OPENS RETAIL BRANCH AT WARSAW

Lloyd Kesler appointed as Manager.

The Northern Indiana Co-Operative Association is opening on November 1, a retail branch at Warsaw in the Conrad Building until recently occupied by Sharp Hardware Store.

This branch will offer to the public such items as are regularly carried in stock at Mentone. The principal items carried will be feeds and supplies for the farmer and poultrymen. This opens up to Warsaw and vicinity the same fine service that has been available to the poultrymen and farmers of this community for about two and a half years.

This branch does not necessitate much additional investment, as merchandise will be taken from the Mentone Plant to quite a large extent. No machinery investment is to be made there.

The farmers of Warsaw will have available at the Warsaw plant the mixing and grinding facilities of the Mentone plant. Mixed feed and a good line of ingredients will be carried in stock. Special formulas will be made up and delivered to the Warsaw plant. All orders left or phoned in to the Warsaw plant will be delivered there the next morning.

Any of the items regularly carried by the Mentone plant will be available for delivery to the Warsaw plant. This paper regularly carries a list of the items in stock and additional items are gradually added.

It is the intention of the board of directors of the Northern Indiana Co-Operative Association to make the Warsaw branch a Farmer's Headquarters in Warsaw. Facilities will be provided for farmers to come in to rest and visit, to check their bundles and make themselves at home.

It is expected that success of the Warsaw plants will be due to the same policies that have been carried out in the Mentone plant. Only first class merchandise will be carried, and everything will be sold on the lowest possible margin. This spirit of the N. R. A. is to comply with all of the provisions of the code, and then sell to the consumer at the lowest possible price.

We sincerely and cordially invite our friends and customers to inspect the Warsaw plant, and they will be assured of a friendly welcome. Our manager will be in a position to give good advice on all poultry problems, and will be glad to assist you in any way.

Girl Kills Her Suitor After Love Grows Cold

Belgrade.—Daughter of a noble Russian family, a schoolgirl in Belgrade found tragedy in her secret engagement to marry a bank clerk. One day she went to see him at his quarters when he did not keep an appointment. He refused to speak to her, and when she kept knocking at the door he turned her away roughly and told her never to visit him again.

Early next morning she slipped into his room. At 7 a. m. when the maid took the bank clerk his morning coffee she dropped the tray and ran shrieking from the room. On the bed lay the bank clerk, shot dead in his sleep and on the floor was the body of the little schoolgirl, driven to desperation by the man whose love for her had grown cold.

Indian Scout Catches Animals With a Lariat

El Reno, Okla.—Col. B. R. (Idaho Bill) Pearson, one of the few surviving Indian scouts, maintains bears, lions and leopards all can be captured easily and uninjured with a lariat.

Stopping here, he recalled that though he was past sixty years in age at the time, he roped, loaded on a truck and took to Washington single handed a 700-pound bear as a present to the late President Calvin Coolidge.

Idaho Bill was intimately acquainted with Col. W. F. (Buffalo Bill) Cody, Maj. Gordon W. (Pawnee Bill) Lillie, Deadwood Dick, and other famous frontier figures. Though in his 70s, he still wears cowboy clothing, long white hair and a goatee.

Hen Chokes on Own Heart

Hartford, Kan.—The old saying, "My heart was in my throat," proved true here. It was in a case of an old hen that was found choking. Unable to relieve the fowl, the head was chopped off, and sure enough, the chicken's heart was lodged in its throat.

THE FINAL TAX

By Ellis Parker Buttler

Said Statesman A to Statesman Z: "What can we tax that is not paying? We're taxing every blessed thing—Here's what our people are defraying:

***

"Tariff tax, income tax,
Tax on retail sales,
Club tax, school tax,
Tax on beers and ales,

"City tax, county tax,
Tax on obligations,
War Tax, wine tax,
Tax on corporations,

Brewer tax, sewer tax,
Tax on motor cars,
Bond tax, stock tax,
Tax on liquor bars,

"Bridges tax, check tax,
Tax on drugs and pills,
Gas tax, ticket tax,
Tax on gifts in wills,

"Poll tax, dog tax,
Tax on money loaned,
State tax, road tax,
Tax on all things owned,

Stamp tax, land tax,
Tax on wedding rings,
High Tax, low tax,
Tax on everything!"

***

Said Statesman A. to Statesman Z: "What is the list, a pretty levy; No thing or act that is untaxed; There's nothing more on which to levy."

Said Statesman Z to Statesman A: The deficit each moment waxes; This is no time for us to fail—We will decree a tax on taxes."

Speaking of taxes recalls to our minds the howl that went up twice this year when the quarterly installments on the Gross Income Tax Act of 1933 were due.

It was surprising to hear voices of some farmers raised in protest of this tax, the tax that was passed at the insistence of enlightened farmers and was a victory for the entire farming class.

Expenses of government must be paid, tax on real estate bore the burden for years, this act while causing farmers about an hours bookkeeping a year and costing some of them from five cents to five dollars a year gross income tax, just about cut land tax in half and secured the money thus left in farmers pockets, from business and professional men whose incomes although larger than farmers incomes hadn't been levied upon.

Farmers tried for years to get some of the tax burdens removed from real estate, and scored a victory in getting the Gross Income Tax Act passed.

If this bill is ever repealed, the tax burden will again be placed upon our real estate.

Keep the Gross income tax act. It is the farmers first opportunity for tax justice.

Dirt Farmer.

WHY MARGARET NOW IS SEARCHING FOR SWEETHEART NO. 9

Number 8 Soon Had More Than Enough of "Kiss of Death" Girl.

Chicago.—It becomes a mournful duty to record a series of incidents which would quaintly term the softening-up of Sol (Bulldog) Feldman.

Until a few months ago the Bulldog was supremely tough. In his twenty-seven years he had indulged in a variety of crimes, but his specialty was assault and battery. He had gained his nickname in rough and tumble battle by gripping his opponent's ear in strong teeth and holding on until victory was his.

Then love entered the Bulldog's life last spring in the person of Margaret Mary Collins, a platinum blond (1913), apprehensively known in gangland circles as the "kiss of death" girl.

No Wooers for Margaret.

To put the matter delicately Margaret, despite her admitted attractions, was not the belle of gangland when the amorous eye of the Bulldog fell upon her. To be more precise, Margaret not only had no wooers—she was carefully avoided by the gal-lants of her world.

There was a good reason for Margaret's unpopularity. She had had seven sweethearts in eight years and each of them had died suddenly and in a highly unrefined manner.

Jack Sheehy, a cafe manager, was No. 1 on the list. A policeman's bullet removed him from Margaret's side. Dean O'Banion, the bootlegger and florist, was next. His sudden demise before a volley of gangsters' guns has been often described. There followed Irving (Sonny) Schlig, Johnny Phillips, David (Jew Boy) Bates, Eugene (Red) McLaughlin, and Sammy Katz. Bullets took them all soon after they became acquainted, each in his turn, with Margaret.

