Chairman For
Gift Collection

The local collection of gifts for mental patients was under way today, following announcement of the local chairman appointment for this fine project. Mrs. T. J. Clutter of Mentone was named by County Mental Health Christmas Gift Chairman Mrs. Russell Smith of Warsaw to supervise the collection of gifts in this area.

Tom Sikes of Mt. Vernon, state chairman of the annual Christmas gift collection program of the Indiana Association for Mental Health, lauded the selection, explaining that there is a great need for civic leadership of Mrs. Clutter's caliber as well as an acute need for generous contributors to make this program a success.

Each year, sororities, church groups, clubs and civic organizations seek gifts from their members and from other interested contributors. The gifts are distributed to patients at ward parties in mid-December in the Fort Wayne State Hospital.

A quota of 241 gifts for men and 241 gifts for women have been requested from Kosciusko County.

Prepare Engines For Winter

Take time to prepare farm gasoline engines for winter. If you do you'll cut maintenance costs and have a smooth running engine next spring.

Ray M. Lein, Purdue University agricultural engineer, says engines used on combines, forage harvesters, balers, irrigation pumps, lawn mowers and garden tractors need special attention before the onset of winter.

Most engine manufacturers issue instruction manuals which give suggestions for preparing the engine for winter storage. If no manual is available, Lien suggests these 12 steps to protect engines from winter damage:

Clean excess dirt and grease off the engine and ignition wires.

Run engine until warm, drain and refill with new oil. Replace the oil filter.

Remove air cleaner up, clean and refill with new oil.

Run engine until new oil is circulated throughout engine.

Drain and flush the cooling system. Leave all drain cocks open after flushing.

Drain the fuel tank. Run engine to remove all fuel out of lines and carburetor.

Remove spark plugs and put one tablespoonful of lubricating oil over piston and cylinder walls. two or three times to distribute oil in each cylinder. Turn engine. Replace spark plugs.

Remove valve housing cover or valve cover plate and flush valves and operating parts with lubricating oil.

On engines with battery ignition systems, remove battery and store in cool dry place where temperatures will remain above freezing. Check water level and state of charge of battery from time to time.

Cover the exhaust pipe, crankcase breather and air cleaner intake.

On air cooled engines, be sure all chaff and dirt is removed from around the cylinder and head cooling fins.

Store the engine inside a building or protect it from moisture with a suitable covering.

Rodent Control Urged

Farmers should not overlook rodent control as one of the chores involved in corn storage, says G. C. Oderkirk, Purdue University rodent control specialist.

Aware of cold, winter days ahead, the rats and mice have started moving from their summer homes in fields and along fence rows into the security of farm buildings.

With the corn crop in the crib, the rodents need only to dig in and make their homes close to their food supply. Poisoned baits should be set out now to welcome the migrating rodents. A continuous supply of fresh bait needs to be exposed 12 to 20 places around the average farmstead.

Anticoagulant poisons such as warfarin, pival, or fumarin are recommended as they are the least likely to cause injury to animals other than rats. Home-mixed baits are very well accepted by rats and mice and can be made by mixing 85 per cent cracked corn, five per cent salad oil, five per cent sugar, and five per cent of the anticoagulant poison.

Rat and mouse harbor removal should go hand-in-hand with a poisoned bait treatment. By cleaning out or removing places where rats and mice stay, a farmer can do much to discourage rodents from staying on his farm.

Dairy Meeting
December 3

Hoosier dairymen will look to the future at the 67th annual meeting of the Indiana State Dairy Association at Purdue University, Monday, December 3.

A Purdue agricultural economist, C. E. French, will challenge the dairymen with the question, "Will You Be Milking Cows in 1970?" French, who has won the respect of Indiana farmers for his sound view on dairy economics, will give the dairymen some ideas on the future of the industry. In his talk, he will tell the farmers what can be done in order to adjust to future progress.

Dr. L. M. Hutchings, head of the veterinary science department at Purdue and one of the nation's leading authorities on livestock diseases, will also address the group. Hutchings will discuss two new cattle diseases—virus diarrhea and mucosal disease—that have been found in Indiana during the past three years.

French and Hutchings will speak during an afternoon session.

Darius Kingen, president of the association from Muncie, will preside over the annual event which is scheduled to open at 10 a. m. in the Purdue Memorial Union. E. A. Gannon, Purdue extension dairyman who has served as secretary-treasurer of the group for 35 years, will present his annual report to open the program.

Awards will be presented to 275 owners of outstanding Hoosier dairy herds and to 30 owners of meritorious sires. G. A. Williams and N. J. Moeller, Purdue extension dairymen, will make the presentations. At the noon luncheon, Indiana's 1956 dairyman of the year will be presented a leadership scroll.

National Leader Optimistic About Future of farming

When Charles B. Shuman, Illinois farmer and president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, appears on the thirty-eighth annual convention program of the Indiana Farm Bureau, November 7, he will bring a message of optimism. His subject will be, "Farming with a Future." About 3,000 farmers are expected to attend.

The Indiana event will be held in the Murat Theater, Indianapolis, starting at one o'clock of the first day and closing after the delegate session on November 9. The Indiana Rural Youth will also hold their annual convention, starting in the morning of the seventh. Their sessions will occur in the Egyptian Room of the Murat Temple. The two groups will join for the evening program.

The new governor will appear on the opening program for the Bureau gathering. President Hassil E. Schenck, Boone county farmer, will bring his annual message during the same session. Dr. Russell J. Humbert, De-Pauw University president, will make the principal address of the evening, his subject will be, "The Future of Education." During the same session the winner of the Rural Youth public speaking contest, sponsored by the Farm Bureau women's department, and the two Talk Meet finalists from the younger group will all appear for brief talks.

On Thursday, November 8, 3 experts on labor, industry and agriculture will present the problems of each. These three will be Dr. Fred Witney and Dr. Edgar Williams, both of Indiana University; and Prof. J. Carroll Bottom of Purdue. John Grierson of the Production Credit Corporation, Louisville, will discuss farm credit problems Thursday afternoon. The final spot on the program will be filled by Mrs. Paul Flinn, Johnson county, who is state leader of the Farm Bureau women.

Entertainment to intersperse the program will be given by: Miss Gloria Jean Donahue, Scott county; Stephen D. Thurston, Madison county; Swanee River Boys and the LaPorte High School swing choir.

Indiana farmers are buying more high analysis fertilizer each year. This is a good idea, A. S. Carter, assistant state chemist says at Purdue University. By purchasing higher analysis, less money spent on fertilizer goes for such items as freight and bags and more goes for plant food. Indiana sold more tons of actual plant food last year than any other state.

It is expected to attract more than 10,000 of the World's finest farm animals in competition for $100,000 in cash prizes and the coveted renown that prize winners attain.

To Feature Carcasses

Greater emphasis will be placed this year on the Exposition's Carcass competitions, wherein prime meat animals are judged alive and their carcasses then evaluated after slaughter.

The prize winning carcasses will be on view to show visitors in a specially constructed Turbo-Chill refrigerated glass-enclosed trailer; and the champion carcasses of beef, pork, and lamb will be auctioned as a feature of the Tuesday Horse Show, November 27, before an audience of 10,000.

Farm Youth will be in the lime-light the first two days of the Show. A national 4-H Live Stock Judging Contest will start the activities of the week on Friday, November 23, and the Junior Livestock Feeding Contest, where farm boys and girls will exhibit beef cattle and hogs of their own raising, will be held on November 24, as will the Exposition's Collegiate Live Stock Judging Contest in which agricultural college students match their skill in livestock judging.

New Horse Show Plans

Star feature of the International Horse Show, scheduled for 14 performances, will be the world-famed Royal Canadian Mounted Police Musical Ride, consisting of 36 riders in scarlet coats on matching black horses. It will be the first time this famous precision riding event has ever appeared in Chicago.

New and spectacular jumping courses have been constructed this year which the Horse Show management predicts will add much spectacular interest and color to each performance.

My office will be closed from November 13, to November 19, 1956.

New Alfalfa Pest Shows Up

Indiana has been invaded by the most serious insect threat to alfalfa in the United States—the spotted alfalfa aphid.

M. Curtis Wilson, Purdue University entomologist, has revealed that the pest has been found in seven southwestern Indiana counties. He believes that it entered Posey County during the latter part of August and had spread into Gibson, Knox, Vanderburg, Warrick, Spencer and Perry counties by October 15.

The spotted alfalfa aphid is a native of southern Europe and the middle east. In the United States, it was first found in New Mexico in 1954. That year it spread to California, Arizona, Nevada and Oklahoma. In 1955, the pest reached 13 states and by last spring had crossed the Mississippi River into one county in southern Illinois. In the south it has swept across the country to Virginia.

An extremely tiny insect, less than one-sixteenth of an inch in length, the aphid is a yellowish brown or straw in color. It has several rows of brown spots on its back which can be seen under magnification. Damage is caused by this insect by sucking the juices from the plants, reducing their vigor and retarding growth.

