The Lions club meeting Wednesday night was attended by fewer members than any previous meeting this year, but those present thoroughly enjoyed the evening. A good program is planned for the next meeting and all Lions are urged to be on hand.

The short attendance left a quantity of food and Thursday noon the Lion cooks prepared a noon-day meal for a number of the school children.

TRICHINOSIS

Trichinosis, because it is difficult to diagnose, is probably more prevalent in Indiana than reports of it would lead one to believe. A mild febrile disease, trichinosis rarely causes death although it may frequently be a contributing factor.

The trichinosis parasite travels a vicious circle—from hogs to man, to garbage, and back to hogs. The circle can be broken by two methods: cooking pork well before eating it and cooking garbage before feeding it to hogs. Heat kills the parasite which may be present in the best looking pork or in the scraps thrown in the garbage pail.

Trichinosis is practically unknown in Canada and France. Canadian law requires that garbage be cooked before it is fed to swine. French farmers feed their hogs grain and root grown vegetables almost exclusively.

Symptoms of trichinosis include nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, abdominal pain and swelling of the eyelids. After one recovers, soreness and weakness of the muscles may remain for months. No specific treatment is known but physicians can recommend measures to alleviate the discomfort.

TEMPORARY SILOS DESCRIBED

Many Indiana farmers have shown interest in the trench type silo as a result of attending the recent Purdue University and Indiana Farm Management Association's farm management tour, where such a silo was seen in use on the Morton Brothers farm near Lebanon.

Principal points of construction and use of temporary silos are outlined by H. J. Barre, head of the agricultural engineering department. Good drainage should be the first consideration in the selection of a building site, such as on a slope or hillside, Barre said.

The size of the trench should allow space for backing a wagon into the silo to facilitate removal of silage. Dimensions suggested are, six feet at the bottom, eight feet deep, with smooth walls sloping to ten feet wide at the top. The capacity of this trench is approximately one and one-fourth tons per foot of length.

A lining is not necessary when the trench silo walls are cut down smoothly. A more permanent trench may be made by plastering the walls or linwood. In light, sandy soils, a lining them with masonry, concrete or may be necessary to prevent the walls from caving in.

The secret of making good silage depends upon packing thoroughly while it is being filled. A truck, tractor, horses or cattle may be used for this purpose. Also a covering of six inches of straw may be used, over which a 12 to 18 inch layer of soil is placed. Wide strips of water proof reinforced kraft paper weighted down at the laps and edges with dirt have been used with good success for covers. Very little loss from spoilage has occurred.

Details of constructing the trench silo as well as the fence-paper silo and the baled-straw silo are discussed in the mimeographed leaflet "Temporary Silos," available free from the offices of county agricultural agents and Purdue University.

ANIMAL HEALTH COLUMN...

By R. A. MARRIOTT

Hog cholera is without a doubt the most devastating of all hog infections, costing the hog raisers of this country approximately $25,000,000 annually. This is a terrific price to pay when you realize that hog cholera can be controlled effectively, efficiently and inexpensively as compared to the cost of an outbreak. In 1940 it was estimated that an average of 30 pigs out of 1,000 died from hog cholera. Hog cholera was first reported in Ohio in 1833, since then it has been observed in every country where pigs are raised. There is no need to lose pigs from cholera, yet every year some one thinks they can "get by" without vaccinating, only to reap a harvest of dead pigs as a result of their negligence.

Hog cholera is a highly infectious disease which may attack susceptible swine of all ages. Only swine are affected and in this part of the country its greatest occurrence is in the late summer or early fall, although outbreaks may appear at any time in the year.

The usual symptoms are: temperature of 104° to 107° F., weakness, staggering gait, vomiting, mucus smeared eyelids, crowding together for warmth, red colored skin on under parts, labored breathing and failure to eat. All breeds of swine are subject to cholera. It is usually acute with a high death loss, entire herds can be wiped out within a short time. Recovery is so rare that it can probably be said that there are no recoveries from pigs sick with hog cholera.

Many preparations made from various drugs and chemicals have been marketed from time to time as preventatives of, or cures for, hog cholera. These various products have been carefully tested by Federal and State agencies and found to be absolutely worthless. There is no successful cure for hog cholera, and the only preventive is the "double treatment" or simultaneous serum and virus injection method.

Many so-called tonics are also advertised as being able to do wonders for hogs, some of them may have some value as a conditioner, but they are all absolutely worthless as a preventive or cure of hog cholera. Sanitation, proper feeding and good management along with common sense are of great importance in successful hog raising. It was shown by a recent survey that only one third of the farmers employ good feeding and housing practices. The efficiency of anti-hog cholera serum in the prevention of hog cholera is now recognized all over the world and is used wherever hogs are raised.

Vaccination is not difficult as many hog raisers who have had experience know, there are a few simple rules to follow which will help produce the best possible results:

1. Be sure all animals to be vaccinated are healthy.
2. Do not vaccinate sick or wormy pigs.
3. Withhold all feed for 12 hours, but allow plenty of water.
4. Avoid chasing and exciting. Also rough handling.

5. Withhold feed for 4 to 6 hours after vaccinating.

6. Provide clean, dry pens, keep pigs away from mud holes, manure piles and dust.

7. Follow the direction on label and use correct dosage.

Because it is impossible to properly cover all the variations of hog cholera in this limited space, if any of you would be interested in further information just drop me a card with your name and address requesting the booklet on "The Control of Hog Cholera". I shall be happy to send it to you at no cost.

This booklet is comprehensive, yet brief and to the point. It will be a valuable addition to your animal health library as it illustrates the equipment needed and the method of injection, as well as discussing fully the problems of controlling hog cholera.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker Dille, of Argos, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith attended the Baker Reunion at the Wabash City park Sunday. Clayton Switzer, who is 86 years of age and formerly of this community, was the oldest person present. He now resides with his daughter in Roann.