Naturally enough, the boys in the rackets began to think of Margaret in terms of bad luck. And when Sol (Bulldog) Feldman, the mayhem expert, began to pay her some attention, his friends warned him. He laughed scornfully. A man who bites ears and likes it is not superstitious.

The Bulldog soon thereafter was shot and seriously wounded by policemen after he had stolen a fur coat from a window. Taken to a hospital, where Margaret nursed him tenderly, Feldman grinned and said the jinx couldn't bother him. He grew well and his acquaintances spoke of him admiringly.

"Bulldog" Has Relapse.

But the Bulldog was unable to attend his trial recently before Criminal Court Judge Rudolph Desort. He had had a relapse. The nature of the "relapse" was revealed several days ago.

Feldman's youngest sister was married and a gay wedding party was celebrated afterwards in an apartment hotel at Alice place and Hoyne avenue. Margaret Mary Collins was there as the true and loving fiancée of the Bulldog. Late in the evening Margaret became joyous and danced with another than the Bulldog.

Thinking to chastise Margaret for this breach of manners, the Bulldog snatched a beer bottle and laid it over Margaret's head. Margaret was made unconscious for the moment, but the little incident would probably have gone unnoticed except for the presence of three husky young doctors on the staff of the Northwestern Foot clinic, who were invited guests at the party.

Unaware of gangster etiquette, this trio resented the Bulldog's act and fell upon him, breaking several ribs, imprinting bruises upon most of his body, and inflicting injuries which may cause the loss of an eye.

Margaret Mary Collins is reported to be ready to forgive her man 'll, but the Bulldog, through a mass of bandages, muttered that he was through now. Margaret is wistfully seeking sweetheart No. 9.

Canada Has Nickel, Asbestos

The world's great reserves of nickel and asbestos are in Canada. Nickel comes from the Sudbury district, in Ontario and asbestos from southern Quebec. Recently Canada exported 5,559 tons of asbestos, of which more than 76 per cent went to the United States, where it is used in the manufacture of gaskets, brake and clutch lining, fireproof fabrics and many kinds of insulating material. Canada's production of nickel in one month amounted to 3,273,230 pounds.

Twentieth Amendment

The Twentieth amendment went into effect as soon as 36 states had ratified it. According to this amendment the terms of the newly-elected President and Vice President begin at noon of January 20, following election. The short session has been abolished and the difference in dates is to allow congress to meet and canvass the electoral vote.

True to Form

"Men are very inconsistent."
"I don't think so," answered Miss Cayenne. "Eve fed Adam a sour apple and men have been complaining about their meals ever since!"—Washington Star.

Time Limitations

"Do you intend to do much investigating?"
"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "A time comes when you've got to apply a remedy. You can't go on with a diagnosis forever."

Not So Dry

"So your friend the statistician is spending his vacation at the beach."
"Yes, he thought he'd like to study a new set of figures."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Music

"Is your friend a musician, too?"
"Well, he blows his own trumpet."

PRECIOUS METAL IS SAVED FROM PHONES

A bit of precious metal constituting the contact on a spring, says the Scientific American, may seem to be an insignificant item in a system so complex as the modern telephone plant. From a monetary standpoint the reclaimed value of such a contact point would seem so inconsequential to the average person that one could hardly imagine that it would be profitable to salvage such tiny bits of metal from the bulk of obsolete telephone equipment that arrives at the Western Electric Hawthorne works every year. However, science comes to industry's aid and each year from 8,000 to 10,000 troy ounces of precious metals, largely gold and platinum, are reclaimed at a real economy to the telephone companies. This is another example of the scientist applying his knowledge to industry's problem.

A fully equipped laboratory has been especially designed to handle the precious metal. The contacts which cannot be used in the condition they are received from the field are put into a solution of nitric and hydrochloric acid. The gold is precipitated from the solution as gold sponge after suitable manipulation by sodium oxalate. The platinum is precipitated by ammonium chloride as ammonium chloroplatinate, which is subsequently ignited to form sponge platinum.

The reclaimed metals are alloyed in proportions suitable for the contact alloy requirements, and made into tape and wire for use in the manufacture of new contacts.

In addition to the precious metal returned from the field, approximately 2,000 troy ounces of gold are recovered each year from gold plated parts, spent gold plating solutions, and rinse water from gold plating operations.

COLLECTOR'S COINS FROM THE HOARDERS

As hoarded money has been collected at banks and at the United States treasury, many odd and unusual coins and notes have been reported. In fact, says Literary Digest, some treasury employees have suggested that it might pay the government to sort over its rare coins and notes for the purpose of selling them to collectors, who in some cases would be very glad to pay much more than the face value for them. Certain rare gold and silver coins might bring in several hundred dollars apiece. This matter is brought up by a writer of a Washington letter to the American Banker, in which we read:

"A bank conservator working over the books of an Ohio institution came across one of the first silver dollars ever coined by the United States. It was returned to the mint. Bank officials say it was deposited along with other moneys, and is said to be worth $199 in numismatic circles.

"One of the 'strawberry sprig' pennies has turned up. This penny was minted in 1793 and is noted as being unusual due to the wreath of a strawberry sprig over the date. It is listed as being worth over three hundred dollars among collectors."

Apes Learn to Use Coins to Buy at Slot Machines

One of the latest bits of knowledge that apes have proved themselves capable of assimilating is the purchasing power of money and how to use coins to obtain certain food delicacies they enjoy from slot machines. Dr. John B. Wolfe, National Research Council Fellow, discovered the financial aptitude of chimpanzees when he carried on a number of experiments with these animals in the Laboratories of Comparative Psychobiology at Yale under the direction of Dr. Robert M. Yerkes.

Doctor Wolfe gave the chimpanzees poker chips of various sizes in lieu of money to be used in food-vending slot machines. The animals learned to reach for the food at the openings before they could be persuaded to deposit the coins necessary to get results. But it wasn't long before they "got on" to this part of the performance, and they even learned to distinguish which type of coin would purchase the confections they liked best. They also learned to hoard some of their coins for future use instead of spending them all at once.

Films to Cross Borders Free

Moving picture films of educational value are to cross European frontiers free of duty as soon as the League of Nations can complete international agreements. Included are films prepared for occupational training, those giving information on health and technical research; also those describing the league's work.

Recognize Russia

The following countries recognize the government of Soviet Russia: Afghanistan, Austria, China, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, Japan, Latvia, Poland, Sweden, Turkey and Uruguay. Czechoslovakia has a trade treaty with Russia but no diplomatic relations.

Ambiguous

Kitty—I regard you too highly to risk friendship by telling you.

"What do you play?"

Cream and Butter

The amount of cream required to produce a pound of butter does not depend on the breed of the cow, but on the richness of the cream. Two quarts of cream containing 20 per cent butter fat will make a pound of butter and one and a half quarts of cream containing 30 per cent butter fat will produce a pound of butter.

