Car Collides With Milk Truck

A Plymouth sedan driven by Mrs. Ivan Warren collided with a Litchfield Creamery truck at the Orlando Meredith corner Sunday morning. A corn field obstructed the view and both cars failed to decrease their speed as they approached the corner. Mrs. Warren was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Betty Reed and infant daughter. Mrs. Reed suffered a severe scalp wound and was removed to the Woodlawn hospital where ten stitches were required to close the cut. The Warren car was completely demolished and the front of the truck was somewhat damaged.

Back to School on a Bus

Throughout America this week youngsters will retrace their steps to the school room to begin another year's study. Some walk, others ride, but none of the riders have a more unique system than the students of North Carolina where a state-operated bus system is handled largely by the students themselves. About 50 per cent of the bus drivers are of school age, and woe to the motorist who considers them lightly. Drivers appoint monitors, fellow bus riders who stop traffic while youngsters cross the street. Upper picture shows a North Carolina monitor, while below are some of the busses ready to take students home after a day in school. Each afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock hundreds of these conveyances carry the children to the waiting parents.

WEDDING

Eaton-Besson

An impressive lawn wedding took place at three o'clock Sunday, September 4 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Besson near Mentone when their daughter Thelma Ellen became the bride of Charles Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Eaton. Rev. L. H. Kendall of Indianapolis, uncle of the bride performed the double ring ceremony. Previous to the ceremony, Rev. and Mrs. Cornelius of Etna Green entertained with appropriate wedding music, "O Promise Me", "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

Charles Eaton, bridegroom and Lester Schori of Nappanee, best man, took their places after which the bride appeared on the arm of her father, Charles Besson. The bride was beautiful in a white tulle gown and carried an arm bouquet of white roses. Miss Wreatha McFarren, maid of honor, was attired in a gown of beige lace and wore a corsage of pink roses. Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, with the immediate relatives and friends present. A three tier wedding cake adorned the center of the dining room table. Delicious refreshments were served by the bride's brothers to the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Eaton were born and reared in this community and are both graduates of Mentone high school, the former a member of the class of 1935 and latter a member of the 1936 class. The bridal couple left for a motor trip to Niagara Falls, Washington D. C. and other interesting places in the east. The bride's going away suit was of gray with Chateau accessories. After September 16 they will return to their newly furnished home north of Mentone.

The wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. Noah Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Eaton and family of Silver Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eaton, Mrs. S. A. Guy, Mrs. Cora Erwin of Bourbon, Mrs. Jane Bruner of Burket, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. What's the Answer?

By EDWARD FINCH

HOW DID THE CUSTOM OF TIPPING THE HAT ORIGINATE?

IN OLDEN days it was required of the common people when in the presence of their ruler to strip themselves of their clothing as a symbol of laying down all they possessed for their superior. From this was evolved the act of a gentleman tipping his hat to a lady which action merely says: "I take off my hat to you who are my superior."

HOROSCOPE

SEPTEMBER 5, 6, 7. - Your disposition is mixed with brightness and sadness to a marked degree, and you change your opinions very often especially along religious matters. You are a conservative and a stickler for old customs and forms, and prefer the stage coach to the modern way of travel.

SEPTEMBER 8, 9, 10 - Your family and friends are your chief interest and you are always interested in their welfare. Unless you are careful you are apt to overdo in giving advice to your friends, which is sometimes better withheld.

Two Minute Sermon

By

Thomas Hastwell

NO NATION IS GREATER THAN ITS HOMES: A Christian people is desirable in all forms of government, but more so in a democracy than in any other type of government, for the reason that in a democracy the leaders are chosen by the people. It is important that not only the leaders come into office with high concepts of right and wrong but that the people who place them in power have those qualities of mind and conscience that will enable them to choose wisely in whose hands shall rest the responsibility of directing the destiny of the nation.