SAFETY HINTS

Don't learn the traffic rules by accident, says the National Safety Council.

Accidental deaths to workers on the job totalled 16,000 in 1945. Accidents to workers away from their jobs totalled 29,000 almost twice the on-job total, the National Safety Council reports.

PACK GOOD NUTRITION INTO SCHOOL LUNCH

Packing the school lunch is a particularly difficult job in the early weeks of school, says Miss Lois Oberhelman, Purdue University extension nutritionist. On some days the weather is so warm that many foods will spoil in a relatively short time.

Because of the danger of food spoilage the Purdue specialist cautions mothers against using the kind of foods usually involved in food poisoning cases. These include custards, cottage cheese, cream-filled pastries, ham, tongue, chicken, potato and meat salads, ground meat or meat and fish sandwich mixtures.

Although this limits the lunch box possibilities, it is better to take no chances, says Miss Oberhelman. Sandwiches can be varied with different kinds of bread or crackers. Fruit, cheese, peanut butter and other foods may be used safely as fillings. Some possible combinations include ground prunes, raisins and nuts, chopped celery, carrots and raisins; peanut butter, ground raisins and fruit juice; peanut butter and apple sauce.

The early months of fall offer plenty of fresh fruit and vegetable ideas for the packed lunch. Frozen fruits may also travel to school in tight containers. If fruit is put into the container while frozen, it will be thawed by lunch hour.

Although many foods that contain milk cannot safely go into the lunch box on hot days, milk can be kept cold in a thermos bottle until lunch time. Or cheese may be used in place of milk.

It takes planning to pack an appetizing and nutritious lunch day after day, but it is a vital need of every school child. Poor grades, discipline problems and other school difficulties have often been traced to the lack of a good noon-day meal for the school child, so whether the child eats at home or at school, the meal should provide approximately one-third of the day's food needs.

Timberline

There they meet the storms and tempests
 an dthey chant a victor's song.

The muted songs of lower trees
 Are lost against the sky
 Where the dauntless trees of timberline
 Are born—grow old—and die.

The forests claim the trees below,
 But near the mountain's crest,
 God grows these trees, each one apart,
 To tell us of life's best.

For some of us have timberlines—
 Its storms break hard and long,
 But only souls by struggle tried
 Know victory—and are strong.

TYPEWRITER FINGERS ON A DETOUR

By ART CULLUM

THEY LIT UNDER THE LIGHTS

The Mentone Legionnaires may not be from Missouri, but they found out about mules Friday evening when each of them cautiously put a mule between their legs and tried to play softball. Like a bridegroom, they suspected but didn't know exactly what, and moved as discreetly as an infant that stands still for three seconds.

One of those mountain canaries may be all right out in the Rockies where every hill looks alike, but when it comes to perambulating with one of the brutes with a baseball diploma, they steer worse than a Model T with three flats on a gravel road. The only spark control was in the manager's electrified goad stick and every time he put it close to the tail assembly even old Whitey shoved off for second in a gradual hurry.

It didn't matter which team you were on, or where you hit the ball, it was a two to one cinch that you wouldn't get to first base. Two of the yodeling jacks were riding a tail wind all evening and before a baserunner could settle into his fuzzy seat, the business end of the brute came up to meet him. Trained as they were, they always ducked their heads before the batter went over.

Pat got trapped between first and second on Whitey and he had an awful job hurrying him to base. Pat, in his baseball days, slid into second many a time, but he wasn't exactly on a mule.

The game, sponsored by the Legion, created much merriment, accumulated a few sheekles and jarred several generations all in one evening.

Heirs include the widow and two daughters, Sue Ann Fleck and Leah Jean Johnson, all of Mentone.

The property of Lydia A. Deaton, who died March 15, was valued at $9,000, all personal, by Dora A. Taylor, daughter and sole heir, as she qualified as administratrix.

MARY K. MURPHY ASSESSED FINE

SO LOW ON SOLO.

It's generally customary, when a flying student makes his first solo flight, for the instructor to take a pair of "pinking" shears and delicately nibble off the tail of his shirt. The accumulation of shirt-tails usually hang in some conspicuous place around the airport and everyone is proud when he can stand back and look over his autographed shirt-tail.

However, little Donnie Smythe, who literally flits when he flutters about, came in from his solo flight the other day, pulled out his shirt-tail and backed up to the instructor as accommodating as an old plow horse, but they doublecrossed him! They just naturally turned him over a barrel, took a pair of tinsnips and cut a nice patch out of the seat of his underwear.

Dr. URSCHEL TO OPEN OFFICE SEPTEMBER 16

Dr. Urschel announces that his office will be opened on September 16. Mr. and Mrs. Denton Abbey will do all medical technical work, including x-ray, electrocardiography, basal metabolism, blood chemistry, etc.

Dr. Urschel states that his practice will be similar to that in which he was engaged prior to army service. He will do no obstetrics or surgery, and will confine his work principally to the field of diagnostic medicine. As before, his main interest will be in diseases of the heart. During the three years of his army career, Dr. Urschel worked in his chosen specialty, and was classified as an Internist and Cardiologist by the Surgeon General's Office. He has been certified as a specialist by the American Board of Internal Medicine.

As before, office hours will be by appointment.

She is confined in an iron lung.

HOME EC. CLUB MET THURSDAY

The Mentone Home Economics club was entertained last Thursday in Mishawaka at the homes of Mrs. John Moore and Mrs. Harold Weissert.

