Disobedience Often Sign of Forgetfulness

● IMPULSIVE ACTS OF child are made without thought either of being obedient or disobedient. Help in remembering often much more necessary than any form of punishment.

By GEORGIA LOTT SELTER

"OH, WHY need children be quite so heedless and disobedient?" sighed Mary Lance wearily.

"I wonder if they really are," answered her neighbor, Mrs. Jaynes, comfortably. "They behave as they do because they are children. They usually act on impulse, without any thought either of being obedient or disobedient. You must expect such conduct until they begin to acquire the knowledge that experience brings."

"I am convinced that children need real help in remembering much more frequently than they need punishment. This belief is based partly on my own never-to-be-forgotten childish experience with a detested red apron. My aunt, with whom I lived, made me a big red apron from one of her old house dresses and said: 'Lucy, you are to put this apron on over your school dress each morning until your work is done.' I had no objection to that, but several times each week I rushed heedlessly away to school, flaunting the apron's faded ugliness for all to see. My aunt always sent a message by an older girl who was our neighbor, reminding me to remove the apron. And no reproof was ever considered complete until these episodes of the red apron were held up to me as evidence of my disobedience!"

"I've never forgotten the unhappiness and embarrassment they incurred. Yet how easily my aunt might have prevented them. She could have said, 'Always come to me before you start to school to be sure you look nice.' Or, 'Always kiss me good-by, Lucy.' My love-hungry little heart would never have allowed me to forget to do that, you may be sure! And there would have been no hurting apron episode."

"But Henry's case is different," said Mrs. Lance. "He is a boy and should learn to take responsibility. Yet he never remembers his chores or his errands."

"Appreciation Lightens Labor."

"He just needs the help of a little reminder," insisted Mrs. Jaynes. "Suppose you mention it casually before his father each time he does his work well and without being reminded? Even we older folks find that appreciation lightens labor."

"Try to make work pleasant. Never use it as a punishment.

"Let work lead naturally to suitable rewards. If Henry helps you with the dishes and tidies the house, it would be quite evident that you would have more time. Perhaps you could both go to the movies or for a ride. When he has learned to prepare food he can have picnics and parties. If he keeps his room in order, let him know how restful you find it when you go in to spend a few moments with him. If he takes good care of his clothes, brushing them and hanging them up neatly, he would be happy indeed if Mother should buy for Father and him two articles just alike."

"If Henry is apt to forget his duties, do not credit it to disobedience but study how you may make it interesting and profitable for him to remember. Children dread to work alone, so make his duties, so far as you reasonably can, something that you can share. Do not expect results beyond the ability of his years. Praise him when he does well. Reward him in a natural and sensible way. Help him remember for he honestly needs your help."

"And presently you will have the satisfaction of seeing that he has acquired the habit of reliability and accepts work as a pleasant and necessary part of normal living."

Ben Jonson Burial

Tradition says that Ben Jonson was buried in a sitting position because the plot provided for him on the north side of the nave in Westminster abbey was not large enough for the body to be placed in the grave in a horizontal position. According to a legend, King Charles I personally promised Jonson that he should be interred in the abbey in any spot that he might choose. After his death August 6, 1637, it was found that the space he had selected for burial was already occupied except about "eighteen inches of square ground." Charles kept his promise and Jonson was buried with his head toward the sky, the only occupant of the abbey to be so honored. The famous inscription, "O Rare Ben Jonson," was cut in the slab over his grave. Many years later a portrait bust to his memory was placed in the Poet's corner.

Many Violate Law

It is against the law in the United States and Canada to open a pack of cigarettes from the bottom; hundreds of thousands daily break the federal cigarette law by failing to destroy the tax stamp on every pack of cigarettes consumed.

Eighteenth-Century Portraits

In Eighteenth-century America, many portrait painters traveled from town to town with an assortment of pictures of men and women, complete in every detail except the space for the face, says Collier's. One desiring an oil painting of himself merely chose the body he liked best and had his head painted on it.

10th Annual Nor. Ind. Muck Crop Show November 7-8-9-10

Ten years ago the people of Nappanee and vicinity started the Muck Crops Show on its way and this year invites everyone to return to the birthplace of this show which is growing steadily and see the results of the passing years.

Communities are working diligently to make this the most interesting and attractive show ever put on and every farmer, even though he is not an operator of a muck farm, will be interested in the displays and the wonderful program which will be given in connection. There will be talks by authorities on farm topics—there will be entertainment by the best of the Radio Artists. Displays of farming implements, fertilizer companies, etc., will add to the value of the show and it goes without saying that whether you are a muck crop farmer, a tiller of higher land, or a city dweller, you will be amply repaid for the time spent in Nappanee in attendance at this greatest of all shows in the State of Indiana in the crops line.

Nappanee is known throughout the state as being a city located in the heart of the muck lands. It is at the intersection of U. S. 6 and State Road 19, about twenty-five miles north of Mentone.

While Nappanee men, interested in the promotion of such projects are working to make this show a success this cannot be assured without the co-operation of every farmer and everyone that can do so is urged to take an active part in the displays. A big list of prizes has been prepared for exhibitors and it is now up to the farmers who are interested in the promotion of such crops to enter the exhibits which will complete the program.

Don't fail to enter exhibits and above all, don't fail to attend and see what others are doing November 7 to 10, 1939.

Two Minute Sermon

By
Thomas Hastwell

GET THEE BEHIND ME SATAN:

Those who have read the story of the temptation of Jesus will recall that following Christ's baptism and fast of forty days the tempter came to him and suggested that he turn the stones at his feet into bread that he might appease his great hunger. He then said to him, if thou be the Son of God prove it by casting thyself down from the pinnacle of the temple. Failing in this the devil took Christ upon a high mountain and offered to give him the kingdom of the world if the Christ would worship him.