Under heavy infestation, plants wilt, turning yellow and then to brown. The plants become encrusted with a sticky honeydew which is secreted by the insects and which may cause harvesting problems. Mowers and rakes may become unusable unless washed periodically. Baling equipment may become unmanageable. Not the least of the honey dew problems is a sooty fungus which develops in it.

One of the reasons this insect becomes such a serious problem is its fantastic ability to multiply in warm weather. A female can produce five offspring per day and these young can be reproducing in about a week.

Because of its ability to rapidly disperse, Wilson stated that it may threaten alfalfa over the entire state within another year. Much needs to be learned about this insect under Indiana conditions, he added. It will be important to determine if it overwinters this far north.

Research is being initiated at Purdue to determine the aphid's behavior in this region and to find methods for control. Purdue entomologists and plant breeders foresaw that this insect might invade Indiana and sent promising alfalfa breeding material to the west during the past year for study for possible insect resistance. Some of this material shows promise and considerable research will be carried out to produce a resistant alfalfa.

Farm Bureau Takes Stand On Current Issues

The three-day annual convention of the Indiana Farm Bureau came to a close at Indianapolis, Friday with a stouthearted reaffirmation by the delegate body of the farmers' belief in a free economy and his ability to manage his own affairs; and formulated his concern over tax equalization, among other things.

Re-elected to their present positions were George Doup, Bartholomew county farmer, vice-president and secretary-treasurer of the organization; and Mrs. Paul Flinn, John county farm woman, state social and educational director and second vice-president. Each term is for two years.

President Hassil E. Schenk struck a note of optimism when he said: "I doubt if anybody really wants to go back to normal."

We want "normal" but we shall reach it by going forward." He spoke at length on the problems facing the coming General Assembly and in which farmers are vitally interested. He anticipated new problems in the Federal highway development in the years ahead. Schenk focused attention on the problems of overcrowded schools, county road repair and maintenance and the ever present need for additional revenue.

Governor Harold Handley delivered his maiden address as top state official before convention. He recognized some of the problems stressed by the Farm Bureau and openly pledged his support of a school of veterinary medicine at Purdue, repeal of the state 15 cent property tax, and "If legislation is passed for a two-cent increase in the state gasoline tax, I shall approve it," he said.

Mentone Reading Club Meets

The Mentone Reading Club met at the home of Mrs. H. V. Johns on Wednesday evening, November 7. Mrs. Lyman Mollenhour was assistant hostess.

Response to roll call was "Why I Am Thankful."

Following the business session, the program committee, composed of Mrs. Fred Lemler and Mrs. Jack VanGilder, presented Mrs. John Snell of Warsaw. She reviewed the book "The Shape of Sunday," which tells of the life of William Lloyd Douglas as seen through the eyes of his two daughters. Mr. Douglas wrote such memorable books as "Magnificent Obsession," "White Banners," "Disputed Passage" and "The Big Fisherman." Mrs. Snell gave the review in an interesting and informal style, leaving a pleasant uncluttered picture of the struggle of Mr. Douglas as a young minister, through his writing difficulties, to his success as a writer.

Passion Play At Elkhart

A stage presentation that annually vies with the best Broadway productions and which boasts a far longer "run" than any other, soon will be given in Elkhart by a group of professional actors who maintain the traditional realism of the 714 year old vehicle. The Black Hills Passion Play is coming to Elkhart for the first time and is scheduled for November 28, 29, 30 and December 1, at the Elkhart High School auditorium according to L. E. Fleck, Jr., Promotion Manager of The Elkhart Truth, local sponsor. All monies which accrue will be used for philanthropic purposes.

Starring the renowned Josef Meier in his heart-warming role as the Christus, and supported by a huge cast, the Passion Play brings to Elkhart the "Oldest Story" presented by the world's most famous cast. The story of the last seven days in the life of Jesus of Nazareth unfolds in 22 scenes. Tons of scenery and unusual lighting effects valued at $250,000 will give the spectators of the production the feeling of actually being present at the time these immortal events took place two thousand years ago.

The central set, depicting a typical street in ancient Jerusalem includes such scenes as the court of King Herod, the Last Supper and the Ascension. Josef Meier, an American citizen since 1938, who is the seventh generation of his family to enact this impressive role of the Christus, came originally from Luenen, Westphalia, Germany, where the play originated in 1242. The entire play is presented in English. This may be a "once in a lifetime" opportunity to see this great production which for so many years people have traveled abroad to witness. The role of Mary the Mother of Jesus, is portrayed by Clare Hume, who in private life is Mrs. Josef Meier. Mrs. Meier an American woman, has achieved acclaim both in this country and abroad, and brings to the role a rare and sympathetic understanding. She and Mr. Meier are the proud parents of a young daughter who is following in the customs of her ancestors.

The play, which has been termed the greatest dramatic production ever staged, will be presented for four days here in Elkhart, and the premiere performance will be held at 8:15 o'clock, Wednesday, November 28th. Special student matinees will be held at 2:00 p. m. on November 28, 29, and 30 for students of public, parochial and urban schools at a special reduced price of 50 cents for students. Principals or teachers of rural schools who are interested in having their students attend a performance of the Passion Play may make reservations by writing Passion Play Headquarters, The Elkhart Truth, 416 S. Second St., Elkhart, Indiana, or phoning 2-2632 or 2-0150.

Good home lighting may mean the difference between success and failure. Follow these simple suggestions and your child will never be at a disadvantage due to faulty lighting.

1. Eliminate dark shadows in the study room by having an adequate source of general light (ceiling or indirect light).
2. Have a lamp of at least 150 watts for reading (preferably diffused-type giving "soft" light).
3. Eliminate glare (have no unshielded lights within direct vision of child at work in the room).

Your child will be able to make the best progress in study with good lighting. And the suggestions may be used to benefit the whole family. Why not review your lighting needs today?

Sow Herd Management

Proper care of the sow herd during the breeding and gestation periods will pay off in a good pig crop next spring.

That's the word from Purdue University extension specialists Vernon Bell and Richard Hollandbeck, who say that gilts should be at least eight months of age and weigh at least 225 pounds before they are bred.

Sows can be "flushed" by increasing their grain ration one week before breeding. The sows should be bred on the second day of the heat period and accurate breeding records kept.

If the sows are turned into corn fields after the harvest they will not only utilize corn left in the field but will get much needed exercise.

When the animals are running in corn fields they should each receive 1 to 1½ pounds of 35 per cent protein supplement daily. The supplement can be hand-fed. Also needed to be available at all times is a good mineral mixture of 40 parts bonemeal, 40 parts limestone and 20 parts io-dized salt. Do not let sows become overfat, the specialists assert.

Sows on drylot should receive a grain ration containing 14 per cent total protein supplement. Gilts on drylot should have a grain ration of 15 per cent total protein supplement.

It is also important that the sows as well as all pigs be provided with a clean dry shelter, free of drafts, at this time of year to prevent respiratory diseases. Clean fresh water at all times is another essential.

Several members of 3 Home Demonstration clubs of Mentone attended the County achievement day Wednesday afternoon in Warsaw.

Legume seed production forecasts are for a slightly larger ladino and white clover crop this year than in 1955. The alsike clover seed crop is the smallest on record and one-third below the 1945-54 average. The sweet clover seed crop is one-third smaller than in 1955, according to Purdue University agronomists.

Most crop seeds tested in November will not change much in germination by spring seeding time, says A. S. Carter, assistant state seed commissioner at Purdue University. Some of the hard seeds of lespedeza will probably break down, and moist grain or cracked soybeans may germinate poorly. Otherwise the germination will probably hold up until planting time.

Auxiliary Meets

Mentone Auxiliary Unit 425 met November 13 at the Post Home. Georgiana Teel called the meeting to order after the group sang the Star Spangled Banner and pledged allegiance to the flag.

Plans were made for the Thanks-to-Veterans pot luck supper to be Saturday night at 6:30. Arrangements were made to send Christmas gifts to servicemen overseas and to the girl we sponsor at Knightstown Orphan's Home. The members present signed a greeting card to send to Emma Clutter.

Mrs. Jerry Smith gave the program on The United States Flag. Our flag, accepted June 14, 1777, is the third oldest national flag in the world. When it was first flown, the population was three million. Now it is the emblem of 130 million people. She told us the meaning of the parts of the flag, the correct uses, and the days to display flags.

Farmers Using More Fertilizer

Kosciusko county farmers helped boost Indiana's fertilizer consumption to a state wide total of 1,116,496 tons in 1955, reports the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in summarizing statistics compiled by Dr. F. W. Quackenbush of Purdue University.

Leading all other fertilizer ratios in use on Indiana farms last year with 584,329 tons, was the 1-4-4 ratio, which includes fertilizer grades such as 3-12-12, 4-16-16 and 5-20-20.

Next in rank with 209,323 tons was the 1-1-1 ratio, comprising 10-10-10, 12-12-12 and 14-14-14 grades. The 0-1-1 ratio, comprising 0-20-20, accounted for 52,369 tons.