A pot-luck dinner was enjoyed at the noon-hour in the home of Mrs. Moore. In the afternoon, the members went to the home of Mrs. Harold Weissert for the business meeting, which was conducted in the usual way.

Mrs. Emory Anderson read the history of the song of the month, "I Want a Girl". Roll call was answered by "School Day Memories". The mystery package was won by Mrs. Raymond Weirick. A very enjoyable time was had by all.

NOTICE

For the remainder of the year, the Mentone Home Ec. club will meet on Wednesday afternoon instead of Thursdays.

MAIN STREET GETTING FINAL PAVING COAT

The Brooks Construction Co., of Ft. Wayne, was applying the final asphalt sealing coat to Mentone's Main street Thursday. It will be a mighty fine job when completed.

There has been considerable conjecture about how fast it will be when thoroughly broken in. Some claim that some motorists should be able to do 95 as they could get up to sixty on the old one.

Reckless driving is seldom wreckless, which reminds us of the statistics Reader's Digest dug out several years ago. In conferring with various police departments—and the individuals "on the carpet" for reckless driving—they found that those who drive recklessly are usually of low mentality. One wonders how a person can brag about being of low mentality, but that is what one does when he drives in a reckless manner.

COMPLETES 12TH YEAR AT INDIANA STATE FAIR

Lyndes Latimer returned to Mentone Saturday afternoon after completing his 12th year as manager of the camp grounds at the Indiana State Fair at Indianapolis. Over 350 groups registered at the camp during the fair, and each group averaged about five persons. Tommie Blue, also of Mentone, was one of his assistants.

Mr. Latimer spent the previous week at the Crown Point fair where he and his son won all first places with their Shropshire sheep.

He was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Martha Welch, of this city. Mr. Johnson visited frequently in this vicinity, where he had made many friends.

ARMY VS. NAVY AT MENTONE SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 21

The Mentone Legion boys have plans for another softball game on Saturday evening, Sept. 21, when the Army and the Navy tangle at Veterans' Park. The teams will be selected from Mentone veterans and all those interested in playing in the game are advised to register with Herschel Linn.

The climax of the evening will be the distribution of a number of gifts which all Legionnaires have been advertising of late.

PHEASANT SEASON OPEN TO HUNTERS ON NOVEMBER 11

A six-day open season for the hunting of cock pheasants will begin November 11. Indiana Department of Conservation officials announced today.

Donald R. Hughes, Director of the Division of Fish and Game, emphasized a new wrinkle in the pheasant regulations this year—stalkers of the ringneck are permitted to operate only during the hours of 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

"The practice of establishing banker's hours for sportsmen is common in other states," Hughes said, "and it has become necessary here if we are to maintain any kind of pheasant population."

No hen pheasants may be taken by hunters this season, and the bag limit is two cocks per day. The possession limit is four. The decision to abridge and modify the season on all species of pheasants was made "in order to prevent their extermination in certain areas and to provide for their proper protection and natural propagation in other areas."

The department of Conservation's official order outlining the season says, in part, "This determination was made after a thorough investigation and is based on reliable data relative to the quantities of pheasants in each

Tribute to 159 Years of Constitutional Government

On September 17, Indiana will observe Constitution Day—little over a year since the final end of World War II.

Governor Ralph Gates has urged all Hoosiers to join on that date in rededicating themselves to the principles of the constitution and in "helping to bring about a world freedom as great as we have achieved under our great Constitution."

This is a good time to review that preamble, which is as applicable today as it was when it was drafted in 1787.

"We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

It is a good time, too, to ask ourselves these questions: Have we formed a perfect union, established justice, insured domestic tranquility, provided for common defense, promoted the general welfare, and secured the blessings of liberty?

We of America know that we have made greater advances in democracy

THE people's government, made for the people, made by the people, and answerable to the people.

THE BILL OF RIGHTS

AMENDMENT II

Right to bear arms

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

AMENDMENT III

Security of the home against military than has any other nation. The United States, by its victory and by its power, has a great world responsibility. It has in its reach insuring the tranquility of much of the world and improving the status of mankind.

In the manner in which we meet these new responsibilities, as well as the old, will be judged the soundness of the American form of government. Constitution Day is a timely reminder of the sacrifices that have been made—and an occasion for sober rededication.

Lincoln's Plea Is Still Good Today

A man by the name of Abraham Lincoln, who has become a remarkably famous person in the United States, said concerning the Constitution:

"Let every American, every lover of liberty, every wellwisher to his posterity swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his posterity, and his sacred honor.

"Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father, and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty ... let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges; let it be written in primers, in spelling books and in almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls and enforced in courts of justice. And, in short, let it become the political religion of the nation, and, in particular, a reverence for the Constitution."

G. A. R. Passes Torch To War Veterans "Watch That Constitution"

Hiram R. Gales, Commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, stood in the presence of members of the Service Club, a luncheon organization composed of veterans of both world wars, during the annual G. A. R. encampment just concluded at Indianapolis.

His wavering but clear voice and his soldierly appearance gave the impression that he had made the most of his years, which number exactly one hundred.

"You boys," he said, "who served in the armed forces of your country have a duty. Your duty is to take care of your country. Get together and take care of your country. We did after the Civil war. As long as our strength held out—for fifty years—we saw to it that good men governed our country.

"And you boys watch that Constitution. Hold on to it. If you let the country get away from the Constitution, there will be no great and strong and free United States—the United States we all fought to preserve and protect. You boys see that the country holds on to the Constitution."

That was his speech. But it was enough. It brought a hundred men to their feet in tears and with cheers. The torch had been passed.

AN OLD FRIEND

At times he shuffles down the street,
On infirm legs and crippled feet;
Old and deaf and almost blind,
Relic of days now left behind.
Once a master on sea and land;
Now a worn out working man.
Once he was young and full of life,
A mighty warrior in the strife;
Now he is battle-scarred, wrinkled and gray,
Just the remnant of a better day.

