is that they take life too seriously for no more than they know about it. Then something goes wrong, and they turn to cynicism as a salve for their hurt feelings and dampened spirits."

After giving that statement some youthful consideration, however much that may be, I find that there may be something to it. Every now and then young people fall in love, apparently at least. They're all 'het up' about it because they have found what 'real happiness' can be. Their confidence reaches great heights and their positions in life seem to have been made secure. They dream of doing wonderful things for their loved-one. Then bang! Johnny finds that Suzan has pink toothbrush or Suzan discovers that Johnny eats garlic (sometimes). How awful to have been deceived in such a low-brow manner! "Yes sir boys, they're all alike," says Johnny, "Fickle, stubborn, indecent etc. etc...." Suzan says something to the same effect to the girls. They have suddenly become worldly-wise and have cowardly entrenched themselves behind the walls of realism. Of course, they get over it, but it looks so foolish.

Why is it that such things must happen? Is it a result of ignorance? If so, the old theory about the "bliss of ignorance" won't even hold sand any more. Some schools of thought are now telling us to fortify ourselves mentally against mental and physical disaster. They tell us that ignorance is not innocence. Who knows, maybe someone will tell us what is wrong when he gets safely through the mill himself.

Petillo Returns to Wheel in 500-Miler

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — A champion never quits even though he may announce his retirement.

Kelly Petillo, hard-driving Italian who won a spectacular victory in the 1935 Indianapolis 500-mile race, told the world that he had definitely hung up his goggles but he came back to the Hoosier track last year as a car owner.

He turned his sleek speedster over to Doc MacKenzie and was contented to let that be-whiskered pilot do the work until trouble started to happen at 355 miles. MacKenzie had been running in fourth place when he came to the pits to adjust a balky carburetor. He spent two minutes and 35 seconds in this operation and, so hot was the competition he dropped from fourth to eighth position. Ted Horn, Mauri Rose, Chet Miller, Rex Mays and Floyd Roberts passing him.

This was entirely too much for Kelly's racing blood and he went back into competition taking the car himself caught and passed Miller and Rose and finished the car in third money position when Shorty Cantlon, Roberts and Mays ran out of gasoline.

Kelly has entered his car again in the Silver Anniversary race this year on Monday, May 31, and named another driver but few believe that he will remain in the pits for the entire race.

QUERIES

Dave Morgan

I want to have it understood (for I don't wish to be misunderstood) that I am not posing as an authority on any subject upon which I wax eloquent. I feel sure that no one would seek me as an authority on the dangerous subject of 'young love', after the way I wise-cracked about it last week. I'll bet the married men who read that little quip thought words something like this: "Well, young feller, your time's a-comin' and may you choke." After all, fella's, that is just the way I've found it to happen; through observation, not experience.

So, you see, about the best thing for me to do, is to take some old shop-worn subject, dress it up in a few new clothes and shine the 'light of youth' upon it.

Now, for instance, this matter of religion. Old folks don't expect young people to know a whole lot about it, but they get a big kick out of arguing some particular phase of it. I'm not going to take sides with any special religious theory, so I'm pretty safe.

Although it is very natural for people to seek outlets for mental urges, and sources of spiritual enlightenment, one wonders sometimes, just where to find them. Even though there may be a hundred religious denominations within reach, the fact remains that each one of these churches have beliefs that conflict with the others. It is very disheartening to see the institution of Christianity especially, divided against itself because of things that have absolutely no bearing upon its real purpose. For instance, here are some churches that give their young people a scientific interpretation of the Bible. Then there are other churches where young people are taught that the Bible must be taken word for word and as it is written.

All right, then so be it. But just for the sake of the difference in opinion, take the story of the creation, or the flood, or Jonah and the whale and just try to believe them historically true and in the meantime you might try to explain them scientifically sound. It seems so foolish to be bickering about how the Bible must be explained when the main idea is to get the truths contained in them. It also seems that, when churches perpetuate a system of religious education that flies off on such unbasic tangents, they are being basically un-Christian; regardless of the truths they teach.

After regarding the difference of opinion in the various religious denominations, we wonder: must a person be baptised a certain way? Must ministers wear a conventional style of clothing? Must the Bible be translated this way or that? It seems that when a person is asked what one must do to be a Christian, the best answer you or I can give is, "I'll be darned if I know. What are you talking about?"