This being true, how important it is that the homes of a democracy and their teaching shall be such that out of them shall come men and women qualified not only to rule, but what is just as important, qualified to choose whom their rulers shall be. We may build the greatest industrial empire that the world has ever seen. Our ships may plow the seven seas laden with the product of our skill and genius, our treasury may be bursting with gold, but unless we have back of it all a Christian people and a million Christian homes we shall not know the meaning of security. The Christian home, whether it be a mansion or a cabin, is the corner stone of this democracy. The nation will never be greater than its homes.

New 1939 Auto Models

Sweeping design and mechanical changes embodied in 1939 models, to make their public debut in about two months, are expected to create a sharp sales increase for this industry. Say advance reports from Detroit and Toledo: "Bodies generally will be wider and larger. Greater visibility is being obtained by the use of wider and deeper windows and windshields. Plastics will find increased prominence in interior body hardware and trim. Half a dozen makes will provide off-the-floor gear shifts as standard equipment. Prices will be about the same as for 1938 models."

Almost coincident with these reports was a statement issued by Connecticut's Motor Vehicle Commissioner, Michael A. Conner, who, in the interests of safety, long has advocated better visibility in motor cars. With a word of praise for motor manufacturers who have responded to the public's demand for better visibility, he predicted that less accidents and increased driving pleasure would follow the use of more glass in the new models.

Still, no one actually knows.

FIGHT ON 'RACKET' PROBLEM OF FARMER

League for Less Noise to Campaign in Country.

NEW YORK.—Noises that disturb sleep slow up industry and produce jangled nerves are no longer a problem which concern only the big city, according to Earnest H. Peabody, president of the League for Less Noise, whose organization has launched a battle against "racket."

Gone are the days, says Mr. Peabody, when the farmer's little white cottage by a country road provides a haven from the raucous clatter of automobile horns, the roar of traffic and the screech of car brakes. Super-highways, with four-way traffic lanes, a continuous flow of express trucks all hours of the day and night, impatient drivers pounding on nerve-shattering claxons and the staccato roar of open exhausts, have taken the roar of the city to the wide open spaces.

Down With Clatter.

The League for Less Noise, molded by civic indignation and allied with science, is campaigning against unnecessary clatter. While Mr. Peabody's organization fights for city and town ordinances that do away with useless tooting of car horns, blaring radios and phonographs at unseemly hours and unneeded blasts from steam whistles, science moves ahead with its fight on machine and construction vibration, producer of much of the noise and discord that slows up efficiency in industry.

Apologists for unnecessary noise, Mr. Peabody pointed out, often urge that "noise-haters" are merely cranks. Any normal person, they have insisted, can become accustomed to any kind of noise or vibration in a few days. Investigation and study, however, have proven the fallacy of this belief, he declares.

Supporting the contention that noise and vibration slow up workers, Mr. Peabody offers as an example the experiment of two investigators, H. C. Weston and S. Adams, who selected comparable groups of workers engaged in weaving cloth on factory looms. Loom rooms where such weaving is done usually are very noisy. Two rooms were chosen; one of about average noisiness, another which had been quieted as much as was practicable, although even this still was noisier than the average New York street. Production of cloth in the two rooms was compared. Workers in the quiet room came out about 8 per cent ahead, confirming the conclusion from all similar investigations that noise hinders successful human effort and that quietude assists it.

Introduction of rubber mountings, called "vibro-insulators," to put machinery in its "stocking feet" and for use in concrete building construction, have done much toward lessening noise and vibration.

A recent seminar on timber and concrete held by Prof. John M. Lessells at Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, brought out the three-fold purpose of the vibro-insulator: to reduce maintenance on the machine itself; to save the concrete, or other foundations from deterioration, and to reduce physical fatigue and make for more efficient workers.

Rubber Mountings Help.

Automobile engineers now know positively that the maintenance on parts of both engine and chassis has been materially reduced by the use of rubber mountings on the engine. Punch presses, and other badly vibrating machines, now ride on rubber.