The temptations of Christ epitomize the life of every man. Nowhere is found such a complete story of every man's temptation as is found in these few verses. There are many lessons to be gained from this remarkable story, but the obvious lesson to every man is, that Christ, by his overcoming temptation, proved that man can also overcome temptation, if he will, at its first approach, as the Master himself did, put it at once behind him. In this instant decision lies the secret of every victorious life—the overcoming of every temptation.

Airplane Machine Gun

Roland G. Garros, French aviator, is credited with the invention of the synchronized airplane machine gun. He is known in France as the father of air dueling, which changed the mode of air fighting considerably. In February of the year 1915 he mounted a gun in such a position that it was able to fire through the propeller of an airplane, which was a decided advantage over the enemies' mode of fighting. In 18 days he is credited with shooting down five enemy planes. He was brought down on the day of his last victory, April, 19, 1915, and was taken prisoner by the Germans. He was unable to destroy his plane, which the Germans copied, and his invention was no longer a secret.

Dog Days

Dog days comprise the hot, sultry season of summer during parts of July and August; so-called from the fact that the rising of the dog-star, Sirius, the brightest star in the heavens, is coincident with the rising of the sun. The ancients thought this conjunction caused the intense heat of summer, and the maladies which then prevailed, hence the popular supposition that dogs are specially liable to go mad at this season. It was by mere accident that the rising of the star coincided with the hottest season of the year, in the times and countries of the old astronomers. Its rising depends on the latitude of the place.

Moral Sayings

Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States, compiled for his own use a book in which the sayings and precepts of Jesus Christ were arranged for easy reference and study. The book was entitled "The Morals of Jesus." In 1904 an edition was ordered published by the fifty-seventh congress and 9,000 copies were printed. There have been later editions issued.

Minister Hits High Spots

A minister spent $50 in Joplin, Mo., saloons, but he didn't get a single drink. He was paying off the debts of a reformed convict, who wrote from prison and asked if the pastor would help him settle accounts. The prisoner inclosed the money.

Since the 'flowery campaign of courtesy' has been inaugurated in Honolulu, many motorists have been pleasantly surprised by receiving a real gorgeous bloom instead of a ticket when the officer asked them to pull over to the curb. It is reported that women particularly have been noticed paying the most rigorous heed to even the most minor traffic regulations for the past few weeks.

Since the first automobile was manufactured in 1868, more than four thousand makes of automobiles have bid for public approval. This is but one of many interesting facts regarding motor vehicles brought out by a collection of automobile name plates on display at the Smithsonian Institution.

And the idea of constructing a white center stripe on the highway to act as a dividing line for opposing traffic streams and to provide elbow room for travelers originated some 400 years ago. There is a road between Mexico City and Cuernavaca, Mexico where a built-in line of light colored stones separated travelers and their burros more than four centuries ago.

An average of 232 persons out of 1000, past 65 years old, in the United States receive old age pensions.

A paragraph from Hitler's book "Mein Kampf" is interesting in that it defines the policy he has pursued consistently since his rise to power. He says: "An intelligent victor will, whenever possible, present his demands to the vanquished in installments. He can then be sure that a nation will no longer find any sufficient reason in each of these detailed oppressions to take arms once more. The more extortions thus cheerfully accepted, the more unjustified does it seem to people finally to set about defending themselves against some new, comparatively isolated although constantly recurring, oppression." What a startling clear picture of Hitler's practice.

Observe your enemies, for they first find out your faults.—Antisthenes.

Apples are America's most widely distributed fruit crop. They can be grown in every state and are produced commercially in all but nine.

The state of Washington is the largest producer.

The surest way to cure a man who is forever making wisecracks about the time women spend at the beauty parlor and with their dressmakers, is to let him see a group of women who give no thought to their personal appearance.

A new broom sweeps clean except when in the hands of a boy. Our observation is that the average boy can leave as much dirt in the corners with a new broom as he can with an old stub.

A merely fallen enemy may rise again, but the reconciled one is truly vanquished.—Hohann Schiller.

Research shows that no new sin has been developed in the last 5000 years. The statement may be true but it isn't because no one has been working on it.

School Officials, Civic Leaders, To Meet At Warsaw

Captains, lieutenants and teacher-supervisors of school safety patrol organizations as well as school and police officials and civic leaders in Kosciusko county will gather in Warsaw, November 1, 1939, for a general discussion of local patrol problems.

The local meeting is one of a series to be held throughout the two states between now and January 1. The meetings have been called to acquaint the community with the purpose and duties of the patrol and to discuss specific local problems.

It is important that patrol procedure be standardized all over the country so that the motorist traveling from community to community will know just what to expect when he sees the boy in the white Sam Browne belt on duty at intersections near schools.

The meeting will also give community leaders a chance to become thoroughly familiar with the duties of the school safety patrol and the task it is trying to accomplish.

BASKET BALL SEASON OPENS WEDNESDAY NITE

Mentone will open their basket ball season Wednesday night, November 1, when they meet Talma on the Bulldogs floor. For the first time in many years Mentone fails to play their opening game with Milford. Due to a change in schedule this year, the first game with Milford will be played Friday night, November 3.

Eight schools in Northern Indiana have met this year, and formed a Basket Ball Conference. Each school will play six conference games this year, and next year the number will be increased to seven conference games. Members of the conference are Mentone, Akron, Bremen, Bourbon, New Paris, Piercetown, Syracuse and Wakarusa. The date of Mentone's first conference game will be announced later.

