CLAYTON MAJOR HADLEY

Clayton Major Hadley, 82, retired farmer of northwest of Palestine, died of a heart ailment Tuesday at 5 a.m. at the McDonald hospital, where he had been a patient since Saturday.

Mr. Clayton was born in Morgan county May 9, 1867, the son of Jared and Isabelle (Major) Hadley. March 11, 1891, he married Hattie Chambers, of Morgan county. In 1912 they moved to this county and then to Winamac, where they resided for 20 years, returning to this county five years ago, where they have resided on a farm northwest of Palestine. Mr. Hadley was a member of the Christian church, of Moresville, and affiliated with the Masonic lodge at Mentone.

Surviving relatives include his wife; four daughters, Mrs. Morrison Rockhill and Mrs. Roy Stickler of Warsaw, Miss Laura Hadley of Monte Vallo, Cal., and Mrs. Joseph Dill of Winamac; two sons, Noah S., of Lafayette and C. M., Jr., of Marshall, Ill., two sisters, Mrs. Orianna Jackson of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Eva Green of Indianapolis. A grandson, Harold Stickler, was killed in World War II.

Funeral services were held at the Landis funeral home Wednesday afternoon and interment was at the Palestine cemetery.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Next Tuesday evening, November 8, at 7:30, a series of special services will begin at the local Church of Christ. The church again has secured the services of J. C. Roady, nationally known evangelist.

People of the community will remember the fine preaching in a similar series last fall. Mr. Roady is a very capable preacher and Bible teacher. He presents the great truths of the gospel in a plain but forceful way.

The church cordially invites all people of Mentone and surrounding communities to attend any and all of these meetings.

MENTONE WINS FIRST

BASKETBALL GAMES

The Mentone boys went after their first basketball games in a big way Tuesday evening when they won over two Burket teams. The second team won 42 to 21 and the first string boys ran up a score of 78 while the visitors were held to only 16.

FINE EGG SHOW HELD IN MENTONE LAST WEEK

One of the most successful egg shows ever held took place in Mentone last Thursday and Friday. Capacity crowds were in attendance at both night performances and the day sessions were mostly above normal. Everything just seemed to function perfectly, which was due primarily to Chairman Dean Marble and his committee members.

The address of Hobart Creighton on Friday evening was very enlightening regarding conditions in Europe. He stated that there was no other Nation in the world where a meeting like the one Friday night could be held. This is the only place where there is sufficient freedom, prosperity or means of transportation to make it possible for the people to gather. Strange as it may seem to us here, England, in the words of the speaker, appears to be worse off than any country he visited. There government control under a Socialistic economy has reduced the earning power of the people to a bare existence, with rationing on every hand. A short, regulated work week, coupled with confiscatory taxes, prevents workers from either earning and keeping enough to buy the things they need or produce even that which they must have to supply a standard of living anywhere close to that which we in America enjoy—and believe to be our rightful heritage.

In the special issue distributed at the banquet Friday evening, we failed to give credit to the following firms that helped:

Baker & Brown Jewelry Store, Mentone, for the liberal discount on the gifts to the queen candidates.

Johnson Greenhouse, Etna Green, for the flowers used in decorating the banquet tables, etc.

W.C.T.U. FAMILY NIGHT AT BEAVER DAM SCHOOL

The annual W.C.T.U. family night will be held at Beaver Dam school on Tuesday evening, November 8. At 6:30 there will be a community supper, with each family bringing its own table service.

A fine program has been arranged, including a bronze medal speech contest, a playlet, and moving pictures.

All members, friends and their families are invited to attend this meeting.

MRS. MINNIE ALTENBURG TO BE BURIED THURSDAY

Mrs. Minnie Altenburg, 83, resident of Palestine the past 30 years, died of a heart ailment at 9 p. m. Monday at her home there. She had been in failing health for three years and bedfast for the past six months.

She was a chiropodist in Warsaw for a number of years.

Mrs. Altenburg was born Aug. 6, 1865, the daughter of Samuel and Abigail (Worden) Platt, of Canadear, N. Y. In 1882 she was married to Ephriam Altenburg, a chiropodist, of Warsaw, who died in 1935. She was a member of the Palestine Methodist church and of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

She is survived by three sons, De Witt, Clyde and Harvey, of Dayton, Ohio; a daughter, Laudice Holt, of route 5, Warsaw; 25 grandchildren and 41 great-grandchildren. Two sons preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held at two p. m. Thursday at the Reed funeral home in Mentone.

BAND PARENTS SUPPER
SATURDAY EVENING

Next Saturday night, November 5, between the hours of 5 to 7 the Mentone Band Parents are having a band supper for the purpose of raising funds. We have a debt we are carrying over from last year when we purchased over forty band uniforms. Also this year we added a little to that debt by buying four more uniforms.

We are hoping to remove that entire obligation with this supper next Saturday night. We should further like to raise some extra funds for music purchasers, horn repairs, and other incidental expenses that occur in the operation of a band. Parents of band members and future band parents are kindly solicited to give us their support by donations of food. Everyone who should like to have a good supper next Saturday night is urged to come and buy it at the school house.

Mrs. Blickenstaff is in charge of the supper. Our two school cooks have kindly donated their services in cooking the meal. The menus will be centered around ham or chicken. May we say again: Come and help us.

A ration which will give rapid growth and efficient gains for broilers must be low in fiber material and high in growth factors, Prof. C. W. Carrick, poultry feeding specialist at Purdue University, says. Rations high in corn and soybean meal, when properly supplemented with vitamins, minerals, and methionine products (an essential amino acid found in some protein foods) will provide an efficient broiler ration.

Peanuts

Peanuts are unusually high in niacin, the consumption of which prevents or cures pellagra.

JUDGING CONTEST NOV 12

The annual Purdue Vegetable Grading and Identification Contest will be held at the horticultural building at Purdue University, Saturday morning, Nov. 12, Roscoe Fraser, extension specialist in vegetables, announced today.

Entries will be limited to teams composed of three or four boys or girls between 14 and 21 years of age enrolled in high school departments of vocational agriculture, 4-H clubs or Future Farmers of America. Teams or individuals who have won 1949 trips to the national contest and individuals who have ever been awarded first, second or third prize prize in any national contest are not eligible to participate.

Contestants will be asked to identify kinds and varieties of beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, celery, onions, celery, peppers, potatoes, pumpkins, sweet potatoes, and tomatoes. Disease and insects which affect most of these vegetables, as well as squash and corn, and six kinds of weeds will be included in the identification tests.

The contest will consist of two parts, grading of 100 specimens of potatoes with a maximum possible score of 200, and identification of diseases, insects, varieties, and grade defects with a possible score of 400. The team score will be the total of the three highest individual scores of members with the lowest scoring member being the alternate.

COLOR IN THE HOME

"What colors would give a pleasing effect in my living room?" homemakers often ask Miss Martha Jo Bentley, extension home furnishing specialist, Purdue University. Selecting that color scheme is not as difficult as some homemakers might think.

The color which has been selected to be used throughout the house should be repeated. At the present time, green ranks number one as this color, because it is a neutral color and is easy to combine with others. The safest way for a homemaker to build a color scheme for a certain room is to plan from a multi-colored drapery fabric, wallpaper, a picture, rug or an upholstered material. She sometimes has one of these as a starting point, perhaps, a figured rug, with which she wants other color to harmonize. Miss Bentley suggests that the homemaker look at the rug to see the different colors in it and repeat them in the draperies, upholsteries and wall treatment.

If she were buying new draperies to use with a plain rug and plain wall which she already has, she might select a fabric in several colors. This fabric should have in it the colors which are on the wall and floor. If she needs and wants a third color, the figured multi-colored drapery will suggest it.

One of these three colors should be dominant, using it many times in varying hues values and intensities. The large furnishings, like walls, rug and large furniture should be dull, while the small ones can be brighter. The brightness can be in flowers in either drapery fabric, slip covers, vase or one upholstered chair.

If a room has many windows and appears rather bright, the homemaker can use medium to dark colors on her walls and floor. If the room is dark, with perhaps only one window, the light colors are better. Some colors are considered advancing, like reds, oranges and yellows. The colors which seem farthest away are greens, blues and lavenders. By taking advantages of this, the homemaker can make large rooms seem smaller and more friendly; and small rooms larger and more spacious, and narrow ones look wider.

A change of color involves design. It is well for the homemaker to remember that this room may have one area with bold figures such as large roses, one small all-over pattern, one stripe or plaid, and the rest plain colors.

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Control of ringworm of the scalp, which is prevalent in several Indiana communities, is a difficult procedure which calls for community-wide co-operation, according to Dr. J. W. Jackson, director, Division of Commercial Disease Control, Indiana State Board of Health.

Some schools have periodic examinations with the Woods light in an effort to control this highly contagious disease of the skin and scalp.

"Treatment and control depend upon the identification by either the laboratory of the State Board of Health, or a private laboratory, of the type of tinea capitis, as the disease is also called," Dr. Jackson pointed out. "There are more than 180 types but the two types most prevalent in Indiana are the human and animal types.

"The source of the animal type may be eliminated by taking care of infected household pets such as puppies and kittens.

"In the control of the human type, effective hygienic procedures have been found to be successful under different conditions. However, one procedure which helps prevent the spread of the disease is the one procedure which helps prevent the spread of the disease is the wearing of fresh stocking caps each day by the infected person. Protection from loose infected hairs on clippers may be secured by placing them in an oil bath maintained at 212 degrees C, by immersing them in boiling 2% cresote for three minutes, or 10% cold cresote for 15 minutes. If an epidemic exists in a community, the cleaning of the backs of upholstered chairs with a vacuum cleaner in public places or in homes is recommended."

Although the demand for saw logs and veneer logs has been slow during the past summer, the outlook for these products this fall is much better, C. R. Brundage, Purdue University forester, says. Furniture factories are rebuilding inventories which means a pick-up in business for sawmills supplying this type of lumber. In many areas the biggest demand is for lumber suitable for building corn cribs to store the bumper crop. Custom sawn lumber locally, can meet the emergency.

CATTLE FEVER PREVENTION

Cattle like to travel in comfort in their own way, too. There will be fewer outbreaks of shipping fever if crowded conditions are avoided and other precautions against the diseases are taken before cattle leave Hoosier farms.

Some travel tips for cattle raisers shipping stock to market in the next six months are given by Dr. R. K. Jones, of the department of veterinary science at Purdue University. He said the diseases usually takes the form of pneumonia but it's exact cause is not as yet known. Apparently, when the cattle are subjected to bad traveling conditions—irregular feeding and watering, exhaustion and exposure to changeable weather, the disease develops. Most outbreaks appear shortly after recently shipped animals are added to the herd.

Dr. Jones said that the disease can spread to neighboring herds, so the owner of an infected herd should stay away from his neighbor's barns. Likewise, the disease can be brought from stockyards, public sales, and from herds where sick animals are known to be.

But something can be done when the disease breaks out. A veterinarian should be called at the beginning of the outbreak. Animals not yet affected may be vaccinated safely if on different premises. The veterinarian said that vaccination before shipment has been successful if done about a week before shipping. Likewise, it is advised that additions purchased for the herd should be vaccinated previous to shipping.

A final warning is that new additions to the herd should be isolated for a period of three to four weeks after coming on the farm.

Is it pumpkin pie or is it a squash pie? The squash and pumpkin families merge so closely into one another that many pumpkin pies are really squash pies; squashes and pumpkins were both important foods of the American Indian.

One-men Steaks

If dad prefers his steak rare, it will take from 15 to 20 minutes cooking time for one-inch steaks. Medium done steaks require from 20 to 25 minutes. Thicker—two-inch steaks cook in 35 to 40 minutes for rare and around 45 minutes for medium-done.

First Invention at 14

Now lost in obscurity, but well known in his day, was Tom Blanchard, who at 14 conceived a handy apple parer that peeled the fruit twice as fast as could be done by hand. Four years later he developed a machine that turned out 500 tacks a minute.

Cross-Eyes

A cross-eyed condition is not always easily recognized. If neglected, it may cause loss of vision in the out-of-line eye. For this eye is likely to be used less and less until, in many cases, it becomes blind. Then it may resume its normal position.

Busy Bees

Long before man appeared upon the earth, bees had perfected a society in which labor was divided.

METHODIST NEWS

On Wednesday evening, October 26, 79 laymen and ministers of eleven Methodist churches and charges met for a supper meeting at the Mentone Methodist church. This was one of four group meetings held in the Warsaw district of the North Indiana Conference to enliven the interest of the men of the church. Dr. Dean Marble, associate lay leader of the District, and group lay leader, was chairman. Following a supper of ham, escalloped potatoes, green beans, apple salad, rolls, lemon pie and coffee, Dr. Marble introduced Mr. Waldo Adams of Akron, the Conference lay leader, who voiced the need for laymen to be more interested in church affairs and problems.

Dr. Marble then introduced Mr. Walter Parsons of Goshen, the Warsaw District lay leader who told about these group meetings being held in the district and then introduced the main speaker of the evening, Mr. E. Dow Bancroft, an outstanding Methodist layman.

Mr. Bancroft presented the challenge for men to live by the Bible, to give of their time, their talent, and their substance. He enlarged upon the theme that tithing is only the beginning of the evidence of Christian faith, that according to the New Testament, men should give "according to their means," "beyond their means," "the half of his goods, and as the widow in the temple, "all (his) living".

Dr. B. B. Shake, District Superintendent for the Warsaw district, was recognized, and Mr. Denton Abbey proposed that the churches of the sub-district or district pool their talents and use the best material possible to further the laymen's participation in church programs.

Although "toes may have ben tramped upon," the conscientious laymen felt that the meeting was appropriate and beneficial.

The supper tables were seasonally decorated with pumpkins, corn, gourds, apples, leaves and streamers of gold and brown paper.

The Lord's Day Alliance representative, Dr. Niles, was guest speaker at the Sunday evening service. His subject, "The New Sabbath," was based on evidences in the Scriptures for the keeping of this Day, holy and sacred. Having formally been a professor of Greek and a student of Hebrew, he made repeated references to original and close original documents from which the King James Version of the Bible itself was translated.

Dr. Niles has been active in Indiana legislature, as a lobbyist against those interests which continually endeavor to desecrate the Lord's Day, for over 20 years. His associations with penal and reform institutions has given him access to first-hand evidence that 98 of every hundred juvenile offenders of the law are youths who have never been taught "the keeping of the Lord's Day," that only two out of every hundred youths apprehended are or have been subjected to church school training, and that they usually come from broken homes.

MENTONE MURMURS

by

DAVID and SALLY GOSSER

Halloween is over and Murmurs has lived through another year's festivity enjoying the opportunity of clowning to the fullest. The response the Lions Club had on the part of the disturbing the peace and tranquility of the countryside. Masked paraders carried torches to drive from hamlet and town any lurking sprite of evil and ghoulish intent. It is more than mere supposition that evil spirits detest light, for what many people do in darkness they would at least hesitate or refuse doing openly or in daylight. Light is symbolic of knowledge, the knowledge that is ours and that which others may have concerning us.