When I look back in memory,
A noble man I can see;
Working hard with hands both scarred,
As straight a man as they ever are,
Courageous, faithful, willing to serve;
Giving his all without reserve.

Broken in health and almost done,
Resting on laurels dearly won;
Only a tired old working man,
Once a great master of the land.
"Why not forget him?" some folks say,
"He is no good, he's had his day."
I couldn't forget, as long as I have breath,
He who would serve until his death.

SCHOOL NEWS

On Friday evening, the Mentone High School softball team made their first bid for the County Softball crown by defeating Silver Lake by a score of 10 to 8. Glen Blue started the pitching duties for Mentone. He was unable to find his regular pitching form as he walked six of the first seven batters to face him. Forst Dunnuck, promising young freshman twirler, took over in the middle of the inning and held a steady rein on the opponents as his teammates gradually erased the margin of runs. Several times during the game, play was suspended because of temporary downpours. At the end of the first inning the score stood 6 to 1 in favor of Silver Lake. Long, the Mentone first baseman, connected for a home run on the second pitched ball to let Silver Lake know that batting power was going to be the deciding factor in this ball game. At the end of the 5th inning the score stood 7 to 3 in favor of Silver Lake. Mother Nature was with the Bulldogs and held off letting down a gully-washer that would have given the game to Silver Lake because 5 innings had been played. After the last temporary downpour in the last of the fourth inning, both coaches had difficulty in rounding up their players as both fans and players were leaving. As the game was again called for play, Blue had failed to appear and coach Beck refused to agree on a substitution that would allow Blue to again play when he returned. Coach Bevington played with eight players for the remainder of the inning to insure the batting strength of Blue. In the 6th inning the Mentone boys showed their real power by tallying 5 runs to give them an 8 to 7 lead. Silver Lake came back strong and tied the score again. In the last inning, the Bulldogs had retired Silver Lake after one of their players had reached third. Bowser was the first to bat and he connected for a hard single to right field. Whetstone had failed to get a hit up to this time. With a two and two count on him, he patted the ball for a home run to win the game for his teammates. Fred Vandermark, freshman center fielder, led the batting record for the Mentone team by getting four hits in four trips, to the plate. Junior Emmons, freshman third baseman, also bated 100% by getting 3 for 3.

Batting record for Silver Lake game: Score of game by innings

Mentone 1-1-0-1-0-5-0-2 10 runs, 15 hits, .405%, 3 errors.

Silver Lake, 6-0-0-1-0-0-1-0, 8 runs, 6 hits, .194% 4 errors.

On Tuesday afternoon, the Mentone high school softball team went to Beaver Dam and came out on the short end of a 6 to 3 score. Forst Dunnuck started on the mound for the Bulldogs but was unable to keep the Beaver Dam boys from tagging the ball. Glen Blue replaced him in the third and after the first inning had regained his previous pitching form. Blue allowed only two hits and struck out six of the men that faced him. A strong wind was blowing and hard hit balls that looked like sure hits settled back in the gloves of the Beaver fielders for perfect outs. In the last inning with the score 6 to 1, the Bulldogs threw a scare into the Beavers that made them call "time."

Whetstone was the first batter. With a two and two count, he again tagged the ball for a home run into deep center field. Hibschan then doubled and the boys began to get "that old feeling". Emmons cracked a single, driving in Hibschan for the second run and still no outs. Vandermark came to bat. He hit a hard ground ball that touched the 3rd base line about twenty feet in front of third base. The ball appeared to be caught outside of the bag at third but it was ruled a fair ball and Emmons was forced to second. Dave Johns grounded out to the first baseman for the second out. Kenneth Dunnuck batted as a pinch hitter for Roscoe Davis and struck out retiring the sides.

Score by innings:

Mentone, 0-0-1-0-0-0-2, 3 runs 6 hits, 3 errors.

Beaver Dam, 3-0-1-0-2-0 6 runs, 7 hits 1 error.

NEWCASTLE DISEASE: NEW THREAT TO POULTRY INDUSTRY

(Recent weeks have brought out rumors of a new poultry disease in this area. Being new and its potentialities relatively unknown, it has caused some alarm. Harold E. Moses, Associate Pathologist, Dept. of Veterinary Medicine, of Purdue University, has compiled the following report relative to the disease.—Ed.)

The freedom of American livestock from various diseases that cause serious destruction annually in other countries brought forceful recognition in the early days of the war to the hazard that these diseases held for our national and international war time effort. To cope with this problem a number of research projects were established under the direction of the War Department. The efforts of one of these projects were devoted in part to the study of Newcastle disease of poultry.

This disease had been recognized as a distinct entity twenty years ago by investigators in England and the Dutch East Indies, where the disease had occurred and from which it apparently was distributed throughout the poultry-raising districts of the Eastern Hemisphere. The first recognition of the disease in the Western Hemisphere occurred in 1944 when workers in California and on a war project at Harvard University identified the causative agent of Newcastle disease with the agent of a respiratory-nervous disorder that had been observed in California for at least five years. This American form of Newcastle disease has also been recognized by conclusive diagnoses in chickens and turkeys in certain Eastern seaboard states in the past two years, and, only recently, in a few flocks of chickens in several Midwestern states, including Indiana.

The causative agent of this disease is a filterable virus or is a member of the class of parasitic agents to which belong, for example, the viruses of hog cholera, canine distemper, the influenza, and the various poxes, such as smallpox, chicken pox and fowl pox. Chickens, turkeys and pigeons contract Newcastle disease readily and possibly other barnyard and free-flying fowl become affected. The agent is considered as being of very minimal danger to man, since only two minor infections in laboratory workers have been possibly attributable to it.