Science, however, has not confined to cities all of its efforts toward vibration and noise elimination. Tractors which formerly clanked noisily across field in front of plow or cultivator, now glide quietly over the same surface on pneumatic tires.

Farmers and residents of the smaller communities are also benefiting through the co-operation of the railroad companies in the drive for less noise, with the introduction of mellow-toned train whistles which provide the same warning signal but eliminate the ear-splitting screeches of former devices. The Florida East Coast railroad now has the muted whistles installed on all its engines. The installation followed a ballot by persons living along the right-of-way after four whistles had been demonstrated.

Plastic Surgery Is Added

To Skills of Embalmers

DENVER.—Plastic surgery has been added to the skills which the modern embalmer must understand.

C. W. Porterfield, of Holton, Kan., first vice president of the National Association of Funeral Directors, explained to the forty-first annual convention of Colorado Funeral Directors that many embalmers have become professionals in their skill as plastic surgeons.

"A knowledge of plastic surgery enables the embalmer to make life-like the features of persons marred in automobile accidents and through mutilating diseases," he explained.

Psychology is another field of learning in which the undertaker should be informed, Porterfield said.

"The funeral director," he said, "is learning a better understanding of the psychology of grief and how to assuage that grief."

JESSIE RUSH, Editor and Mgr.

Every community has an individual who has no use for the local newspaper unless he can use it as a tool to further his own ends, and every community has an editor who would like to tell such a person where he can go and the shortest route there.

The best way to appraise an individual is to check up on the kind of persons with whom he associates. If they are sincere, sensible people the chances are that is the kind of a man he is. If they are silly, empty-headed, rattlebrains, that is what he at heart is, regardless of his outward pretensions.

"I note", said a gentlemen in this office yesterday, "that the government is burying its gold in Kentucky and its silver in West Point, N. Y. and I've been a little interested to know where it would dig the hole to bury the taxpayer."

Movies are the greatest educators of the day. If all of the people who are opposed to liquor should band together and refuse to attend motion pictures featuring the use of liquor this type of picture would disappear from the screen. The movie industry would not suffer because of it, and fewer young people would get the idea that drinking liquor is "smart" and "the thing to do."

It requires considerable restraint to drive along the highway, observe the speed laws and have cars passing at a speed that causes one to feel as though he were standing still.

People are essentially alike in size, shape and mineral composition. It is the qualities of mind and heart, the concepts and the attitudes that make some persons worth more than a dozen others. What a disappointment it is to meet a person who has education and opportunity, and discover that he is little, petty and cheap inside. On the other hand, what a thrill one gets when one meets a person who outwardly has little of these things and discovers that they are a fine, upright, sincere and conscientious individual. It makes a red letter day of an otherwise dull one.

As a rule, if one could look back a few years into the average gossip's life, one would find something really substantial to gossip about.

The test of a motor oil comes when engine temperatures hit their peak... when flying, whirling metal parts operate with lightning-like speed. The thin film of lubrication must carry off this intense heat... must cushion these delicate parts against damaging friction.

Circus Fade-Out

Time does march on, and as it marches on it brings many changes. One of these is the fade-out of the circus. This year several of the largest circuses of the country quit in mid-season and went back to winter quarters. Circus men say that they will be back next year bigger and better than ever but many doubt it. A few years ago the circus brought the one big recreational event of the year to the community. It had little or no competition.

In the last few years all sorts of entertainment have become available to all sections of the country. Much of the zest and lure of the circus is gone. Circus expenses have gone up but admission prices have remained the same. This, coupled with greatly reduced attendance, has created a critical situation in regard to the circus which it may not be able to overcome. It is being predicted that the circus will follow the Chautauqua and vaudeville.

The mill buys wheat, oats, corn.

Few Can Take Constructive Criticism

Dale Carnegie says that it is true of 90 per cent of the people you meet that if you praise them you are a swell fellow, but with the first word of criticism, however justified it may be, you are a rat and an ingrate. This is an unfortunate weakness in people. It is the just criticism one receives that enables him to correct his faults and weak spots. Let it be known that you resent all sorts of criticism and you close the door through which progress along the line of self improvement may be made.