Murmurs is approaching philosophic and sermonic proportions and should change the subject, but not without making the subtle suggestion that there is a light spelled with capital letters—LIGHT.

MURMURS and Mentone are happy over the results of the first basketball game. Three cheers for Mr. Burt and the boys.

In connection with the summer band concerts, Murmurs is wondering if a monthly festival and community sing would not increase the community interest, participation and the Saturday night attendance.

BAPTIST NEWS

The First Baptist Church has entered the National Christian Life Sunday School Contest and last Sunday was the first of six Sundays in the sixweek contest. The following are facts and figures from the services Sunday that we thought might interest you. They are encouraging to the members of that Church.

They had 97 more to Sunday School than a year ago. They had 54 more to the morning service than last Sunday and 19 more to the evening service than last Sunday. 94 came to the prayer meeting on Thursday evening. These things happened in a day when only 8% of this so-called Christian nation went to Church in the morning and only 2% went to Church in the evening. The Pastor used for a text in the morning, Romans 10:9 "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth Jesus as Lord and believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." In the evening the text was, Revelation 2:4 "I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love." Next Sunday morning at the 9:30 Sunday School hour the gospel chalk artist, Joe Dombek, from Winona Lake, will draw a picture for all to see. If you do not attend Sunday School anywhere else you are invited to come and enjoy the blessing of fellowship with these people that are vitally interested in this community. They believe that the only effective cure for communism is Christ. If you believe that is true you are invited to come and visit the services next Sunday. If you are not physically able to come to the Church, you are invited to tune in to WKAM, Warsaw AM station at 10:30 and listen to the morning service.

to the individual workers and their dependents of an investment which the worker has made in his federal insurance program.

The 1 per cent that is taken out of the wage earner's pay is part of the premium payment. The other 1 per cent is paid by the employer. This is paid into the government's Social Security Fund and from these amounts, the Social Security Benefits are paid. What the wage earner dependents get in benefits, depends entirely on the total amount of wages reported for this worker during his working life time, and the number of years he has worked in employment covered by the Social Security Act.

A breakdown of the above figures, shows that 595 individuals in Kosciusko County are receiving $10,665 per month. A further breakdown of these figures, reveals that 409 wage earners', 65 and over, and their wives, are receiving $7,919 per month. 23 widows under the age of 65 with children are receiving $425. 113 children receive $13.31. 49 widows 65 and over, receive $981 and 1 dependent parent receives $11 per month.

Qualified workers under the Social Security program can protect themselves by filing their claims the first month after the attainment of age 65 if the individual leaves a Social Security job to work for himself or any job where he is not required by law to pay the Social Security tax.

Record-breaking sales! That statement might fit the booming television field; it might be a report on one of the giant mall order houses. But in this particular case I am referring to the sale of stamps that are required for gunning waterfowl.

Duck stamp sales for the period starting July 1, 1948, and continuing through June 30, 1949, have just been announced by the post office department in Washington—and the total was 2,127,598, 110,000 increase over the previous high set in 1946-47.

That's a lot of duck stamps. It's a lot of duck hunters, too, for at least 90 per cent of the purchasers probably went hunting. But the way sportsmen are shelling out two bucks each for this year for a waterfowl stamp indicates that a new record is not far off. Last year's high was reached when the duck stamp cost only a dollar, still the two dollar fee apparently is discouraging few, if any, hunters.

How do the various states stack up in the number of waterfowl hunters? Topping the parade is California with a total sale of 171,388. Texas is in second place with 164,075 and Minnesota is third with 162,300. Minnesota was first in the previous two seasons.

Other states in the top ten are as follows: Illinois (110,980), Wisconsin (101,842), Michigan (83,582), Louisiana (80,701), Washington (74,555), Missouri (69,269) and New York (66,809).

West Virginia and Rhode Island apparently have few gunners interested in waterfowl. These state brought up the rear with 1,859 duck stamps being sold in West Virginia and 2,564 in Rhode Island.

So as another waterfowl gunning period moves into high gear it will be interesting to note comparisons with last season. But you can bet your duck call against a penny that a new record will be set for the number of hunters.

500 HIGH SCHOOL VOICES IN CHORAL FESTIVAL

The Kosciusko County high schools will hold their annual Choral Festival on Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. in the armory at Warsaw on November 13.

All high schools including Warsaw City high school will participate in this event which is an inspiration to see and hear.

Choral directors in all the schools are working with their groups preparing them for the two massed rehearsals and then the final concert which will be directed by a guest director,

Mr. Harold Jacobson from Hobart, Indiana.

Mr. Jacobson, who comes to us very highly recommended, will have the job of blending all of these voices into one big chorus which never fails to give its listeners a thrill and a greater appreciation of high school voices.

County Superintendent Glen Whitehead will be the announcer for the concert, and the principals will act as hosts to show you every courtesy.

Special numbers from each school will make up the first part of the program. The last part of the concert will consist of six numbers presented by the massed chorus under Mr. Jacobson's direction.

Let each community get behind its own school and support it by going to hear this great choral festival in which its own students are taking part.

Don't let the students down! Give them a boost.

A slight increase in the number of layers on Indiana farms in September is reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. There were 11,864,000 layers in 1949 as compared with 11,434,000 layers in the same period. The efficiency dropped, however, to 1,122 eggs per 100 hens from 1,182. GET YOUR ORDERS

IN FOR SEEDLINGS

Hoosier landowners who desire to obtain seedling stock for land improvement purposes from the State Forestry Division, are urged to get their application blanks in at the earliest possible date.

Richard Rambo, forester in charge of nursery supervision, warned that the supply of seedlings is rapidly becoming exhausted, due to the tremendous demands already imposed by orders received. "Our supply of Scotch and Austrian pines has already been exhausted, and we have only limited numbers of various other species," Rambo said.

The Conservation department department's forestry division still is able to furnish black locust and tulip poplar hardwood seedlings and year old short-leaf and Virginia pine transplants.

Jack, red and white pine seedlings are still available and Chinese arborvitae may still be obtained.

Application blanks may be obtained from the State Forester's office, State Library Building, Indianapolis, Indiana. These forms should be filled out completely and forwarded at once to the State Forester.

"Get your orders in at once," said Rambo, "if you want to be assured of a delivery of seedlings next spring."

The principal genetic difference between field and sweet corn is the mutation of the starchy gene in field corn to sugary in sweet corn which promotes a higher total sugar content and causes the sugar to persist.

RANSBOTTOM - SHILLING

Before her recent marriage took place at the Palestine Methodist church on Sunday evening, Mrs. Laverla W. Ransbottom was Miss Ella Mae Shilling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Shilling, of route 2, Warsaw. Mr. Ransbottom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ransbottom of near Claypool. Rev. L. H. Kendall of Indianapolis, read the marriage service.

Baskets of pink and white mums were arranged before the background of ferns at the altar where tall candelabra held burning white tapers. Preceding the ceremony a program of favorite bride lairs was presented by Miss Jean Lucas, pianist, and Mrs. Chester Kolar, vocalist, both of Warsaw.

A lace trimmed gown of pink satin was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Her mitts were of matching satin. Lace also edged her veil, which was caught to a bonnet trimmed with seed pearls and having lilies of the valley beneath the brim. Her bouquet was of pink carnations tied with satin ribbon in matching color. She was preceded down the white carpeted aisle by Miss Martha Lou Wharton, of Claypool, the maid of honor. Miss Wharton wore a gown of pink net over matching taffeta. Her long mitts were of pink satin as was her bonnet, which was trimmed with lilies of the valley. Her bouquet was of white carnations, tied with matching satin ribbons.

Phillip Shilling, brother of the bride, served as the best man and Eddie Stutzman of Milford, and Dale Molebash of Etna Green, seated the guests.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Ransbottom are residing near here on the Crystal lake road. The former, who was graduated from the Warsaw high school in 1947, is employed at the Canada Dry Bottling Co. in Warsaw. Mrs. Ransbottom was graduated this year from Mentone high school.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT LIONS HALLOWE'EN EVENT

There was a large crowd in Mentone Saturday evening for the annual Lions club Hallowe'en festival despite the chilly atmosphere.

The Lions club appreciated the fine support of the citizens, and even though they have made no announcement of the financial returns, it is assured that there will be enough money left for a nice Christmas party for the children of the community, come Santa Claus time.

The following are the prize winners in the more than a block long parade: The Clark Mollenhour family for the largest family group; Pamela and Kip Hammer as the best dressed couple, Billy Whetstone for the most unusual costume, Percy Swick as the ugliest dressed, Harley Regenos as the best clown, Charlene Ware as the best tramp, and Harley Regenos as the oldest dressed.

Awards for the stunt contest went to Jake and Harley Elliott, guitarists, and to Janet Teel who sang, "Slow Boat to China," without accompaniment.

STILL SOLDIERING

Nov. 1, 1949

Dear Art,

I'm at Cherry Point now and the Marine Corps. have done something that amuses me. For some unknown reason they have decided to send me to typing school and then put me in an office. I am in one now, but I am not of much use to them for I only type by the hunt and peck system. It is rather slow, but I do seem able to type a letter that can be read, for I have received some answers from them.

I lead a very quiet life now. I get up about 7:30 in the morning and go to the office at 8:00, then for the next 10 minutes I dust things off. That is all I really have to do till noon except answer the phone and run out to get coffee and cokes. Then at 11:30 I go out and eat and am back at 1:00. About 4:00 I sweep and then at 4:30 call it a day. After looking back over my days work I find that I have answered the phone about 6 or 7 times, dusted the desk tops, and swept the floor. Oh yes, as near as I can figure I average about 6 letters a day. At 6:00 I go to the movies (for 12c) and at 8:15 I am about ready to turn in. It is quite different from Parris Island and it seems to agree with me. I can leave the base at 4:40 on Friday afternoon and don't have to be back till 7:45 on Monday morning. This life doesn't seem to be getting me down as I have gained 6 of the 18 pounds back that I lost on P. I. By the time I get out of here I'll probably be up around 200. I may catch up with Max Friesner yet.

I want to thank you for the way you have sent me the paper every week, Art. I enjoy being able to keep up with the folks there, and I am always glad to get the Co-Op News and enjoy reading it very much.

Sincerely yours,

Don (Coleman)

OLD NEWSPAPERS
INTERESTING READING

Tommy Blue brought a couple of old issues of the Tri-County Gazette into the Co-Op News office this week. The Gazette was published in Mentone by C. M. Smith.

One is dated March 7, 1907. The second is the issue of July 3, 1913, and contains an account of the death of Firl Blue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Blue.

Another item on the front page tells of a runaway in which Mrs. Wallace Hibschan and daughter, Mrs. Holloway, and Mrs. Abe Whetstone were thrown from the buggy. The two-year old son of Mrs. Holloway was with the ladies and escaped without a scratch.

In the classified column we read, Lost: a pair of rimless spectacles in a case, last Saturday night. Finder inform Henry Mills."

to many hunters. It's the same old stuff, year after year.

Still, as the 1949 hunting season rolls into high gear, the reports are coming in of fatalities in the field. Certainly this needless waste of life and it is a tremendous limiting factor in hunting for the future. It is a disgrace to the entire hunting fraternity.

Not all deaths in hunting can be stopped, but a great percentage of them can be eliminated quite easily. If every hunter would make the "Ten Commandments of Safety" as much a part of his hunting as his gun and shells, many of the deaths would be avoided.

Here are the commandments—and I hope the repetition will not be too boring.

- 1—Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.
- 2—Carry only empty guns, taken down or with action open, into your automobile, camp or home.
- 3—Always be sure the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
- 4—Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble.
- 5—Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.
- 6—Never point a gun at anything you do not wish to shoot.
- 7—Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
- 8—Never climb a tree or fence with a loaded gun.
- 9—Never shoot at flat, hard surfaces or the surface of the water.
- 10—Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

Approximately 1,500 4-Club adult leaders, 750 junior leaders, and indirectly, 30,000 4-H club boys and girls are being honored this fall at 45 community recognition dinners sponsored by the Indiana chain store manager associations and other cooperating organizations such as local Chambers of Commerce. Several dinners have already been held while others are scheduled throughout November.

NEW OATS VARIETIES

Just how quick the turnover in oats varieties has been in the past six years is illustrated by the fact that the new Farmer's Bulletin No. 1941, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in a bulletin published in 1943.

Add incentive for developing new varieties arose out of the epidemic of the destructive new oat disease—Victoria blight (helminthosporium). The Agricultural Experiment Station at Purdue University was one of the mid-western stations to cooperate in the breeding of better varieties resistant to the new fungus. Fortunately, some of these new varieties were well on their way to being multiplied.

The new list contains names of 15 varieties that get their Victoria blight resistance from an Australian variety, introduced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in 1929, when looking for resistance to rusts and smuts. The Bond bred varieties which have been recommended for Indiana growers are Benton, Bonda, Clinton, and Clinton 95. The varieties which lacked resistance to the blight owed this weakness to a relationship to a South American variety introduced in 1924.

Clinton 59 and Clinton are somewhat shorter than the Benton and Bonda and stand better on high nitrogen fertile soils. The Benton and Bonda have produced a little heavier test weight oats than the Clintons, according to agronomists at Purdue.

If a silo is to be used to store extra corn this winter, Purdue University agricultural engineers urge a careful check to be sure it is strong enough to hold corn and offers a way to get the corn out. Inflammables should not be stored in machine sheds during their use as corn storage. As long as the basic conditions of sufficient strength and protection from moisture are fulfilled, corn can be stored almost any place, they add.

ADVISE FERTILIZING NOW

Brighter fertilizer prospects this year will help those farmers whose too low crop yields in recent years could be traced to either too few bags of fertilizer or not the recommended analysis going into the fertilizer drill.

George Enfield, Purdue University, Agronomy specialist, reminds farmers that there is no "closed season" on fertilizer. Agronomists are advocating fall and early winter fertilization of pastures and meadows and those fields that will be used for the hay crop next year. It is much wiser to spread fertilizer when the turf is solid rather than when the fields are soft and wet as is too often the case in the spring. Driving over soft ground, compressing air from the soil, is not a good practice, Enfield says.

Fertilizers spread at this time of year will have a high potash analysis. If the pasture is to be renovated by seeding a legume, and soil and plant tissue tests indicate potash deficiency, 600 pounds per acre of 0-20-10 is recommended by the Purdue agronomist. Where legumes are already established, the same fertilizer treatment is used early in the spring every three or four years.

Enfield adds that it is well to make the application at least two weeks before the ground freezes so that the grass roots will take up the plant food quickly and prevent its being washed away. The Purdue man also says that there is more profit in purchasing the highest grade fertilizer obtainable and adjusting the rate of application to the required amount of plant food needed per acre. The best fertilizer buys are those purchased with the idea of fitting them to both the soil and crop needs.