MARRIED

Holloway-Scott

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Scott of near Warsaw was the scene of a pretty fall wedding Oct. 26, at 9 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Mildred Scott, became the bride of Clayton Holloway of Mentone. A profusion of cut garden flowers were cleverly arranged about the home. Rev. M. S. Livengood, pastor of the local United Brethren church, read the single ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families. The bride was lovely in a gown of Chinese blue crepe and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The couple was unattended. The Mendelssohn wedding march was played by Miss Vera Scott, sister of the bride. Immediately following the reading of vows, the newly-weds left for a short honeymoon in Ohio. The bride's going-away outfit was a green suit, with accessories to match. They will be at home to their many friends after October 29 at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Holloway of near Mentone. A wedding dinner will be served Sunday complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. Holloway at the home of the bride's parents. The groom is a graduate of Mentone high school and is now employed as manager of a service station at that place. Mrs. Holloway is graduated from the Leesburg high School.

Music was furnished throughout the day by Vincent Kucenski of Mishawaka. Guests of the day were: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. SONGBIRDS INCREASE, AUTHORITY DECLARES

Refuting statements to the effect that our song and insectivorous birds have continued to decrease in numbers since the settlement of the country and that a day of doom is fast approaching for them, Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, in a recent address before the international convention of game commissioners held in Baltimore, stated:

"It is unfortunate that, from time to time, certain writers and speakers should paint a drab and gloomy picture of the status of the song and insectivorous birds of our country. Far from showing a continuous decrease, it is the well-reasoned opinion of many widely recognized authorities that today there are probably greater numbers of these birds on our continent than when the Pilgrims landed on the coast of New England.

"Contrary to popular opinion, dense and unbroken forests do not afford an ideal habitat for a great variety of song birds. Consequently, with the gradual clearing away of forest areas, the planting of orchards and the growth of a diversified agriculture, there has been brought about a change of conditions which, with few exceptions, have been conducive to the welfare of both seed and insect-eating song birds."

ELECTRIC "FINGER" AIDS BODY MAKERS

Machines of the latest type for machining large automobile body dies of either cast iron or steel, develop a cutting speed three times faster than the original machines developed for this kind of work.

The principal improvement has been made in devising ingenious electrical controls. The improved operating system imparts what amounts to human sensitiveness to the machine. The tracer, which "feels" its way over a wood model set up as a master from the body draft, guides the cutter accurately and rapidly over a rough die casting, whether it be of steel or iron or a combination of both and the exact contours of the wood model are duplicated in the metal.

At one time in the not distant history of automobile body-building, the contour of panels, recesses of window opening panels, etc., were accomplished in body dies with chipping hammers, grinders and files.

Present day body die production speed allows manufacturing to begin approximately eight weeks after release of models.

Speed, while playing an important part, is of course, not a main importance. It is made possible by scientific accuracy.

The Talking Automobile

It is perhaps good news that motorists are soon to have a grammar of tooting. They are not going to make less noise, says the London Times, but their noise is to have more precise and subtle meaning than it has today and the vocabulary with the born is to be greatly enriched. But these things are going to happen only if, and insofar as a certain ingenious Czechoslovakian inventor gets his way. What he plans is to teach drivers to use a Morse code so that they can talk to each other. Motorists are a competitive lot. Unfortunately, there is all too little scope for their pretensions, because the prices of cars and their powers are not secrets. But the owner-driver of the small car will be able to outshine the best in wit and rhetoric and new reputations can be made.

Ancient Turquoise Deposits

Almost all the turquoise deposits were mined in prehistoric days.

Whipping Posts and Stocks

Whipping posts and stocks were familiar instruments of punishments and torture in county seats in Ohio for a number of years after its admission. According to the law of 1803, if a man attacked a woman he was given 39 stripes across the back, but if he stole a mule he was given 50. It was not until 1815 that this whole repulsive practice was wiped out by repealing all laws requiring whipping posts.

Fish Scales Useful

Fish scales, which most people throw away, have a part in industry, many articles and lacquers being made from fish scale essence.

Thumbing Nose Is No Crime in Texas

Cleburne, Texas.—Abusive language is not barred by statute in Texas—providing it is sign language.

A local resident called at the office of Assistant District Attorney Ernest Paschal and sought to file a complaint against another who had allegedly thumbed his nose at him.

Paschal searched the statute books in vain for a law covering the case, with the result that the complaint was not accepted.

MURDERS LAID TO GANGSTER FEUDS

Battle for the Control of Easy Money in Gotham.

New York.—Murder has been adopted by racketeering gangs in the metropolitan district of New York city as the most effective weapon in their battles for control of easy money in bootlegging, polley games, labor union domination, and speakensy shake-downs.

Approximately 34 murders in the metropolitan area in three months are unofficially charged by police to feuds between various gangs.

Most of the casualties, police declare, are members of the gangs of Waxey Gordon, New Jersey beer baron, and Dutch Schultz, racket chief of the Bronx and Westchester. They are fighting a bitter, vicious war, with the Schultz gunners reported more frequently at the trigger end of the bullets than at the receiving end.

Generally the body of a man is found at night or at dawn on a street or road, riddled with bullets or stabbed or slashed. The police know the man. Probably he was a former convict or out on bail awaiting trial. Often there are large sums of money in his pockets; but no clues, no leads, nothing except the knowledge that he was a member of a certain gang.

Then in a day or week or month the body of a member of the gang rumor held responsible for the first murder is found beside a deserted road. Police know the score has been evened.

Police raided an apartment in the Bronx and, among other things, found a triple-barreled pistol for firing tear gas, a sub-machine gun, an automatic rifle with magazines that held 50 cartridges, thousands of cartridges, a revolver silencer, and several pistols.

Later, in an apartment on East Eighty-eighth street, they found five revolvers, three automatic pistols, three rifles, and a shotgun.

The crime generally credited with spurring the racketeer feud was the murder of Max Hassel and Max Greenberg in their offices, in Elizabeth, N. J., April 12.

Autopsy Shows London
Ostrich's Odd Appetite

London.—A dreadful thing has happened. Jessie, queen ostrich at the London zoo, is dead.

But that's not the dreadful thing. It's what they found inside Jessie at the postmortem:

Three handkerchiefs, a pair of gloves, four pennies, a half-crown, 13 nails, a lead pencil, five screws, two staples, six washers, four yards of string, and three buttons!

Jessie's banking and lost property department excited admiration at first, but enemies got to work and the foul rumor crept abroad that she had stolen the stuff.

Apparently a normal happy girl, given to burying her head in the sand when she wanted a good cry, Jessie died only to prove that the evil that ostriches do lives after them.

Perhaps, also, to help teach little ostriches that they should eat only what they're sure they can digest.

Finds Snake Entangled in Automobile Engine

Montgomery, Ala.—This is a snake story.

Gerald Noll, Dothan district agent for a Montgomery paper, was coming home in his car recently when he noticed the car was becoming overheated. Noll got out and lifted the hood. Draped across the motor was a four-foot moccasin snake that had become entangled in the fan belt and disconnected the latter.

Nolan has no idea how the snake got there.

Arkansas Woman Chases
Snakes From Woodshed

Camden, Ark.—St. Patrick has nothing on Mrs. J. W. McAnulty when it comes to chasing snakes. When the woman emptied her wash tub of its hot suds on the side of the wash shed, 22 snakes, by actual count, wiggled with alacrity from under the floor. A stick wielded by Mrs. McAnulty speeded them on their way.