Lou Meyer Tries for Fourth 500-Mile Win

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—The "Flying Dutchman of the Roaring Road" is ready to ride again towards a record which may not be possible in a generation—four victories in the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

Louis Meyer, who started young to win in 1928, and won again in 1933 and 1936 to become the only three-time winner of the world's greatest speedway race, will be back at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on Monday May 31st, no less a threat than he was last year when he headed a brilliant field in the gruelling grind.

The most consistent pace-driver of all times, Meyer drives every race to the schedule he selects to win and if his calculations are correct, and they have been in the past, he is certain to be close to victory in the last 100 miles.

This year Meyer will have Wild Bill Cummings, 1934 winner and Chet Miller, who finished fifth last year, as team mates running under the colors of Mike Boyle of Chicago.

The Silver Anniversary of the 500-mile race promises to be the most interesting in 25 years of racing history.

TRUCKS NEED TEN TICKETS TO ATTEND 1937 500-MILE RACE

A new ruling will control the admission of trucks to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway during the running of the 500-mile race this year, Monday, May 31st.
Trucks of more than one-half ton capacity will require a minimum of ten general admission tickets before being allowed to enter.

Archaeology, the study of beginnings, goes back to the Fifteenth century, when Greek scholars, dispersed by the fall of Constantinople, introduced to Italy a knowledge of ancient Greece and inspired the excavation of Greek sculpture. The science of archaeology has developed steadily, uncovering in the Eighteenth century Herculaneum and Pompeii, in the Nineteenth century relics of ancient Assyria and Babylonia. Only the little-known interiors of Borneo and New Guinea are rated blank spots in the archaeological map of architectural antiquity.

LOU MEYER GETS BILL CUMMINGS' NUMBER FOR 500-MILE RACE -- THERE'S DEUCE TO PAY!

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Deuces Wild!

The numbers game is being played by two of the most popular drivers in the 500-mile race Monday, May 31.

Louie Meyer, pleasant-mannered, steel-nerved triple winner of the Indianapolis speed classic—1928, 1933 and 1936—recently enlisted in the racing team of Mike Boyle, Chicago sportsman.

Wild Bill Cummings, fearless, ever-smiling winner of 1934, was already safely ensconced as the star of the team. And Bill's car had won a big No. 2 in last year's race. Cummings was left at the post when he broke a clutch and "finished" last in the field of 33 cars.

This year, Lou Meyer wears No. 2

by virtue of finishing second in National AAA championship rating.

When "Cotton" Henning, team manager for Boyle, informed Cummings he must surrender No. 2 to Meyer, Wild Bill grinned and said: "It's yours, Lou, but don't get caught in the clutch!"

Cummings slips down to No. 16, but he's happy to be rid of his hard-luck number.

GUILD MEETS

Following the meeting, the group went to the home of Katherine Eller where they made sea foam candy and enjoyed a taffy pull. Those present were Jeanette Blue, Ruth Baker, Wilodean Janke, Marjorie Long, Mrs. Leroy Cox, Dorothy Nottingham, Katherine Eller and one guest, Helen Shoemaker.

He was a charter member of the Mentone Church of Christ, and has lived in Mentone for the past several years.

He is survived by the widow, Rosa Kelley; two sons, Vere Kelley and Dale Kelley of Mentone; five daughters, Donnis Henderson, Atwood, Carol McSherry, Burket, Blanche Krontz, Bloomington, Blonde Kelley and Beulah Kelley of Mentone; two brothers, James Kelley of Talma and Dave Kelley of Van Buren; four sisters, Mrs. Steve Mentin, Mrs. Frank

Wild Bill Cummings Out To Shatter Speed Mark

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—They said Leon Duray's all-time lap record for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway would never be broken—so Wild Bill Cummings has determined to break it.

Duray established the speed mark 124.018 miles per hour around the two and a half mile speedway oval back in 1928, driving a one-seater car equipped with a supercharger, and using "dopped" fuel.

Cummings proved he meant business with his assertion when he went out in a two-seater in mid-April, a car not equipped with supercharger, and roared around at 123½ miles an hour, setting an all-time standard for two-man cars. And Wild Bill was using commercial gasoline obtainable at any filling station, which will be compulsory for all cars in the Silver Anniversary 500-mile race on Monday, May 31.

Cummings is driving a new four-cylinder speedster entered in the speed classic by Mike Boyle, Chicago sportsman. On the Boyle team also is Lou Meyer, the colorful California Dutchman who won the race for the third time in 1936. Cummings was the winner in 1934.

TRUCKS REQUIRE 10 TICKETS TO 500-MILE RACE

In announcing this rule, which is new this year, T. E. Myers, vice-president and general manager of the Speedway, said that there would be no exceptions to this rule.