Newcastle disease in poultry of this country has been to date a less severe disease than that observed in other countries and, in addition, has shown major evidences of disturbance of the respiratory and nervous systems instead of alimentary tract involvement. In the disease in this country, difficult audible breathing is usually observed in affected poultry of any age, while also in young stock incoordination of movement, paralysis of wings or legs and abnormal twisting and turning of the head and neck are often seen, and in older stock egg production has declined quickly to low levels and the eggs produced are of inferior quality for some time. Considerable losses from death may be expected in chickens and turkeys of any age, yet these have averaged about 20 per cent and under 5 per cent in young and old stock, respectively.

The control of the disease can be undertaken only by preventative measures. Of greatest importance are efforts to prevent spread of the disease. All possible measures should be executed to prevent escape of the causative agent from known-infected premises or its introduction onto presumably non-infected premises. Very hazardous procedures include the following: congregation of chickens from many flocks for any purpose and their redistribution from this point to the same or other flocks, movement from one flock to another of people uninformed of the dangers of disease transmission, movement of equipment from one premises to another including reuse of crates, egg cases and feed containers, and procurement of poultry or eggs from farms or hatcheries dangerously exposed to the disease. A vaccine has recently been developed that appears to be of sufficient value for experimental use in selected cases.

The disease is easily confused with the various other respiratory and nervous diseases of poultry and, therefore, accurate recognition of it must as yet depend on laboratory procedures. Suspected outbreaks of this disease should be reported by phone or mail to the State Livestock Sanitary officials or to the Veterinary Department of Purdue University by whom an investigation will be made.

ANIMAL HEALTH COLUMN . . .

By R. A. MARRIOTT

Round worm and cecal worm infestation in both poultry and turkey flocks is very costly as it is one of the greatest drains to the flock; and all too often the average flock owner does not check his birds close enough to be able to determine when his birds should be wormed. Treating birds at frequent intervals to rid them of parasites is one of the best and cheapest means of keeping them healthy.

Poultry authorities are generally agreed that chickens should be wormed four times a year, suggested dosage as follows; chickens—first worming at 10 to 12 weeks, second worming at 16 to 18 weeks, just before housing and 2 to 3 months after housing. Worm turkeys—20 days after they are put on range and every 30 days thereafter. While there are many anthelmintics (worm expellents) available Phenothiazine has proven to be the most effective worm expellent available for the elimination of cecal worms being up to 95% effective. Nicotine is most effective against large roundworms; in fact, Drs. Gutlinie and Horwood have reported that Phenothiazine and nicotine in combination eliminated 94 to 96% of the round worms and approximately 84 to 94% of cecal worms. Because this combination has proven so effective in worming poultry and turkeys, Lederle Laboratories have made this combination of Phenothiazine and Nicotine available in both powder for flock treatment and tablets for individual treatment under the trade name P. N.

P. N. Powder may be mixed with mash and fed for flock treatment which eliminates the necessity of handling the birds. P. N. may be fed dry or in a wet mash. It is preferable to remove mash from the hoppers in the evening and then feed the P. N. mash first thing in the morning. P. N. mash should be spread out in the feeders so all birds can eat at the same time. As soon as P. N. mash is eaten continue with regular feed. It is not necessary to fast birds before or give laxative after P. N. mash feeding. Expulsion of roundworms and cecal worms starts a few hours after treatment. P. N. is packaged in 100 dose, 500 dose and 1000 dose sizes. The 100 dose P. N. powder will treat 100 adult chickens or 50 adult turkeys. The P. N. mas his prepared for a 100 adult chicken treatment by thoroughly mixing one bottle of the 4.6 oz. P. N. (100 dose) powder with 5 lbs. of feed. First mix P. N. thoroughly in 1 lb. (1 qt.) of mash then combine with four more pounds of mash. Use proportionate quantities of mash for the larger size packages. Sick birds that will not eat should not be forcibly fed with P. N. mash mixture nor given P. N. tablets.

drive the motor driven wheels. He added that bicycles converted into motor-propelled machines come under the law requiring a licensed driver. "In several cases this year, youngsters under 16 years of age were killed when motor scooters and bikes collided with other vehicles," he said.

Riders were warned against carrying passengers on vehicles equipped for one person. Addition of the second rider increases accident hazards, he said.

MOTOR BIKE DEATHS

Five persons died in the first seven months of this year in traffic crashes involving motor bikes or scooters driven by unlicensed juveniles, Col. Austin R. Killian, state police superintendent, disclosed today in warning parents of their responsibility in such accidents.

"Young people and adults generally have failed to realize that the popular two-wheeled vehicles must comply with state laws regulating their operation," he asserted.

He explained riders are required to undergo the beginner's license trial period and must be able to post evidence of financial security in the event of an accident involving $25 or more property damage, personal injury or death. Proper lights, brakes and other equipment stipulations must be observed.

Parents are guilty of a misdemeanor and are subject to fine, Colonel Killian pointed out, when they permit children without operator's licenses to Widows, young children, or other survivors of deceased World War II veterans who died following their discharge from the armed forces and as a result of causes not connected with their military service may be able to qualify for survivors insurance payments under the recent veterans' amendment to the Social Security Act., Emil J. Hoffman, manager of the Elkhart social security office, said today.

The veterans amendment provides for monthly social security payments to qualified survivors of veterans who die within 3 years of their discharge, provided that the veteran's discharge was not "dishonorable" and that his dependents are not qualified to receive compensation or pensions from the Veterans Administration. A Veteran's National Service Life Insurance, however, does not disqualify his dependents for the social security benefits.