Only two players of the 1938-39 team, which won 20 out of 25 games, including the Sectional Tourney, survive this year. These players are Dean Shirey and Bud Paulus. Other members of the 1939-40 line-up are Lowell Marquess, Dick Manwaring, Rex Huffer, Max Huffer, Carl Whetstone, Franklin Molebash, Howard Mahoney, John Tucker, Wayne Bowser, Bobby Miner, Kenneth Romine, Clifford Scholl, Paul Horn, Eugene Sarber, Leonard Smith, Jack Mann and Dean Nellans. Student managers are Jimmy Whetstone, and Rex Witham.

Psi Iota Xi Sorority To Sponsor Kindergarten

At their regular business meeting Monday night, Beta Epsilon chapter of Psi Iota Xi sorority made plans to sponsor a Kindergarten in Mentone. For some time the chapter has been in search of a local project. Funds are sent periodically to the grand chapter, which in turn uses them for charitable purposes throughout the state. Just now the state project is the establishing of training schools for spastics. This year Mentone will send five children to such a school located in Goshen.

However, the Psi Otes feel that since local people and local organizations contribute to their charity fund, a definite project should be organized in Mentone. Miss Annabel Mentzer has been chosen for instructor of the kindergarten, which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of each week from 9:00 a. m. until 11:30 a. m.

Miss Anne Sierk was hostess at the business meeting which was held at Oweeda's tavern, North Detroit St., Warsaw.

WASP WAIST

Felicitantly in some cases, but nevertheless dutifully, American women are taking to the wasp waist trend. Only a week after the Mainbocher corset (price $40) arrived from France, leading department stores the country over were advertising American versions at typical mass production prices. And in the town of Worcester, Mass., business started humming—for that is a corset-making center. While sale value of corsets made there last year was $1,190,000. In 1939, due to the wasp, output is expected to reach $1,700,000, a 50 per cent increase. That shows how fast business in this country can boom when something new comes along and "catches" with consumers.

IN MEMORY

In memory of our sister, who passed away two years ago, on November 6.

A loved one has taken a journey.
She's gone to the mansions above.
She is now with the saints and the angels,
In a region of sunshine and love.

Her life was a garden of roses,
Shedding fragrance and beauty so rare.
Her presence gave courage and promise;
Her smiles scattered cheer everywhere.

She gave of her strength and her talent
To make the world better, and show
To the children a perfect ideal,
Toward which their ambitions might grow.

But now she has gone from her labors.
Her worries and trials are o'er.
She is one of the glorified beings
Who dwell on the heavenly shore.

We'll miss our lovely sister,
There'll be a vacant chair.
Hearts will be sad and lonely,
At home and everywhere.

But God will give us comfort.
He'll mitigate the pain.
And in that blessed somewhere
We'll meet our loved again.

Two Minute Sermon

By
Thomas Hastwell

THIS IS MY JOB: The happiest man is he, who after he has selected his vocation for life and devoted his life to it, can contemplate it with pleasure and satisfaction and say: "This is my job, this is the thing that I was made to do." There is nothing in this life that will bring more satisfaction to a man than the realization that he has found his place in the scheme of things and that he is doing a useful thing in a splendid way. Not only is it important that a man find his place in the workaday world, but it is equally as important that he find his place in the church. The many phases of church activity offer an opportunity for the expression of any peculiar talent any individual may have. As it is important in the world so it is important that one find his place in the church and pursue it diligently that he may be able to say of it with a full measure of satisfaction and joy. "This is my task, this is the thing I was made to do."

RECOGNITION

Like the high school or college student, big business must constantly be working and studying for self improvement. The college man who burns the midnight oil is finally awarded with a degree by his alma mater. So it is with business. This week business men learned that the intensive research and study of the problem of how to demonstrate visibly the differences between safety sheet glass and safety plate glass had been recognized by the glass industry. For the second consecutive year the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company was given the association's award of merit for outstanding industrial achievement. The diploma was for cooperation with the motor car industry in impressing upon the public consciousness the importance of the new test automobile glass made by sandwiching a new and stronger plastic between two panes of plate glass to provide America's millions of motorists with distortion-free vision along with greater protection.

The accident occurred about 6:30 a.m.

Tot's Shyness May Result in Backwardness

● WISE HANDLING NECESSARY to eliminate handicap of constant embarrassment. Parents should assist youngsters to rise above ever-present timidity and to enjoy social life with friends.

By MARGARET CONN RHODS

WE ALL realize that the child who is shy and constantly embarrassed by bashfulness has a handicap that needs very wise handling. Many times a parent can help a child to rise above this timidity and become happily sociable, delighting in personal contacts.

"June started out to be one of those little children who hide behind their mother's skirts at the approach of a stranger; her lips quivered if she were singled out for attention and she evaded the mailman and the milkman when they came on their daily rounds," related a mother before a group of parent students. "I determined that she should never hear any of the family comment on her shyness. I also made up my mind to think of ways of helping the baby to overcome this handicap. I knew I should have to go very carefully along the way or I might make matters worse, but today June is such an unusually responsive child and meets people so easily that I feel my carefully laid plans were well worth while.

"I began with the mailman as he came each day. I allowed June to stick the stamp on my letter. This seemed such a big thing to her! Then, with the letter in her hand to give the mailman, she forgot her fear and ran out to meet him. He helped me by not getting too friendly with her all at once. And in much this same simple way I acquainted June with the milkman and the grocery boy. I let her put the tickets in the milk bottles and let her set the bottles out. That gave her an interest in the man who delivered the milk. I would empty the grocery boy's basket and hand her the empty container to give to him.

Get Acquainted Gradually.

"When guests came to the house I would ask her to open the door. She soon learned to ask them to be seated especially if their manner when they greeted her was not too familiar. Most little boys and girls like to get acquainted with a strange person gradually, but many older people are apt to gush over children, the moment they meet them. When June started for nursery school she was somewhat afraid of the experience. But each morning I let her take some small gift to the teacher and her joy in carrying the flower or the red apple or the cutout she had made lessened her consciousness of self and the problem was solved happily.