SORRY EXAMPLES

"The world sorely needs honest and courageous leaders who will truthfully tell the people that 'something for nothing' is a slogan-mirage luring them to economic and physical slavery and degradation," declared Ernest E. Norris, of Washington, D. C., president of the Southern Railway System.

"Our country grew great and strong," he points out, "because it has been a land of opportunity without a ceiling on the heights that could be achieved by anyone willing to work and save and invest. The pioneers' slogan 'Waste not, Want not,' is one that needs to be put before the swarms of bureaucratic locusts now devouring the people's sustenance, and bankrupting the nation's moral and spiritual values. If we are to survive and continue to progress and prosper, there must be an end to the sacrilegious, screwy school of economics that throws pigs in the rivers and pours kerosene on mountains of potatoes."

The "something for nothing" delusion is reaching its peaks in the welfare state. According to the theory behind it, the government should meet the costs when we are born, furnish "free" medical care all our lives, see to it that we have retirement pensions shortly after middle age, and take care of practically any other exigency that may arise. What this means, of course, is that government must take most of our incomes to pay the bills, and so make individual thrift and saving impossible. It has happened in England and other countries. We seem bent on following such sorry examples.

COUNTY TECHNICIANS ATTEND CONFERENCE AT INDIANAPOLIS

Chester Brown, of the Kosciusko County Dairy Association, attended the First Annual Artificial Insemination Conference held under the auspices of the Indiana Artificial Breeding Association at Purdue Center, Indianapolis, November 3 and 4. Sixty-two technicians representing 52 breeding cooperatives and private breeding services in 76 counties in Indiana, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee, Illinois and New York were in attendance.

The Kosciusko County Dairy Association's technicians are kept up-to-date on the latest research developments and informed on the newest methods of technique through their own organization and the Indiana Artificial Breeding Association. The association's stud at Carmel, Indiana is composed one hundred percent of high index proved sires.

HOW IT STARTED—

A water jug started a fire up in Danbury, Conn. The hot rays of the sun were magnified by the glass and focused upon wood, which burst into flame.

In Portland, Oregon, a light switch caused $60,000 damage. An engineer went down into the basement to investigate a gas odor, and turned on the light. The spark from the switch set off an explosion which wrecked the building and injured the engineer.

Static electricity from a man's body was blamed for a fire in an Indianapolis paint factory. When the man opened a lacquer thinner valve, flames shot out into the room.

RUTHLESS MONOPOLY

Last year, when the contract between the United Mine Workers and the soft coal mine operators was signed, John L. Lewis declared that it was the best labor contract ever negotiated. He was completely correct—no comparable labor force on earth is so well paid, or has so many other valuable benefits.

That is the identical contract that the operators wish to renew—if the union chiefs will give assurance that the miners will be allowed to work every day on which business is available.

What then has caused the present bitter and destructive controversy?

The answer is that the mine owners are not willing to give Mr. Lewis the powers of management, or to let him decide when coal may or may not be produced regardless of public demand or the economics of the industry, or to let him further cement and extend his one-man monopoly power over an industry which is essential to the internal and external security and welfare of the United States.

A spokesman for the Operators' Negotiating Committee has said, "In his mad race for power, John L. Lewis is impoverishing our employees and is willing to destroy the coal industry." Those are hard words—but how else can Mr. Lewis' policies and actions be described? The country needs coal. The high-paid jobs are waiting for the miners. But no industry can accept a ruthless labor monopoly that attempts to dictate every decision.

LEGION AND AUXILIARY HEAR REV. T. J. LUKE AT ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM

Rev. Thomas J. Luke, of Rochester, Indiana, was the featured speaker at the Armistice Day meeting of the Mentone American Legion and Auxiliary held at the Mentone school house Tuesday evening, November 8.

Rev. Luke expressed the thought that we are a confused generation in a world sitting on a powder keg. As a solution to our problems he challenged us to turn to the fundamental teachings of God, those of love of fellow man and of creation, as our only refuge and to not forsake the memories of those who gave their lives in the two world wars by dropping the torch in pursuit of peace that they so valiantly carried. Speaking to veterans of both wars he stated that it is their duty to do all in their power to aid our government in winning at the peace tables as they were willing to do in the wars.

Legion members were guests of the Auxiliary at a pot-luck supper, and a program of music and poetry preceded the talk by Mr. Luke. Mrs. Bernice Jones and Mrs. Maude Romine, accompanied by Mrs. Maude Snyder, sang two numbers, "Welcome Legionnaires," and "Your Land and My Land." Rev. David Gosser, accompanied by Mrs. Gosser, favored with two solos, "Let's All Be Americans Now" and "Jeannine, I Dream of Lilac Time." He also read a series of three poems with Armistice Day themes. The social hour concluded with the group singing of "God Bless America."

Auxiliary members held a short business meeting after the program. Mrs. Juanita Paulus, president, read an invitation from the Rochester Legion Auxiliary to attend a meeting of special interest at Rochester Monday evening, November 14. All members who would like to attend this meeting may contact Mrs. Paulus and transportation will be provided. Plans were discussed and committees appointed for a public square dance to be held Saturday evening, November 26 at Burket. The name of Mrs. Arvilla VanGilder, who was absent, was drawn for the attendance prize.

ATTEND CLEANERS' CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Blue attended the State Cleaners' Convention held at Indianapolis the past Saturday and Sunday. Mrs. DeLuxe attended the two-day spotting school instructed by two gentlemen from the National Institute of Silver Springs, Maryland. The highlight of the convention was the informative study of picture slides and open panel discussion led by Dr. Dorothy Pyle, a Ph. D. in textiles.

MENTONE MURMURS

by

DAVID and SALLY GOSSER

October's "bright blue weather" has continued into November, and Murmurs has heard many words of comment and thanksgiving for the beauty and warmth of these days. When the "evil days" are upon us may we count our many blessings and remember the beauty of November; but how prone we are to forget better days and the blessings of the past! The ills and accidents overshadow the good days, and we continually "harp" on the one string of our discontent. A person would think that we live in a world where people were born old and never knew the joy of youth, or that the days of youth were filled with disaster, when, in reality, the childhood troubles were but the conjunctions that tied in thought a multitude of happy times. (I feel a verse coming on):

Let me be silent in my age
If naught but happy times I tell;
Of joys of youth, I am the sage—
Not long on evil things to dwell.

On happy themes I am verbose,
For sorrow makes its own renown;
Not I, the "melancholy Dane,"
By choice, I'd rather be "the Clown."

Memories are not always pleasant things, but Mentone has a wealth of good things to remember so that its countenance may always be radiant and cheerful. There are negative factors present which demoralize character, but comparable to the opportunities and benefits that are Mentone's, we have cause to rejoice. The "face lifting" of the bank building, Coopers' store, the library, Frank and Jerries, and other business houses which in recent time were remodeled and rebuilt, are evidences of what can be done to give Mentone the appearance of industry and interest. The greater task, however is that which is within—the maintaining of a cheerful and friendly attitude.

As time goes on and we grow older there is the danger that our interest and activity in community affairs lag. Personal security then has a tendency to make us feel that the "status quo" is the most desirable position to hold, but like age, the "status quo" is relative to, or thought to be, a part of the accumulated dust of time. After all, AGE is a state of mind, not just the accumulation of years. It is the onward march towards progress and achievement, the happy expectation of arriving, the blessing of leisure time to accomplish little things which the activity of youth cheated us of. It is the time to read, to reflect, but not to become morbid. It is the time to put the experiences of our past to work—to be wise, to teach but not to criticize, to admonish but not to condemn. Bitterness, self-ridicule and self defacement are not complimentary to age. The wise person rejoices over the opportunity of having learned better, of overcoming evil, and of realizing the benefits of time. He does not indulge in the envy of youth, for he is thankful that time has given him respite from the fire of passion; and he does not gloat over the discomfort of others caught in the snare of particular evils, but he stoops to encourage and assist the more unfortunate brother.

The greatest impression Mentone can make in the world in our time is to greet it with a cheerful countenance, offer a warm and sincere handshake of friendship (this Murmurs has direct evidence of), and not let the chains of time shackle us to a far distant past.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Betty Jane Griffis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Griffis, celebrated her birthday Sunday with a birthday dinner. A lovely cake with candles was the main feature of the dinner. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Judah Trowbridge and Jay, and Mr. and Mrs. George Ford, all of Bourbon.

In the afternoon three of Betty Jane's classmates made a surprise visit. They were Betty Lou Mellott and Jimmie and June Romine.

Betty Jane received many nice gifts.

Jets Deliver Huge Power

A hypothetical 10,000-pound-thrust jet engine would deliver more than 20,000 horsepower when traveling at the speed of sound, 760 miles an hour. Engineers explain that jet power is figured in pounds of thrust. This is directly equal to horsepower only at 375 miles an hour. It increases in horsepower value as speed mounts.

THE CAMEL'S HEAD IS IN THE TENT

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 8.—Hoosier businessmen today were reminded by the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce to take into account an increase of 50 per cent in Old-Age and Survivors Insurance payroll taxes when planning their operation for 1950.

The old-age payroll tax for employers will increase to 1½ per cent, effective January 1 and the tax deducted from employees' pay will rise to a like amount, making a total tax of 3 per cent. The tax is payable to the Federal government on the first $3,000 paid to each employee during a calendar year. The present tax is 1 per cent each on employer and employee, or a total of 2 per cent. The State Chamber suggested that employers advise their employees of the coming increase.

The increase was stipulated in 1947 legislation by Congress. In 1953, the total tax is scheduled to rise to 4 per cent or 2 per cent each for employer and employee.

The rise in old-age payroll taxes in 1950 will total some $8,000,000 for Indiana employers and $8,000,000 for employees, the Chamber estimated, based on payroll levels of recent years. Total old-age payroll taxes in the state for next year were estimated at $48,000,000. The annual Indiana bill has been running about $32,000,000.

A person earning $3,000 a year who in the past has been paying $30 a year for old-age insurance will pay $45 in 1950, and his employer a like amount for a total of $90.

"As the old-age insurance program grows older and the benefits more numerous and larger," the State Chamber pointed out, "the costs will rise very sharply. For example, OASI benefits paid in Indiana alone already have increased from $4,227,000 in the 1942-43 fiscal year to $9,208,000 in 1945-46 and to $13,826,000 in 1947-48.

"The official board of trustees of the AOSI trust fund foresees, in fact, that by the year 2000 the cost of the present program may run as high as 8 to 10 percent of private taxable payrolls."

"Should the 'welfare state' be accepted—including socialized medicine, permanent disability insurance, cash sickness insurance, maternity benefits and substantial increases in benefits under the existing old-age, unemployment compensation and public welfare programs—the eventual costs may be assessed at some 25 to 35 billion dollars a year.

"At that stage the total costs of all types of government quite easily may be taking some 40 to 50 cents out of every dollar of every man's personal income.

A PARENT'S WISH

I wish the public school to build these things in my child:

First: straight thinking. He must face facts as they are, must not warp nor comfort them to his own advantage.

Second: Open his eyes to beauty. Lead him to "see" a well turned thought, a beautiful painting; to feel exquisite harmonies—encourage him to prize spiritual values.

Third: He must respect the abilities—consider the rights of others. Teach him that there are no superlatives save of merit, service, achievement.

Fourth: I want my son informed. Teach him to find out things for himself, and show him where information may be found.

Fifth: Guide but do not coerce him in his search to discover that task which will make him happiest in the executing. When he has found this thing which he likes best to do, set him in the way of learning to do it well.

To the public school I send this son of mine while he is young, fresh, plastic. Let it start him on the ways of thinking, feeling, learning, doing, and I shall feel that it has accomplished gloriously its mission of helping my son live to his fullest the life which nature through has given him.

Rookstool moved up to state competition by taking first place in the county eliminations. Barbara Thompson, of Warsaw, placed second in the county.

Rookstool will compete for national honors, with six $300 scholarships being offered as awards, and will seek one of 10 trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in competition with winners of 13 other north central states for regional honors.

MENTONE WINS AGAIN

The Mentone high school basketball team won their second game of the season at Akron Friday evening. The score, as near as I can remember, was about 36 to 48. The second team boys lost to Akron.

The Indiana high school basketball association doesn't give an editor much leeway when it comes to commenting about a referee, but both schools were disappointed in the officiating. The men made every effort to be fair, and were, but the boys were playing too fast for a slow whistle, which resulted in two pretty rough games.

Some of Mentone's high school students, who try to act like ladies and gentlemen at the games, were slightly embarrassed by the antics of their elders. Students make a lot of noise, but the "over-ripe" boos were from the grownups. Let's all try and help out the youngsters in future games by making our "noise" a little more respectable.

Joe Karp, known as Pennsylvania Iron Man Joe, who once was fighting for dollars—now fighting for souls; once punching Jack Dempsey; now punching the devil, will be the speaker at the Greater Marshall County Youth for Christ meeting at Bourbon High School gym this Saturday evening, Nov. 12, 1949, at 7:30 p. m. You will want to hear this thrilling testimony of Joe Karp.

The newly organized Youth for Christ Orchestra, directed by Willard McCuen of Plymouth, will make its first appearance. Josephine Smith, contralto soloist of Etna Green, will give her testimony in song.

There is a question which high school will take home the attendance banner. Last month Bourbon won with Culver coming in a close second. Come on, high school students, wouldn't you like to have that banner hanging in your high school auditorium for a month?

CAR HITS COW — TOO HARD

BROTHER-IN-LAW DIES.

John Franklin Randels, 88, a lifelong resident of Warsaw, died Friday at the McDonald hospital, due to shock resulting from a fractured hip sustained two weeks previously in a fall.

He was a charter member of the Eagles lodge in Warsaw and assisted in its organization. He was born Oct. 2, 1861, the son of Albert and Maria (Hatchcock) Randels. In 1884 he was married to Kate Spellman, who died in 1888. Feb. 22, 1898 he was married at Pierceton to Margaret McCrane. Since the latter's death he had resided with his daughter, Mrs. Welcome (Agnes) Yockey, Warsaw, and his son, Paul Randels and family, also of Warsaw. Another son, Melvin, resides in this city.

Other surviving relatives include the grandchildren, Donna Lou and Robert Randels, children of Paul; a number of nieces and nephews; two brothers-in-law, Neal McCrane, of Mentone, and Ed. McCrane, of Auburn; and two sisters-in-law, Mrs. Anna Grattan and Miss Elsie McCrane of Chicago. A sister, Mrs. Ida Kegg, and two brothers, Melvin and William, also preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held Sunday, conducted by the Warsaw Eagles lodge. Burial was in the Oakwood cemetery there.

It is planned to erect the ornamental lights Thursday, and the merchants and home owners are urged to join in the Santa Claus parade and decorate their homes and business places.