"Indiana farmers," say the committee, "have been increasing their use of fertilizer over the years, because: 1—They realize fertilizer is a high paying investment that can return $3 and more for every dollar spent; 2—Fertilizer helps farmers meet the cost-price squeeze by cutting costs of producing crops and by increasing net income; 3—Plant food, in teamwork with other soil-building practices maintains the land at high crop-yielding levels."

Split Application Of Lime

A Purdue University agronomist, R. D. Bronson, has recommended a special liming technique for the establishment of legumes on acid soils.

It's called split application and is the practice of plowing down half the required amount of limestone and disking the other half into the seed bed before planting.

Bronson said the object of split application is to apply the total amount of limestone needed in such a way that soil conditions are favorable to the early growth of plants—particularly legumes. When limestone is plowed down, the acid soil is brought to the surface from below at the same time. An acid soil, when prepared as a seed bed, is unfavorable for the growth of young seedlings, the specialist explained.

Split application is also desirable as an initial treatment for any very acid mineral soil, or as a periodic treatment of very acid muck or organic soils.

Legume seedlings need a favorable pH and an adequate supply of calcium in order to thrive until their root systems can "reach down" to get the limestone which has been plowed under. Agricultural ground limestone contains enough of the finer particles and can be used to get quick neutralization of soil acidity when applied in split application.

For field crops on very acid soil, lime near the surface is important in avoiding the harmful effects of excess aluminum and in making the phosphate and other nutrients more available. Young plants have little reserve food and may starve in an unfavorable soil environment.

Liming is not recommended for acid tolerant muck crops such as blueberries and some varieties of potatoes. Bronson, however, suggests a split application of 4-5 tons per acre of limestone for field crops, such as corn, grown on very acid muck soils. Here, the limestone is needed to supply calcium.

Soil tests should be used to determine the amount of limestone required. "Now is the time for farmers to take samples on which to base their liming program for next year.

"By testing soils periodically and applying the needed limestone to a part of the farm each year, split application for establishing legumes can be avoided," Bronson concludes.

Crop Seeds Are Better

Farmers in Indiana are being offered better quality crop seed each year.

According to A. S. Carter, assistant state seed commissioner at Purdue University, seed offered for sale in Indiana shows an increase in the amount labeled, improvement in the accuracy of the labeling, and improvement in quality.

Last spring, about 68 per cent of all lots of seed advertised for sale by newspapers was tested and tagged as required by law. The other 32 per cent—one and a half million pounds—was offered without tags but a substantial part of this seed was eventually tested and tagged.

Seedsmen who consider advertising seed for sale next spring should take steps now to get the seed cleaned and tested. Thus, when the season approaches they will be in a position to merchandise the seed to best advantage.

Farmers and seed dealers can submit seed samples to the state seed commissioner at Purdue for a test. Results of the test on these service samples may be used in labeling the seed.

It is important, Carter stresses, that these free test samples be sent to the commissioner as soon as possible—preferably before the seed is not in condition to be sold or seeded, plenty of time will remain to get the seed cleaned and retested. During the busy season from January to May, it may be necessary to limit the number of free tests that can be made for any one individual or firm.

In the year ending June 30, 1956, inspectors for the state seed commissioner tested 4849 service samples submitted by Indiana dealers, 2781 samples were collected by the inspectors from lots of seed offered or exposed for sale to check correctness of the labeling of the seed so offered.

Inspectors removed from sale 227 lots of seed involving one and a half million pounds because it was subject to the labeling provisions of the seed law and did not carry tags filled out properly. Of this quantity, 74 lots amounting to 254,000 pounds involved seeds offered or sold by dealers, and 153 lots totaling 911,000 lbs. offered by farmers who either advertised the seed in newspapers or delivered it away from their farms without attaching proper tags.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Cook and family of South Bend called at the William Cook home Sunday afternoon.

Tips On Swine Management

Indiana farmers who make the most profit from swine production follow sound management practices.

Richard Hollandbeck and Vernon Bell, Purdue University swine extension specialists, have listed some advice for farmers to follow from the time the pigs are farrowed until marketed.

At birth, pigs should be ear notched, weighed and their "needle" teeth clipped. Within two weeks they should be castrated. Pens should be kept clean and dry, and clean soil or iron copper solutions provided to prevent anemia in the pigs. If pigs are on concrete the anemia treatment should start on the third day.

A creep should be provided 10 days to two weeks after the pigs are farrowed. Crimped or rolled wheat, rolled oats and sugar can be used as appetizer in the creep. After the pigs learn to eat, a 16 to 18 percent protein ration should be fed. Clean, fresh water should be available in the creep area.

Pigs can be weaned between four and eight weeks of age. The sows should be moved and the pigs left in the same field to which they are accustomed. Pigs should be eating well before they are weaned.

If the pigs are full-fed, gains will be faster and more economical. The specialists say it seldom pays to grind feed for hogs over 50 pounds. If pigs are on good pasture, a complete mixed ration should be fed until they weigh 75 pounds. Then a gradual switch can be made to shelled corn and protein supplement.

Diseases and parasites can be prevented to a large degree through good management and sanitation. If possible symptoms of cholera, erysipelas, influenza, pneumonia, brucellosis or other infectious diseases occur, a veterinarian should be consulted.

Hogs should be wormed as needed with sodium fluoride, cadmium or piperazine compounds. Rotation of pastures will help reduce worm infestation. To control external parasites, farmers should spray the hogs with BHC or lindane.

Market hogs should be topped out when they weigh 200 to 220 pounds, and sold at outlets most advantageous to the producer.

Need Ice-free Water

Livestock can't be expected to make economical and rapid gains during the cold months ahead unless plenty of ice-free water is available at all times.

Bruce McKenzie, extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University, asserts that too many farmers take the livestock water supply for granted. If cattle and hogs are to make the greatest gains they must have an adequate supply of water.

On many farms, McKenzie says the water supply is the weakest link in the entire livestock production program. Even the best in feed and forage can't offset a restricted water supply.

Automatic, heated waterers provide the best means for clean fresh, ice-free water, the specialist states. With today's pressure water systems, plastic pipe and underground wiring, automatic fountains can be laced in every feed lot on the farm.

Operating costs for automatic waterers are small, especially if the savings in labor are considered. McKenzie estimates that the cost for electricity to run an automatic watering system for 50-125 hogs would be less than $10 per year.

"Why not throw away the water bucket and ice axe?" McKenzie asks. Electrical suppliers or local equipment dealers will help farmers design a system to meet their individual needs.

A low pressure weed spray nozzle which will make a fine, misty spray can be used effectively in obtaining desired moisture conditions in your egg holding room. Poultrymen at Purdue University say the nozzle can be fastened to the end of a hose attached to the water system. Suspend the nozzle about five feet high, pointed to spray horizontally and directed so that the spray does not hit any egg cases. An hour of operation a day should be sufficient to get enough moisture into the air of a room 10 or 12 feet square.

Animal husbandmen at Purdue University report that feeder cattle will make some gains in the corn field after the corn is harvested if the cattle are large enough and they are not left there too long.

Purdue University poultry specialists say that new corn can be fed to poultry as soon as the corn is dry enough to shell. The high moisture content of new corn is not harmful to chickens when the corn is fed as grain along with a regular laying mash and not more than one-half of the total feed eaten is corn.

Lumber Paneling Installation

Now that you have hung the storm windows, you may have to face those inside redecorating jobs you promised the family.

If you're in such a spot, why not make everyone happy at once by paneling those old walls in the recreation room. To help you out, Purdue University foresters have just released a new publication that tells how to install and finish hardwood lumber paneling.

Coauthors of the Purdue publication, C. I. Miller and R. C.
Brundage, say it will take only about 10 minutes to read from cover to cover. You'll learn quickly what tools and materials are needed, how to figure the amount of paneling for the room and how to prepare old walls for paneling.

For instance, here's what the specialists say about installing paneling: For each wall, determine the number of boards of each width to be used. For example, on a wall that requires 12 boards, 4 inches wide, 10 boards, 5 inches wide, and 8 boards, 6 inches wide, take 30 slips of paper. Write 4 on 12, 5 on 10 and 6 on 8 of them. Mix the slips. Draw them one at a time to determine the random pattern in which to install the widths. Stand the boards against the wall in this order. Then carefully study the arrangement.
If it will improve the appearance, change a few boards. When you determine the final sequence, number the boards on the back before you lay them aside.

For further tips on installing, drop into your county extension agent's office today for a free copy of extension circular 424,

"How to Install and Finish Hardwood Lumber Paneling." It's a publication that should help you avoid making frustrating mistakes that go with many jobs.

"The Builders" Hold Meeting

Seventeen adults and sixteen children, representatives of the newly organized adult class of The Methodist Sunday School known as "The Builders," met for a fellowship supper at 6:30 in the church basement on Sunday evening, November 11th.

A short business meeting was conducted by the class president, Mr. Gene Sarber, and Mr. David Cooper showed colored slides of his military assignment of 18-months duration on Japan's northern-most island, Hokaido. Those present voted to meet regularly the second Sunday evening of each month. Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson, Jr., volunteered to host the class and its friends for the December meeting. A 50c gift exchange for both adults and children was unanimously agreed upon.