"Shyness or backwardness is often regarded by parents as a trait the child will outgrow and so they feel it need not be given special concern. I like to think that in our home we are always helping the children to develop the traits that will benefit them. They should be able to meet people happily, be sufficiently self-possessed to enter into child activities and reap the joy of personal contacts. They should have the assurance within themselves that they are capable of joining in a conversation with a group of their age or of playing games with as much vim as the other children.

"Shyness induces an inferiority complex in the child that later makes the grownup cheat himself of much advancement and many pleasures that are rightly his. Today June at five can meet the guests in our home pleasantly, totally unconscious of herself. What picture would she have presented had we ignored her baby tendency or constantly commented on it? She would have been timid still, and little by little would have become more certain that she would always be a shy person."

Indian Clan

The sachem was a functionary of an Indian clan—a common division of the Indian tribe. The clan had two distinct kinds of leaders, a sachem and a chief. The sachem was judge and administrator of ancient customs and his functions were those of peace time. He was chosen by the adult members of the clan and his election usually depended upon the influence of his immediate family in the clan group. The chief, on the contrary, won his title by individual prowess. He was chosen because of some special deed or because of some outstanding trait. The chief was the war time leader. In current thought the term sachem applies to the principal dignitaries of Tammany Hall—the New York political organization. The Society of St. Tammany, the name under which Tammany Hall was incorporated, takes its name from the Indian who is patron saint of the organization.

Span of Time

Probably the greatest time span between two important cities is that between New York and Hongkong. At 12 noon in New York it is 37 minutes past midnight in Hongkong.

Tolerance is a fine accomplishment and a truly cultural asset.

It doesn't take much of a town booster to boost when the home team has a winning streak. The kind of a booster whose boosting is worth while is the fellow who boosts when the home team is finding it tough sledding.

Its that way with a lot of things.
The fellow who slaps us on the back when we are riding on top of the wave isn't nearly so helpful or welcome as the fellow who comes around when we are discouraged and gives us the glad hand and tells us he believes in us.

The trouble with many people is that they have never loved anyone or anything more than they have themselves. No man reaches his full height until he rises above himself.
When he loves but himself he is limited to the height he alone can reach.
When he loves someone else or something more than he loves himself there is no limit to the height he can reach. Love of self holds one down to a narrow little confine. Love of others or other things opens up the horizon to the very height of the heavens.

The love of beauty is universal.
There is not a race of people known in history that did not have a definite art and medium for expressing this urge.

It means much to a man to realize that life and the world are surprisingly beautiful. Nature in all her forms is indescribably beautiful.
Where ugliness appears it has been created by man. Nature herself knows no ugliness.

A local man, who says he has made some extensive study and investigation in this field, says that the wants of ninety-eight per cent of the women come under three classifications:

to be beautiful, to have wealth, to have brains. He contends that with the third one of these desires and either of the other two a woman can have anything else she wants in this world.

Palestine Mill Destroyed By Fire

Fire of unknown origin, presumably from electric wiring, broke out in the driveway of the Palestine Mill late Thursday night, and the entire structure was enveloped in flames before it was discovered. John Morse driving past the Mill about 9:30, discovered the fire and turned in the alarm. Both Burket and Mentone fire trucks responded to the summons but were almost powerless against the headway the fire had made, augmented by a high strong wind. The department's attention was centered upon the cash register and safe located in the north end of the office. By keeping a stream of water on the new cash register and safe, the currency and valuable papers were saved.

The wooden floor of the bridge near the mill caught fire and traffic was blocked until it could be extinguished and tested for safety. Grain and other debris were still burning late Sunday evening.

The Palestine Mill was built about forty years ago and was a familiar landmark. Old timers tell us that this is the third mill to burn on this site. Mr. Shirey, owner of the Mill, plans to rebuild immediately.

Kelley and Huffman led Beaver Dam with five points each.

Mentone's second team won the preliminary bout also. The score stood 21 to 7 at the close of the game.

Mentone Clinic Installs Electrocardiograph

The newest diagnostic machine added to the Clinic is very valuable in the diagnosis of obscure heart complaints. It gives an accurate graphic record of the heart action by recording the electrical impulses which the heart muscle generates when it contracts. For normal hearts these tracings are always the same, so that an expert electrocardiologist can tell what is wrong with a heart by the deviations from a normal picture. It is possible to obtain facts about the heart with this machine which cannot be found in any other manner. Many facts can be obtained by listening to the heart in action, other facts are obtained by watching its action with the x-ray, but the electrocardiograph supplements both these other methods of diagnosis.

Only a doctor who is interpreting these tracings constantly can do them accurately, so that the clinic has arranged with Dr. B. E. Goodrich of Detroit to do this for them. Each tracing is sent to him with an accurate history of the case, and he returns his interpretation and diagnosis. He does the electrocardiography for Henry Ford Hospital Clinics, so is thoroughly competent.

The cost of a tracing is the same as an x-ray of the chest, and the Clinic pays Dr. Goodrich out of this fee.

New Laboratory equipment at the Clinic include a high speed electric centrifuge, Bromsulphalein comparator for testing liver function, and a blood Sulfanilamide outfit. The latter is very important in treating diseases with the valuable drug, Sulfanilamide, as it allows the physician to determine just how much is accumulating in the blood.

Women seem to like to drive faster than men.

At least they do in Texas, according to the Chicago Motor club, which reports that a recent survey taken by the Texas State Highway department of 550 cars revealed that 70 percent of the women in the Lone Star state drove faster than 45 mile per hour while only 54 per cent of the male drivers exceeded that speed.