Arlo Friesner, Mentone fire chief, seriously injured his left knee answering a fire call last week. In running to the fire station he tripped over a "stub" post sticking out of the ground and in the fall all the skin and flesh was torn from his knee cap. He's back at work again, but isn't in running condition yet.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS FARM MEETING WEDNESDAY

A group of 246 gathered at the Mentone school building Wednesday evening as the guests of the Farmers State Bank and the high school vocational department. A large turkey dinner was one of the main features.

The Mentone Lions club assisted in the program and the meeting was held on a regular club meeting date.

Mr. R. H. Bauman, agricultural economist of Purdue University, gave a very interesting and encouraging address on "The Years Ahead." His remarks indicated that we have been experiencing, and will expect, slight declines in agricultural price returns, but his address wasn't filled with gloom. Present prices are now about on a par with the cost index of the commodities we buy, and even though the prices continue to decline below parity we will still be operating some 20 percent above the 1920 levels.

Mr. Bauman stated that feeding ratios of grain to marketable products, will continue to be very favorable for the hog raiser and poultryman. Dairy-men, however, have been feeling a tight squeeze between feed and prices.

The officials of the bank, the vocational students and instructor, the school officials and the Lions club are to be complimented for sponsoring such a splendid gathering.

Special singing was provided by the high school quartet, composed of Junior Emmons, Norbert Darr, David Cooper and David Johns.

CONSERVATION CLUB
ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The Mentone, Yellow Creek Lake and Palestine Conservation Club met at the Mollenhour Lumber Company last Thursday evening and elected officers for the coming year. They were:

Ralph Warren, president.
Harold Markley, vice president.
Don Bunner, secretary and treasurer.

Directors, as reported, included Lyman Mollenhour, Philip Blue and Clancy McSherry.

Rudy Myers, of the state conservation department, was present and gave a talk and showed a motion picture on our state parks.

MERCHANTS MEETING NEXT MONDAY EVENING

A special dinner meeting of the Mentone Merchants' Association will be held Monday evening, Nov. 21. A special speaker has been secured for the occasion.

All business and professional people, whether members of the association or not, are urged to attend. It is also reported a number of the wives have secured reservations for the dinner and all are welcome and invited. Reservations must be made to Ora McKinley by Friday evening, Nov. 18.

WORKMAN BURNED BY HOT METAL AT ROCHESTER FOUNDRY

Harry Sayger, of near Talma, was severely burned at the Rochester Metal Products Monday when metal he was pouring exploded and showered him with hot bits of iron. Sayger sustained injuries to his left eye, two bad scalp burns, and a burn under his left arm.

Sayger was pouring metal into a container when the difference in temperature of the two caused the metal to explode. The shower of metal struck Sayger's safety glasses and penetrated to his eye.

Mrs. Sayger said that a specialist had informed her that her husband would not lose the sight of the eye and she further said that her husband seemed to be resting comfortably after the initial shock had worn off.

experience trouble in hitting the comparatively easy shots. Usually, too, when we miss such shots we blame it on faulty patterns and seldom take into consideration our own limitations or inaccuracies.

Naturally good shooting first depends on the hunter's ability to coordinate, to figure proper leads and to judge distances. Also, much of the success of good shooting depends on the shotgun you're using. And I don't mean the model or make of the shotgun, for good guns are made in single barrel, pump, automatic and double barrel models. Choice of one over another is strictly a personal matter.

But it is important to have a gun that fits you correctly and has the right boring for the game you're after.

For several decades many hunters have considered a shotgun with a 30- or 32-inch barrel, bored full choke, the all-purpose gun. Why this is true probably will always remain a mystery. It is, however, unsound reasoning.

Few game animals or birds are bagged at distances beyond 40 yards, and by far the greatest number of shots offered a gunner are under that distance.

Shooting beyond 40 yards often calls for a full-choke gun—but why penalize yourself with a "tight" pattern when most of your targets will be under the 40-yard mark. For this shooting either a modified or open bored gun is superior. This way you can take full advantage of the possible patterns and, partially, compensate for your own inaccuracies.

So before you start condemning the shells for missed targets, ask yourself just one question: Is the gun I'm using right for my shooting?

A slight increase in the milk produced per cow on Indiana farms as of Oct. 1 is reported by the U. S. D. A. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Cows were fed an average of 4.5 pounds of grain and produced 16.7 pounds of milk as compared with the report for a year ago for the same period, when the grain ration was 4.6 pounds and an average of 16.4 pounds of milk was produced per cow.

BACK OF THE SHOW WINDOWS

What does a retail store's show window stand for?

First of all, of course, it is designed to interest you in buying goods. If you like what you see, and consider the price fair, you'll probably become a customer. If not, you'll move on to another store that meets your needs better.

Beyond that, however, the show window is about as good a visual example of how this country works as we can find. We pride ourselves, and justly, on our magnificent system of mass production, which has given us a vast abundance of goods of all kinds, which provides much of our employment, and which has helped raise our living standards far beyond that of any other major nation.

However, mass production would not be a success, or even a possibility, without mass distribution. The goods from the factories must be moved, swiftly, efficiently and economically, into the hands of the people who will use them. American retailing is superbly geared to perform that job. It believes that the sound way to do business is to turn over a large volume of merchandise at a small unit profit. And what keeps that principle always at work is aggressive competition between the stores of all kinds and sizes.

Visitors from abroad, and especially the few who come here from the countries within the Soviet orbit, are always amazed and disbelieving when they see a typical American shopping center—whether it be Fifth Avenue or Main Street. They are so used to a subsistence standard of living, and an economy of scarcity at home, that they believe it to be a universal state of affairs. Free enterprise, as exemplified by the shop windows, shows them how wrong they are.

DEBATERS TO BE AT PURDUE

Students attending the 17th annual High School Debaters Conference to be held at Purdue University Dec. 2 and 3, will hear national authorities discuss the high school debate question for the current season: "Resolved, That the President should be elected by the direct vote of the people."

Governor Henry F. Shrickler will address the student assembly and Dr. John H. Furbay, noted lecturer, author and world traveler, will be the banquet speaker.

Practical experience in the functions of government will be given the students under the leadership of James Knapp, Hagerstown, former speaker of the Indiana General Assembly, and Fred F. Eichhorn, Gary, former state senator, Knapp will preside over the student "House," and Eichhorn will be in charge of the "Senate."

Eight high schools, Wiley of Terre Haute, Crawfordsville, Jefferson of Lafayette, Elkhart, Columbia City, Central of Fort Wayne, LaPorte, and Central of South Bend, have had delegations present at the conference since its beginning in 1930. Last year 112 Indiana high schools were represented at the conference.

Interesting and educational programs are being planned for this year's annual meeting, including a musical program by the Purdue Concert Choir, under the direction of Albert P. Stewart, at the conference banquet.

COOPERATION PAYS

Anyone who watches a freight train go by is impressed by the number of different railroads represented by the box cars and gondolas and the rest of the rolling stock. In all likelihood, he'll see cars which are property of railroads whose own tracks end one to three thousand miles away.

This is an example of the organized cooperation that has brought the railroad industry to its high level of efficiency. Suppose, for instance, that each of the more than 600 different railroads which serves this country wouldn't permit its cars to leave the tracks of its own company. The time and the money that would then be required to load and unload commodities moving across the nation would be incredible. Mass transportation, as we know it, would not exist.

What the railroads do is to work together so that freight and passengers may move freely from one line to another as part of a unified national transportation service. And this cooperation does not stop within the industry. For nearly a quarter of a century, cooperation between railroads and their shipper customers has also been on an organized basis. Thirteen Shippers Advisory Boards are in operation in this country. They exist so that railroaders and shippers can get together to produce the most efficient and economical transportation service.

This is one example of how a great industry deals with the complex problems connected with meeting the basic transportation needs of a huge country. The goal never varies. It is to give all who want it the best service possible, at the lowest cost.

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

The beginning of the hunting season finds eighteen cases of tularemia on the records of the Indiana State Board of Health since the first of January, so today, Dr. J. W. Jackson, director Division of Communicable Disease Control, Indiana State Board of Health, issued a warning to hunters in the handling of fur bearing animals, especially wild rabbits.

"Most of these cases were reported in March and April but we feel that a reminder to the hunters of the danger of contracting tularemia at the beginning of the hunting season is timely," Dr. Jackson said.

"Not only is it necessary for the hunter to use precautions in handling the rabbit and other fur bearing animals but also for the housewife to see that the animal is well cooked. The prevention of tularemia is almost entirely a matter of personal precaution including the avoidance of handling sick or dead wild animals and the wearing of gloves while skinning or dressing wild game."

Studies of case histories of cases of tularemia in 1948 revealed that the age range was 6 to 78, and of the 22 cases studied last year, 14 were males and 8 were females. Forty-five new cases were reported in 1948 and only nine were urban. Averred sources of infection included rabbit, dog, squirrel and opossum. The mode of entry in several cases was believed to have been wounds on the hands or fingers, and in one instance it was the eating of an animal not sufficiently cooked.

8TH POULTRY SCHOOL, NOV. 30

Two out-of-state speakers will be featured on the program for the eighth annual Poultry Breeding School to be held at Purdue University Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1.

Monroe C. Babcock, Ithaca, N. Y., prominent eastern poultry breeder, will speak Thursday morning and at the closing banquet that evening on the subjects, "Breeding Practices that Work" and "An Easterner looks at Midwest Poultry Breeding." Appearing with him on the morning program will be Berley Winton of the Regional Research Laboratory, East Lansing, Mich., who will outline "The Federal Battle to Conquer Leukosis."

The opening program in the Memorial Union Building Wednesday afternoon will include talks by Dr. A. E. Bell on "Living with the Genes," Dr. B. B. Bohren, "Choosing the Selection Base;" and Dr. Dean Marble, Warsaw, "Aims and Philosophies of Record Keeping on a Breeding Farm." Doctors Bell and Bohren are members of the Purdue poultry husbandry staff, and Dr. Marble is geneticist for Creighton Bros. at Warsaw. A business meeting of the Indiana ROP Breeders Association and an "armchair discussion" are slated for Wednesday evening.

In addition to talks by the two out-of-state breeders, Thursday morning's schedule will feature reports by Dr. Bohren on "Development of Egg Size" and by Dr. J. Holmes Martin, head of the department of poultry husbandry, on "Inheritance of Disease Resistance."

The afternoon program will be discussions of "Progress in Breeding in the North Central Region" by Dr. Bell; "A Preliminary Report of a Practical Farm Test with Two Inbred Hybrids" by Robert Hoover of North Manchester; and "What Poultry Breeders Can Learn from Hybridization Research with Swine" by Dr. E. J. Warwick of the Purdue animal husbandry department. A panel discussion of "If Hybrids Succeed---?" will conclude the session with Dr. Martin serving as moderator. Participants will be Noel Shaver, Crawfordville; Verne Steckley, Kendallville; Dr. Marble, and Charles Manwaring, Mentone.

Other members of the Purdue poultry husbandry staff who will serve as chairmen of the various sessions are R. L. Hogue, Wednesday afternoon; Joe W. Sicer, Thursday morning; Alex Gordeux, Thursday afternoon; and Dr. Bohren, banquet toastmaster.

evening for the work of the mission and the public is cordially invited to attend all of these services. The Sunday school contest is still on and last Sunday, in spite of rainy weather, the attendance of 239 was still 64 over the same Sunday a year ago. A record attendance was attained in both morning and evening services. The new nursery for the children was in full use and this makes an easy way for mothers to see and hear the service while at the same time the little ones can entertain themselves with toys at the tables.

A baptismal service will be held at the beginning of the evening service and the public is invited to witness this part of the service also.

O'BRIEN PAINTS

No part of any play is unimportant. Frequently the character parts give opportunities for expression which the leading roles lack and without which the play would be dull and uninteresting. The stage crew also, is, a vital part of every production and should not be overlooked when laurels are being handed out. "OUR TOWN" and "YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU" are excellent examples of the above assertions.

In Tuesday's production the series of humorous circumstances delighted the audience, from the appearance of the Love-lorn Editor to that of the Boy Friend's Father who thought his son was being maltreated and hastened to his aid. Within the play, too, were evidences of typical American Family Life with the problems of parents and youth "trying to get ahead" and "make an impression on the community." It was well done. Murmurs is quite familiar with the play, and the "better half" of the column returned home delighted with the production.

Drama, both comic and tragic, is a medium of expression which writers use to show us as we appear to be, to let us laugh at ourselves or to shock us out of the complacent attitudes which we too often acquire. The latter is quite true concerning social problems, and libraries have numerous evidences of literary attempt to correct this evil. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is a classic example of American drama and literature that has produced greater results than preachers and editors, as well as statesmen, ever could accomplish. Books, too, are written with the idea of correcting social ills, by making these evils appear like a sore thumb or thorn-in-the-flesh. Becoming painful, or at least obnoxious, we make some effort to eradicate the evil, and drama and literature achieves its purpose. Too often, however, our concept of literature is only that of entertainment; and good books are read with no other thought than some amusing purpose in mind. Frequently we become engrossed only with a few questionable details of a story and miss the intent and purpose of the writer. This is true with the reading of Steinbeck's books. (and for many, even with the reading of the Bible.)

The works of Charles Dickens illustrate the attempt to use fiction as a means of teaching social and economic reform, even through the timely reading of the "Christmas Carol." As readers, we owe something of an effort to get at the purpose and intent of an author when we open a book. Books may be our friends, but we must also be a friend of books.

Distribution in Indiana of the 1949 crop wheat loans and purchase agreements as reported by the Production Marketing Administration through September was as follows: farm-stored, 359,212 bushels; ware-house stored, 693,960 bushels and 30,752 bushels as purchase agreements.

MENTONE READING CLUB

The Mentone Reading Club met at the home of Mrs. Elmore Fenstermaker on Wednesday evening, Nov. 9.

Roll call was answered by a current event.

During the business meeting it was decided to have our club participate in the "Shower of Candles to Lighten Korea." The goal is one candle for Korea from each clubwoman in Indiana.

Program chairmen for the evening were Mrs. David Gosser and Mrs. Jack VanGilder. They presented Rev. David Gosser, who gave an extremely interesting program, using the Home as the central theme for his chalk drawing and talk. He was assisted by Mrs. Dan Urschel, Mrs. Wayne Tombaugh and Mrs. Eileen Fenstermaker, who gave the musical background for the various steps in his theme; and Mrs. Jack VanGilder, who read poems of Robert Frost to add verbal coloring to the ever-growing picture drawn by Rev. Gosser.

Lovely refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistant, Mrs. Charles Manwaring.

IRRIGATION PAYS OFF

Producers of high value crops on Indiana farms are looking to irrigation as a possible insurance to protect their investment in labor, seed and fertilizer.