Boy Swallows Ball

Stafford, Kan.—Little Dickie Biegs always had a lure for the circus but little did his folks know he had the ability to become one of its performers. Anyway, Dickie got a good start toward the sword swallower's job when he swallowed a soft rubber ball while playing. A doctor, however, had to come to his aid.

WORDS OF WISDOM

To be regarded as a fossil, use slang 80 years old.

Devotion to athletics is, at least, not compulsory.

Tell all your good luck, keep still about your bad.

Few have anything to fear from inactive resentment.

A man may have to buy his friends, but he is not lonesome.

Blueberry pie stains won't come out, but that doesn't stop us.

The present turns to past even as we are trying to know it.

Some hate jazz as violently as others dislike classical music.

Old Man River is Young Man River from St. Paul to St. Louis.

Theology doesn't help one to be a better man, but religion does.

One of the entertaining lotteries is to find out what is inside of each bonbon.

An enemy will not tell you your faults; he will tell them to everybody else.

A man has just 13 pockets in his suit and has long clamored for 4 or 5 more.

Speaking teaches readiness, said Bacon. Moving in line at a cafeteria does, too.

Why is a nautical mile longer? Because there is so much more room at sea, of course.

If one hasn't the "home" instinct, perhaps one ought to spend 18 hours a day "downtown."

Fortunately, most of the congregation don't know enough about music to quarrel with the choir.

Youth is that period when the weather is never too hot or too cold, but suitable to whatever youth is carrying on.

POWER BY 1982 TO COME FROM THE SUN

The localization of power in the coal beds and along the railroad lines that tapped them, to say nothing of the dirty and degrading processes of making this power available, will belong to the past by the year 1982; sun generators will be perfected, writes Lewis Mumford, in Forum and Century. These sun generators, sometimes used locally, but built on a grand scale in the semi-arid regions of constant sun exposure will put almost the entire world in a kinetic electrical power basis; as the cost of the original equipment is amortized, the costs of power production will approach zero.

Water and wind will both still be used as supplementary sources; even the soft coal areas, whose open beds can be worked by great digging machines, will still be utilized. Giant power will force the pace of rationalization. The black and smoky industrial slums of the Nineteenth century will no longer be a symbol of "progress;" they will have disappeared, except for two small cross sections, preserved at Pittsburgh and Birmingham as social museums.

Study Tokyo's Sinking

Scientists have begun to study the problems involved in the sinking of Tokyo, Japan, which was recently proclaimed by N. Miyabe of the Earthquake Research Institute of that city. Parts of it are sinking at the rate of between one-twentieth of an inch and six inches every year. Some sections are only two yards above sea level. The chief question engaging scientists is whether the city is apt to sink below sea level. The problem is rather difficult because the ocean bed is also sinking, but whether more or less rapidly than the city has yet to be determined.

Hard to Convict of Arson

Investigators of suspicious fires often handle complicated cases. On a recent one in New York city, 46 principals and their staffs worked for eight months, auditing 10,000 records of 17 companies in 10 states. Then they had to overcome the combined efforts of 16 defense lawyers before they convicted five men of arson.—Collier's Weekly.

Girlish Plea

A young lady writes Auntie Knowall as follows:

"I am invited on a yachting party and am informed that I will need sea legs. Won't my ordinary legs do? They are said to be very nice."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Boat Has Gone

Wife—Don't you think a man has more sense after he's married?
Husband—Yes, but it's too late then.

The Regular Kind

Holmes—Is your wife fond of listening-in?
Nobbs—Not half so much as she is of speaking out.

No Price Too High

"I can't live without your daughter, sir."
"Right; I'll pay for the funeral!"

Dentist Frightens Robbers With Drill

Chicago.—Dr. F. D. La Pierre, dentist, has discovered a new weapon against crime.

Edward Elliston, twenty-one, and Edward Kacala, twenty-one, police say in reporting their confessions, went to the doctor's office to rob it. Both complained of toothaches. Doctor La Pierre went to work on C. L. Kacala with his drill. Kacala's feigned moans became real.

The dentist said that since the pain was so great Kacala ought to have gas. But while he was getting the apparatus ready Elliston and Kacala beat it. After police caught them, they said they got scared of the drill.

DEAD FOR AN HOUR, YOUTH DECLARES

Knew When He Died and When Life Returned.

New York.—"I was dead for an hour. I know it. I was in another world for that hour. They tried to tell me that I was just unconscious but I know they lied."

Dark eyes burning in a painfully thin, white face Irving Bernstein, a twenty-one-year-old bookkeeper lay on his cot in Bronx hospital and panted his story.

He didn't know, however, that at midnight in his home on Forest avenue shivah was kept. He did not know that his sister Becky his patriarchal father Benjamin, took their shoes off and sat in a circle on the floor around the oak dining table, and wept and moaned the prayer for the dead.

"I knew I was dead," he said to a reporter in a panting voice. "I couldn't breathe, my heart stopped. I couldn't think—and yet I could think. I was dead."

"And I know it by the clock there, too. At 10:30, when I came in here, I saw it. Then my eyes got dim. I began to sink and everything stopped. It was 12 o'clock when I looked at the clock again."

"How did you feel during that hour?"

"I didn't feel anything. That's the funny part of it—I was dead, and I knew it during that hour. I was unconscious—and yet I could think."

A friend of Irving's family, Dr. Herman Fischmann, was there at the end—the end which wasn't really the end.

"Irving died all right. I saw it," he said. "We got him here to the hospital about 10:30 in a moribund state. At 11 o'clock the hospital doctor called the family in and told them to say good by. They did."

"They went outside again. Irving went into a coma. His pulse stopped altogether. Cheyne stokes breathing—you know that stertorous gulp only once in a while—set in. That always marks the end."

"The other symptoms came, too—the kind you can't print in a newspaper. Then he shivered up before my eyes, and died. Just about that time they cut deep into the wrist and gave a glucose injection."

Irving, suffering from a rare blood disease, is not altogether out of danger.

Mother Collie Digs Up Her Entombed Offspring

San Rafael, Calif.—A mother collie's instinct saved one of her puppies from being buried alive.

Kate, the collie, gave birth to six offspring. Elmer Hansen, her owner, decided that three were enough and drowned the rest. Then he noticed that one of the remaining puppies was "cold and stiff," so he put it in a bag with the drowned animals. He buried them in his back yard.

Hours later Kate was seen scratching and whining above the grave. Frantically she tore at the dirt, seeking to remove it.

Finally, Hansen said, she reached the sack and shook it back and forth. He decided to investigate. Inside the sack he found the "cold and stiff" puppy revived.

Kate grabbed the rescued animal, carried it to her box, and bathed it lovingly.

Jail Sentence Reward for Husband's Chivalry

Rockville, Conn.—All the time Joseph Pryewienda thought he was saving his wife from serving a 20 day sentence he was talking himself into a similar term.

Joseph was a spectator in court when his wife was sentenced for selling liquor. Overcome by chivalry, he offered to serve her time.