23-YEAR CYCLE IN WEATHER SUPPORTED

Smithsonian Report Cites Records From 1837.

Washington. — Progress in the development of a twenty-three-year-cycle weather hypothesis, by which variations of the weather may be forecast, is reported by Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution.

In a report to the board of regents, Dr. Abbot says that while much work remains to be done in working out the details of his theory, "certain large and prolonged features," such as the great drouth of the Northwest, "seem to be clearly predictable."

Results of investigations are especially encouraging in correlation of solar radiation with the weather and study of the effects of light on plant growth, according to the report.

Emphasizing his hopeful outlook for the hypothesis, Dr. Abbot says that the first decades of each of the five twenty-three-year cycles since 1837 showed a marked depression in rainfall, but that this depression in the first, third and fifth cycles was especially noteworthy.

"There seems to be a forty-six-year cycle of great drouths," the report states. "On the basis of this evidence, moderate drouth conditions may be expected throughout the region in the decade from 1950 to 1960 and a very severe drouth in the decade from 1975 to 1935."

"The present drouth seems comparable to those of the decades following 1840 and 1890."

The report reveals an apparent proof that short-interval changes of the heat output of the sun, such as run their courses in a few days, are of major influence on the weather for the ensuing two weeks or more. Scientists of the weather bureau agreed with him, Dr. Abbot reports, that investigation of this effect offers reasonable promise of a method of forecasting some features of the weather for two weeks or more in advance.

The most notable work in the field of radiation effects on organisms has been the finding of "a curve of the efficiency of different colored light rays in promoting the fundamental phenomenon of photosynthesis in plants, which is basic to all life on earth."

Religious Drama

"The Half of My Goods", a religious drama by Ralph P. Glaggett, will be presented at the First Baptist church of Mentone Sunday, May 30, at 8:00 p.m. The drama is built around the biblical character, Zacchaeus.

"Little is known of Zacchaeus. The Biblical account of his life informs us that he was a Jewish collector of revenues for the Roman government. We may infer that he was short of stature, for he climbed a tree that he might see Jesus as he passed along the way. We know that Jesus dined with him, and we suspect that the hour or so which this tax collector spent with the Nazarene transformed his whole life; for as Jesus was about to depart, Zacchaeus announced he would restore fourfold to all whom he had wronged, and even divide the half of his goods with the poor.

The facts about the record are not sufficient to convey the struggle which went on in the heart of this Jewish official. It is certain that he had a home of some sort, maybe with a socially ambitious wife out of the Hellenistic world, a charming little daughter, and a son not altogether to his liking. What is to hinder us from supposing that he himself wanted to be honest, but was urged on to illegitimate gain by the Greek whom he had married? Perhaps a crisis of some sort was at hand in Zacchaeus' life career as Jesus came toward his home. It may be he was well-nigh desperate at the time and was prevented from some irrational act only by the opportune arrival of his friend Matthew, motives at work in the life of this Jew which caused him to reverse both his inner attitude toward life and his outward conduct toward men. This drama presents an effort to show forth these motives and to men of this generation, men who are honest--and men who are dishonest--to live in keeping with the character of Jesus of Nazareth.

Mays, Pole Sitter No. 1, Idolized at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — It's becoming known as the Mays Pole in the 500-mile race.

And it won't be surprising at all if Rex Mays, king of the California speedsters, wins the pole position for the Silver Anniversary of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway classic
May 31.

Mays by dint of establishing the fastest qualifying time in the 1935 and 1936 speed trials "sat on the pole," honor position of the race, these two years in succession.

His speed was 119.644 miles per hour for the twenty-five mile qualifying test in 1936, just a fraction below the previous year's and this while staying within the two and a half gallons of fuel allotted for the run.

This year Mays is slated to drive
one of the foreign cars—the Alfa Romeo purchased by Bill White, California sportsman, from the winning Italian team after the Vanderbilt
Cup race in New York last fall.

With Wild Bill Cummings, Wilbur
Shaw, Louie Meyer and other 500-mile fast finishers also out for the pole, it looks as if the scramble will be the most thrilling in the 25 years of the race.

But the followers of Rex still insist it will be a Mays Pole.

YOUTHFUL QUERIES

Dave Morgan

Probably the most interesting thing about this 'business of living', is the difference in people with whom you and I come in contact. Here is one man who is likable, and there is another you detest. Here is one whom you can joke with safely and there is an old sour-puss who considers it an insult to approach him with anything but a poker-face and a word or two about the waywardness of the younger generation. Why? Were they just born that way or has environment been their keeper? Well...., most people like to excuse their faults that way. Whenever they are reproached for their lack of something or other, they say, "I've realized it for a long time. I guess it runs in the family"; or "I'm sorry about it myself, but my home-life was not as it should have been."