Purdue University agricultural engineers say that where irrigation was tried in the past two years in Indiana, results indicate that there is a place for irrigation at present, particularly with truck crops. Extensive irrigation was used on the William Gehring farm, Rensselaer, on muck soil, in dry weather. An irrigation system was installed at the Culver experimental field of Purdue where corn yields, with adequate fertilization, reached 119.1 bushels per acre.

G. A. Karstens, extension agricultural engineer, explains that a sprinkler system offers more promise than open ditches for Indiana farmers. Farmers who have used irrigation have made three or four applications each season, depending upon the rainfall which too often is not evenly distributed through the growing season.

The estimated cost for irrigation of ten acres is approximately $2000 depending upon the water supply and location. A deep well would be more costly. The cost per acre inclusive of depreciation, repairs and operating can be expected to be about $30 and acre per year.

At present, such costs would be justified only on intensively farmed crops, such as onion, sweet corn, mint and vegetable crops. Hybrid seed growers are watching developments and dairymen may well watch progress made on pasture irrigation trials.

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL PAY

"The government," says U. S. News & World Report, "has become the biggest source of income in the country. In the single year to end next June 30, the Treasury will spend an estimated $46,000,000,000 in cold cash. This means that $1 out of every $6 spent in the United States will be spent by the government." The magazine then goes into considerable detail as to how all this money is divided.

The biggest item in the budget—$17,300,000,000—is accounted for by benefits and subsidies of many kinds. Nearly half of that amount—$8,300,000,000—will go to veterans and is one of the payments we are making because of past wars. Then farmers will come in for something over $2,000,000,000 in direct payments and government crop loans and price supports. Large sums will be paid to the old, blind, and the unemployed. Finally, $5,600,000,000 will be paid out to foreign governments and for foreign-aid purchasing.

Item number two—$10,200,000,000—will go for salaries. It will go to 3,700,000,000 people, the number of civilians and military personnel now on the federal payroll. As the U. S. News points out, this does not include those who work indirectly for government, such as the men and women employed in plants producing materials for federal agencies.

Third is a $10,000,000,000 item for goods. This includes an enormous number of items, running all the way from airplanes and tanks to paper and ink.

Interest on the public debt will require the sum of $4,100,000,000. That will be a cash payment, and does not include the interest accruing on war bonds and saving bonds.

Services, such as printing, rent and utility bills, will cost the taxpayers $2,400,000,000. And something like $2,000,000,000 will be used for loans and investments.

The above items cover the major expenses of the government. Perhaps the most striking fact is the great increase in the number of individuals who now live off the Federal Treasury. To quote U. S. News again, "Ten years ago, when the New Deal was pouring out billions for direct and work relief, fewer than 20,000,000 persons were getting checks from public agencies. In the period that has followed, the make-work programs of government have disappeared. Prosperity has taken over. Personal incomes trebled. Yet . . . persons living on public dollars, in whole or in part, jumped 29 per cent."

The implications of this can be argued definitely. But it indicates the reasons for the uneasiness of those who wonder how much more government the country can stand.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday evening, Nov. 17th, at the Methodist church. Pearl Lackey, president, presided over the business meeting after the opening organ number by Ruth Urschel.

During the business session, besides the regular reports, both the J. O. Y. Circle and the Mary & Martha Circle gave recent notes regarding their attainments. Lois Davison, secretary of Student Work, gave an outline of her duties. Her report was interesting, as she gave information regarding our local students, what she has done and expects to do for them. Also, the secretary of Christian Social Relations and Local Church Activities, Stella Emmons, explained her duties and reported on her accomplishments.

Rosa Kinsey, in charge of the worship period, lead the group in singing, "Faith of Our Fathers," and prayer, then, gave some most interesting and inspiring thoughts on "Thanksgiving."

During the time when four members were preparing to give a short play, Maude Snyder played, "Indian Love Call" on the organ.

Mary Goodwin, in the playlet, interviewed three women (supposedly holding the office of secretary of literature and publications in their societies). They gave reports as they were carrying on in line with duties outlined for persons holding this office in the W. S. C. S. Most of all, they were endeavoring to sell the World Outlook and Methodist Woman to their member. These ladies, taking the different parts, really lived up to their names as they revealed their ability and enthusiasm in influencing persons to subscribe for the two magazines.

Lydia Rynearson was Mrs. Dilatory. Sally Gosser played the part of Mrs. Middleway.

Rosa Kinsey was Irma Energetic. Two district officers whom Broda Clark had introduced at the beginning of the meeting, explained more about the Program of Advance and the Four Goals. Mrs. B. W. Eagler, of Warsaw, gave detailed information about how to attain goals No. 1 and 2 and Mrs. Wm. Neff's comments pertained to No. 3 and 4.

The program closed with a period of silent prayer on Thanksgiving, followed by Rev. Gosser leading the second prayer period. His solo, "Flee as a Bird," with Maude Snyder at the organ, closed the meeting.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by the hostesses: Uda Maxwell, Dorothy Herendeen and Ethel Whetstone, with Stella Emmons assisting.

ATTEND FIREMEN'S FISH FRY

About ten members of our local firemen's organization attended the county Firemen's fish fry and meeting at the fairground in Warsaw last Thursday.

In addition to the firemen, all trustees, town board members and officials were present. Around 200 attended the meeting.

CHRISTMAS DECORATION CONTEST GETTING STARTED

As it was announced several weeks ago, the Mentone Merchants' Association is offering $70 in cash prizes for the best decorated home and business in the Mentone area this Christmas. There will be three prizes for the homes—$20, $10 and $5—and the same for the business establishments.

The Merchants' Association is behind this event in an effort to have the Mentone homes and business places looking nicer than in any of the neighboring towns. They appreciate their rural friends and this is just another way they have of expressing that gratitude.

The business establishments are to have their decorations completed by Dec. 10 and the homes by Dec. 17. Judging will take place between Dec. 19 and 21.

Rural home owners, if they choose to enter the contest, are eligible to compete for the prizes, and an invitation is extended them to participate.

Home Owners Requested to Enter

It will be a trifle difficult for the judges to locate all the homes in the decoration contest, so it is requested that all those entering and competing for the prizes, fill out the coupon below and mail or hand it to Fred Lemler, chairman of the decorations committee, before Dec. 19th.

FARM HOUSING PROGRAM

The farm housing program, authorized by recent act of Congress, has been launched in Kosciusko County. Applications for loans to build or repair farm houses and other farm buildings are being received at the Farmers Home Administration county office in the Spohn Building at Goshen, according to Harry Welland, FHA County Supervisor.

Loans may run for a maximum of 33 years, at 4 per cent interest, and can be made to farm owners who cannot obtain farm housing loans from their banks or other sources, Welland said. Owners who qualify can also get loans for improving housing for their tenants. All loans are subject to approval by the local three-member FHA County Committee composed of Chet Brown, Sam Rhodes, and Lyman Swick.

METHODIST CHURCH NEWS

Mr. H. R. Carson, general secretary of the Preachers Aid Society for the North Indiana Conference of the Methodist Church, will be guest speaker at the morning service in the local church here in Mentone. His address is entitled "Down From the Hills."

It is desired that all solicitors for names and orders of the birthday calendar have their respective areas covered by the end of this week. It has been proposed that the proceeds of the sale of calendars be used to insulate the parsonage. The calendar will be a permanent record of the birthdays of your families, your friends, and your neighbors if a complete coverage of the community is made. The primary interest in the publication of this book is a community service to those individuals who enjoy remembering others on this special occasion.

A chancel drapery proposed and planned when the sanctuary was decorated this past spring, has recently been made by Mrs. Emma Clutter and was hung for the Harvest-Home Thanksgiving service last Sunday. Choir draperies will soon be completed and placed.

The tones of the Methodist Church bell rang again this past Sunday. Its silence for the preceding weeks was caused by the replacing of the bell-wheel. Mr. Don Emmons made the new wheel in his home workshop.

Calling all outdoorsmen

By JIM MITCHELL

I happened to overhear an argument the other day that some hunters were having about the various speeds game birds can fly. One of the fellows said that the grouse was the fastest, another picked the pheasant and the third fellow stood pat on the quail.

It was a friendly argument, but after a lengthy debate none of the hunters had changed his opinion.

To start with, the argument probably never can be settled to everyone's complete satisfaction from a hunting standpoint. Tests have been made that prove the pheasant is the fastest of the three birds mentioned. And a grouse probably can outspeed a quail over a 100 yard straightaway course.

But these speeds are beside the point in hunting. Who cares how fast a bird can fly on a speedway with no gunners.

The pheasant is a fairly slow starter, lumbering into the air from ground cover and not hitting high gear for several yards. Consequently, the pheasant gives the impression of being slow. And this slow start does offer an easier target for the average hunter.

Quail and grouse, on the other hand, are speedy starters, springing into the air and getting away quickly. The element of surprise, the burst of speed at first and the size of the birds makes them a more difficult target. And when quail are in timber they offer a very similar target to the grouse.

A bird doesn't have to be actually flying fast to appear to be breaking all speed records when it is passing by and through the trees.

And seldom will you find grouse outside this type of cover. Quail, however, often are in the open and it is easy to judge their speed if you'll forget about shooting and just watch the birds sail off.

HUNTERS AND FARMERS CAN WORK TOGETHER

Many farmers today object to hunters on their fields, complaining with bitterness that fences are torn down, crops trampled, and in some cases, livestock or poultry shot. The result has been a lot of "No Hunting" signs going up this fall.

However, in some communities in Illinois at least, the problem of the town man who wants to hunt and the farmer who wants to aid in the conservation of wild life, has been solved with the formation of sportsmen's clubs.

They work together all year around in conserving both wild life and soil by planting trees on land unsuitable for farming, constructing lakes and stocking them with fish, planting multi-flora rose fences, teaching safe hunting and conservation practices to young people, raising young pheasants and so on.

The result is that when hunting times comes around it is just another way for the farmers and the sportsmen to get together to enjoy the fruits of their labor. When the hunter asks permission of the farmer to hunt on his land, the result more often is that the farmer says "yes." Also, he oftentimes gets his gun and joins the hunters himself.

A story telling of one of these groups in DeKalb County, Ill. which is affiliated with the Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, is told in the November 19 Prairie Farmer.

MENTONE MURMURS

by DAVID and SALLY GOSSER

By the time you are reading this, some of you will have seen illustrated a comment made by Murmurs last week concerning the use of drama to help us see ourselves as others see us. I am referring to the skits used at the P. T. A. session on Wednesday evening to illustrate the review of the book, "Stop Annoying Your Children."

It is a wholesome situation when we can laugh at ourselves and also learn the lesson that is either implied or obviously presented. Frequently, however, we are so prone to take ourselves too seriously that we cannot see just how comic and humorous may be our situation on plight; and the more serious and dignified we appear to be, the more humorous becomes our lot. Slap-stick comedy has been based on life situations where the dignity and feelings of so-called "proper" and staid persons are offended. And humor, we are told, at its best is at the expense of ourselves or others.

On Tuesday Murmurs had an occasion to visit Neighborhood House in Fort Wayne. This institution is a settlement house operated by the Methodist Church where fifty to sixty youths are directed in recreation, shop, handicraft, and worship. Classes are held for foreign-born persons desiring to obtain citizenship papers; and cooking classes are open to adults, girls, and, believe it or not, to boys. Displaced persons are located through this institution, and the art work of an artist was proudly exhibited by the assistant who showed us through the institution in the absence of Rev. and Mrs. Moore, who direct the work there.

The incident I started to relate was that concerning a little Negro boy who was on his way home for lunch. As he passed the auto where I was unloading the gifts of food-stuffs for Neighborhood House, he spied the large pumpkins that had been sent along for pies and in his own dialect said, "Oh, what big pumpkins!" And his eyes became big and round as saucers.

"They will make good pies," I added, to make conversation.

"I guess so," he added, "but I've never 'et pumpkin pie," and his eyes grew even bigger with wonder. I couldn't resist the opportunity, and when he said that he was going home and not to school, I handed him one that he could just comfortably carry. There was joy supreme registered on his little face and of his happiness I was assured by his broad smile that was filled with gleaming white teeth. The last I saw of him was his rapid walk down the street towards home. Murmurs sincerely hopes his mammy knows how to bake those pies for the Thanksgiving dinner.

THANKSGIVING DAY — "Count your blessings, name them one by one," and lift your heart and voice to the Lord with thanksgiving.

PSI IOTA XI

The members of Beta Epsilon chapter of Psi Iota Xi sorority were entertained at the home of Mrs. Devon Hilschmann on the evening of Nov. 17, with Mrs. Kathleen Camplejohn assisting the hostess. Mrs. Marshall Parker, Mrs. Earl Anderson, Miss Annabel Mentzer, Mrs. Irvin Snyder, Mrs. Harold Utter, Mrs. Lyman Mollenhour, Mrs. Wayne Nelans, Mrs. Howard Shoemaker, and Mrs. Curtis Riner.

First bridge prize was won by Mrs. Utter, and second by Mrs. Riner. Mrs. Riner also won the door prize.

CORN COBS FOR FEED

Additional research to be conducted by the Purdue University department of animal husbandry on the use of corn cobs as the principal roughage in the winter steer ration was outlined to Hoosier livestock men at the recent Cattle Feeders' Day held here.

Dr. W. M. Beeson and T. W. Perry, who are in charge of the work, explained that last winter's research showed that if ground cobs are properly fortified with a protein supplement, molasses, minerals, and a vitamin A concentrate, a ration of this type will support a growth rate ranging from one to 1.3 pounds daily per steer. The steer calves that were fed cobs gained more rapidly than those on mixed clover-timothy hay and at a cost of 12 cents less per pound of gain.

They emphasized, however, that cobs are a roughage feed, and are not a substitute for corn or any other high energy feed. Cattle will not fatten on cobs, they said, but will grow if the cobs are properly "fortified."

In the new research, six different ration combinations with ground cobs are to be fed daily for 176 days, from Nov. 4, 1949, to April 28, 1950. A seventh lot of the 112 short yearling Hereford steers obtained from Colorado on a ration of red clover-timothy hay in September for the tests will be fed and minerals (lot 1). Average weight of the steers when started on the rations was 592 pounds.

The first corn cob group, lot 2, will receive a daily ration per steer of 13 pounds of corn cobs, 2.25 pounds of soybean oil meal, 1.00 pound of molasses feed, 0.18 pound of bone meal, 0.06 pound of salt, 4 grams of vitamin A concentrate, and free choice of minerals. In the other five lots, an attempt is being made to find out if certain supplementary feeds such as urea, distiller's dried solubles, brewer's yeast, or alfalfa meal will aid in fortifying cobs.

Lot 7 will start with the same ration as lot 6 but the cobs will be replaced gradually with ground shelled corn until the steers are on a full feed of corn, but cobs will still remain as the only roughage.

The cattle feeders will meet at Purdue again next April to study the steers before they are removed from dry lot and turned out to pasture.