Early Sunday morning, several cars of Mentone people drove to Defiance, Ohio, where they arrived in time to attend both the Sunday school and church services at the Defiance Gospel Tabernacle, where Rev. Charles F. Blue is pastor.

A pot luck dinner and social hour was enjoyed by the group following the services.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT LIONS MEETING WEDNESDAY

One of the largest attendances this year was enjoyed by the Mentone Lions club Wednesday. About 55 Lions and guests were present to hear Rev. Dillon, Presbyterian minister of Goshen, render one of his interesting discourses. He has a way of expressing himself that usually keeps his listeners quiet and interested.

The Womans Society of Christian Service held its September meeting in the home of Mrs. Allen Dille. The devotions were conducted by Mrs. Rea Ward. She used for her subject, "Green Pastures."

The chapter from the study book "The Church in the Country" was presented by Mrs. T. J. Clutter. The churches referred to were the ones on St. Johns Island and in the mountains of Tennessee.

During the social hour which followed, a committee consisting of Mrs. Personette, Mrs. Ellsworth, Mrs. Shaffer, Mrs. Goodman and Mrs. Horn, served refreshments of ice cream and cake.

The October meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Frank Wise on October 4.

DRESSING PLANTS NOW VERY MODERN STRUCTURES

The commercial dressing of live poultry has developed into a tremendous business in the Mentone vicinity the past few years. The volume handled by local plants runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars a year and the above-market advantage to local poultry raisers has amounted to a large sum.

Wayne Neilans now has a large block structure, in the northeast edge of town where they have been operating the past several weeks. The building is 60x100 feet and has a loading dock across the 60-foot south end. The dock has a roof above for protection from the weather. The refrigeration and chill room is 28x30 feet and is refrigerated electrically. The equipment is of good quality.

M. F. Todd, who formerly operated in Mentone, is now operating his new plant at his farm home. The structure is 40x110 feet, of steel and concrete block construction and is two stories high plus a small basement for the compressor units for the 40x22 chilling and refrigeration room. The machinery is mostly all new and modern design and almost entirely automatic. The poultry comes into the plant on a covered loading dock about 80 feet long and the live chickens placed on a conveyor line. They travel to the second floor where they are killed and bled, then into the scalding vats. From there they travel through the automatic picker and they are then given the final hand check and examinations before they go back to another part of the lower floor where they enter the chill room. The automatic conveyor will accommodate 223 birds at one time and is approximately 350 feet long.

The top floor also contains two large rest rooms, a box building and storage room and a large dining room for the employees. It is equipped with the necessary equipment for a small restaurant.

The first floor also contains the offices and a smaller building to the north contains the large water heating boilers to supply heat for the establishment and the water for the scalding vats.

The plant is arranged to operate with a force of about 40 people and has a capacity of about 10,000 birds per day.

FLY TO MICHIGAN ON FISHING TRIP

Paul Wolfe and Herb Shipley, of Winona Lake (students at the Tucker & Herendeen airport), Richard Manwaring, Frank Meredith, Wayne Shunk, Hap Utter and Chick Herendeen spent last Wednesday and Thursday at Kalkaska, Michigan fishing. They made the trip in four planes and had a swell time even though the fish didn't cooperate as they should have.

Richard Manwaring had been confined to his bed for about a week with hay fever and asthma, but managed to get into a plane with the boys. The next day he was in good shape and has been feeling fine ever since his return.

The boys are looking forward to another trip in the near future.

Allen Herendeen also announces that they expect another new Aerona plane next week.

THE ARMY-NAVY GAME IS NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT

The teams are gradually taking shape for the Army-Navy softball game at Veterans' Park next Saturday evening, Sept. 21. Neither side has made any announcement relative to the starting lineups, but rest assured the rivalry will be intense.

The Legionnaires, who are sponsoring the event, also have other features on the evening's program (which the postal department objects to newspapers mentioning out loud). Regardless, Porky Jones wants us to announce that all his salesman should turn in their working kits by Saturday noon if at all possible.

NEW FRONT INSTALLED IN NICA HARDWARE BLDG.

Saturday workmen installed the large plate glass display windows in the Co-Op. Hardware building at Mentone and the windows are now gradually filling with merchandise on display. Preparation is being made to pave the entire area in front of the hardware and general office building and the famous concrete egg was given a new coat of white paint this week.

The display front was designed and supervised by Hugh Rickel and Geo. McIntyre was in charge of construction.

LESTER HORN IN HOSPITAL

Lester Horn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Horn, is in the Woodlawn hospital at Rochester seriously ill. His difficulty was originally thought to be food poisoning, but at present the medical men in charge are not definite.

A week ago Saturday Lester fell from the hay mow but was apparently unhurt. Whether this may have had a bearing on his illness is yet unknown.

WANT TO TAKE A TRIP TO EUROPE?

The Brethren Service Committee needs 2,000 men to assign to UNRRA livestock ships. Men are needed who have an ability to handle cattle, and have an interest in helping other people.

Since June, 1945, approximately 5,000 men have made these trips. They have been farmers, school teachers, writers, students, veterans, and conscientious objectors. They have come from all the states in the union as well as Canada. While the ability to handle animals is important, the desire to personally do something in a positive constructive way to aid the world situation more than compensates. Men of good moral and ethical ideals who will conduct themselves in a manner which will be a tribute to their country and the program of which they are a part will be welcomed and respected by the people of Europe. It is felt that by learning to know these people and understanding their problems that the "cowboys" will become more valuable citizens to the country and to the world.