Custom of Wake

The custom of the watch over the dead until the final burial or disposal, extends to prehistoric times, and probably originated in the desire to guard against the occupying of the body of the deceased by adverse or diabolical spirits. In Britain the custom of "waking" a corpse appears to have existed before the Christian era, and was probably Celtic. The Anglo-Saxon called the custom lich-wake, from lic, a corpse. This name was corrupted later into lykewake. The body was often placed under the table on which was liquor for the watchers, and such wakes tended to become drinking orgies.

"Use Your Head" Advises Motor Club

It would be such a simple matter to eliminate 80 or 90 per cent of pedestrian injuries and fatalities if walkers, in addition to abiding by traffic regulations, would do only one thing: USE THEIR HEADS.

The Chicago Motor club safety bureau points out that emergencies arise in traffic over which rules have no control. Pedestrians are sometimes caught in the middle of the street by changing traffic lights, a car making a turn which cuts them off, or any of a number of things.

Usually, the pedestrian becomes panic-stricken, dances around and tries to scamper to one curb or the other, too frequently to his regret. The motorist can't read the man's mind. He can't foresee what his friend on foot is going to do, and besides he has to manage a 2,000-pound steel machine and he can't be nearly so agile.

The move is definitely up to the pedestrian. And to move correctly, says the motor club, is NOT TO MOVE AT ALL. Stand absolutely still if caught in a maze of cars. A still target is more easily missed than one moving in unexpected directions in this case.

Vaccination For Scarlet Fever

The question of scarlet fever vaccination has been brought to our attention. Most doctors have in the past advised against these shots because of the bad effects. Many a young doctor who had to take the shots when he entered medical school has said that he would prefer to have the disease.

However, here, as in other medical fields, progress has been made. Not only is the vaccine less toxic, but it is possible to test the child beforehand to find out how he will react, and the dosage can be regulated accordingly. Usually 5 shots are given at seven-day intervals, but if the preliminary test shows that the child is very sensitive, the number of shots may be increased. Several months after the shots are given another test can be given to determine whether the child is fully protected.

It is interesting that the preliminary skin test will show many children to have already acquired immunity to the disease, and they will need no shots at all. The decision about giving them shots may be made from the results of the test. Any child may be given the test, but the shots are usually not given under the age of 18 months.

Vaccination against scarlet fever is not as absolute as it is against diphtheria and small pox, but it does last several years, thus protecting the child through the years when it would affect him the worst.

This type of vaccination does not confer immunity at once, so that to protect exposed patients, if desired, it is necessary to give them scarlet fever antitoxin, a different type of product. This antitoxin is like that given in diphtheria or lockjaw.

JESSIE RUSH, Editor and Mgr.

Someone has truthfully said that the greatest proof that there is a future existence is the fact that man finds time to do so little on earth and that little so imperfectly. There should be in the economy of things, a place where worthwhile dreams and ambitions and aspirations could be carried out to their fruition unhampered by the limitations of mortals.

The average American home of today fails in its responsibility to the young people in it, in that it fails to teach four simple virtues without which no young person is fitted to meet and cope with the complex social order found in the world today. No parent of course, fails deliberately to impart these virtues to his children. Many are not aware that they do fail. Many make the best effort they know how and too many make no effort at all.

The first of these virtues is discipline, the yielding to and obedience to authority.

The second virtue, not generally enough taught, is self denial.

The third virtue is thrift—the value of money and of time.

And the fourth is courtesy. There is no grace that becomes a young man or a young woman more than simple courtesy, and there is no finer place to learn it than in the home and in the family circle.

It is unfortunate when one considers the value of these virtues and their necessity in life that our scheme of education has not included a course in home making, the training of children and child psychology.

Not all the easy marks live in the small towns, as the following story of the swindle of the Fort Greene National Bank of Brooklyn, New York, will show. Four years ago two men shipped 15,000 gallons of whiskey from Cuba and placed it in a government bonded warehouse in New York. They then secured a loan of $300,000 on the whiskey and promptly disappeared. The bank proceeded to take over the whiskey but there was $60,000 unpaid duty against it. Upon examination of the whiskey it was found to be of such poor quality that no one would pay the duty for it. As a result customs officers dumped it in the harbor and the bank closed its doors.

Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, has successfully defended his title eight times in the past two years. He has been defeated only once in five years (by Max Schmeling) he has knocked out all but seven of his opponents including five one time world's champions, (Braddock, Carnera, Baer, Sharkey, Schmeling.)

The stingy man who pays his debts, as a rule, has more real friends in the community than the liberal man who owes everybody.

The severest test on one's hospitality, a local woman tells us, is to have to spend the day with company you do not care for and who do not interest you. It is more exhausting than doing the family washing and ironing and cooking for harvest hands all the same day.

"The trouble with towns now-a-days" a local man was overheard to remark, "is that they have marked out the parking spaces so narrow that one has to have a shoe horn to get into them and when you get the car in you can't open the door."

Things To Watch For

The "Turkeyfurter," a casing filled with minced turkey, for Thanksgiving supper—if eaten in a roll, it could be garnished with cranberry sauce, instead of mustard.

Two Minute Sermon

By Thomas Hastwell

THE ENDURING BEATITUDES: The Sermon on the Mount is easily one of the greatest addresses of all times. To properly appreciate the Sermon on the Mount one must consider it under the conditions and the age in which it was delivered. For centuries the world had been steeped in Jewish formalism. For generations the laity and the church had recognized the doctrine of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. What one thought in his heart counted but little. It was only the overt act that brought condemnation and punishment. This philosophy had become the accepted way of living and under it greed and malice and hatred and covetousness and deceit and intrigue were the common way of life. It was into this atmosphere that Christ projected the Sermon on the Mount. Every sentence of it was a contradiction to the accepted way of living of that day.