Some people who have attained some degree of success seem to derive a great amount of enjoyment from tearing these alibies apart. They say that anyone who has any gumpation about him at all, can step into the 'swing of life' and be successful; regardless of his heritage of environment.

This is very true to a certain extent, but I'm wondering..... What gives a person this thing called gumpation? Must a person be born with it? Does ones environment manufacture it or is it one of those things that self-avowed, self-made men acquire all by themselves? I expect that if we don't have it by heritage or environment, we finally get mad enough to do something about it. Maybe it all amounts to the same thing after all.

Inasmuch as there are as many attitudes, capabilities and desires as there are people, it seems that this matter of success or failure depends upon the individual for solution, even though heritage and environment may have its influence. It is rather as a government official has said, "The place to reform a murderer is the high-chair, not the electric chair."

You know, that statement contains more truth than anything I could say in a dozen columns. But then if I were to expand that quotation I'd have to offer some successful theory of parent-hood besides getting off the subject in the process.

State Police Pictures Seen by Warsaw Pupils

(Warsaw Daily Times)

Before 700 pupils of Warsaw senior and junior high schools a safety picture provided by Indiana state police was seen and heard in the Warsaw armory Thursday morning. Sergeant Beaverforden, of Indianapolis, enroute to Bluffton with the four reels of sound pictures and equipment, was prevailed upon by Officer Clayton Clutter to remain in Warsaw long enough to show the film which local authorities had tried unsuccessfully to obtain. Sergeant Beaverforden, introduced by Officer Clutter, gave a short talk to the students previous to the showing of the film. Superintendent James M. Leffel and Elmer B. Funk, county chairman of safety were among those present.

Champion Mauri Rose Dodges the Headlines

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Mauri Rose didn't realize how many friends he had until he hit the wall at 110 miles an hour just before the 1936 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The little Dayton, Ohio, dare-devil had always played a lone hand. He didn't want publicity, he didn't want any fuss about his driving. All he wanted was to get out and drive.

But after the crackup in which his car was wrecked, Mauri got headlines, and plenty of aid from folks about the Speedway. He managed to get his car in tip-top shape and went out and drove a masterful race. During the year of competition, he piled up enough points to nose out Lou Meyer, Indianapolis winner, for the National AAA Championship. And now he can't escape the headlines in the Silver Anniversary 500-mile race on Monday, May 31st.

PUBLIC WORKS PLAN IS ANCIENT STUFF

Brigham Young First Used It to Help Unemployed.

Washington — While residents of the cities in which 25,000 projects of the Public Works Administration are located regard this nation-wide improvement program as a new type of government enterprise, people of Salt Lake City know that the sage Mormon leader, Brigham Young, was an early advocate of the public works remedy for unemployment.

Three-quarters of a century before the New Deal, unemployed Mormons found honest work at fair wages in a construction program initiated by their church just as today thousands of construction workers share in the benefits of the PWA program.

In Salt Lake City the visitor may see evidences of the first works initiated by Young, of the program instituted to meet the panic of 1893, and of new undertakings under way or completed with the aid of PWA's current works program, designed to combat the recent economic crisis.

Spanning State street at East South Temple is Salt Lake City's most historic public work—the Eagle gate. From beneath its arch the visitor looks up the hill to the state capitol—a comparative newcomer to the city.

Historic Eagle Gate.

Brigham Young ordered the construction of the Eagle gate in 1859 to provide for the jobless Mormons of that period. The eagle, a huge bronze bird, is mounted on an arch spanning the road and supported by stone pillars. It formed part of a cobblestone wall 500 rods long, also built as a public work, which surrounded the Young home and provided a protection against Indians.

The great pioneer expressed his belief in the works ideal as an unemployment remedy in no uncertain terms. He said:

"My experience has taught me, and it has become a principle with me, that it is never any benefit to give out and out, to man or woman, money, food, clothing, or anything else, if they are able-bodied and can work and earn what they need, when there is anything on earth for them to do. This is my principle and I try to act upon it. To pursue any other course would ruin any community in the world and make them idlers."

Many of the men who were destined to become leaders of the Deseret state got their start as employees on public works. Old records show that mechanics received but $2.50 a day and the architect but $3.00.

Just as public works in 1937 create more employment in mines and factories producing building materials than they do at building sites, so Utah's first works program gave rise to many industries which had not existed before a demand for materials for use in job-making undertakings had made their establishment necessary.