World Traveler To Speak Here

A guest speaker, Rev. Harold E. Camp, who has recently returned from an extensive trip around the world, including Russia, will speak at The Methodist Church, Mentone, Indiana on Thanksgiving Sunday, November 18th, for the 9:30 service of Divine Worship. In the evening he will give a travelog "Around the World and Inside Russia," at the Baptist Church for the evening service at 7:30. The evening service will be in the form of a union service of The Methodist and Baptist Churches of the community.

Mr. Camp has traveled in virtually every country in the world, and is well qualified to speak on world affairs—especially those of Asia, where he has spent the past three summers, working in Japan. Mr. Camp's world travels began in 1935, when he visited the near East, and have continued every other year, with the exception of the war years. He has had some exciting and interesting experiences which he relates in an unusual way. Human interest incidents highlight his tales of travel in the far Pacific, the jungles of the Belgian Congo and China. His stories of his entertainment in the tents of the desert Arabs, as well as his experiences in the Holy Land make interesting hearing.

An experienced photographer, Mr. Camp has filmed most of the world in color movies, and his films are widely used by mission boards, travel agencies and clubs who promote interest in world events. He appears with his films and gives an unusual running commentary as the scenes of life appear on the screen—as one would see them himself—were he to travel in these places himself.

An unusual record of near-war events is a part of Mr. Camp's experiences. He was in Italy when the Ethiopian War began. He left the Marco Polo Bridge only hours before the shooting began between China and Japan started in Peking in 1937. As an official photographer for the Japanese Tourist Board in 1939, he photographed scenes in Japan which were later used by the U. S. Government to study Japan. That fall he left Europe on the last trip on the Normandie. In 1941 he was in the South Pacific shortly before the attack on Pearl Harbor. Since World War II, Mr. Camp has been around the world several times. His latest travels included Yugoslavia, Hungary and Russia.

In commenting on a recent talk, made in Marion, Indiana, the Marion Chronicle said, "Mr.

Camp is well qualified to speak on world subjects. . . . He gave the most logical address on the situation in Russia that we have ever heard. . . ."

The public is cordially invited and encouraged to attend both of these services.

Our Thanks To Others

The spirit of Thanksgiving seems to be symbolized by dining room tables stuffed to overflowing with turkey, sweet potatoes and all the trimmings. Families gather, tuck their napkins under their chins, offer thanks and . . . dig in!

On the same day, in Asian rice paddies, Berlin refugee camps, Italian caves, Korean orphanages, Israeli settlements, Gaza Strip tents and Hong Kong gutters—there are no such tables groaning with food . . . no such happy families gathered.

In answer to the crying need of refugees, orphans, war victims and starving millions throughout the world, CARE, the overseas relief agency, has launched its 1956 Food Crusade.

Using farm surplus donated by the U. S. Government, CARE is distributing five million special food packages to the world's needy in the name of the American people. Each package, containing 22 pounds of nourishing staples, will feed a family of four for one month.

In order to carry out this ambitious and humanitarian program, CARE needs your help! Your contribution of one dollar will deliver one 22 pound package, bearing your name, to a needy family in one of 18 countries of Europe, Asia, the Middle East, or Latin America. Multiply that dollar and you can deliver one ton of food abroad to an orphanage, refugee camp, needy village, or institution.

No one is suggesting that you go without your turkey and trimmings but, if you can spare a dollar or more, you can invite an entire family to share your blessings. We recommend CARE's Food Crusade as your opportunity to put real meaning into Thanksgiving. And . . . we think you'll enjoy your own meal the more for having shared it with someone less fortunate. The place to send your contributions is: CARE, Chicago, Ill.

It looks as though the Akron and Henry township school children will have an extra long Thanksgiving holiday this year, as the high school building was damaged by wind some time Tuesday night.

The damage was not discovered until school Principal Granville Deaton entered the building this morning. He personally greeted the school buses and sent the children back home without alighting from the bus.

We have no information as to the extent of the damage.

Bulldogs down Blazers, 67-50

The Mentone Bulldogs continued to rule the Leesburg Blue Blazers on the basketball court as they struggled to a 67-50 victory Friday night.

The day before the Freshman of Mentone defeated Leesburg's Freshman squad by the score of 52-21. Dick Long led the scoring with 15 points for the Bulldogs. Just one week previous to this the Jr. High teams won 25-16 and 36-17 over the Blazers.

Leesburg put up a determined bid to stop Mentone's brilliant guard, Tom Hoover, but in slowing him down they fouled him constantly. He made 15 of 18 charity tosses.

The scoring was balanced better than it had been against any previous foe of the Bulldogs, who along with Pierce-ton are the county's only undefeated teams. Both have a 3-0 record.

Farm Cardiac Project Report

Research is underway at Purdue University to develop easier, more effective, and more economical ways to do farm work.

Research workers are determining the energy requirements for doing farm jobs and the effect changes in work methods have on those requirements. They also plan to develop and evaluate alternate plans for the organization and operation of the farm business according to the work capacity of the farmer—especially the cardiac impaired farmer.

What does the farmer do and what is the energy cost. How many hours does he work? How much energy does he use in his work and his leisure activities?

Twenty farmers living near Lafayette are cooperating with W. H. M. Morris and G. L. Himes, Purdue agricultural economists, in a study of the daily work load to answer those questions.

Energy requirements of select tasks have been obtained through studies by J. E. Weibers, Purdue physiologist, and J. B. Liljedahl, Purdue agricultural engineer, at Purdue or on Purdue farms. Studies have been made on the performance of a routine chore. For example, studies have been made to compare the energy required when operating a tractor equipped with power steering as compared to one with conventional steering.

Basic energy cost, however, does not show the entire picture of the human cost of farm work—weather conditions have an important effect.

The strain caused by heat and reaction of both young and older men to work in hot weather are being studied by Weibers. Mowing the lawn was selected as a standard task. The body temperature, pulse rate, and perspiration loss on the individual measured, indicating the total strain. Weather conditions were recorded at the time of the tests. In this way the effect of the combined work and heat stress and the strain they produced on the individual can be estimated.

The Purdue Farm Cardiac project is under the direction of L. S. Hardin, acting head of the agricultural economics department at Purdue, and is co-sponsored by the Indiana Heart Foundation, the American Heart Association, Indiana State Board of Health and Purdue.

For Safety Around Livestock

Although Indiana farms have fewer dairy bulls and horses, livestock continue to cause many farm accidents, F. R. Willsey, Purdue University farm safety specialist, has observed.

Willsey considers a good livestock man as one who is kind and firm with the livestock he handles. If a farmer handles his livestock otherwise an accident may result.

Milk cows are involved in more accidents than any other kind of livestock—probably because they are handled twice a day and often under crowded conditions. Many farm residents are trampled and crushed by cows that were frightened. And all too often the cause of the excitement can be traced directly to the injured person.

Some farmers make excuses for carelessly handling their dairy bulls by saying, "We've raised our bull as a pet and he wouldn't hurt anyone." Others declare, "As soon as our bull shows any signs of being mean we are going to sell him." Too many people have been killed or injured because they believed these practices were safe. Pet bulls, young bulls and even beef bulls may suddenly become "raving mad" and kill someone before there is a chance to put them in a strong pen, sell them, or even call for help.

Another common cause of trouble is horses, even though work horses are disappearing. The trouble now comes from saddle horses. Even the most gentle horse will kick when surprised. Speak to the animal when approaching it—it is less likely to be surprised.

There are many other animal safety hazards to consider. Avoid allowing small children near the livestock; bothering animals with newborn young; rough, loud handling of livestock; and mis-handling heifers, "high strung" cows, and cows with sore udders. Objects, such as barb wire, should be removed from barns and other areas where they could cause trouble.

Other things to remember, according to Willsey, are to shorten a boar's tusks and remove horns from cattle, keep loading shutters or ramps safe for both man and animal, use only approved electric fence controllers, and keep parasites under control so they will not bother the cattle.

P. T. A. Meets

The Mentone P. T. A. met in the Band Room for their monthly meeting November 14.

The meeting was opened by the president, William Rathbun. Devotions given by Rev. Olson was taken from the 37th Psalm. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. Monroe Romine and approved. Treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Harold Smythe.

Miss Aughinbaugh's room (the sixth grade) won the grade count with the most parents present.

The Penny supper chairman, Mrs. Everette Besson reported that approximately $218.60 was made at the supper. The P. T. A. is truly grateful for your interest shown in this money raising project.

The group voted to give $20.00 to the school for Retarded children in Kosciusko County.

Mrs. Harold Markley commented on adult training classes, wondering if it would be possible to have same in the Mentone school. A good number was interested in the endeavor, so a special meeting night is to be held to decide what kind of classes will be offered. Watch the paper for further information and if interested be sure to be there.

Mr. Hewitt reported that a young farmers class is already getting underway. There are eight members enrolled and anyone else who is just starting to farm and is interested is urged to attend. The meeting time is each Tuesday night through December, January and February. An adult farmers class is to be started also. No enrollment fee unless light refreshments are served.