The world has not yet comprehended all that the Sermon on the Mount means. It is still a perfect code for man to live by. Two thousand years, twenty centuries of time, have not erased one sentence nor caused one precept to become obsolete. It still stands as one of the greatest addresses of all time.

"Huckleberry Finn" To Be Presented Here

"Huckleberry Finn," which will be presented at the Community Building Tuesday evening, November 28, by the Junior class of Mentone high school, has been more widely read than any other of Samuel Clemens' works. There is little doubt that this is the greatest American tale ever penned. All of the many friends that "Huck" made between the covers of Mr. Clemens' book will be there to make his acquaintance on the stage. "Huck" is not just a fictional character, an illusion in a playwright's mind. He is your boy, every American boy who ever played pranks and exhibited boyish charm. For "Huck" is that most loveable of all humans, a typical American lad, brave and courageous in times of adversity, loyal and sincere to those who have befriended him. The play contains all the human qualities that have endeared "Huck" to lovers of real, clean entertainment. Fancy the thrill you will get when you see all the well-known characters of the novel step before your eyes in the flesh!

This is not a play especially for children. Running through it is a romance that will interest adults, comedy that will cause every body to double up with mirth and just a tear or two thrown in for good measure.

Ten Juniors have assembled a fine cast. Howard Mahoney who will portray "Huck" is a fine choice for the role as is Wayne Baumgartner, who will appear as Huck's pal, "Tom Sawyer." Other members of the cast are Juanita Nellans, Eleanor Wallace, Ruth Wagner, Robert Leiter, Rowena Lackey, Helen Walters, Gloria Hammer, and Carl Whetstone.

Don't miss this fine performance of a great play and be sure to tell your friend's the date.

Another committee reported on plans that are being made for making both movie and still pictures of the Lions Club and other community activities which will be placed on file for use in future years when the present generation will have turned over the community activities to those of the next who will be willing to "carry on."

Tecumseh Kilgore of South Bend gave a helpful lecture on "Put down 2 and carry 1" in which he discussed some of the present day responsibilities of both adults and young people.

On Wednesday evening, December 6, Dr. A. W. Cordier of Manchester College, who traveled extensively in several foreign countries last summer will be present and give his lecture on "Present World Conditions." This lecture will be in the Methodist Church Sanctuary at 7:30 and FREE to everybody. At 6:30 the Lions, Lionesses and guests will have their dinner in the Lions Den. Every one is asked to place their dinner reservations with Mahlon Mentzer that the Ladies may know the number for which to prepare.

Ed Pane, 3rd International Vice-President of the Order of Lions will speak at the local Club's regular meeting, December 20.

Something To Be Thankful For

Those of us who have good health have much to be thankful for this Thanksgiving Day. Sound health, before wealth, even before happiness, is the greatest gift of the gods. With out physical well-being, riches mean little, and joy and contentment can never be complete.

Soon the 1939 Christmas Seal, the Seal to finance a program of tuberculosis prevention and control will be on sale. Here is an opportunity for those of us who are enjoying good health to insure its continuance. And here is an opportunity to assist others to share in that good health.

These brightly-colored little stamps aid a cause which is concerned chiefly with those persons who have to count their own pennies carefully. The money realized from their sale is spent wisely and thriftily in fighting this dread disease.

"Protect Your Home From Tuberculosis" is the slogan of this year's campaign. We have come far in the fight against the disease. Let us be thankful that we can help finish the job and bring the eradication of tuberculosis within reach.

Snellen Eye Test

The Snellen test types are square black letters printed on a card, employed in testing the acuteness of distant vision. All optometrists have these types for use in testing eyesight.

Two Minute Sermon

By
Thomas Hastwell

LET NOT THY LEFT HAND KNOW: "When thou doest alms let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth." This is one of the many injunctions to mankind found in Christ's Sermon on the Mount. The accompanying verses make it clear that the joy to be found in doing good deeds lies in their being done secretly and not in a way that will attract the attention and approval of men, for, if one receives his reward from men, he will have no reward from the Father in Heaven. How simple, how fundamental, and how elemental, is this truth. The good deeds that are done openly before men, are paid for by the approval of men. There is no future reward for them, but the good deeds that are done secretly, continue to reward the doer as long as he lives, and the memory of them endures.

The truth of this statement is confirmed in the experience of every man. Every life has ample proof that good deeds secretly done return the largest measure of reward. What is true of this injunction is true in like degree of each of the others contained in the Sermon on the Mount. What a difference it would make in living if men everywhere could come to realize the possibilities contained in the precepts of the Sermon on the Mount as many have come to realize the truth of the blessing of doing good secretly.

"I Know It All"

Just like the little boy who was sure that he was the smartest boy in his class but who failed because he stopped studying, so the over confident motorist too frequently relaxes and slackens his skill in driving. By so doing he subjects himself and the public to injury and death. The self-assured driver often feels certain that his deftness in handling a car will carry him through any emergency and what was once skill becomes foolhardy daring.

Seasoned drivers often have the most serious crashes, because due to their experience they are accustomed to driving faster than the novice. In clear sailing that's fine; but in an emergency, nothing can be worse.

When an expert driver deliberately plunges into a hazardous traffic situation and depends on his skill to bring him out, he's gambling. And not with accident probability alone. He's gambling with his reputation as a good driver and a desirable citizen.