Lessons Are Recalled.

Lessons learned in the early days of Salt Lake City were recalled in the building depression preceding the panic of 1893. Largely to give employment, the local government started construction on a $1,000,000 city hall and county building—an ambitious undertaking for the times—which still stands as one of the proudest edifices in the city. Hundreds of building mechanics who faced unemployment were thus retained as wage-earners while the indirect effects of their labor were experienced in mines and quarries and mills supplying the materials for the project.

Under the Public Works Administration's program for Utah, scores of water and sewer systems, schools, roads, and public buildings have been built or are under construction. The sum allocated by PWA—nearly $20,000,000 in loans and grants for useful improvements—would astound old President Young.

Most imposing of these improvements is the new library for the University of Utah—the most impressive structure erected since the state capitol was built some twenty years ago. Of modern classic construction, it cost some $500,000. PWA aided its construction and the improvement of other university facilities by making the state of Utah an allotment of $1,206,000.

Since PWA projects must be permanent, necessary improvements of definite social value, few objections have been raised against the program. Brigham Young, answering opponents of his theory of public works, said:

"Some have wished me to explain why we built an adobe wall around the city. . . . O slow of heart to understand and to believe. I build build walls, dig ditches, make bridges and do a great amount and variety of labor that is but of little consequence only to provide ways and means for sustaining and preserving the destitute."

Dog Knows Sunday

Elyria, O. — Old Jack, an English bulldog owned by J. H. Patrick, doesn't believe in late Sunday rising. Six days a week he waits until he is put out of the house, but on the seventh he coaxes for an early release. Every Sunday morning he follows the newspaper carrier over his entire route.

"Bobwhite" Name for Quail

"Bobwhite" is the common name for the native American quail, especially Colinus virginianus, or Virginia quail. The popular nickname was suggested by the male quail's note or call, which sounds like "bobwhite," with the accent on the second syllable. In the Southern states the same species of bird is called "partridge," a name applied in the North to the ruffed grouse or American pheasant.

HARRY HARTZ TOOTING HIS "HORN" TO WIN FIRST PLACE HONORS IN 500-MILE GRIND

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Racer Ted Horn has only one worry in the 500-mile race—that his Hartz in the right place—the pits.

The driving days of the great Harry Hartz (above, right) are over, but he remains in the racing game as car owner and pit manager and dreams of another victory. He has nominated Horn (above, left), the heavy-pedaled, handsome wheelman from sunny California to drive the Hartz entry in the Silver Anniversary of the 500-mile race Monday, May 31.

Horn finished second to Louis Meyer in the 1936 gasoline derby, driving a race strictly according to pit schedule.

Hartz himself was a great second-finisher. He was second to Frank Lockhart in 1926; second to Tommy Milton in 1923; second to Jimmy Murphy in 1922.

In 1937, Hartz is tooting his Horn for the winner-take-all role.

OBITUARY

Our pilgrimage here finds a varied experience, our work is of a very transitory nature, our hopes and ambitions are circumscribed by our frailties as well as the forces without. "Man that is born of woman is of few days and full of trouble." Were it not for a kindly Providence keeping watch over His own our burdens would be beyond endurance. In the midst of all, we stand in wonderment as we see the achievements wrought through so much weakness and through the grace of God is permitted to build a destiny for two worlds, here a passing home which we must release, yonder an eternal home which will endure through the endless eons of eternity, how needful for us, while we pursue the changing, that we take time to fit ourselves for that inheritance to which we are journeying and from which we can never return, for that is ever abiding, and of its beauty and glory, eye has not seen, ear has not heard and neither hath the heart of man grasped even a faint understanding of its' marvel of grandeur. God's one and only desire is that we should become dwellers in its lovely associations.

Today we pause to record the passing of one of earth's pilgrims, in the person of Manderville O. Rogers, born on the 16th of February 1875. In this family home life he grew to manhood. On September 7th, 1895, he was united in marriage to Myrtle Bugby. To this union were born five children, Lester Rogers, Rochester; Mrs. Lowell Smith, South Bend; Mrs. Kyle Gibson, Warsaw; Bernard Rogers at home and Maurice Rogers, living near Rochester. There are also four grandchildren.

Manderville spent his entire life on the farm, close to nature and to nature's God, a lover of mother earth.

Several years ago he united with the Bethlehem Baptist church in which he retained membership until death. For the past two years he had been in ill health, and succumbed to its ravages May 14th at the age of sixty-two years.