The president then turned the meeting over to the program chairman Carroll Eller.

Two selections "Do Lord" and "New Is The Hour" were sung by Janet Romine, June Romine and Leah Nell Lemler. A clarinet solo "Tennessee Waltz" was given by Tana Sue Henderson. She was accompanied at the piano by Mr. Rice.

The program ended with Mr. Kelley showing the film "See How They Learn." The film proved very interesting. It showed today's method of teaching the three R's. Any child taught with these methods is a lucky child indeed. When one stops to think it is a vast amount of knowledge a child learns in his first three years of school preparing himself for the rest of his school years and the years following. The film ended with a challenge to all of us, stressing that we should remember that "Children are the most Valuable Resource of our Community."

Delicious home made cookies and coffee were served by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bruner, Chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollie Surguy, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Horn, Mrs. Herschel Teel, Mrs. Buck, Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs. Richard Maple and Mrs. Richard Manwaring.

Make plans to attend the December P. T. A. meeting. A Christmas program is being planned.

Once again a special thanks to each and everyone of you for such a splendid turn out for the Penny supper.

Honored At Shower

Mrs. Ted Peterson was guest of honor at a pink and blue shower held Tuesday evening at the Cullum home. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Floyd Dorsey and Mrs. Tom Harman.

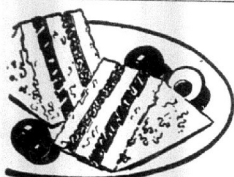

The gifts were placed on a pink and blue decorated table with a life-size stork standing over them.

Appropriate games and contests were enjoyed by the guests with prizes going to Mrs. Dale Bauer, of Warsaw, Miss Jane Burch of Disko, and also to Mrs. Peterson.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Clarence Hairrell and daughters Judith and Cassandra, Mrs. Cara Karns, of Urbana, Miss Jane Burch, of Disko, Mrs. Dale Bauer, Mrs. Rodney Bauer, Mrs. Marion Woodling, Mrs. Paul Vermillion, Mrs. Harold Yarger and Mrs. Lamar Rodgers of Warsaw. Also Mrs. Chester Miller, Mrs. Artley Cullum, Lisa Harman and the guest of honor, Mrs. Peterson and son Jerry Lee of Mentone.

Gifts were sent by Mrs. Ronald Phillips of Warsaw, Mrs. Art Witham and Mrs. Dale Wallace of Mentone.

Club Elects New Officers

On November 19th the Country Neighbors Club met in the evening at the home of Mrs. Joe Peterson, the hostess.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Allen Herendeen. The pledge to the flag was given by the members.

Devotion was given by Mrs. LeRoy Norris. A short talk on how thankful we should be for our school courses was presented.

The roll call was a written suggestion for the program next year.

A business meeting was held, the Secretary and Treasurer's report was read and approved.

The nominating committee reported the names for officers of the coming year. They were voted on by the club members and elected. They were: Pres., Mrs. Robert Hoover; Vice Pres., Mrs. Howard Chamberlain; Secretary, Mrs. Lewis Pulling; Treasurer, Mrs. Earl Zent.

The social hour was spent making favors for patients at the nursing homes for Thanksgiving Day. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess to fourteen club members and one guest, Mrs. Wilbur Utter.

The next meeting will be our Christmas dinner held December 17th at the home of Mrs. Robert Hoover, as hostess and Mrs. Floyd Bixler as co-hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble Babcock and daughter Sherry were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones.

Fall Planted Grain Injured

Some fertilizer injury to fall planted grain has resulted this fall where the fertilizer was applied with the seed, A. R. Halvorson, Purdue University extension agronomist, has reported.

Halvorson explained that when there is just enough moisture in the soil to dissolve the fertilizer, the concentration is too high and a "salt effect," or injury results.

And, this sufficient rainfall following fall planting to dissolve fertilizer salts and spread them throughout the seed and root zone, Halvorson said.

Fertilizer injury shows up as a thin stand of grain and less growth than expected. Usually the high spots and the places where the seed is planted shallow show the worst damage. Halvorson said such a situation can be a result of dry weather alone but fertilizer with the seed will make the condition worse. Nitrogen and potash are the two fertilizer constituents that account for damage—phosphate alone will cause little or no injury.

In many cases where fertilizer damage has occurred, the grain can be expected to "come out of it" in good shape if rains occur soon and there is good weather from here on, the agronomist stated.

More Light — More Eggs

"Light up the hen—not the chicken house—to get more eggs in the winter," Joe W. Sicer, extension poultry specialist at Purdue University, has advised Hoosier poultrymen.

It's not because the hen is given a longer working day that egg production increases. Sicer says it's because certain rays of light are absorbed by the hen. These rays stimulate the hen's pituitary glands which in turn stimulate greater production.

For greatest effectiveness, the lights in the laying house must be placed where the hens will receive the greatest exposure to the beneficial rays. Since the hens normally spend a large share of their time at the feeders and waterers, Sicer recommends that most of the lights be suspended directly over these areas. A 40 watt bulb—four to five feet above the feeder—for every 8 to 12 feet of trough can supply a satisfactory amount of light.

A reflector should be used for each bulb. Since dust can reduce the strength of the light rays, the bulbs should be dusted about every week. Enough other light should be used in the house to eliminate dark corners and shadows.

It makes little difference to the hen whether the lights are turned on in the morning, evening or both, or let burn all night. The time is a matter of convenience to the caretaker.

Fourteen hours of total light—daylight plus artificial light—provide all the stimulation the hen can use. When morning or evening lights are used their timing should be varied with the time of sunrise or sunset so as to maintain the 14 hours of total light. On dark, cloudy days, additional artificial light may be helpful.

We wish to thank those who assisted in picking 24 acres of corn at our home. Dearl Tucker, Everett Beeson and Russel Warren brought pickers and Oral Welch, Everett Welborn, Herbert Dorsey, Dallas Martin, Dale Hawley and Scottie Ervin helped put corn in the crib.

Dinner was served at the home of Mrs. Dearl Tucker. Mrs. Dallas Martin and Mrs. Scottie Ervin helped prepare the dinner. MR. and MRS. RALPH WARREN (Editor's Note—Mr. Warren was incapacitated two weeks ago when his left leg was badly injured while he was moving a corn elevator.)

White muscle disease in young calves results from a Vitamin E deficiency, according to Purdue University veterinarians. Prolonged drought or any condition which influences the quality of the feed for the cow before the calf is born may cause the trouble. Symptoms in the calf include stiffness, muscle soreness, paralysis and sudden death. Feeding the cow good quality roughage and a complete mineral mixture is a factor in preventing this condition in calves.

Word From A Traveling Man

13, Nov. 1956

Hello Art,
I've been wanting to write and thank you for sending the paper for some time now. Every time I got ready to write something came up and I didn't get it done. Well anyway thanks a lot for sending it to me. I look forward to reading it every time we have mail call.

I've been in several different countries so far. None of them come close to comparing to the United States. I enjoyed my liberty in Ireland the most of all. The people there were very nice and they really had a lot of respect for us. Also I had a good time when we were in Plymouth, England.

After seeing these two countries and several others I'm sure that I will appreciate the U. S. a lot more when I get back around the 5th of December.

I'm looking forward to being home for Christmas this year. According to our leave set-up on this ship my leave runs from December the 18th to December 28th.

Well, thanks again for sending the paper to me. I really appreciate receiving it.
Sincerely yours,
DONALD PETERSON

MORE LIVESTOCK WILL BE NEEDED

The following is from a Wall Street Journal news column: "To feed 1975's bigger, more prosperous population, federal prophets say, the nation will need 33 per cent more livestock and livestock products and 22 per cent more crops. The experts figure farmers will have to produce one-third more cattle, two-fifths more hogs, one-fourth more milk, two-fifths more eggs and chickens."

This is good news for livestock people, as well as the producers of the other farm products which will be in stronger demand. Also, of course, it presents a challenge. Meat production, particularly, must be planned on a long term basis. Nature has her implacable laws, and you can't materially increase livestock and herds in a hurry.

But every precedent indicates that U. S. agriculture will produce all the steers, hogs and other meat animals that the country can use. They always have—and in periods when both total and per capita demand have increased sharply. There are good reasons why that should be so.

For one thing, meat animals provide farmers with their largest single source of cash income. For another, there is an established market for these animals that operates every business day of the year—prices vary, naturally, but the market is always there. Most important of all, livestock production isn't subjected to government restrictions as are the subsidized crops. It is conducted within the framework of our free enterprise system—and individual producers, not the bureaucrats, have the power of decision. That works to the long range advantage of everyone concerned—all the way from farm and ranch to the nation's dining tables.

DIVIDING UP A DOLLAR

The word "spread" is used to describe the difference between what producers get for raw materials of various kinds and what consumers pay for finished products in the stores. And just about everyone must have heard that this spread is too great—and that some group, like the retailers, are profiting excessively.