Open every night 'til 9:00, except Wednesday and Sunday; Saturdays 'til 10:00.—Denton's Drug Store.

AUXILIARY BUSINESS MEETING

The Mentone American Legion Auxiliary held a business meeting at the Post Home Tuesday evening, November 22, at which time two additional officers were elected. This was made necessary by the recent adoption by the Department of Indiana of uniform constitutions for all units of the organization. Mrs. Catherine Whetstone was elected third vice president and Mrs. Martha Ellsworth, corresponding secretary.

In the membership contest which closed at this meeting the team composed of the last half of the roll defeated the first half by signing up nine new members, against five by the losers. A membership gain of fourteen was accomplished.

The losers will entertain the winners.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party on December 13. It was decided to donate 50 cents per member toward a Christmas basket fund, instead of having a gift exchange.

Due to death of Ernest Williamson of Burket, the square dance previously scheduled for Saturday night, November 26, was postponed until a later date. The attendance prize was forfeited by Mrs. Grace Gifford, who was not present.

HYDRATED LIME OFFSETS DAMP POULTRY LITTER

Cloudy, cold winter days don't help the problem of damp litter in the laying house, but a little hydrated lime will help.

If a small amount of hydrated lime is mixed with the litter, the litter for a depth of four to six inches above the floor will be in good condition throughout the year. Joe Sicer, Purdue University extension poultryman, says that thousands of poultry raisers have found that they have less trouble with damp litter when they use a built-up litter—six to eight inches of finely broken material—which is left unchanged, than with the old method of replacing litter every few weeks.

The older the litter becomes, the less trouble there is with dampness. Sometimes the litter becomes quite damp before it has had time to develop the best moisture absorbing qualities. Under such conditions the hydrated lime absorbs the moisture.

The lime should not be used until the litter shows signs of excessive dampness. Sicer says that if the lime is used in dry litter an irritating lime dust may arise. One pound of hydrated lime is used for every four or five square feet of floor space in the laying house, Sicer advises. The lime is sprinkled evenly over the entire area and forked well into the litter. Some new litter may be added if desired. Within two days, the litter will be noticeably drier and usually will stay in good condition for several weeks when another treatment with lime may be necessary.

Sicer stressed that hydrated lime and not quick lime is used. Quick lime and damp litter may result in fire, but there is no danger with hydrated lime.

MUCH WHEAT NEEDS NITROGEN

Indiana wheat fields that show more yellowing than usual this fall is suffering from lack of nitrogen in most cases. All wheat, except late seeded wheat, has made excellent growth and consequently nitrogen needs are greater than usual, Purdue University agronomists point out.

Rains during October and cooling soils reduced the amount of soil nitrates available for wheat. Nitrogen applications in wheat fertilizers meet the need of this plant food to some extent but in many fields are not adequate to meet the prolonged fall need.

Nitrogen deficiencies are indicated by yellowing of the tip of the leaf and purpling of the lower part. Parts of fields or even parts of rows will show variable nitrogen supplies. Somewhat uneven distribution of fall applications of fertilizer can be traced by these deficiency symptoms. Generally, nitrogen is more deficient on soils that are acid, as nitrification is decreased in the absence of adequate supplies of lime, the Purdue men explain.

Light winter dressings of manure, or applications of 20 to 25 pounds of elemental nitrogen next spring, as soon as spring growth starts, are recommended for fields showing nitrogen starvation provided that they were adequately supplied with phosphate and potash in the fall fertilization.

Under some conditions there may be other causes for the general yellowing such as seedling blight caused by soil organisms or some other plant food deficiencies. However, nitrogen deficiency seems to be the common trouble where wheat is not showing excellent green color. This yellowing of wheat in the fall is not an indication of crop failure but is an effective means for pointing out the need for applications of manure this winter or nitrogen top dressing next spring, the agronomists emphasize.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coplen and son have moved into the former Esther Borton property in the south part of town.

that rainy spell — but now where can they be?" The little red hen who heard him didn't grumble or complain. She had gone through lots of dry spells, she had lived through floods of rain. She flew upon the grindstone, and she gave her claws a whet, as she said: "I've never seen the time there were no worms to get." She picked a new and undug spot; the earth was hard and firm. The big white rooster jeered: "New ground! That's no place for a worm." The little red hen just spread her feet, she dug fast and free. "I must go to the worms," she said, "The worms won't come to me." The rooster vainly spent his day, through habit by the ways, where fat worms had passed in squads, back in the rainy days. When nightfall found him supperless, he growled in accents rough: "I'm hungry as a fowl can be. Conditions sure are tough." He turned then to the little red hen and said, "It's worse with you. For you're not only hungry but you must be tired, too. I rested while I watched for worms, so I feel fairly perk; but how are you? Without worms too, and after all that work?" The little red hen hopped to her perch and dropped her eyes to sleep, and murmured in a drowsy tone: "Young man hear this and weep:
00000 00000 xx00000xx

"I'm full of worms and happy, for I've dined both long and well.
The worms are there as always—but I had to dig to beat all!"
Oh, here and there white roosters are still holding sales positions.
They cannot do much business now because of poor conditions,
But soon as things get right again, they'll sell a hundred firms—
Meanwhile the little red hens are out gobbling up the worms."

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE GETTING GOOD RESULTS

Tempers were lost and names were called by high-ranking officers of Army, Navy, and Air Force during the explosive "B-38" hearings before the House Armed Services Committee. Now that the hub-bub has died down, sober citizens can survey the scene and note three facts:

1. The high-pitched quarrel of the "Brass" was concerned with defense strategy, weapons, and appropriations.

2. This quarrel was far afield from the purpose of the Hoover Commission Report on National Security which, with your help, was enacted as the Tydings Bill for unification and economy in the armed services.

3. Real economies, operating economies, are being effected under this law—quite apart from cutbacks and cancellations.

Neither the Hoover Commission nor the Citizens Committee expressed any opinions on such technicalities as the relative merits of bombers and aircraft carriers. The real points at issue in the unification law are a unified chain of command, civilian control, and business-like budgeting, accounting, and operating methods.

As General Eisenhower testified in calm tones, following the rafter-shaking ruckus, "the quarrel really arises about the division of the dollar"—a question with which the Report was not concerned. It would be tragic if the unification law were to be altered or repealed as a result of irrelevant battles over dollars. The unification law must be given a chance to work. As Eisenhower also said, "We can't expect perfection too quickly."

In the same spirit, former President Hoover, while granting that "one of the requirements of maintaining freedom is the public washing of linen," urged that we "settle down afterwards to loyal cooperation and construction action."

Meanwhile substantial operating economies are being effected as the unification law takes hold. But first, what is the difference between an operating economy and a cutback? Example: If Army, Navy, and Air Force could agree on uniform underwear $7 millions a year could be saved. That would be an operating economy. If, on the other hand, the three services were ordered to go without underwear, that would be a cutback.

Under General Joseph T. McNarney, a Department of Defense Management Committee has been hunting and finding real operating economies. Robert Heller of Robert Heller and Associates, Cleveland management engineers, is aiding the search. So far it has been rewarded by items like these:

1. Reduction in number of administrative motor vehicles: 34,380 vehicles at a saving of $20 millions a year.

to be inactivated by January 15, 1950.
2. Chauffeurs and recruiting officers released for reassignment to military duty: 2,136 chauffeurs and 1,060 recruiting officers—their annual subsistence: over $10 millions.

If parachute test facilities of the three services can be used jointly, another $500,000 a year can probably be saved. Other opportunities are seen in: Consolidations of laundries, printing plants, and office space; simplified procedures and less paper work; a standard reporting system for all Services covering flying activities, and so forth.

The purchasing power of Indiana farm products made no change from September to October, but is 16 per cent below a year ago, Purdue University agricultural economists point out. Prices paid in October dropped about one per cent below September while the prices received were down about two per cent. A five per cent increase in the grain prices was offset by a three per cent decrease in the livestock price index compared to a month ago.

DAIRY FARMER TO ADVERTISE

Fred Suhre, Columbus, Indiana, upon his return from the executive session of the American Dairy Association at Columbus, Ohio, recently, reports that the nation's dairy farmers are taking recognition of 10 years progress by launching a huge advertising program for 1950.

"Never have there been greater market opportunities for dairy foods," he declared, adding "and never has competition been keener for the consumer's food dollar."

The new campaign plans are keyed to take quick and full advantage of sales opportunities. The merchandising mobilizations are patterned after the current Cheese Festival that has broken all cheese sale records across the country.

"Now underway," he asserted, "is the butter drive making 64 million sales impressions in national magazine circulation alone, plus additional millions reached through radio and posters."

"The dairy farmers of this state and the nation are initiating two new research projects," Mr. Suhre reported. "The approved studies are (1) development of a completely new half pound package for butter and (2) a study of the effect of heat on the nutritive value of Dairy foods."

All this is made possible by the ★ Buy Co-operatively — And SAVE!

pennies which dairy farmers in this state and across the nation set aside in June for year around product promotion.

MENTONE HOME EC. MEETS

A continuation of the craft lesson, "Preparing Material for Braided Rugs," was the feature at the meeting of the Mentone Home Economics club held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bertha Meredith of Mentone. Mrs. Clem Teel and Mrs. Roy Salzman presented the lesson and braided rugs were displayed. Mrs. Linus Borton gave the health lesson, "Choosing Safe Toys for Children." For the meditation Mrs. Claude Barkman read a poem, "The Old Thanksgiving," and Mrs. Howard Horn read the history of the song of the month, "Come, Ye Faithful People, Come," before it was sung. Mrs. Roy Cox presided.

During the social hour Mrs. Teel received the mystery package and articles sold by auction, were purchased by Mrs. Elmer Rathfon, Mrs. Harry Vernett, Mrs. Silas Meredith and Mrs. Earl Smith. Cheerio Pal gifts were presented to Mrs. Cloice Paulus and Mrs. Barkman. A favorite cranberry dish was named in answer to roll call. Mrs. Meredith was assisted by Mrs. Barkman in entertaining the 28 members present and their seven guests.

STATE FARM BUREAU MEET

Approximately 6000 farmers from every county in the state took part in the 31st annual convention of the Indiana Farm Bureau, held in Indianapolis Nov. 10-12. While marking 30 years of progress, delegates and members convened also to formulate policies, study farm problems, and hear discussions of vital issues.

Allan Kline, president of The American Farm Bureau Federation, told the Thursday night audience "Long range prosperity depends on high production per man both inside and outside agriculture. Farmers no longer live on what they produce. They live on the things they can buy with the returns from what they produce. . . . Government guarantees of profitable farm prices lead to stabilized mediocrity in agriculture."

Hassil E. Schenck, unanimously re-elected during the convention for the seventh consecutive 2-year terms, in his annual message to the Indiana Farm Bureau, asked: "How far are we willing to go in the price we pay for security? Many schemes are being proposed to give security practically every segment of our population. Many of them are at the cost of infringements on free enterprise. These are trends which have been followed by practically every so-called great nation in the history of the world. All of those nations have retrogressed and many are looking to us for assistance today." In closing he urges more intensive study of and action on the problems at hand in the future.

Other speakers on the program were Governor Henry F. Schricker, L. A. Pittenger, Mrs. Chas. W. Sewell, Rev. Lonnie Hass, and Larry Brandon. Special recognition was given to the oldest member in each district of the state.

The delegate body of 200 Farm Bureau members, chosen to represent the counties on the basis of membership in those counties, spent most of Saturday, following the convention, in shaping policy for the state organization during 1950. These resolutions recommended that:

The Farm Credit Administration's several banks be permitted to move from the position of government-owned and government-controlled to that of farmer-owned and controlled; that the principles of the International Wheat Agreement be applied to other commodities; that the principles of the Rural Electrification Act be applied when present mutual or stock companies fail to render effective telephone service to farmers.

Also, research and continued study of distribution problems relating to farm commodities, to eliminate unnecessary costs now paid by consumers; continuation of an extensive advertising campaign for dairy products.

The resolutions further expressed the Farm Bureau stand against "any form of compulsory health insurance or any system of political medicine." They asked that state laws, regarding eminent domain to gas and oil lines and cables, be modernized; that a critical study be made of laws and regulations pertaining to welfare as a means of seeking economies in tax expenditures. They authorized a study committee to make recommendations with respect to reforestation of stripped over coal lands.

The delegates commended the first International Dairy Exposition and went on record for further support of the project.

Following are the names of the delegates elected to the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation in Chicago next month:

President Schenck; vice presidents Larry Brandon and Mrs. Russell Cushman (Hancock county); John C. Peterson, Carroll county; Elbert Carr, Wabash county; Earl Peek, Shelby county; and Earl Voss, Ripley county.

FROM WYOMING

Ft. Warren, Wyo.
Nov. 19, 1949

Dear Art:

It seems that I am in the wrong branch of the Service, from the sound of Don Coleman's letter, at least. Around here we have to get up at 6:30, go to chow and clean up the barracks before 8 a. m. At 8 I go over to the orderly room and help the correspondence clerk with his work, and type some rosters for the duty Sgt. At about 10:45 I go to chow, and then to my barracks and get ready for school. Between 11:40 and 11:50 we fall out and take that long march of one or two blocks, depending on which shop we go to, to our school. Our classes start at 12:00 noon and end at 6 p. m. with two 15-minute breaks during the afternoon. At 6 o'clock we make that long march back to the squadron, go to mail call, which is seldom fruitful, and to chow. After chow we can usually do as we please, except for two nights a month when we have to clean up the mess hall. Lights go out at 9:30 to end the day.

The chow here is nothing like I got at home, but seems to agree with me as I'm hugging the 200 mark very close.

The second Saturday of every month we have base parades, and one week end a month our barracks has firemen and K. P. This week end our barracks has the details, and I was put on fireman. The rest of the week ends we have to ourselves unless too many fellows refuse to do as they are told, then we have to work Saturday, or are restricted to the squadron area for the week end.

I look forward to getting the Co-Op. News every Tuesday and finding out what is going on back home.

We have had three light snows out here so far, but none of them lasted over two or three days. When it does start snowing, though, I'm told we'll really have the snow.

Sincerely yours,
Pfc. Harry F. Kinzie,

BALANCE A REDUCING DIET

"How can I lose a few pounds of body weight and not have it affect my health in later life?"

Homemakers often ask this question of the Misses Opal D. Stech and Lois Oberhelman, Purdue University extension nutrition specialists. In reply, the specialists insist that reducing diets which should be avoided because minerals, the health protecting foods, but contain fewer calories. They point out that it is the one-sided, unbalanced diets which should be avoided because these are the ones which often damage health later.

The daily food requirements of a moderately active woman are approximately 2,000 calories. A reducing diet with 1,250 calories can still include health protecting foods to meet body requirements.