There is nothing in the script however, that justifies the existence of the chronic critic who feels called up on at all times to point out repeatedly fancied faults in others. Such critics are the worst offenders of the two and need to be told to put their own house in order. They should remember that friends are never made by constant criticism.

The mill buys wheat, oats, corn.

'F' and 'Y' on Columbus' Flag

The letters "F" and "Y" on Columbus' flag were the initials of Ferdinand and Ysabella, the sovereigns of Castile and Aragon, under whose auspices the great navigator sailed. In old Spanish "I" and "Y" were interchangeable and the queen's name was correctly written either Isabella or Ysabella.

General and Poet

In the early days of its existence the Spartans, being badly in need of a general, sent to Athens for one. The Athenians, not wishing to give them too good a one, sent them a gouty schoolmaster, one Tyrtaeus, as being the most unlikely person on earth for the task. But Tyrtaeus was a poet and by his poetry, which took a martial turn, he so animated his new countrymen that he turned out a good general after all.

Town of Good, Bad Repute

On the northern tip of Denmark is Skagen. Among seamen, from the days of the Vikings, it has the worst reputation of any place for which the stormy seas and dunes have fought. According to an old saga, the first lighthouse was built there centuries ago by two shepherds, Skarpa and Thrond, after the Fifteenth century, the present fishing village grew around it. The dunes have buried the old church so that only the tower is seen, and the roaring seas give the place a bad name.

Development of Dynamite

Dynamite was developed in 1867 by the Swedish chemist and engineer, Alfred Bernard Nobel, who found that the highly explosive nitroglycerin could be handled with comparative ease if mixed with an appropriate filler. A common type of dynamite consists essentially of nitroglycerin absorbed in an inert solid material to reduce its sensitivity to shock. Kieselguhr, an infusorial earth, is frequently used. Nobel combined nitroglycerin with another high explosive, gun cotton, and obtained a transparent jellylike substance which is more powerful than dynamite.

Barring Out the Schoolmaster

An old custom in England of students locking out the schoolmaster was known as barring-out. The most typical example of the practice was at Bromfield school, Cumberland, where the students at the beginning of Lent excluded the master from the school for three days. During this period the school doors were locked and the boys armed with mock weapons. On the third day terms of capitulation, usually in Latin verse, were signed and the boys celebrated with games or a cock-fight. The custom was long retained at Eton and figures in many school stories.

Teeth 100,000 Years Old

Fossilized teeth estimated to be 100,000 years old, found in the mysterious Sterkfontein caves, near Krugersdorp, South Africa, are believed to have belonged to a prehistoric South African close to the missing link. The owner probably lived on the meat of primitive elephants and had the sabre-tooth tiger as an enemy. Fossilized skulls indicate the Krugersdorp caveman was nearer to man than to the chimpanzee in intelligence. Sterkfontein caves extend four miles underground. In them a subterranean river flows no one knows where.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Specialists abound in New York. In fact just about every type of service is performed by some one who does nothing else. But Miss Margaret Cram, in her early twenties, reed-like, black-haired, black-eyed, is not a specialist. She might be called a generalist by stretching the dictionary meaning of the word a bit. Are you a tired traveler and want a suitcase packed? Very well, Miss Cram will attend to it for you. Do you need a fourth at bridge? Call Miss Cram. She'll walk your dog, feed your canary, change the water on your goldfish, remind you of your wedding anniversary or see that your friend, sick in a hospital, has flowers and visitors. There is just one limitation on the service Miss Cram is willing to render. It must be legitimate.