"Didn't you know your wife was selling liquor?" the court asked.

"Sure," Joseph promptly replied. "I help her make it."

"Then I sentence you both to 20 days in jail," the court came back.

Kansas Man Foils Thief but It Costs Him Tooth

Topeka, Kan.—Earl Fry has discovered a new way to cope with bandits but it costs a tooth every time. Recently he and a girl companion were held up. When the bandit attempted to attack the girl Fry gave battle. He closed his teeth on the bandit's thumb in the scuffle and almost severed the member. The bandit jerked away quickly and pulled Fry's tooth. The bandit escaped.

Spaniards Use Much Tobacco

The 23,000,000 inhabitants of Spain last year smoked $120,000,000 worth of tobacco, according to official statistics, writes the Madrid correspondent of The London Sunday Observer. Figures for this year show that smoking is on the increase, especially among women, who are now beginning to smoke in public. In May, 1932, the consumption of tobacco amounted to a value of $340,000, and in the same month of this year to $1,000,000. Spain claims to have first introduced the use of tobacco to Europe through a navigator known as Don Rodrigo de Jerez, who was imprisoned for ten years by the Inquisition as a punishment for his "vicious habit." In 1930, the Spanish Tobacco company placed a memorial tablet on the house where Don Rodrigo lived in Ayamonte, Huelva.

German Resort 250 Years Old

Flintsbach, a small summer resort on the River Inn, midway between Toiz and Reichenhall, Germany, celebrates this year the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of its Volkstheater (literally, folk theater). It plays chiefly pieces written by Josef Schmalz, a charcoal burner, who lived from 1803 to 1850. This peasant-poet wrote twenty-five dramas dealing with kings, princesses, knights and minnesingers, and composed incidental music in Mozartian style for them. The actors in this small theater are the descendants of generations of Flintsbach families.

Japan's Progress Since 1908

According to an announcement in the Tokyo press, Japan has signed an agreement with Brazil to build between twenty and thirty war vessels in return for supplies of rubber and other raw materials. Up to 1908 Japan's resources were insufficient to supply her own needs, and she was dependent on other powers. Now she is able to build for others.

NOTICE

To Stockholders of The Northern Indiana Co-operative Association

There will be a special meeting of the stockholders of The Northern Indiana Co-operative Association in the Mentone School House Saturday afternoon, Nov. 25 at 1:30 p. m.

The principle purpose of the meeting is to vote on an amendment to article 6 of the by-laws. The proposed amendment would increase the capitol stock of the corporation and is as follows. "The capitol stock of the corporation shall consist of two thousand shares of Common Stock of the par value of twenty-five dollars per share."

The stockholders at the meeting on Oct. 28 voted in favor of this amendment but a technical error in the proceedings makes the second special meeting necessary.

No one other than stockholders can attend this meeting. The members will at this meeting act upon any subject presented by a member.

Our by-laws designate quite a volume of business for the January Annual Meeting, therefore your directors urge that stockholders bring up all desired subjects at this November meeting thus lessening the volume for the January meeting.

Don't forget the time and place, Saturday, November 25, 1:30 p. m. at the Mentone School House.

Yours respectfully,
Forest L. Kesler, Secretary.

PSI IOTA XI

The value of milk in the diet of a growing child is unquestioned by medical authorities. Calcium and other mineral for bones and teeth, and vitamins that aid growth are obtained from milk.

Investigation shows that a large percent of the children in the first six grades of the Mentone school are underweight. The local chapter of Psi Iota Xi Sorority has arranged to supply one pint of milk daily to seventeen of these children for a period of eight to ten weeks. Through the co-operation of Tuckers Sanitary Dairy the milk will be bot led and delivered at the school building where the children may drink it at a regular time each day.

Weight charts will be kept so that children and parents may be encouraged by the gains that are made.

Girl Scout News

The Girl Scouts were invited to attend the Baptist church in a lobby some Sunday. So on the last Sunday evening in October, which was the beginning of the National Girl Scout week we accepted the invitation. As a part of the service we gave our Scout promise, and laws, and sang the Girl Scout Chant and the Scout Hymn.

On Wednesday evening, November, 1, we held our open meeting. Quite a large number of people attended. We formed our horseshoe and gave our promise laws, the pledge of allegiance and our chant. Then a few of the girls presented a little play with the setting of an old feudal system in modern times. The King and Queen will not allow the Princess to marry the handsome Duke with whom she fell in love at first sight. After asking repeatedly for the hand of the Princess the Duke becomes angry and very dramatically draws his dagger and stabs the King.

The King falls dead. The Queen became instantly grieved at the death of the King. The Queen falls dead at the side of her husband. The Duke is horrified at what he has done so he stabs himself and falls dead. Just then the Princess enters and seeing the tragedy she falls dead beside her handsome lover. So they all fall dead! After the play the Scout laws were presented in Shadow Pictures. We then gave a little Swedish Folk Dance which we had learned in Scout meetings. After this Jane Van Curen received her Tender foot Scout Pin.

At the last Scout meeting we were taught another Folk Dance.

The Girls are now working on their points of health. For two weeks we have to carry out the health rules faithfully. Don't forget to brush your teeth or drink your milk! If you do its just too bad for you 'cause you'll never become a second Class Scout.

We are beginning another nature drive. We are in earnest this time because we are determined to finish our nature and receive our badges the first of December.

"She wants me to suffer with her."

Needs a New Meal Ticket

"I head Dick has been taking you out to dinner a lot."

"Yes, I'm fed up with him."

On Your Way!

He—Yes, I'm a traveling man.

She—Good! Let's see how you do it.—Answers Magazine.

Follower of Marlene

"Are you looking for something in men's clothing, sir?"

"Yes, my wife." — Everybody's Weekly.

Ivory Depca't

"Goodness! Have you had another tooth pulled?"

"Yes, I have a regular drawing account at the dentist's."

Wasn't Half Trying

Sallie—Willie, I don't see how you can be so wicked.

Willie (modestly)—O, it ain't very hard.—Stray Stories Magazine.

A'l Alone

Tramp—I lost my parents when I was very young.

Cottager—Poor man! Orphan?

"No, only once."—Answers Magazine.

Indications of Something

Stubb—Is it true that Brown's wife has left him?

Penn—I shouldn't wonder! He has a new hat!

Free Advice

"So the doctor told you to go to a warmer climate? What was the nature of the trouble you consulted him about?"

"I went there to collect a bill."—Pathfinder Magazine.

A Yes Man

"You don't know your own mind!" exclaimed the exasperated one.

"Maybe not," admitted the meek brother, "but I know my wife's."

No Mystery

He—It's a funny thing, but every time I dance with you the dances seem so short.

She—They are. My fiance is the leader of the orchestra.

Italy Curbs Hunters in Africa

The thrilling but one-sided sport of pursuing game animals across the desert in motor cars has been prohibited by Signor Badoglio, Fascist governor of Tripoli. He has also put the more conventional sport of coursing with greyhounds under the ban, as well as the capture of game with nets, says Science Service. This is part of a comprehensive scheme of conservation now being fostered in Italy. In the mountains of the Abruzzi, brown bear, ibex and chamois are now given complete protection; in Sardinia the wild sheep, female deer and laemmergeller, a great bird of the culture family, may not be hunted. Throughout Italy many small birds hitherto hunted freely are protected.