A top authority, so far as the prices of farm products are concerned—the Oklahoma Farm Bureau—has now performed a public service by making a factual contribution to this discussion. Out of each dollar spent by consumers for food, the farmer gets 39.5 cents—a decline of 23 per cent since 1947. Labor gets 31.5 cents—a rise of 30 per cent since 1947. Handlers, such as the retailers and processors and others, get 2.9 cents—a decline of 42 per cent since 1947. Other costs—including packaging materials, insurance, depreciation, rents, etc.—account for 23.3 per cent, up 42 per cent since 1947. The balance of 2.8 cents goes for federal taxes.

One big reason for the increase in labor and related costs is that people now demand and get more and more foods with "built-in maid service"—that is, foods so processed and prepared as to demand a minimum of work on the part of the housewife.

Finally, the fact that the handlers' part of the dollar has steadily and materially dropped since 1947 shows that there is no profiteering there—and that keen competition holds their share to the lowest possible figure.

What is true of food is true of all manner of other things at retail.

DIES AT TALMA

Mrs. Louise Haas, aged 78, died Wednesday at the Dick Nursing Home at Talma. She had been critically ill for three weeks following a heart attack. She came to the nursing home from Fort Wayne three years ago.

Funeral services were held at Fort Wayne Saturday.

AGRICULTURE SHORT COURSES

Lafayette, Ind.—Three eight-week courses in agriculture will be offered at Purdue University beginning January 2, 1957.

V. C. Freeman, associate dean of the school of agriculture, has reported that training programs in general agriculture, animal husbandry and dairy production are scheduled. These courses are designed for young farmers who wish to make agriculture a life vocation but are unable to take a regular four-year college course.

Applicants for admission must be at least 18 years of age and have a good common school education. "Persons 20 years of age or older who have had practical experience on the farm or in other agricultural work will derive the greatest benefit from winter course training," Freeman said.

No tuition is charged to residents of Indiana. Total cost for Indiana students, including room, board and incidental expenses will range from $160 to $225. Students may room at the Purdue Union Club or private homes in Lafayette or West Lafayette.

Students in the general agriculture course will study field machinery, farm organization and records, marketing farm products, field crops, soil management, feeds and feeding, plant diseases and their control, insects and parasites, horticultural crops, farmstead improvement, and farm poultry flocks.

The animal husbandry course will feature these subjects: farm tractors and engines, organization of the livestock farm, pastures and field crops, beef production, sheep production, swine production, feeding practices, dairy production, and diseases and parasites.

In the dairy production course, students will receive instruction in farm mechanics, forage and pasture crops, swine production, dairy cattle management, feeding, breeding and selection, dairy herd practices, dairy cattle physiology and quality milk production.

Additional information concerning the short courses and scholarships available can be obtained from the county extension agent or by writing to V. C. Freeman, associate dean of the school of agriculture, Purdue University.

Holidays Affect Markets

Returns from the sale of livestock can be affected during the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday seasons by the selection of the proper day to market.

According to M. Paul Mitchell, Purdue University agricultural economist, a shift in consumption from the red meats to turkey just before Thanksgiving is almost traditional.

In anticipation of this normal change in demand, packers usually buy more cautiously in the pre-Thanksgiving season. Thus, prices can be expected to weaken unless receipts are reduced accordingly.

In contrast, the immediate post-Thanksgiving season is apt to be characterized by improved demand for red meats as the consuming public tires of poultry menus. This improved demand may occur on the day before Thanksgiving because of the time involved to transport the livestock from Corn Belt Markets to eastern slaughtering plants.

Farms seem to let Thanksgiving interfere with their livestock marketing schedules to the extent that market receipts are greatly reduced on the day before and the day after the holidays. Mitchell cited 10-year averages which show that receipts are fewer and prices are higher the day before and the day after the holiday. He pointed out, however, that the price strength at holiday seasons is short-lived because farmers note the upward adjustment in prices, receipts increase, and a price weakness re-

Since Christmas, unlike Thanksgiving, is not a fixed day in the week, the influence on price will vary considerably. Prices are affected much more when Christmas falls on market days early in the week. When it falls late in the week, there may be no noticeable effect at all on prices.

Sometimes a very positive seasonal trend in marketings and price behavior may be so dominant that no holiday influences are in evidence.

Mitchell concludes that there may be some price advantage in marketing the day before or the day after a holiday. He explained that the market is high on those days because the receipts are held back by the farmers. If enough farmers market their animals on these days, prices will drop because of heavy receipts.

Dairy Farms Now Larger

More cows are being milked on dairy farms but the number of dairy farms is on the decline, G. A. Williams, Purdue University dairyman, has revealed.

Williams said U. S. census data show there was a 14 per cent increase from 1950 to 1954 in the number of farms with more than 15 cows. In contrast farms reporting less than 15 cows decreased 30 per cent. The total number of farms reporting cows milked decreased 25 per cent but the total number of milk cows on all farms decreased only 10 per cent.

These trends indicate the need for certain changes in crop rotations and methods of dairy herd management, Williams says. A dairy farmer told Williams during a recent conversation that the size of his herd had increased more rapidly than the roughage supply and barn room. The farmer was milking more than 30 cows as compared to 10 to 12 cows a few years ago. The farmer had also encountered another problem—herd health. He purchased several animals in his expansion program and these cows brought disease into the herd.

With the large number of cows bred artificially to proven sires, heifer calves from such matings offer the best possible means of increasing the size of their herds. Since the calves will not be ready to milk for two years, the farmer has a period of 24 months to grow more and better roughages and get the barn in order for more cows.

Williams pointed out that 25 per cent of the heifer calves born on some farms die before they are six months of age. He says one or more of three practices—over-feeding, over-housing and over-crowding—are often the cause of trouble. To avoid over-feeding, Williams suggests feeding one pound of milk daily for each 10 pounds of the body weight of the calf. Teach the calf to eat early cut hay as soon as possible. Whole milk feeding may be discontinued when the calf is four to six weeks old. Starting feeding grain when the calf is weaned, but limit the amount to half the daily hay consumption.

Young calves are able to endure temperatures near the zero mark but drafts and dampness are very injurious. Low temperatures where there is absence of drafts or dampness are preferable to crowded quarters with lack of room. Young calves do best when stabled in individual pens and allowed about 25 square feet per calf.

Don't forget proper care of the boar this winter, advises Purdue University animal husbandmen. Keep the boar in good condition but not fat. Increase the boar's grain ration during the breeding season.

KIMBERCHIKS® K-137

First In Early Egg Size

As of January 1, 1956, K-137 Kimberchiks led in early egg size in all three of the Random Sample Egg Laying contests where they are currently entered. In California, the K-137 entry produced 48.6% large and extra large eggs to January 1. The average for all entries was 31.5%. Similar results were obtained in the Missouri and Utah contests.

BECAUSE OF THE PRICE SPREAD BETWEEN MEDIUM AND LARGE EGGS, THE EARLY EGG SIZE OF KIMBERCHIKS CAN HELP YOU RECOVER YOUR INVESTMENT IN A FLOCK OF PULLETS DAYS OR EVEN WEEKS, SOONER.

- ✓ An exceptionally heavy layer, producing large eggs early.
- ✓ Especially good egg quality, including a firm albumen.
- ✓ Excellent livability and high resistance to leucosis.

250 - Egg 5 - Year Average in Official Test

While the final test of the real worth of a strain of chickens is how they perform on commercial poultry farms, Kimber Leghorns have done quite well in Official Random Sample Tests.

During the five years ending with 1955, the Kimber entries in the California Official Random Sample Laying Test averaged 250 eggs per bird, based on number of pullets at one week of age.

The five-year average for livability was 91.9 per cent.

Average net income over feed cost per bird, again based on the pullets at one week of age, was $5.58.

In the 1950-51 test, the Kimber entry averaged $8.11 net income over feed cost per bird. It still stands as the highest record ever made in any random sample laying test anywhere.

Good breeding, good feeding, good housing and management are more necessary than ever if you want to compete, and your competitor is the poultryman who may be doing a more efficient job than you.

The very foundation for success is good breeding. You can't afford anything less than the best you can get, especially when Kimber Leghorns are available at very reasonable prices.

Baptist Church News

A large crowd filled the auditorium of First Baptist on Sunday evening, November 18th to hear Mr. Harold Camp who spoke at a union missionary rally sponsored by the Mentone Methodist Church and First Baptist Church. We enjoyed having the congregation of the Methodist Church and their speaker with us for this union service.

Pastor and Mrs. Irwin Olson, Mr. Everette Rathfon, and Mr. LeRoy Norris represented First Baptist at a fellowship meeting in Bremen, Indiana on Monday afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was to organize a Fellowship of Regular Baptist Churches in the North Central Indiana area. Mr. Norris and Pastor Olson were elected by the group to serve on a committee of five who will draw up a constitution and list of objectives for the new organization. Pastor Olson was elected as chairman of the committee.