Skyscraper Foundations
The foundations of the skyscrapers in New York city are sunk to bed rock by means of open cofferdams or closed pneumatic caissons. The caisson may be a huge timber box or steel cylinder, open at the bottom, but closed at a height of 8 or 10 feet so as to form a working chamber. Above the working chamber the caisson is filled with concrete, which is pierced by vertical shafts for the passage of men and materials. When the edges of the caisson reach rock, the working chamber and shafts are filled with concrete, forming a solid pillar. After the foundations have been completed, the steel skeleton is rapidly placed in position.

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

HOSS TRADIN'

MY FRIEND asked me if I would go with him to buy a horse. I went. We traipsed from one dealer's to another. One man asked us $300 for a horse. The next man had a horse which looked no better, but his price was $450. Before the afternoon was over we had seen horses ranging in price all the way from $150 to $14,000.

Now, the $14,000 horse was a much better animal than the $150 horse. No use to deny that. But nowhere along the line did we find a stabilized market.

Had we bought we would have been paying a price which the seller thought his horse was worth. There was no market authority we could consult which would tell my friend whether he was being overcharged or undercharged.

That same evening I went out to buy a small household item—one which is advertised in all the newspapers. I knew what the market price would be: advertising had told me.

With confidence I asked the clerk for what I wanted and put my 25 cents down on the counter. Had he said: "I am sorry, sir, but the price is 50 cents," I would have left and gone somewhere else.

What assurance have I, as a consumer, that someone won't take advantage of me and overcharge me in this bold way?

My only assurance is the advertising which I read in the newspaper. That is my market and my buyer's guide. It tells me the prices I must expect to pay. Let the seller who tries to charge me more beware.

It also tells me what quality I may expect. Let the seller who tries to give me a poorer substitute beware.

So you see that advertising stabilizes prices and enables me, no matter how inexperienced I am in business, to buy with the same expertness and assurance of a professional buyer who spends his life buying for a large concern.

No one objects to paying the established price for something he wants. But all of us hate to be robbed by an unscrupulous man who, taking advantage of our ignorance, "soaks us good and plenty."

The way to avoid being "soaked" in this complete way is to buy advertised goods from merchants who advertise.

There was a time in America when there were no set prices. Each merchant charged what he thought "the traffic would bear." Advertising came to the rescue of the consumer. It led the way to the established prices you pay when you buy anything today — except, perhaps, horses.

By JANETTE STEVENSON MURRAY

PHILIP is six years old and attends the university elementary school a mile and a half from his home. He goes on the streetcar, transferring at the downtown station.

It was during the first cold snap in November that he arrived at school one morning and found the door locked. Bobbie, whose mother had just let him out of her auto at the corner and driven home, was in the same plight. A neighbor had promised to phone the mothers of these two boys that there would be no school but had forgotten to do so.

"Say, Bobbie, we can just go back on the streetcar. See, I have my nickel," said Philip.

"But I haven't any nickel," replied Bobbie. "Mama always comes for me."

"Oh, maybe we can phone her," suggested Philip. "My mother won't be home for she takes Brother to the kindergarten and goes to her classes. Let's go in the schoolhouse. There's a phone in the office, I know."

"But the door's locked," said Bobbie, tears gathering in his eyes.

"Yes, it's locked," said Philip as he turned from fumbling with the handle. "Oo-oo! It's cold!" The boy, with only a light overcoat for protection, shivered in his socks and short trousers. "Bobbie," he said, "I don't know the way home, do you?"

"No, I never went home alone," and Bobbie began to cry.

Although Philip knew Bobbie only as he had seen him in class, it never occurred to him to use his own nickel and go home, leaving Bobbie alone.

"Oh, stop crying," said Philip, on the verge of tears himself. "I don't know what to do—but we have to do something. Kid, or we'll freeze. Say! why can't we follow the streetcar track? The car that always takes me has to go on that track. I know where your house is when I'm on the car."

He grabbed Bobbie's hand and they began their long trudge back on the sidewalk beside the rails, down through the town where Philip always transferred and then along by the other car line. They were very cold and the biting northwest wind hindered their progress.

Teach Self-Reliance.

"Oh, what are the boys doing here?" exclaimed Bobbie's mother as the boys appeared.

"The door was locked. There wasn't any school," cried Bobbie.

"But how did you ever find your way home?"

"Why, we just followed the tracks 'cause that's the way the cars go," said Philip in a matter-of-fact tone.

Our Mother's club has been much interested in Philip—his independence, grit, self-assurance, frankness and mature reasoning.

"Have you educated Philip with the idea of making him self-reliant?" we asked his mother.

"No, I think that was done in kindergarten," she answered, smiling, "but his teacher felt that his father and I had helped him by avoiding the development of fear. When learning to walk, he sometimes fell. Then we would speak casually of the cause, the rumpled rug, for instance, diverting him from his discomfort. We often sent him into dark rooms to get things, assuming as a matter of course he'd go. He has never feared the dark. As a toddler, I let him walk alone out-of-doors as far as it was safe. When we went on the street I gave him the idea of protecting me from the automobiles. Although very solicitous about my safety, he had no fear."

"Tell us how you deal with him when naughty," we asked, for our club has a feeling that it takes great wisdom to retain a proper authority over the bright child and still allow him enough freedom to insure self-reliance.

"I deprive him of privileges occasionally, if the connection is clearly evident," his mother replied. "Lecturing or demanding accomplishes nothing. I'm not always wise, but he trusts me and doesn't deceive me. When his father or I appeal to his reason and treat him with the courtesy accorded a grown person, he almost always responds instantly."

Only One Billion?

The remark, "This is a billion-dollar country," was made by Speaker Thomas B. Reed of Maine in answer to a complaint of a member regarding a billion-dollar appropriation. The incident occurred in the second session of the Fifty-first congress in 1891. In the first session $500,000,000 had been appropriated and a slightly larger amount in the second session, making a total appropriation for that congress of something over a billion.