Bombs for Policemen

"Egg-bombs" filled with white and green paint to throw at fugitive motorcars are carried by the police "Flying Squad" of England for use when chasing gangs. Experiments with these bombs—which are fitted with a pin like the war-time Mills bomb—have been carried out by experts at Scotland Yard. A special chemical in the construction of the bombs makes the removal of the paint extremely difficult.

More Women Than Men

The 1930 census showed 102 males to every 100 females in this country. But in most European countries the females outnumber the males two or three, or even more, to the hundred. Population statistics do not cover the entire world, and many millions have never seen a census taker; but it is probable that the female population of the world somewhat outnumbers the male.

Jugoslavs Fight Gypsy Peril

The gypsies in Yugoslavia are getting to be such a menace that the outraged citizens are demanding to be protected against them by having them placed in concentration camps and put to work. They have stolen many children for the purpose of making beggars of them after first maiming them for life.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Can't Take It

"How are you succeeding with your reducing?"

"I'm afraid I'm a poor loser."

Postmasters Report Quarterly

Postmasters are charged with the value of all postage stamps issued to them, and are required to account for all funds received in connection with sale thereof to the public. At the close of each quarter, the postmaster renders a report, showing the amount of funds received from the sale of postage stamps during the designated period, together with the disposition of the accumulated revenue.

Sisters Use Snake for Fishing Line

Redding, Calif. — Angling for trout, Mrs. Melba Neal and her sister, Beryl Quirk, pulled in five nice ones from Duncan creek near here. They wanted a sixth, so a party of three could have two apiece for supper.

It was nearing mealtime and their luck appeared to have run out until they saw a garter snake battling with an 8-inch trout in the water. The snake had the fish by the head so the young women—unafraid of the harmless snake, pulled the reptile out by the tail and brought the fish with it.

EYES OF PICTURE LURE TO KILLER

Quits Hiding to See Portrait; Arrested.

Berlin.—The fascinating smile and lovely eyes of La Janna, the beautiful new German film star, which have captured thousands of film fans in Germany, have, according to the Polish police, brought about the capture of the Vampire Man, the human fiend, who has killed three Polish girls and attacked and wounded eleven others.

The man is alleged to have made a complete confession of his guilt. He is stated to be Thaddeus Einstein a twenty-seven-year-old cobbler.

While an army of police and 200 police dogs have searched forests for the last ten days, Einstein was living in the garret of a little house in the town of Wloclawek.

In full view of the garret window was a cinema and it began showing a film portrait of La Janna.

A portrait head of the beautiful girl flashed her smile right into the garret.

At four o'clock in the afternoon Einstein raced across the road and stood staring at the portrait. And at that moment Watascha Slatk one of the girls who had been attacked but who escaped, passed by the cinema.

She saw Einstein and informed the police, who found Einstein still gazing at the film star's portrait.

A short struggle and he was overpowered. In the police station four of the wounded girls identified him as the assailant.

And then, according to the Polish police report, Einstein admitted that within three weeks he had killed three girls and had attacked at least eleven others.

Spain's Richest Man Is Held in Jail as Either

Madrid.—The richest man in the peninsula, Don Juan March Ordinas, recently completed one year in jail. He has been held without trial.

All of his millions could not keep him out of prison; neither could his parliamentary immunity, for the Cortes voted to suspend it. March is a deputy from the Balearic Isles. The two ministers of finance which the republic has had, Indalecio Prieto and Jaime Carner—described March as an arch enemy of the republic.

The charges against him are that he bribed the then dictator, Gen. Primo de Rivera, to obtain the Moroccan tobacco monopoly in 1926. Pleas of his lawyers and physicians for his release on bail, or to serve his arrest at home, have proved unavailing.

Counsel insists that the charges against him are unjust, declaring that it is well known that he gave donations to the then Queen Victoria Eugenia for the construction of a sanatorium in Majorca, and made other donations and a "loan" to a Madrid military newspaper at the indication of Primo de Rivera, but that none of this constituted a bribe.

Pickpockets Show Police Chief They Know Trade

Turlock, Calif.—The joke was on Police Chief E. W. Gaddy, but now he's convinced that pickpockets piled their trade during a recent carnival here.

After receiving many complaints of pocket thefts Chief Gaddy visited the carnival with a bulky wallet in one pocket in which he placed a note reading: "Did you ever get fooled?" After an hour the chief returned to his office with the wallet still in his pocket, but on opening it he found a different note saying: "Quit your kidding." It was not signed.

Hobbing Pullet Takes Long Trip on Bumper

Hagerstown, Md.—When Alvey C. Zittle left in his auto from near his home near Boonsboro he did not know that he had another passenger.

He did not discover that one of his half-grown pullets had perched upon the bumper until he reached Shepherdstown, 22 miles away.

How the chicken clung to the bumper and came through unscratched is a mystery Zittle is trying to solve.

Helpful Stranger

MOON'S BRIGHTNESS ALTERS EACH NIGHT

An unemotional French astronomer, G. Rougier, of the observatory at Strasbourg, says Pathfinder Magazine, has discovered that even the full moon actually does vary in brightness from one night to another.

For several years, Rougier reported recently to the French Academy of Sciences. In Paris, measurements have been made of the brightness of moonlight on all clear nights at two observatories, the one at Strasbourg and the other at Sanary. On comparing the measurements considerable variations were found, not explainable by accidental errors.

In their measurements of the brightness of moonlight, sunlight or starlight, astronomers always make allowances for the thickness of air traversed by the light being measured; more when the heavenly body is close to the horizon, less when it is high in the sky or directly overhead.

Besides this, Rougier finds that the transparency of a definite quantity of air, such as one mile, varies from night to night, presumably because of unrecognized changes in the weather or in the condition of the higher layers of the atmosphere. When the air is most transparent the moon seems unusually bright. When it is less so, the moon seems duller.

Crocodile Devours Boy, Is Given Human Funeral

A vicious crocodile was buried with great ceremony in the vicinity of Kisman, Borneo, recently, but not because of any reverence paid the ugly beast. The crocodile, according to a witness who described the gruesome incident, had eaten a small native boy, snatching the child from his mother's side while both were bathing in the river. So ruthlessly did the reptile mangle and dismember its prey before swallowing it that the mother refused to allow the men who later captured the crocodile to open its carcass and retrieve what was left of her son. In order to satisfy the native Mohammedan priest, who insisted that the dead boy be given the proper rites, the body of the crocodile was wrapped in white and conducted to the burial spot decided upon with all the ceremony and emotional mourning that normally accompanies a human funeral in that region.