Saturday, November 24th, the young people from our church will go to a youth rally at Wabash, Indiana. Sunday evening we will have a baptism service at which three folks will be following the Lord in Believers' Baptism. Those being baptized are: Miss Vicki Bowser, Miss Louise Cox, and Mr. Richard Bathrich. Pastor Olson's message this Sunday evening will be, "Mormonism, the Islam of America," the fifth message in the series on the Cults.

Special Train To Chicago

The WOWO Little Red Barn Special train is now in the process of preparing for its annual trip to Chicago. This year the excursion will take place on Saturday, December 1. Leaving the Fort Wayne Nickel Plate Station at 7:00 a. m. D. S. T., stops will be made in South Whitley at 7:30 a. m. and Claypool, at 7:50 a. m. arriving at ten-thirty o'clock. Special note should be made of the fact that a steam engine will pull the train.

Main feature of the trip will be the 57th International Live Stock Exposition. Other attractions will include Cinerama "Holiday," the Horse Show, featuring the Royal Canadian Mounted Patrol, plus many extra side excursions.

Tickets for the trip and attractions may be ordered by sending a check or money order, with a self-addressed envelope, to "Red Barn Train," WOWO, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Tickets to events outside of the immediate train ride are extra, making it possible for those attending to make a choice of their activities.

Poultrymen at Purdue University recommend that the lights in the laying house be turned on to stimulate higher egg production during the fall and winter months. Use one 40 watt bulb for every 200 square feet of floor space. Hang the lights over the feed troughs. Fourteen hours of light—daylight plus artificial light—is all that is needed. Dust off the bulbs often for greatest efficiency.

OFFICE TO MOVE

Coverall Rental Service, Fort Wayne, which services 75 communities in Northeastern Indiana and Western Ohio, will move into its newly completed building at 3201 Brooklyn Ave., starting Friday, November 30, with normal operations to be resumed on Monday, December 3.

Methodist Church News

A Christmas Vesper Service will be conducted in the Mentone Methodist Church December 16th at four o'clock in the afternoon. The program will consist of choir numbers by children and adult choirs, as well as other vocal and instrumental numbers. This vesper program will be open to the public.

A special Christmas offering will be received on Christmas Sunday, December 23rd, for "The Children of the World." The countries whose children will receive first consideration are: Korea, Africa, and our own American Indians of the southwest.

In keeping with the decisions of The General Conference of The Methodist Church which was held in Minneapolis, Minnesota, last May, leaders of the local church will begin a study of their church, which will cover its achievements of the past ten years, as well as project its program into the next four years.

All members of Commissions & the Board of Trustees will meet in the church at 7:30 this coming Sunday evening December 2, to study the achievements of the past ten years. Various graphs will be worked out demonstrating this history. The four Commissions will then be charged with the responsibility of preparing programs of advance covering the next four years. They will be aided in their work by manuals designed for this specific purpose.

After the four commissions of the church have completed their proposed four-year program during the four Sunday evenings of January, the entire group will meet again the first Sunday evening of February to adopt a final over-all program, and the Board of Trustees will then seek to provide the necessary physical equipment to assist in the fulfillment of the objectives of the four-year crusade.

D. A. R. Entertained

Monday evening, November 19, the Anthony Nigo Chapter of D. A. R. of Mentone was delightfully entertained by the Tippecanoe River Chapter of Bourbon with Mrs. Harry H. Wolf, state regent, as guest speaker.

After a delicious dinner served in the basement of Bourbon Methodist church, we traveled to the home of Mrs. Lewis Erwin for the program.

Miss Mary Fribley, regent of Tippecanoe River Chapter opened the meeting with the Ritualistic Service after which two verses of America, were sung. She then welcomed all and presented Mrs. Harry H. Wolf, State Regent, Mrs. Boyd W. Morcombe, regent of Wythougan Chapter, Plymouth and Mrs. Everett Rathfon, Regent of the Anthony Nigo Chapter of Mentone.

Mrs. Ralph Mason of Etna Green was in charge of music for the evening.

Mrs. Gene Lindsey, Mrs. Jack Ewing and Mrs. Robert Stouder rendered a beautiful vocal number "Lord Guard Our Shores." They were accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Geo. Slabaugh.

Mrs. Wolf then gave a very informative and inspiring talk telling of the beginning of our D. A. R. organization which came into being October 11, 1890, "What The Daughters Do" and our project for the year.

We were taken behind the scenes with our State Regent when she goes to Washington, D. C., on business. She stated that our government bestows honors and grants privileges to our organization, not accorded others. Of this we are justly proud.

The meeting closed with the singing of America, The Beautiful with Mrs. Erwin at the piano.

Punch, nuts and dainty cookies were served from a beautifully decorated table with an arrangement of yellow flowers and yellow tapers.

Other guests present were Mrs. W. C. Neilans presently of Steubenville, Ohio, Mrs. Oscar Woodbury of Plymouth and Mrs. Willard Minard, Mrs. Ferd Tribbley and Mrs. George Snider of Bourbon.

YELLOW INK MAKES NON-ALCOHOLICS

Complaints by printing pressmen in Washington that something about their work was spoiling their desire to drink, set physicians on the trail of a new drug used for treating alcoholism.

The physicians found that the unwanted something about the pressmen's work was a chemical added to their yellow ink to keep it fluid. It was identified at N-butylalddoxime.

The chemical, the physicians have reported in the Medical Annals of the District Medical Society, serves its purpose well, in ink, but it also makes workers exposed to it turn red and sick when they stop for even a short one before going home. Even a glass of beer brings flushes to the face of a printer exposed to the chemical, and the more he drinks the sicker he becomes.

The affected pressmen at one of the largest printing companies in Washington, D. C., reported they could do their best drinking only during the summer, when windows were open and the exhaust fans are working overtime. By the time the physicians started their experiments, most of the workers on the second floor had stopped drinking entirely because of the adverse and "unpleasant" effects of the N-butylalddoxime.

Maintain Egg Quality

Egg quality can be maintained at as high a level in the winter as in the summer if certain management practices are followed, reports Melvin L. Wilson, extension market poultryman at Purdue University.

When the temperature drops to winter levels, poultrymen are confronted with some factors that will affect egg quality. Here are a few points that Wilson says should be stressed in cold weather:

Prevention of frozen water lines is very important and can be accomplished by wrapping electric heating coils around the pipes. Layers need plenty of fresh water both in winter and summer and the water lines must be kept free of ice if production is to be maintained.

In cold weather, ammonia fumes develop if proper ventilation is not provided. Research work at Iowa State College indicates that ammonia fumes will cause thinning of egg white. Wilson says this condition can be improved by not closing the laying house too tightly. The poultryman, however, must keep in mind that a drafty house may be the cause of layers having colds.

Keeping the litter dry is more of a problem in winter than in summer. A deep litter that has been worked will stay dryer and cleaner for a longer period than a shallow litter. If wet spots develop around the waterers and feeders, the poultryman should remove these spots immediately and replace with clean, dry litter material.

Frequent gathering of eggs is just as important in winter as in summer. Eggs should be collected at least twice in the forenoon and once in the afternoon. Since a large percentage of eggs are laid in the forenoon, eggs left in the nest will be subject to the body heat of every hen entering the nest. In addition, egg shells stand the possibility of getting soiled.

Poultrymen can obtain additional details to help them maintain egg quality from Purdue mimeo P-53, "Maintaining Egg Quality." The publication is available at county extension offices or from the agricultural publications office at Purdue.

Veterinarians at Purdue University advise farmers to clean and disinfect the calf pens in preparation for the fall and winter calf crop.

Dairy Meeting December 3

Indiana's "dairyman of 1956" will be honored at the 67th annual meeting of the Indiana State Dairy Association at Purdue University, Monday, December 3.

E. A. Gannon, Purdue extension dairyman, has announced that the winner of the award will be presented a leadership scroll. The award is made each year to the individual who has done the most to improve and promote the dairy industry in Indiana.

Set to open at 10 a. m. in the Purdue Memorial Union, the morning program will be highlighted by the presentation of awards to 275 owners of outstanding Hoosier dairy herds and to 30 owners of meritorious sires.

G. A. Williams and N. J. Moeller, Purdue extension dairymen, will present the awards.

Two Purdue specialists—C. E. French and Dr. L. M. Hutchings—will address the dairymen in the afternoon.

French, an agricultural economist who is well known for his sound views on dairy economics, will give the dairymen some ideas on what to expect in the future. French will tell the farmers what can be done in order to adjust to progress as he asks the question, "Will You Be Milking Cows in 1970?"

Hutchings, head of Purdue's department of veterinary science and an authority on livestock diseases, will discuss two new catarrhal diseases that have been found in Indiana during the past three years. He will use slides and films to illustrate his talk on the two diseases—virus diarrhea and mucosal diseases.

Dairymen need not be members of the Indiana State Dairy Association to attend the event, Gannon said.

Fertilizer should be purchased on the basis of the analysis shown on the bag and or tag, report biochemists at Purdue University. If any question arises as to the quality of the fertilizer, do not send sample but contact the state chemist, agricultural experiment station, Purdue University, who will send an authorized inspector to get an official sample.