A Vermont girl, soon after she had been graduated from Western Reserve College, Miss Cram became associated with the Amateur Theater guild in Boston and put on shows for Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and various other organizations. Many more or less bewildered tourists asked her to perform services for them. Hence the idea of turning such a course into bread and butter. So she came to New York and formed her organization. She launched it during the Women's Exposition of Arts and Industries. Now she has offices in a fashionable East Side hotel. There she has in her files names and telephone numbers of those able to do anything from fixing a broken window to escorting a lone woman to the theater.

Many and varied are the services which Miss Cram has been called on to perform. A woman client, whose dog is walked every afternoon, stipulated that the pet was to have an orange blossom cocktail each trip. On her calendar are many dates important to her subscribers and at the appointed time each is notified. One woman burned an expensive pair of gloves with a cigarette and Miss Cram found a repairer who made them as good as new. She makes theater, night club, railroad, airplane and bus reservations. She also looks after children when parents want to step out. That is her most difficult task, as parents' exactions for baby tenders are so high it's hard to find the proper ones. But only once has she been stumped. A client wanted her to arrange a submarine ride for him and the navy said no.

Contrast Bradley Barker with the versatile Miss Cram. Barker is no generalist. He's strictly a specialist. He barks for a living. Fact. More than likely you've heard him in the movies or on the radio. Barking, however, is only a part of his specialty. He can trumpet like an elephant, roar like a lion and squeal like a pig. He can imitate just about every known animal. Hence he is in constant demand whenever authentic animal noises are needed. He's willing to try anything. Movie and radio people, when they meet him on the street don't speak. They just bark. And Barker barks back.

Barker's most difficult stunt was the imitation of the voice of a wounded dinosaur. He didn't know what kind of noise a dinosaur used to make, if any. He knew, of course, that the neck of a giraffe is too long for vocal cords and the dinosaur also had a long neck. But he decided on a peculiar high screech. It worked fine. So fine that he made the dinosaur records for the Texas fair. The big dinosaur kept bellowing all the time and was the noisiest thing on the grounds. He's rather proud of that.

Born on Long Island, Barker's parents used to take him to a farm a short distance upstate. He soon began to imitate a crowing rooster. The rest of the barnyard animals followed. He spent 17 years in the silent movies. He imitated all the animal sounds in a popular series of jungle movies. He has a toy Boston bull named Chips and often when he goes into action, Barker's Chips is one puzzled dog.

A local household was given pause the other evening by a remark made by the fifteen year old daughter of the family. Dad, it seems, had come home out of tune with things. At dinner that evening he ruffled the usual calm of the household by several critical remarks, finally leaving for town in a much ruffled condition of spirits. After he had gone, and quiet returned, the young daughter remarked: "Mother, its too bad dad is so emotionally immature."

When a transfusion is necessary at a hospital great care is exercised that exactly the right type of blood is used in each case. A reader of this paper tells us that no such selection prevails among the mosquitoes as far as she knows.

Every town has one or more individuals who are clamoring for the government to provide employment for them who were never known to work even when jobs were hunting men. Two Minute Sermon

By
Thomas Hastwell

IT HAS NEVER BEEN TRIED:— One of the most amazing things in the world today is the fact that although man has not chosen to accept God's law as his rule and guide in the matter of national and international relations, every act, everything that is done in a national or an international way but proves the wisdom and the verity of Christ's philosophy of living and of life.

Today we behold a world, each nation of which is engaged in a mad race for supremacy in armament. The diplomats of every power are invoking every known art of diplomacy to ward off the inevitable clash.

The germ of war is at work and the time is coming and coming soon when diplomacy must finally step aside and yield to the red ruthlessness of war. Even in face of the fact that the next world war will involve the world in what may be civilizations last stand do we drive heedlessly on to inevitable chaos and disaster. All power to call a halt, to stop, to weigh the consequences seems paralyzed. Like dumb creatures we stand helplessly awaiting the sting of the descending lash.

There is but one force in the world that will outlaw war, but one power that can now save civilization from its own undoing and that is Christ and his teaching. All of the history of mankind stands as an eloquent testimony in support of this claim. It is the only plan that the world has not yet tried, and the only plan that will save it.