From one to two pounds of body weight per week can be lost by daily eating of the following or similar foods for several weeks: two slices of 50 per cent whole wheat bread, one-third cup bran, three cups skim milk, one-fourth cup of 18 per cent cream, one medium sized potato baked or steamed in the jacket, one medium sized carrot (or one-half cup of any other green or yellow cooked vegetable), two-fifths or four ounces of lettuce, one-fourth cup of peas with liquid (or one cup steamed leafy vegetable), three-fourths cup orange juice, one medium banana, one tablespoonful of juice and two halves of canned pears, peaches, or apricots in medium syrup (or one two-inch raw apple), one tablespoonful of butter, four ounces as purchased of lean beef, and one medium sized egg.

Sometimes it is the between-meal snacks which are adding those extra calories that mean extra weight, the nutrition specialists point out. One tablespoonful of sugar gives 50 calories; a one-inch square of fudge gives 100 calories, and soft drinks add from 70 to 100 extra calories. That vegetable salad with plenty of mayonnaise or French dressing also adds the calories since one tablespoonful of French dressing contains 70 calories and the same amount of mayonnaise contains 100 calories.

TAXES WHICH DEPRESS

Collier's recently ran an editorial advocating repeal of the so-called "luxury taxes" which were enacted purely as a war measure, yet are still on the books. In part, it said: "When a working girl who has scrimped for a $250 coat finds that the government has tacked an extra $50 on the price tag she's likely to think twice and maybe give the whole idea up. For that $50 would buy a lot of other things she needs."

"We can't feel that money gained from taxes which depress business, cause unemployment and increase relief payments is much of an asset."

Nor do we think that a 20 per cent levy on baby oil and movie tickets is necessary to keep the country solvent. It's time that emergency war taxes were lifted."

These taxes fall on a long list of articles which, in the view of millions of people, are necessities in a country which prides itself on a high standard of living. In the same category, and equally reprehensible, are the special taxes on railroad, plane and bus tickets, which were passed during the war largely to discourage travel at a time when transportation facilities were strained. There isn't a shadow of an excuse for continuing them.

Those who favor repeal of the special taxes constitute an extremely impressive array. Included are retailers, manufacturers, and labor and farm organizations. The last Congress adjourned before a measure providing for repeal could be brought to a vote. The next Congress should act without delay—in the interest of the consumer, industry and government.

BEAVER DAM BEATS GILEAD

The Beaver Dam High School sports reporter announced Tuesday that the Beaver Dam first team defeated the first string boys from Gilead 40 to 35 last Friday evening. Beaver Dam led all the way with the score by quarters being: 97, 18-16, 28-25 and 400-35.

The box score follows:

ATTENDS DISTRICT CONSERVATION MEET

C. O. Mollenhour, of Mentone, attended a Conservation Advisory meeting for the Second District, held at the Otto Grossman home in Argos, Sunday. Six counties were represented.

It was voted to endorse the return to the closed season on pan fish, and that spearing be placed back under the jurisdiction of the local clubs.

The recommendations of the various advisory committees are forwarded to the members of the State Conservation Commission, and it has been the policy to follow, as near as possible, the combined recommendations of the district committees.

BIDDY DOES HER BEST

Roy Melott, of near Etna Green, brought a remarkable egg specimen in for us to see one day last week.

The egg, which was laid by a White Leghorn, weighed nearly 6 ounces, and measured 7½ inches in circumference. One fellow who saw the egg commented that it was big enough for a family sized omelet.

FINE MERCHANTS MEETING

Roger Dunn, secretary of the Warsaw Chamber of Commerce, gave a very inspiring and thought-provoking address to the Mentone Merchants' Association at the school building on last Monday evening.

HAS NEW JOB

Robert Nelson is now at home and starting Jan. 1, he will be employed in the public relations department of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill.

Robert had been taking post graduate work in music at the university, but found that, because of his wide acquaintance at the institution—and likely his musical ability—his responsibilities in that line were very strenuous. He seems mighty pleased, since he has decided to enter the new field of public relations, and accepted the fine position offered him.

Chuck Feldman took a load of cattle to a G. R. Brady, at Athens, Alabama, last week end. He left on Friday and reached his home here Sunday noon, after completing a round trip of 1100 miles.

In a quiet but impressive ceremony Wednesday evening, at 7:30, Nov. 23, Miss Charlotte G. King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred King, route 5, Rochester, became the bride of Richard M. Miller, son of Mrs. Susie Miller, of route 4, Rochester. The Rev. Harry Bailey officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Frances King, of South Bend, sister of the bride, and Ernest Miller, brother of the bridegroom, were their only attendants.

The blonde bride was attractive in a blue silk dress with brown accessories. She wore a red rose corsage. Her sister was attired in a brown silk dress with matching accessories and her corsage was of pink carnations.

Mrs. Miller, a graduate of Talma high school, is employed at the AAA office. Her husband, a graduate of Rochester high school, is employed at the Farm Supply Store.

The couple left immediately following the ceremony for a honeymoon in the South, and upon their return will reside at 725½ Main Street in Rochester.

MRS. LIZZIE BELLWARD

Mrs. Lizzie Bellward, 73, died Monday at her home near Talma, of a heart ailment. She had been ill since July 15 of this year.

December 5, 1904 she married Frank Bellward, of Joliet, Ill., who survives. She was a member of the Talma Methodist church and affiliated with the Mothers of World War II of Rochester.

The husband, one foster son, Emmett J. Carpenter, of Tippecanoe; a sister, Mrs. Roschel Krutsch, of Tippecanoe, two brothers, Charles Kochel, of Tippecanoe, and George Kochel of Frankfort, Ill., and three foster grandchildren, are the surviving relatives.

CAR SKIDS INTO DITCH

Early last Saturday morning, while returning from the Sonja Henie Ice Revue, at Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Ora McKinley and sons had a very narrow escape when their car skidded on an unexpected icy spot on the pavement near Wabash.

The car turned around and went into the ditch, suffering comparatively slight damage. Mr. and Mrs. McKinley were shaken up and bruised and the boys were uninjured. We think they are very fortunate.

RURAL HEALTH

(Prepared by: The Colorado State Medical Society for the Colorado Rancher & Farmer.)

Your cow can have tuberculosis And so can you.

She may come down with brucellosis, and if you get it from her, it will be called "undulant fever," but it will be the same disease.

The rats around your barn can have the "Black Death." You, too, can catch the plague, and your wife and the kids along with you.

Your hogs may harbor trichinae worms in their muscles. If you eat underdone pork from them, you probably will get the horrible disease your doctor calls "trichinosis."

Your turkeys can come down with colds.

And so can you.

The relationships between animal diseases and human diseases, veterinary medicine and human medicine, are very close.

In a way, that is unfortunate. It means there are many more sources of disease and ill health, more carriers and spreaders of germs. For many different diseases have both human and animal forms, and usually they are interchangeable.

Everyone knows the story of the untold suffering in man which has been prevented by tests with animals. There would be no vaccination, no insulin for diabetes, no sulfa drugs to defeat death, if it weren't for animals. And now, because monkeys catch cold and can get Polio, and mice can have cancer, science is pushing its slow but sure way toward "cures" for those diseases.

Nearly all the developments in modern medicine have come because scientists worked with animals.

The story of a better knowledge of the relationship between human and animal disease begins in the 18th century, when smallpox destroyed 60 million persons—more than a third of the present population of the United States.

An English country doctor, Edward Jenner, appalled by the death toll, studied the disease and found that milkmaids who had contracted cowpox from their dairy animals never came down with smallpox. Risking his medical reputation, he inoculated an eight-year-old boy with germs taken from a dairymaid with cowpox. Six weeks later, he inoculated the same boy with smallpox germs. The boy remained well and happy.

It was the first vaccination—thanks to the cow and her cowpox.

The name of Louis Pasteur, founder of the science of bacteriology and discoverer of the germ theory of disease, is a household word. Working with anthrax in cattle and sheep, chicken cholera and other animal diseases, Pasteur produced a cure for rabies and made discoveries which yielded treatments for tuberculosis, cholera, diphtheria, tetanus and many other diseases spread by infection.

The findings of Jenner and Pasteur have application on every American ranch and farm.

Their discoveries make the farm a healthy place—if the relationship between animal and human diseases is borne in mind constantly.

Farm dogs sometimes get rabies. They can transmit it to man. Cattle and horses—and man—can contract actinomycosis, known as "lumpy jaw," a terrible disease involving a fungus infection of the salivary glands of the mouth and sometimes the bones.

Scarlet fever, typhoid fever and "strep throat" can be spread by milk, as can tuberculosis and undulant fever. Sylvan plague, a form of the dread "Black Death" of the middle ages, recently got a start among rats on the West Coast and now has spread to rodents throughout the West. Animals are the "hosts" of the germs of typhus and "scrub" typhus, diseases much similar to our Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever.

Spotted fever itself is spread by ticks, which can be active beneath the hair on the hide of farm animals. Pigeons as well as parrots can carry "parrot fever," another uncommon but very serious disease.

With all those health hazards—and many more—among the farm animals, the farm family is a wise one which takes precautions that animal diseases don't come in the house.

Here are some suggestions:

1. Be sure of your milk. You can be sure of it if its pasteurized.
2. Have your dairy herd tested for tuberculosis and brucellosis.
3. Keep brucellosis out of your beef herd.
4. Get rid of rats. They're only costing you more anyway in the grain and feed they steal.
5. Be suspicious of any sick animal. Don't kill it and eat its meat. Be especially sure you don't kill and eat droopy chickens.
6. Any farm - slaughtered meat should be well-cooked. Home sausage and pork chops are the worst offenders in spreading trichinosis, a disease for which there is no treatment and which frequently is fatal.
7. If you hunt, don't eat any rabbit which doesn't give you a good run for your money. Inactive rabbits usually are sick rabbits. The disease is tularemia, which becomes in man a debilitating disease of aches and pains and high fever. Be careful when cleaning rabbits. Don't cut yourself or clean one with an open cut on your hands. The germs of tularemia can enter that way too.

8. Bury all dead animals. Don't merely drag them off away from the house with the tractor. The disease which killed them can spread to other animals—and to you.

According to the Chicago Motor Club, 60 per cent of the emergency road service calls it expects to receive this winter will come from motorists whose cars have been disabled by trouble with the ignition and fuel systems. So, says the Motor Club, make sure your ignition and fuel systems are in good condition for cold winter driving and you'll reduce your no-start troubles by almost two-thirds.

SILENT BUT SURE DEATH

Adequate ventilation of their cars at all times must supplement occasional checks of the exhaust systems for dependable defense against the winter hazard of carbon monoxide poisoning, annual killer of several hundred highway users and a contributing cause of many more accidents, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club, warned today.

Present in the exhaust gas of all automobiles, this colorless and odorless gas claims a majority of its fatalities among motorists while they are in closed garages or in parked cars and the engine is running.

The Chicago Motor Club urges motorists never to run the engines of parked cars unless at least the no draft vents are open, and preferably the windows too. Garage doors must always be kept open whenever the motor is running.

At the outset of winter all cars, new or old, should receive an engine tune-up to assure maximum combustion efficiency and minimum carbon monoxide contact in exhaust gases.

Motorists unwilling to accept the discomforts of adequate ventilation may obtain minimum protection against exhaust gas poisoning only at the expense of frequent inspections for leaks in the muffler and exhaust systems, particularly in pre-war cars, the Motor Club warns.

Motorists should stop their cars and walk in the fresh air the moment they note a headache, dizziness, drowsiness, or a feeling of nausea, all common symptoms of the advance of carbon monoxide poisoning. Only 3 parts of carbon monoxide in 10,000 of air is sufficient to reduce driving efficiency dangerously, while 16 parts in 10,000 of air within a closed sedan is sufficient to kill within an hour.

ARTIFICIAL CATTLE BREEDING INCREASE IN INDIANA

Artificial breeding of dairy cattle is one of the most significant movements in agriculture today. Dairymen of Indiana are beginning to appreciate the real value of using "proved sires." The rapid acceptance of artificial breeding from studs offering only proved sires, bears out this fact.

At the present time, 78 of the 92 counties have access to proved sires through artificial breeding. By late fall, seven of the 14 remaining counties should have artificial breeding service from proved sires. Frank DeLaCrox, extension dairyman at Purdue University says. During the calendar year of 1948 many of the organized counties bred 10 per cent or more of the dairy cows in their county. The rate of breeding for the first six months of 1949 is 50.4 per cent ahead of last year. Indications are that there will be 53,000 cows, artificially bred to proved sires in Indiana this year, with an additional 15,000 bred artificially from other sources.

All of the 50 artificial breeding co-operatives in the state are supplied by the Indiana Artificial Breeding Association, located near Carmel. More than 20 bulls, made up of 100 per cent high-indexed proved sires of Guernsey, Holstein, and Jersey breeds are housed in this stud. These proved sires, with a butterfat index of 500 pounds or more, rank in the top 2 per cent of their breed. They have proved their ability to pass on high production to their off-spring.

Minimum requirements for the acceptance of a bull by the stud is a production index of 500 pounds of butterfat, the passing of a rigid health examination and proof of being able to settle cows in natural service. In addition, the sire must have at least five daughter and dam comparisons. The record of each daughter born is considered—no selection is made. All records are based on twice daily milking (305 day mature equivalent).

BEEF COW DEMAND

Look for a good demand for beef cows for the next 3 to 5 years, says Capper's Farmer. An article in the December issue points out that cattle numbers are at the BOTTOM of their cycle. Demand for breeding stock will be strong while farmers and ranchers build back their herds. There will be more grass over the Corn Belt, the article adds. Some farmers have made enough that they will want to slow up a bit. Cattle fit well for them.

By JIM MITCHELL

Having the game hogs and illegal gunners or fishermen had easy pickings too long? Have we been too lenient with game code violators? The answer probably is yes to both questions.

Recently I heard a director of a state department of conservation remark that all of us are partly to blame for the deplorable situation existing in most states regarding violations of the codes established to guard our wildlife resources.

He pointed out that too many sportsmen refuse to notify proper authorities about known violators. Sportsmen don't like being stool pigeons. Then, too, it was stressed that our game wardens are not the best and devoted to duty. And finally, the problem of just punishment for violators was injected into the discussion.

I believe the punishment angle is one of the most vital phases of guarding our outdoor resources from those who are wasting wildlife at an unmerciful pace.

For instance, a man is arrested for killing 10 ducks—when the limit is four—and hauled before some justice of the peace for a hearing. In most cases the violator will get off with a fine of a few dollars—and in many states this fine seldom exceeds $2.

That's not a stiff enough penalty to stop violations. In fact, boys with a lot of folding money probably would fork over a $25 fine every day for the opportunity of getting double limits.

But if game code violations, at least for second or third offenders, carried a jail sentence it would be an entirely different story. No gunner or fisherman would risk having to spend a month or two behind bars for a few extra birds or animals.

So as the hunting seasons move along, let's all think a bit more about bringing the game code violations under hand. Let's enforce the laws—and give game a break.