Big Game in Forests

There is plenty of big game in the woods, but the tough part about it, most hunters think, is that it is nearly all in the national forests. Still it is encouraging to know that the big game in these government retreats is more than holding its own. According to figures issued by the forest service, "the annual game census" based on estimates for the year 1932, there are in the 148 national forests a total of more than 1,163,000 big game animals, an estimated increase of 40 per cent since 1926. The greater part of the big game in the western states is to be found in these national forests where fully 75 per cent of the total western big game range lies. The animals include nearly 950,000 deer, 5,000 grizzly bears, more than 50,000 black and brown bears, elk—about 60 in the forests of the East and more than 100,000 in the West. There are still nearly 8,000 moose, 22,000 mountain goats and 12,000 mountain sheep.

Life Insurance Problems

Life insurance records of last year provide much food for thought. The companies paid 84,200 death claims on policies that had been in force less than a year. This put them to an expense of $55,800,000, although only one premium had been collected on each policy. It is to be noted that one-fourth of the 84,200 claims were for deaths that occurred within three months after the policies had been taken out. Accidents are the chief cause of deaths during the first year a policy is in force, and principally automobile accidents. Pneumonia comes next and heart disease is third. This last is accentuated by the troubles that come to people during a time of depression. Death claims are not paid if a policy holder commits suicide during the first year of a policy. As many as 230 people are killed daily who have taken out policies of life insurance within a year.—Rock Island Argus.

Snakes May Die of Snake Bites

The old belief that venomous snakes are immune to their own bites and those of other poisonous reptiles may have to be revised. H. K. Gloyd, of the University of Michigan, recently told members of the American Association for the Advancement of Science through Science, its official publication, of a case he had observed in which a rattlesnake had been killed by the bite of a cottonmouth moccasin. Death occurred in about 73 hours.

Aids Honeymoon Couple

What a stationmaster at Leicester whispered to a woman passenger on the London and North Eastern railway showed that his memory for faces was remarkable, and at the same time brought happiness to a honeymoon couple, the Canadian Press relates. A young bride and bridegroom were starting on their journey. Happiness, congratulations, laughter until another woman took a seat in the compartment. Friends appealed to the stationmaster. He was sympathetic, but pointed out that a passenger can take any seat. However, he whispered to the third passenger: "Do you remember you wished to be alone on your honeymoon 28 years ago? I was at Spalding then, and I was the official you asked to get you a compartment for your bridegroom and yourself alone." The woman smiled and the stationmaster escorted her to another compartment.

Cause of Limburger's Odor

The unpleasant odor of Limburger cheese is due to specific fermentations induced during ripening; these fermentations are mainly caused by the extremely moist condition in which the cheese is kept.

Quannah Parker

Quannah Parker was a Comanche Indian chief, son of a captive white woman. He led the last Indian attack against the Texans, but later accepted and championed white civilization. He negotiated leases of Indian lands for pasture, was delegate of his people on missions to Washington, was appointed judge of an Indian court, and early in the Twentieth century was mentioned as a candidate for the United States senate. He died in 1911.

Early Day Chewing Gum

Applejack Prescribed

The oldest copy extant of a country doctor's account book of 1728-1750 has one entry where a barrel of cider was prescribed for a patient.

"PRINCESS" MARIE, CHIC CHARWOMAN, FOOLS THOUSANDS

Borrowed Heavily From Host Who Believed Her Queer Story.

Prague.—A charwoman's ambition to become a princess has led Marie Bina, the daughter of a stonebreaker in Moravia, into trouble with the Prague police. Her story has an aristocratic and romantic touch.

On arriving in Prague from her native village some seven years ago, Marie Bina found employment as maid of all work and later as companion. Here she learned the names of aristocratic families, good manners and how to dress. She also found two photographs of Prince and Princess Liechtenstein, and as her birthplace belonged to the feudal estates of this ancient family, she appropriated the pictures.

Well dressed and well mannered, Marie Bina then made the acquaintance of Z. Jovanovic, a foreman printer in a large Czech publishing firm, who had private means and owned a house in the city. The acquaintance with the distinguished looking lady soon ripened into friendship and Jovanovic offered to take her into his family.

Gave Costly Gifts.

Marie Bina told her hosts in confidence that she was the daughter of a large landed proprietor at Battelan and gave them to understand that she was living under an assumed name. On inquiry Jovanovic learned that the owner of the Battelan estate was no other than Prince Liechtenstein. Marie Bina thereupon modestly admitted that her real name was Princess Marie Antoinette Liechtenstein. Soon afterward letters began to arrive for Marie, signed "Prince Liechtenstein," in which the head of the family never forgot to make a few kindly remarks about the Jovanovics or to mention a trifling souvenir he would beg them to accept.

Thus, Jovanovic considered it not only his duty but an honor to lend the prince, through his daughter, various sums of money when the old aristocrat complained in his letters of extortionate bank interest on loans for the purchase of a new car or the building of a new villa.

Jovanovic Checked Story.

At last Jovanovic became a little worried about the size of the outstanding debt. Marie Bina was equal to the occasion. She produced a letter, signed by her "father" in a shaky hand, in which the old prince said he felt that his days were numbered, and to show his gratitude to Jovanovic he proposed to adopt and make him the sole heir of the family estates at Battelan, Tetsch and Eisgrub.

Thereupon the Jovanovics traveled to Battelan with the photographs of Prince and Princess Liechtenstein and inquired of the villagers whether they were really those of the owners of the estate. The answers were in the affirmative. Now the last shadow of suspicion was allayed, and when a little later the "princely father," who seemed to have somewhat recovered, required 700,000 crowns to build a summer residence, Jovanovic sold his house and placed the proceeds at Marie Bina's disposal.

The bubble burst by accident when the prince, who is still alive, failed to show any wish to adopt Marie's benefactor.

Desire for Pet Parrot to Die Too Fulfilled

Savannah, Ga.—William A. McGloin's final wish that death might not be allowed to separate him from a talking parrot, his pet for more than thirty-five years, has been fulfilled.

McGloin, a retired locomotive engineer, feared that the bird might suffer when he was no longer here to take care of it. Accordingly, when his physician advised him that his recovery from his illness was improbable, he asked his sister, Miss Cecilia McGloin, to see that Polly was killed as painlessly as possible.

Miss McGloin agreed. Her brother died one morning, and that afternoon a veterinary surgeon was sent for to chloroform the parrot, which was buried on the same day as its late master.

Cow Mistaken for Bull Gets Revenge on Youth

London.—An outraged cow which was mistaken for a bull soothed its injured dignity in its pasture at Wellingborough, Northamptonshire. Farmers there have retaliated against young couples who forget to close the gates after them, by putting frisky bulls into the fields. So when a young man saw an animal trotting toward him and his sweetheart, he thought he had found a chance to display his courage. He whipped off his coat and threw it over the horns of the beast. But the "savagely bull" was merely an amiable cow with friendly feelings. So it dropped his coat in the pond.

Buffalo Man, 81, Leads Policeman Lively Chase

Buffalo, N. Y.—Despite his eighty-one years, Frank Gordon is still pretty fast on his feet. When he saw a young patrolman approaching his home, he jumped from the porch and began to run. It was four blocks later that the patrolman finally caught up with him. Gordon was sought to answer to charges of disorderly conduct.