More Bulk Milk Coolers

Indiana dairy farmers are replacing milk cans with bulk coolers at a rapid rate, Rollin O. Dunsdon, Purdue University agricultural economist, has revealed.

A total of 1418 bulk milk coolers were reported in operation in Indiana in June of this year—847 more than in November 1955. With this average rate of 120 new installations per month, Indiana may have 2500 dairy farmers with bulk coolers by the end of the year.

A survey by Purdue agricultural economists showed that 37 dairy plants in Indiana now receive all or part of their milk from farm bulk coolers. In addition, several out-of-state plants are picking up bulk cooled milk in Indiana.

The 37 Indiana plants reported handling about 877,865 pounds of bulk cooled milk each day—enough to supply nearly 20 percent of the total estimated fluid milk needs in the state. If all 37 plants, however, were to handle only bulk cooled milk on the same basis as their total volume in 1955, they would supply 64 per cent of the total estimated fluid needs for the state.

Dunsdon expects bulk milk cooling to continue to spread. Sooner or later most dairy farmers will be faced with the decision to buy or not to buy a milk cooler. In fact, bulk cooling of milk may be necessary for some farmers to maintain their usual market outlet.

The specialist says farmers can do several things to meet the question when it does arrive. He should keep informed. He should compare the costs of conversion to bulk with the benefits to be derived. He should get acquainted with the various types of coolers. He should determine the condition of his present cooler, remembering that after January 1, sanitary codes in some markets will require grade A milk to be cooled down to 50 degrees.

Agronomists at Purdue University report that bromegrass seed supplies are one-quarter less than last year. They suggest that orders be placed early so that a good southern strain such as Lincoln, Elsberry or Achenback can be obtained. The agronomists point out that southern strains yield more in Indiana than do the northern strains.

PAUL CUMBERLAND FAMILY

Tips On "Roughing" Cattle

Lafayette, Ind.—Cattle that are to be pastured next summer should be fed so that they do not gain more than 1 to 1½ pounds per day this winter, according to T. W. Perry, Purdue University livestock nutritionist.

Beef cattle that are "roughed" through the winter will utilize the pasture better next summer, according to Perry.

Silage may be used as the only feed for fattening cattle with good results if it is properly supplemented with protein and minerals. Corn silage alone will not meet the protein requirements of beef cattle.

Grass silage must be supplemented with corn or some other high energy feed to be of the same value as corn silage.

In comparing mixed hay vs. corn silage as a winter feed for beef cattle, Purdue trials have shown that gains with silage (supplements) have been twice as fast as with hay (without supplement) and cost of gain has been 40 per cent higher with hay than with silage.

The quality for the feed fed should be geared to the quality of the cattle on feed. For instance, choice steer calves that are to be fed grain on pasture next summer and finished as choice fat steers may be fed a full feed of corn silage and 1½ lbs. of Supplement A per day. If the steers are to go on pasture with no grain until late summer, they may be fed full feeds of (1) grass silage (with preservative); (2) corn silage with 1 pound of Supplement A per day; (3) legume hay alone; or (4) ground yellow corn cobs with 3 pounds Supplement A per day.

The first three of the rations listed above are very satisfactory for wintering good steer calves that are to be pastured and marketed as good slaughter steers.

Any one of the four numbered rations, as well as the corn silage and 1½ pound Supplement A ration, are good for "roughing" good to choice yearling steers through the winter if the steers are to be pastured and marketed as choice 2 year olds.

Do not feed cattle too well during the winter if they are to be pastured next spring, and match the feeding program with the quality of cattle for extra profits, Perry summarizes.

Protect Barns From Fire

Few things will discourage a farmer more than having to stand by helplessly while his barn, worth thousands of dollars, is devoured by greedy flames. There nothing he can do about the fire once it has a head start.

Chances are this destruction could have been prevented rather easily, according to F. R. Willsey, Purdue University farm safety specialist. Statistics show that two-thirds of the barn fire losses result from just two causes—lightning and spontaneous combustion. Fortunately losses from these two causes can be practically eliminated.

A lightning rod system properly installed and maintained will give a high amount of protection. Farmers may doubt the value of lightning rods because they have seen or heard of rod-damaged buildings or destroyed by lightning. The reason for the failure of rods to give protection probably was due to faulty installation or materials or to the fact that some part of the system was in need of repair.

Although everyone should have some understanding of the principles of lightning protection, it is a good idea to have a reliable experienced person actually install the equipment.

The other common cause of barn fires, spontaneous combustion, can be prevented by keeping the moisture content of stored hay and straw low. Hay with a high moisture content should never be put in a barn unless equipment is available to dry it. Preventing leaks in the roof will assure that the hay stays dry.

Temperature should never be over 175 degrees in hay or straw. The temperature can be determined by attaching a thermometer near the end of a hardwood pole or metal pipe and pushing it into the hay or straw.

If farmers want to remove the heated material, they should have firefighting equipment available. This means a lot of work and ruined hay. And, more time will be spent than would have been if safety had been practiced in the first place.

Use Soil Test Results

Less than 10 per cent of Indiana's farmers use soil tests as a guide for fertilizing and liming, reports R. D. Bronson, Purdue University agronomist.

Bronson says this leaves 90 per cent of the farmers in the state who follow general recommendations or fertilize by popular practice, habit or tradition.

General recommendations are based on field trials and give a good indication of average crop response. However, a farmer can't expect the average recommendation to fit his soil any better than average size suit of clothes would fit him.

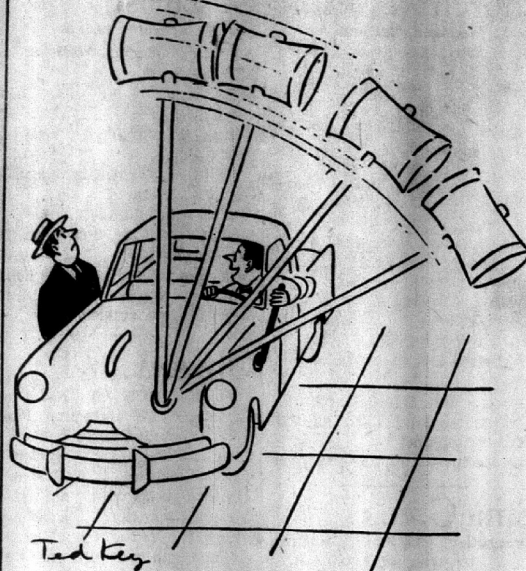

Chances are remote that any one farm unit is average in all respects, Bronson says. Soil types differ in fertility. Cropping, fertilizing, liming and livestock management all influence and change the fertility of a given soil type on a farm.

Soil tests which can be made at Purdue's soil testing laboratory from soil samples submitted by an individual farmer give specific information. From these soil tests, recommendations are given for the amount and balance of nutrients — lime, nitrogen, phosphate and potash—needed for each crop and soil situation.

"... and if he still refuses to lower his beams."

Soil tests can be made for as little as four cents per acre per year. This allows the farmer $2 per hour for sampling every 10 acres once each round of rotation. The service charge of 50 cents per sample tested at Purdue is included in this figure. Bronson considers this a small cost for the protection of a farmer's investment in fertilizer and lime for a complete rotation.

Late fall is an ideal time for farmers to take soil samples. County agents can provide information blanks, sample boxes and instruction on how to sample the soil, or this service can be secured locally.

The group sang the first verse of America, led by Mr. Malott. Mr. Weissert gave the devotions. The band, directed by Mr. Malott, played several numbers. The last number was directed by Nancy Wink, one of the student directors. Mr. Jackson introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. E. P. Smith, the former Bourbon principal. He spoke on the "Development of Schools in Indiana."

A vote was taken to see how many were in favor of changing the meeting time from 7:30 to 7:00 C.S.T. It was discussed and decided to wait until next meeting to vote on it.

Mrs. Jack Shaffer, chairman of the membership and hospitality committee reported the change in state dues from 15c to 20c. She asked Mrs. Floyd McIntyre and Mrs. Wayne Metheny to collect the membership dues. Mrs. Kor-thal had charge of the entertainment. The refreshment committee, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Le-wallen, Mr. and Mrs. Don Caslow, Mr. and Mrs. Lyndol Moriarty, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaffer and Mrs. Korthal served cider and donuts.

A farm pond, according to the Purdue University agricultural engineers, should have both a pipe spillway and an emergency spillway to dispose of excess runoff water and to prevent the dam from being washed out.

Agricultural engineers at Purdue University say that farmers who are plowing under corn stalks can do a cleaner job if they let the plow follow the same direction of travel that the picker took.

Mr. and Mrs. Artley Cullum attended the Passion Play, which is nationally famous and is now being featured at Elkhart, Indiana, Wednesday evening.

Mouse damage to orchard trees was noticeable last winter and indications point to an even more serious situation this coming winter. Purdue University entomologists say now is the time to bait orchards to control the pests before they can cause damage. And, the pests will be hit at a period when young are not being reproduced to replace those killed. The entomologists suggest the use of zinc phosphide-treated apple baits or strychnine poisoned oats.