On June 29, 1945, the first livestock shipment was sent to Poland in the UNRRA rehabilitation program. Since that time approximately 185 trips have been made carrying horses, mules, and cattle. These animals were purchased by UNRRA representatives and shipped to the port towns of Portland Maine; Baltimore, Maryland; Newport News, Virginia; Savannah, Georgia; New Orleans, Louisiana and Houston, Texas, where they were prepared for shipment to Greece, Yugoslavia, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Italy.

The trips usually last from five to seven weeks, though many are of shorter duration. The minimum age is 18 years. The pay is $150.00 and maintenance while on ship. Expenses to and from the port city are borne by the "cowboy". Shipments will continue at least until the end of the year.

We are now equipped to water repel raincoats, etc., with the famous Drax repellent. De Luxe Cleaners.

Friendly Fungi

When penicillin appeared, it seemed strange to many people that a fungus could produce so useful a product, for we associate such organisms chiefly with disintegration and decay of organic material and know them to be causal agencies of numerous plant diseases such as potato mildew and chestnut tree blight.

Fungi, however, include all such categories of plants as molds, mildews, mushrooms and bracket-fungi, puffballs, yeasts, and many others, even some bacteria which consort with this class under the term fission fungi. Obviously, fungi do not gobble their food, as do many of nature's animal scavengers, but fungi may and do destroy and transform in a most insidious way any animal and plant remains. They have no green chlorophyll with which to convert sunlight, carbon dioxide and water into food, and so must be content to get their food second hand, from the dead and from the living. The process of decay, manifest in the breakdown of vegetation, is a primary factor in restoring carbon dioxide to the air and thus rendering it available for new green growth as the never ending cycle of life and death proceeds.

Man's use of fungi is not new. The yeasts which leaven bread and ferment wine, of course, are ancient. They give flavor to Roquefort, Gorgonzola, Stilton, Camembert and Brie cheeses; originally these could be ripened only in their traditional distracts where the particular mold happened to abound, but American research since 1906 has identified and isolated the organisms and authentic leavens can now be prepared anywhere. Citric acid has been made by a mold process since 1917; it goes into flavorings, inks, dyes and medicines. Other acids can be made with molds in competition with chemical procedures. Mushroom cultivation now contributes 40,000,000 pounds annually to the nation's food supply.

But penicillin did bring the microscopes of science to the molds with a new avidity. If a product of Penicillium Notatum could enter the blood stream and kill cocci without damage to the host, why might not products of the thousands of similar molds exercise a similar selectivity against germs of the numerous diseases which defy penicillin? So, in many laboratories there is energetic searching. Another mold product, streptomycin, is in experimental production because it shows promise in clinical tests against tuberculosis, whooping cough, tularemia, typhoid and dysentery.

As discovery of the usefulness of sulfanilamide swiftly brought the disclosure of other good sulfa drugs, so it is to be expected that penicillin will end up as one of the important group of such products along a lengthened front of attack on infectious diseases. At any rate, the race is on!

Stain Removal

Very warm water has been known to remove fresh fruit stains, not being so apt to remove color from colored fabrics as is boiling water. On non-washable fabric, any ink remover or bleach may be used on obstinate stains in white fabrics, but remember anything that is strong enough to remove stain will of course remove color from colored fabrics. Ten per cent solution of acetic acid has been satisfactory with colored fabrics. All has not been discovered about spot and stain removal. Try the proven ways, and if they fail, then be willing to experiment. You may be able to find other and better ways.

BROWN COUNTY'S SEASON OPENING EARLY THIS YEAR

Bumper-to-bumper traffic has started this year on state highway 135.

Brown county, probably the best-known in Indiana because of its phenomenally colored autumn foliage, is breaking out this year almost a month early, and motorists from all over the state, particularly Indianapolis, are on the road.

Hansel Mead, veteran park superintendent now in charge at Brown County State Park, made a tour of Indiana Department of Conservation offices this week with an armload of newly-plucked branches—gum, sumac, sassafras and scarlet maple—and it was a complete rainbow of colors. "I've never seen anything like it," said Mr. Mead, shaking his head in wonderment. "If things go on like this, the peak of the season will be reached in a few days."

Normally, according to Department of Conservation officials, the Brown county park entertains about 10,000 visitors each Sunday during the nationally-famous fall season. One day there were 18,000. The freakish weather this summer may create a long "Brown County Season," according to State Entomologist Frank N. Wallace, who points out that leaves begin to turn when the temperature drops but the process is slowed down during a warm "Indian Summer." "A spell of warm weather might cause the beautiful colors to remain several weeks this year," Wallace said.

"A good thing to remember," he said, "is not to consider a complete change of colors as the most beautiful sight. Right now, with the natural green of the trees mixed with the colors, it's especially impressive."

Indiana Department of Conservation officials pointed out the woodland areas of Indiana boast other parks besides the one in Brown County—McCormick's Creek, Spring Mill and Clifty Falls, for instance. Autumn is the most popular season for hiking and horseback riding.

SAN FRANCISCO AWAITS LEGION

San Francisco, making a bid to become the "convention city" of the United States, is planning for the biggest 1946 gathering yet—the September 29 meeting of the American Legion.

Already host to a week-long national meeting of the American Medical association and the nation Shrine Victory convention July 21-25, the city by the Golden Gate expects all attendance records to fall when the Legionnaires and their families arrive.

Pre-convention estimates of attendance at the Legion meeting were placed at 10,000 Legionnaires and their families, plus another 100,000 visitors from California alone.

THE ATOMIC WOLF

The use of "the grand scare" as a means of persuading the people of a nation to submit, without protest, to dilutions of their freedom and to growing extortions, is not a new technique. It has been employed repeatedly throughout history and, for each group of leaders who have used it, it has seemed to work like magic—but only for a time.

Like the boy who cried "wolf" too often, those leaders find themselves at last without an audience—and very lonesome indeed.