ONCE, pins were so expensive that only the rich could afford them. There was a law allowing the sale of pins only on the first two days of the new year and on those days, the women of wealth would obtain from their husbands "pin money" to shop for their pins. The expression held through the years, extending its meaning when pins became cheap, to any money used for personal expenses.

Two Minute Sermon

By

Thomas Hastwell

THE ONLY WAY OUT: One of the most commonly used subjects these days for an address of a religious nature is the need of the world for a spiritual revival. We have come so used to solving the whole problem of the world with this one answer that we are prone to turn to it on any and all occasions and deliver a series of trite platitudes and then step back with an air of "well, that is taken care of nicely."

I feel, in common with the speech-makers and the orators, that there is a need, a very great need, for a spiritual revival in the world, but I am skeptical that it is going to come, like the typhoon of the south seas and sweep the world, carrying with it everyone, the righteous and the unrighteous.

The spiritual revival, when it comes, will come first in the hearts of individuals. Whether that will be after war has devastated the world and leveled it out in universal and dire extremity, or whether it will come while we still possess the power and the force to realize its wonder and its beauty, I do not know. I have but one conviction, and that is that a spiritual revival is the only thing that will save the race.

History furnishes many mute, though eloquent, evidences of past civilizations now buried deep in the dust of centuries that failed to experience a spiritual revival. God's plan cannot be altered by man. If today's civilization fails in its rendezvous with destiny it will be swept aside as have a score of other civilizations and a new world built on the ruins. A spiritual revival is not only a desirable thing today, it is imperative if this civilization is to live. There is no alternative.

Friday, September 16, marked a school outing for Manchester College. It took the place of the usual freshmen initiation exercises which are held every fall. The entire school went to Lake Wawbee for the day. Most of the faculty and students went on a special train on the Big Four Railroad. Twelve coaches were secured to take the crowd. More than one hundred students of the 675 enrolled in the institution had never been on a train before. The entire day was spent in many student contests, swimming, and boating.

The annual Homecoming Day has been scheduled for October first. Many alumni will return for the day's events. Manchester's football team will meet Earlham College on the Kenapocomono Field.

THAT'S A GOOD IDEA

To remove stains from baths and wash-basins, rub with dry salt before cleaning in the ordinary way.

To remove a scorch mark from a with a cut onion, then soak in cold water and wash in the usual way.

If a new broom is soaked in hot water into which a handful of salt

House cleaning can be very hard enamel the stains will seldom remain on the hands if before washing them in warm water you apply a little lard or butter.—Tit-Bits Maga-

JESSIE RUSH, Editor and Mgr.

The depression has proven one thing and that is that there are more political theories about how the depression might be overcome than anyone ever dreamed there could be.

One out of every four persons in the United States is receiving some sort of financial aid from the federal government.

No person makes so much that they do not have to do without some of the things they want, or think they want, if they are going to save any money. The saving of money is not of value merely from the fact that it permits the accumulation of a cash reserve, important though this is. It's chief value, after all, is in the discipline the self-denial generates—a discipline that is not only of value to every person, but is an important element in the best character building.

The person who spends as he goes is like a child that wants the moon, or the adult savage with a child's mind that cannot deny the body the physical craving.

No Sunday School teacher who prepares fifty-two lessons a year to teach a class, few of whom ever as much as read the lesson through, and less than a fourth of whom attend class regularly, is ever adequately rewarded in this life.

One of the big problems to every man in business is to get the fullest measure of enjoyment possible out of life and at the same time not neglect his business. There is a happy median somewhere if one can find it. Every business man knows what it is to steal away for a week or two and feel all the time that he is neglecting things at home.

The ability to put business cares and responsibilities completely out of mind while one takes a vacation is a fine art not many proprietors of businesses acquire.