Face Paint 1,500 Years Ago
Face paints from the grave of a Roman woman who lived 1,500 years ago were found by the chemical laboratories in Los Angeles, to contain the same red ingredients as the rouge of today—iron oxide. Romans got it by rusting iron, whereas today's chemists obtain it by precipitation.

ADVENTURERS IN FAR NORTH FACE MANY HARDSHIPS

Four Survive Loss of Boat, Hunger and Disease Trail Party.

Ottawa.—The story of the grim ordeal of four Arctic Crusoes, and of the shattering of a dream of fortune in the northern seas has been unfolded here in prosaic official documents which ignore but cannot conceal the drama underlying the events they chronicle.

The story is that of five modern "gentlemen adventurers trading into Hudson bay," who fared forth from England in a 50-ton ketch with hopes and spirits as high as those of Jason when he voyaged in the Argosy to seek the Golden Fleece.

Four Survive Wreck.

Death on the high seas was the lot of one while the others barely survived the wrecking of their little vessel on the coast of Baffin land, escaping with only a handful of blankets and spare clothing.

English tradesmen still dream of forming companies of adventurers to trade in and about Hudson bay and the story of the so-called Cumberland expedition begins in the old land when a small syndicate purchased the ketch Watts, fitted it with two years supplies of ammunition, food, traps, rum, lumber, clothing and other equipment and sent it out, with a crew of five to establish posts and trade merchandise for Eskimo furs.

Before the little craft reached Baffin land, its crew was reduced to four by the death of the skipper. The mate Victor Dines, who had had some experience with a defunct fur trading company in the far north, then took command.

Reaching the barrier coast of Baffin land, the party coasted back and forth day or two, hoping Eskimos would sight them and help them pilot the ketch to safe harbor. No natives appeared, however, and the adventurers finally—in a thick snowstorm—decided to try to thread the straits themselves.

The Watts, maneuvered their way through a narrow channel, then their engine failed. The wind dropped and they were driven onto the rocks. "Land lubbers," with one exception, the crew lost their heads and leaped ashore without any effort to salvage any of the ship's contents. The one exception was Edward Barnes, a Newfoundland sailor, who succeeded in saving two blankets and a few articles of clothing.

Eat Decaying Meat.

The castaways plodded through the blinding snowfall in search of shelter. Chance led them to the abandoned trading post of Siniyak. For six weeks, while they toiled ineffectually to build a boat, their only food supplies were some decaying walrus meat which they found in one of the buildings and a few foxes, caught in traps improvised out of wash boilers.

Finally a band of nomadic Eskimos discovered the party, and guided Victor Dines to Froblisher bay, where he was able to obtain further scanty food supplies. News of their plight was also carried to the mounted police post at Lake Harbor and Corporal McKellar, with a dog-team, made a hazardous trek to Siniyak and brought the men out.

At Lake Harbor they were set up in a native hut, fed, given clothes and a coal stove, but the kindness of their rescuers almost cost them their lives. After the privations to which they had been exposed, the comparative luxury of their diet and surroundings at the police post proved too much for them and they developed scurvy, which for a time threatened their lives.

The Canadian government steamer, Boethic, on its annual voyage of northern inspection, picked up the four at Lake Harbor and took them to Sydney, N. S. There they learned that the Cumberland trading syndicate which they represented, had gone into bankruptcy, but by special arrangement with the British government they were fed and clothed and shipped back to England.

Farmer Loses His Horse, Finds It in Top of Tree

Rossie, N. Y.—A farm draft horse, missing several days after toppling from a 60-foot cliff on a farm near here, has been freed after turning up in the top of a tall basswood tree.

Its owner, Frank Fuller, glanced up into the tree as he passed along the base of the cliff and discovered his gelding in the top branches, neck wedged in the crotch and hind legs spread in a manner that supported the animal's main weight.

Fuller got an ax and felled the tree so that it fell away from the cliff with the horse riding on top. The tree's fall was cushioned somewhat by branches on the under side and the gelding was jounced out, uninjured except for a few bruises on one leg.

Man Arrested When He Asks That He Be Shot

New Orleans.—Max Muller, thirty-three, startled a group of policemen when he walked into the Third precinct station and calmly said:

"I want you to shoot me. If you won't do it, give me a gun and let me shoot myself."

Asked why he wanted to kill himself, Muller said: "I'm no good; Hitler's no good. I have nothing to live for."

Police, unable to get him to say any more, charged him with disturbing the peace and locked him up.

Since 1840, the shore line of New Jersey has retreated at an average of a foot and a half a year.

Happiness and Luck

Uncle Ab says he does not know whether happy folks are lucky, or lucky folks are happy; but that happiness and luck go together.

Home Economics News

The members of the home management class have been having some very interesting work.

The general topic was home-making and we found some very helpful hints in the introduction. Our attention was attracted as soon as we opened our books to a picture. In this picture we saw a house, which was built on a foundation of layers. Each layer represented a principle which layer helps make an ideal home. The principles were (1) A livable house (2) Wise use of time (3) Well spent leisure (4) Proper child development (5) Wise use of money (6) Health (7) Happy human relationships.

We are now studying the first unit which is entitled "Getting Along With Other People". There is no problem either within the home or outside that is more important than achieving right and happy human relationships. The most important thing in keeping friends is to be a good friend. A good friend should be (1) Honest (2) Tactful (3) Under self-control (4) Reliable (5) Co-operative (6) Kind (7) Loyal (8) Tolerant (9) Courageous (10) Industrious (11) Generous (12) Cheerful.

Each girl in our class made score cards for themselves. They were distributed among the other members of the class and filled out. When they were handed back, we were to study them and improve our weak points. We were scored according to appearance, manners, tone of voice, health, poise, habit of speech, self-confidence, neatness, refinement, character traits, and modesty.

In problem two of the second unit we learned how we might help achieve happy family life. Each member of the family has an important part in making family life happy.

The community and family are closely related. We realize and greatly appreciate what our community is doing for us. The ideals set forth in our home management class will be carried with us in our future life and we sincerely appreciate the wonderful opportunity given to us.

The girls of Home Economics class in grade seven cooked and served breakfast the first three days of last week. There are twelve in the class and each day a group of four would have a certain duty to perform. The four elected a hostess from their group. The first day the cooks had to prepare orange juice, cocoa, scrambled eggs and toast. The breakfast was enjoyed by the group that was served and the dish washers merrily went to work after the meal. The cooks for Tuesday and Wednesday had the same tasks to perform.

They had to prepare orange juice, cocoa, oatmeal and toast. The orange juice was used as an appetizer and the other things followed for the main part of the meal.

Tuesday of this week the girls made cakes. They came out of the oven rather brown but were pretty good for the first ones.

Thursday and Friday the girls kept themselves busy in helping weigh and measure the boys and girls of the first six grades. They have found that some need much more milk than they are now getting.

England's Unmarried King
England has had only one king who grew to manhood and who never married. He was William Rufus, or William II, son and successor of William the Conqueror. Edward V and Edward VI were not married, but they died without reaching their majority. There is no law which requires the king of Great Britain to be married. A prince of Wales would not have to be married in order to ascend the throne.