Two of the most difficult tasks that we can think of at the moment is to run a bank or a newspaper to please everyone. If the banker is conservative he is charged with not being helpful to the community. If he lends the depositors money with a free hand he is criticized when the borrower can't pay it back and the bank closes. The newspaper man who prints all the news regardless of who makes it is criticized and called sensational. If he leaves it out he is charged with being afraid to print the news. The best plan for the banker or the newspaper man is to run his business the way he thinks it should be run and let the chips fall where they may.

A reader of this paper received a letter from his brother in another part of the country yesterday. The letter states that out there times have become so hard that there is not only a wolf at the back door but also one in front of the garage door.

Among the things, according to Dorothy Dix, that no wife should ever tell her husband is the instance in which the cake falls flat in the oven. The failure should be dumped into the garbage can, all traces of its existence removed. Most smart housewives beat Dorothy Dix to this one.

The adults of the land will not be in any position to criticize youth for its short comings until the adults live lives that are the right sort of examples to the young people. It does not seem to occur to some of the grown up critics of the young people today that the boys and girls, are, in most instances, considerably better than the examples set them by their elders. As long as this continues there is hope for the betterment of the world.

The Nobel prize is awarded each year on December 10, at Stockholm, Sweden, to the six persons or organizations in the world who have been outstanding because of their work in science, physics, chemistry, literature and in the cause of peace. If the year has produced no outstanding individual in one or more of these activities prizes are not awarded in these particular departments. The fund from which the Nobel prize is paid comes from the interest on a foundation left by Alfred Bernhard Nobel of Sweden, the discoverer of Nitro glycerine and dynamite.

Treatment Of Whooping Cough

Many people have been confused in the past few years by the apparent disagreement between doctors on the subject of shots given in treatment of whooping cough. Many different products have been used, no one of them being uniformly successful, thus driving the practicing doctor to doubt the use of any of them. The same disagreement has arisen in the treatment of the exposed case. Many types of shots have been used, but almost always the child has gone ahead to get a real case of whooping cough. Most of us know of exceptions to this rule, but the exceptions have been few and far between.

During the past year a famous medical supply house has been preparing a product for use in treatment of active whooping cough, and in prevention of the disease in the already exposed child who hasn't started to whoop yet. At this company's exhibit at the recent Medical Assembly in Chicago statistics were presented to demonstrate the apparent value of this product. It is certain that many doctors will turn to it with gratitude, in their efforts to prevent the spread of this disease, and to bring relief to those already afflicted.

The question arises as to whether a child who is given these shots for prevention of the disease when he is exposed may not go ahead and get it if exposed again later on. So far as we are able to determine this new product will give permanent immunity, thus protecting the child from the moment he gets the first shot.

To prevent the disease in children not exposed, the same type of vaccine which has always been used will continue to be the one of choice. Although not every child who is vaccinated by the present methods is protected, there is no doubt that a large percentage are, and even those who get the disease after getting the shots, do so in a light form.

Glass and Stone 'Wedded'
A "wedding" of glass and concrete, achieved in a combination load-bearing and facing unit for building, has been announced by a Toledo, Ohio, glass company. The new product is the result of developing a patented process for obtaining a mechanical bonding of colored vitrolite, a structural glass for several years popular as a facing material only, to light-weight concrete block.

Red Sea's Color
The Red sea is so called because of the red color imparted to the surface water of certain portions of the sea by millions of tiny one-celled plants. The term black is applied to the Black sea because of the fogs which obscure it during certain seasons of the year and because it is regarded as inhospitable by the mariners who sail it.

Rat Census
As a preliminary to slum-clearance in Baltimore, a census of rats is under way to determine how many traps and how much poison must be used and where, the magazine Building reports. Remarkable Corn Yield Made By Ind. Farmer

A remarkable corn yield of 161.5 bushels per acre won for Gust Scharf Knox county, Indiana grain and livestock farmer, the corn growing championship of Indiana.

The crop, which state farm experts believe has established a new all-time yield record for Indiana, was verified by two neighboring farmers who witnessed the harvest and signed notarized affidavits to certify the almost unbelievable yield.

According to Scharf, the corn field was viewed by many visitors from miles around during the summer who had heard that a crop of "believe it or not" proportions was in the making.

MOTOR CLUB WARNS BEWARE OF MONOXIDE POISONING THIS WINTER

Keep at least one window in your car rolled down a crack at all times when driving this winter, George Barton, head of the Chicago Motor club safety department, advised motorists today.

"Car windows which are completely closed not only expose occupants to the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning which may issue from leaks in the exhaust system, but they also make it difficult for the driver to hear horns, train whistles, and other warning signals," he explained.

Mr. Barton also cautioned motorists against remaining in closed garages while their motor is running because of the danger of being overcome by monoxide, a deadly gas which gives no warning other than possibly a slight feeling of drowsiness, nausea or headache before its effect makes the afflicted person lose consciousness, which is frequently followed by death.

Two Minute Sermon

By

Thomas Hastwell

THE RICHES THAT DEPRESS-IONS DO NOT DESTROY: In the Sermon on the Mount appears the verse, "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt and where thieves do not break through and steal."

The present depression, I think, furnished a striking example of the truth of this precept. In my own town, a small midwestern county seat, I saw many, who, in the past had acquired considerable of this world's goods. They had grown to depend upon their money and their possessions. They had little else in their lives except these things. When the depression came it stripped many of them of their wealth and their possessions. They had nothing left to which they might turn. Unfortunately the spiritual things of their lives had been neglected through the years and the loss that came as a result of the depression left them destitute indeed. What a blessing it would have been to these if they had but put away in the strong boxes of their lives some of the values that moth and rust do not corrupt and that depressions cannot steal.