THE RIGHT TO SPEAK

The great strength of the United States is derived in no small part from the sharp public scrutiny under which officials of the government must constantly live. We are not a nation of blind followers. We do not recognize the concept of the superman. Even in the military establishment, from the most inconspicuous enlisted man to the highest general or admiral, initiative and resourcefulness are expected. If national security and common sense require a deviation from the pattern of tradition, and American does not hesitate. Tradition takes a back seat and on occasion the rules are stretched. Congress, in typical American fashion, recently conducted an investigation in an effort to get to the bottom of the armed forces and inter-service controversy. Top level Army, Air Force and Navy officers were called to the witness stand. The Navy did not agree with the views of the other services. Navy witnesses spoke as citizens who were concerned over the future defense of the country. Regardless of whether one shared their opinions, the fact remained that they were testifying at the request of congressional representatives of all the people. It was the scrutinizing process of the people at work. Within a few days, Admiral Denfield, Chief of Naval Operations, was removed from his post, with "brutal directness." The obvious conclusion was that he had been removed because of his testimony, although this was denied. It appeared to be the price for telling the truth as he saw it at the demand of Congress. His removal under such circumstances established a precedent of censorship that is a repudiation of a fundamental right of the people in this country—the right to examine and criticize the policies and activities of their public servants and government, without fear of reprisals.

SURPRISED ON THANKSGIVING

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Teel were pleasantly surprised on Thanksgiving morning when Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Doran and Mary Ann of Lebanon, Mr. and Mrs. John Doran and Jerry and Dick of Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight (Betty Doran) Clemans of Rochester, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis (Emma Doran) Girten and Phillip of Plymouth came home with well filled baskets for a sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner. The girls took charge and for once Aunt Nora was compelled to sit through an entire meal and be waited upon rather than to wait on the others. The affair was a happy and enjoyable reunion. MENTONE MURMURS

by
DAVID and SALLY GOSSER

Mentone is putting on its mantle of Christmas Cheer with the community lighted tree and "greened-up" lamp posts from which strings of colored lights will be hung. With the appearance of mild weather, however, we realize that the expectancy associated with Christmas has nothing to do with weather, for Christmas, indeed, is celebrated in many climes world wide, in jungle swamps where rain is a daily occurrence, in temperate climes, on sun-baked desert land, and in the land of the long nights where ice and snow tenaciously endure even through the blinding brilliancy of arctic days.

Christmas continues to increase the wonderment of Murmurs, especially since the evidence of Christian democratic living is observed here in Mentone. It could NOT happen in Russia, and certainly would not happen in many other so-called Christian lands. Let Murmurs point with pride to the occasion (to be correct—occasions) referred to. A banker, business man, printer, and laborers (not mentioning any names) worked side by side to hang the evergreen boughs that deck the lamp posts for our holiday season. Many times these men, along with others, have worked diligently to make our community attractive and a place to which we may point with pride. At times when we may become dissatisfied with the American Way of Life we may do well to ask ourselves if there is any other country under the sun in which a better opportunity is given for men to apply the principle of the brotherhood of man than here in America—in Mentone.

Almost in the same breath, however, Murmurs is prone to ask about the spectator support that our basketball team didn't have last Friday evening. Perhaps the afternoon defeat by the Silver Lake team had something to do with it, but it is at a time of reversal that our "Bulldogs" need the "lift" that spontaneous enthusiasm can give. During the evening game we had nothing comparable to the enthusiasm evidenced by the Pierceton and Silver Lake "rooters," and a word of comment must be given to the splendid teamwork on the part of the Pierceton "five."

Murmurs are proud to be living in a growing community, a community that is open to new occupations and businesses of repute, and a community that encourages young business and professional men. Some time ago John Boggs came to town to open the Chevrolet agency, and he and his wife and two children are now part of Mentone. Not long ago the Ralph Mollenhour family moved back into Mentone from Bourbon and are residing on East Main Street. More recently Mr.

and Mrs. James Rodibaugh moved into the Charles Manwaring property here in town. Mr. Rodibaugh is the new attorney who has offices in the bank building. Lamar Andersons, although long residents of the community, have opened an electrical service and appliance agency at their residence. We are sure that there are others, especially newcomers, to be added to this list. Murmurs will be happy to include them in a future commentary on community news.

MENTONE

P. T. A. NEWS

The November meeting of the Mentone P. T. A. was well attended in spite of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Mrs. Conda Waluburn, treasurer, reports that the Mentone unit boasts a paid membership of 191.

The N. C. P. T. has a scholarship fund project to encourage young men and women to enter the teaching profession. It was voted that the Mentone P. T. A. send $5.00

Mrs. Carol Eiler was elected assistant secretary.

A committee, Dale Kelly, Mrs. L. Anderson, and Mr. Miner, was appointed to meet with the town board to propose that a street light be installed midway between the community building and the school house.

Earl Smalley, membership chairman, displayed a very lovely picture which is a rotating prize to be given to the grade having the most parents attending the P. T. A. meetings. It was won this month by the eighth grade, which had a count of 13 parents present.

Librarian Mrs. Pearl Lackey announced that there are several new books at the library which will be of interest to parents.

The group singing of "Come Ye Thankful People, Come" was led by Mrs. Eileen Fenstermaker.

Rev. Gosser read portions of Psalms 103 and 118, the Psalms of Thanksgiving, followed by prayer.

On Friday, December 23, a Christmas movie will be shown in the cafeteria. This is to take place of the regular P. T. A. meeting for December. The picture will be shown at 9:30 a. m. for the first six grades and at 10:30 a. m. for the upper classes. Parents are invited to attend.

Mrs. Hobart Creighton, program, introduced the teachers quartet, Mr. Ferberda, Mrs. Eileen Fenstermaker, Mrs. Wayne Tombaugh, and Mr. Glen Law. They sang three numbers accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Dan Urschel.

A skit based on the book "Stop Annoying Your Children" was given by several P. T. A. members. It was very interesting and amusing.

The meeting adjourned, and a social period was held in the cafeteria where coffee and delicious home made cup cakes were served by the hostess.

Notice to P. T. A. Members

The school lunch cooks are still in need of dish towels. If each member would donate one towel there be enough to last quite a while. A hemmed feed sack will make a very good one. We want to thank those who have already given towels.

100 ARRESTED FOR VIOLATION OF GAME LAWS

Conservation Officers of the Indiana Department of Conservation's enforcement division are on the march carrying out the huge task of apprehending violators of various hunting and fishing laws. Arrests totaling nearly one hundred have been made in the first 10 days of November. Fines to the amount of $1,911 have been assessed and paid by violators. Scores of weapons have been confiscated as have the personal hunting and fishing licenses and free permits of those guileless individuals who have run afoul of the law.

"The Conservation Department does not wish to spoil the party for the true sportsman," said Henry P. Cottingham, Director of the Division of Fish and game. "By far and wide these individuals want to see fair play. They are not violators themselves and they resent anyone who is. They most assuredly wish to see those who violate laws governing hunting, fishing, and trapping, brought to justice. We know and have known that violations are far flung throughout the state. Indiana is a big state and it is quite a task for our enforcement officers to cover the territory assigned them. However they are on the job and any violators they catch up with will be dealt to the letter of the law."

Col. Millard Davis superintendent of the enforcement division of the Conservation Department, is doing business amid a score of high-powered and valuable shotguns, rifles and even revolvers confiscated following arrests. Owners have the right to buy their guns back at appraisal prices set by the department.

Charges upon which arrests were made included killing hen pheasants, an open season for which does not exist; hunting and possessing raccoon during closed season; hunting rabbits during closed season; no license; killing wild duck in closed season; trespassing; hunting waterfowl after sun time (one hour before sunset); hunting migratory water fowl without U. S. duck stamp; no plug in gun; hunting water fowl before opening of season; wire trapping fish; killing fowl protected by law; hunting water fowl with a motor boat; illegal possession of a wild goose; hunting without proper license; misrepresentation for resident license; allowing dog to chase raccoon; possession of raw fur in closed season; shooting rabbits at night on highway; having more than five rabbits on person; and unlawful use of an outboard motor for taking ducks.

NUT TREES MAY REPLACE ELMS

Several varieties of nut trees could well be used to replace the rapidly disappearing disease-stricken elm trees in Indiana, according to W. B. Ward, Purdue University extension horticulturalist.

The state, as whole is well-suited to the growing of nut trees which not only have desirable ornamental value but produce a crop of fruit as well, he explains. The stately pecan, wide spreading walnut, colorful hickory, and attractive Persian or England walnut could be used for landscaping and in a few years would yield fruit.

The pecan tree grows satisfactorily in all parts of Indiana except the far northern section where the season may be short and the nuts fail to ripen properly. The black walnut, butternut, and shagbark and shellbark hickory do well on a wide range of soils, the horticulturalist adds, and the American hazel or European filbert could be used for foundation plantings or for screening purposes, or could be set aside for the production of fruit.

Two newcomers in the nut fruit plantings are the heartnut, sometimes called Asiatic walnut, and the Perslap, sometimes called English or Carpathian walnut. Some very fine examples of Persian walnuts were exhibited at the recent State Nut Show at Rockport, Ward reported. Many of these came from trees not over 12 years old which have been in production for four years. One exhibit showed Persian walnuts two inches in diameter, and one young tree reportedly bore more than 50 pounds of nuts this year.

Unfortunately, the Chinese chestnut, a beautiful tree that bears large fruit early, has not been grafted successfully and only seedlings are recommended for planting, the Purdue specialist says. This chestnut is resistant to the chestnut blight, a disease which destroyed the American chestnuts, and some seedling are immune.

For the most part, nut trees require very little attention. Some of the hickories, pecans and chestnuts, however, need spraying periodically to control the twig girdler and weevil. Any of the common fruit practices, such as nitrate fertilization, will increase the growth of the tree and size of the fruit. Since most of the nut trees grow best in sod, they may be used to advantage in lawns.

OUR COUNTY AND SOCIAL SECURITY

By Gerald O. Kelver

This column will present the intimate story of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance. Its purpose is two-fold. FIRST, to inform you of the Social Security Administration program that provides benefits to aged insured workers and their families when the worker retires and to surviving members of families when the breadwinner dies. SECOND, to inform you of your rights under this insurance, so that you can reap the full benefits it has to offer.

The field office which serves your county is located at Elkhart in Room 222 of the Equity Building. It has three outstanding functions. They are:

1. The handling of all types of benefit claims. This may be said to be the most important function since no benefit may be paid until the qualified person files his or her application.
2. Issuance of new and duplicate social security account number cards.
3. Assistance to wage and salary workers in commerce and industry in records to make sure that the records checking their social security wage kept for each worker are accurate.

THANK YOU, EDITOR

Thanksgiving is past, but not too late to thank you for sending me the Mentone paper. I read it thoroughly and enjoy it very much. By reading the ads I see that business is going on as usual and is still a good place to buy. I read the locals and club calendar and note that social activities are in keeping with the times. Also note the church activities, especially the W.S.C.S., are having very interesting meetings. As to the front page, it is very commendable—no juvenile delinquency, no thefts or murder, no crime. Quite the opposite of the city newspaper with front page nothing but crime. "Good old home town!" Although I like my home and church very much.

Thank you again.

PRESERVE POSTS

Five years is considered a ripe old age for ordinary fence posts. Capper's Farmer points out that treating with PENTACHLOROPHENOL will extend their life span to 25 years. Soaking posts in chemical costs about 40 cents each, the magazine reports. Posts should be cut in late winter or early spring, seasoned thru the summer and treated early next fall. Black oak, pin oak, red oak and pine have shown the longest INCREASE in life from chemical treatment.

"AG" ASSOCIATIONS TO MEET DEC. 27-30

Several thousand Hoosier farmers will hear reports of new developments in scientific farming and will learn where they may expect to make their 1950 profits at the annual winter agricultural conferences of 27 states associations to be held at Purdue University, Dec. 27-30.

Among the highlights announced for the week will be the talks by Dean H. J. Reed, director of agricultural activities, and by Rep. Ralph Harvey, of the Indiana tenth district, at the Rural Youth meetings Wednesday. The traditional gathering of Purdue agricultural alumni for their annual fish fry and recognition of individuals who have contributed to the furtherance of agriculture will be a Thursday noon feature.

The conference will open Tuesday with the annual meetings of 18 livestock associations, culminating with a banquet. In the afternoon, the Indiana Corn Growers Association will hear talks on chemical weed control and corn borer control. A session on farm leases and farm planning will be directed by the department of agricultural economics. Harold Clark, Rochester, Mich., will be the principal speaker at the horse and mule breeders association meeting.

At the two-day farm electrification conference, beginning Wednesday, hog raisers will hear reports from producers who have experimented with the use of lighting for hogs and brooding pigs and with infra red lamps. Equipping the farm shop, milking parlor operations, and problems of electric suppliers will be among the topics discussed.

Developments in the production of vegetable hybrids and trends in marketing will be discussed by Hoosier vegetable growers Wednesday. The program will be concluded with a panel discussion on "What's Wrong with Indiana Production and Marketing Programs?"

Members of the Indiana Farm Management Association, holding a one-day session Wednesday, will hear interpretations of the economic situation, farm legislation and talks on surpluses. The ten-year far maccount certificates will be awarded at the luncheon meeting.

Progress made in grain and hay drying, frozen food storage and control of corn borers by light traps will be reported at Thursday's farm electrification meeting.

The farm health and safety conference which has importance in Indiana in recent years is planned for Friday. Attention will be focused on health habits of both Hoosiers and peoples abroad. Feature of the afternoon will be safety demonstration and the awarding of certificates and bonds to winners in the farm and home safety contests.

Daily attractions featuring home life in foreign lands have been arranged for women visitors. They will include a talk by Miss Opal Stech, extension home economist who worked in that capacity in Poland in 1947-48, a talk by a Purdue librarian and a demonstration of foreign cookery by Mrs. Virginia Moore, Ft. Wayne.

Conference programs may be obtained from W. F. Graman, superintendent of the Agricultural Conference, Purdue University.

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Approximately 5000 cases of tuberculosis have been recorded in the Tuberculosis Register during the two years that the register has been operating and several sections of the northern part of the state remain to be covered, according to Dr. Merle Bundy, director, Division of Tuberculosis Control, Indiana State Board of Health.

"Active cases of tuberculosis and cases where the disease is arrested for a period of less than two years are maintained in the register in an effort to control tuberculosis in Indiana," Dr. Gundy pointed out. "Not only is this information used as a basis of a good follow-up program in assisting in the cure and rehabilitation of the tuberculosis but also punch cards are made for use in developing statistical and administrative programs."

Registers have been set up by Mrs. Mary K. Galloway, public health analyst, in the central, southwestern and southeastern part of Indiana and work is now being done in the northwestern area in St. Joseph county. It is expected that the northwestern area will be reached by spring and the work of setting up the register will be completed in about a year and a half.