Accident Fatal To Dorothy Mae Burwell

Dorothy Mae Burwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Burwell of Warsaw was fatally injured in an automobile accident early Sunday morning, September 25. She suffered fractures of both legs and severe lacerations of head and face when the automobile in which she was riding failed to negotiate the turn on road No. 25 near Redman's corner southwest of Warsaw. The car struck a cement post and turned over pinning the girl beneath the wreckage. Rescuers had to chop away part of the car to free the girl.

Her companion, Jack Bayer, son of Ruel Baker of Warsaw, was thrown clear of the car and was knocked unconscious, but suffered no serious injuries. Both were taken to the Murry hospital in Warsaw where Miss Burwell died early Monday morning. The Funeral Home in Mentone is in charge of the body. Funeral arrangements have not been made at this time.

Two Minute Sermon

By

Thomas Hastwell

WE CAN'T IGNORE THE RULES: Everyone has met those who seem to be always playing in hard luck. Everything they set their hand to goes wrong. They blame their luck, their fate, the stars, everything but themselves. They complain that the world is against them. They persist in going about following their own wills and their own desires and ignoring the well known rules upon which successful management is built. They persist in trying to make their own rules and set up their own code that time has proven is neither wise nor sound. It is natural that in so doing they become business failures.

In building a satisfactory and successful life it is just as important to follow the rules of the game as it is in building a satisfactory and successful business. The rules of right, and harmonious living are so clearly defined that no one need ever err. There is no other way except to follow them. God has given us the rules that make for happiness, and content, and harmony, and, if we hope to achieve these things in life, we must follow the rules. No one can be little, and narrow, and intemperate, and shiftless, and dishonest, and unfair, and unkind, and unjust, and expect to reap the reward of right living.

ALMANACK FOR '39 FORECASTS UPSETS

World Events of Sweeping Importance Seen.

LONDON.—Foulsham's Original Old Moore's Almanack, which claims to be published under an original copyright dating back to 1697, prophesies world events of sweeping importance for next year.

The decline of Benito Mussolini's dictatorship is predicted for November, 1939, the lunation of which "is adverse for Mussolini, whose sway will be rapidly declining through discontent fostered by economic stress, partly through the reigning dynasty now exercising much more control than hitherto in Italian affairs."

Of July the Almanack says "Italy and Germany appear to be both faced with financial and economic troubles of so stubborn a nature as to be incapable of relief merely by resort to the printing press and these difficulties are likely to render the position of Mussolini somewhat precarious."

Trouble for Stalin Seen.

Josef Stalin's danger month is May, when "political affairs in Russia, likewise that country's relations with other powers, appear to be involved and matters may be further complicated by the eclipse of Stalin." An obvious threat of hostilities between Russia and Japan is predicted.

In December "there is some danger of a clash between the United States and Japan, who may again be guilty of aggression in China—in which case our kinsman's patience may be strained to breaking-point. Alternately or in addition, Russia may be involved, for Mars sets at Moscow."

But as early as January, the Almanack says the lunar position at Tokyo suggests a break with America. Boom conditions are prophesied for America at the end of June, with bountiful crops and good trade in Italy in July.

President Roosevelt is promised "an immense and well-deserved personal triumph" in September through playing a leading part in preserving international peace. This may include, the Almanack says, "the final settlement of at least one war abroad."

British Scandal Forecast.

In May the British government "will be worried by a scandal affecting a member, and distressed and embarrassed by retirement of two of its greatest figures."

The Almanack says further: "In the event of its difficulties precipitating a general election, the government of the day would probably be returned to power, but possibly with a reduced majority."

In June the views of the British government "may be at variance with those of the masses and an election is possible in this or the preceding month. At this time wars and rumors of war will loom large on the political horizon, but the majority of people will favor a refusal to take sides and be for keeping out of war at all costs, provided only neither our national honor nor our vital interests are at stake."

The horoscope of Neville Chamberlain indicates that it would be wise for him to retire in the middle of 1941 and mentions Anthony Eden as his probable successor.