One wonders how much longer the cry of "wolf" can be used successfully on the American people. We have been told repeatedly, in justification for one new law after another, that that law, admittedly dangerous, must be enacted—and endured temporarily—to meet a grave emergency. We are told not to fear the law because it will be repealed immediately when the emergency has passed.

The trick thereafter is to get rid either of the emergency or of the bad law—which often is designed by its sponsors to perpetuate and intensify the very emergency it was supposed to cure.

The latest example of the invocation of fright to justify destructive legislation we have seen in the methods employed in Congress to justify our recently enacted Atomic Energy Law. Besides placing, in the hands of a Presidentially appointed five-man Commission, drastic control of every source of atomic energy and of every means usable in its development and application, the law forbids taking out our constitutional type of patents on any idea usable in the employment of atomic power for any industrial purpose. Inventors must report their inventions to the Commission within 60 days and tell no one else about them, or risk from ten to twenty years' imprisonment. If, by some inadvertence, they permit their idea to leak to a secret foreign agent, the law could put them to death.

Military officers who have carried full responsibility for directing invention and development in the atomic energy field, from its inception to the enactment of the new law, labored day and night to develop a substitute for the drastic, fully Sovietized, patent provisions above mentioned. They knew that the strength of its industry measures the power of a nation for war. They also knew that most of the inventions—useful, either in industry or in war, come from independent inventors and those affiliated with Smaller Manufacturers.

The "atomic military" knew this harsh law would frighten American inventors and drive their inventions underground—where secret foreign agents labor. A substitute, satisfactory to the atomic military, for the drastic patent section of the bill, was accepted by an overwhelming vote in the House. However, Senate pressures persuaded the House finally to pass the bill in its original form.

It was admitted by members of the Senate-House Conference Committee that the bill was bad. It was urged by them that a grave emergency existed, that the bill must be made at once a law to save the nation. They promised that the law would be repealed as soon as Russia agreed to international control of atomic energy and to unrestricted inspections within Russia.

Russian Gromyko, in Paris, waited only until the bill had become a law to boldly proclaim that Russia would never agree to international inspection. Never is a long, long time to be stuck with the McMahon Atomic Energy Act.

And why should Russia cooperate—now that she is assured that most of the inventors of America will be afraid to think of atomic energy, except in bed with the covers pulled over their heads? And is it any wonder that top scientists are showing reluctance to go along with the Administration's drastic atomic program?

The new Plus-Additive Certified Motor Oil with its improved stability inhibits the formation of carbon, varnish, sludge and other harmful deposits. Oxidation is practically eliminated.

All of these factors make for better lubrication, longer engine life, and more carefree mileage for our customers.

If you notice a slightly darker color and a different odor, there is a good reason—it is the new Plus-Additive used in Fleet-Wing's Certified Motor Oil.

It is the outstanding leader in the popular priced motor oil market.

There will be no change in your cost for this greatly improved Plus-Additive Certified Motor Oil.

CO-OPERATING for YOUR BENEFIT

In Mentone, where everyone is aware of the many advantages to be gained through cooperative effort, few words are necessary to illustrate our point.

The NORTHERN INDIANA EGG RECEIVERS' ASSOCIATION was formed in order that we in New York might be better able to serve the egg shippers of this area. Our buying power, our selling agencies, our markets, are pooled in a move to enable any of our firms to operate in one of the largest egg receiving and distributing units in the New York area.

The Association has instituted a number of other advantages for the shipper—prompt payments, better case marking, better handling, immediate settlement on all lost cases, etc. Others will be added as the need may arise.

RETURNS TO S. S. OFFICE

After almost 2 years service in the armed forces, Gerald O. Kelter has returned to his duties as manager of the Social Security Administration field office in Elkhart, it was learned recently. Mr. Kelter succeeds Emil J. Hoffman, manager, who accepted the temporary appointment when Mr. Kelter entered the army in 1944.

Mr. Kelter was honorably discharged from the army separation center in July.

Before going into military service, Mr. Kelter was manager of the field office in Elkhart for 2 years, having been appointed to that post from duty as assistant manager at Hammond, Indiana. He is a native of Osceola, Indiana.

In reviewing the activities of the field office during the war years, Mr. Kelter noted that 1624 old-age and survivors insurance benefits were in force at the end of June, 1946, in the area serviced by this office.

During the war years, an unusually large number of workers over 65 years of age continued in employment because of the demands for manpower in the production emergency. Since V-J Day, however, an up-swing in the number of claims for old-age and survivor insurance benefits has been noted, indicating that more insured workers at age 65 and over are taking advantage of their earned rights under this program.

The Social Security Administration's office in Elkhart at the Equity Bldg., operates solely for direct service to residents of Elkhart, Lagrange and Kosciusko counties. Mr. Kelter pointed out.

Mr. and Mrs. John Longaker and son John, of Wabasso, Florida, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Firkins the past week. Mrs. Longaker is an aunt of Mr. Firkins. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Firkins and their house guests and Mrs. Jennie Cunningham were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Goshert, of Burket.

Prof. and Mrs. C. O. Jackson, of Champaign, Ill., were Sunday overnight guests of her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Firkins.

HOOSIER HEALTH REPORT

Speakers at Indiana's first rural medical care conference held at Purdue recently re-emphasized the seriousness of the rural health problem. It was pointed out that rural areas are deficient in medical facilities, public and private, even as rural health is sub-standard.

Few, if any, health centers exist in Indiana. Hospitals are for the most part concentrated in large urban areas. Eight urban centers with populations over 50,000 have 25 hospitals. One-hundred-four towns of 1,000 to 2,500 persons have only 10 hospitals, all possessing fewer than 40 beds. So it goes. As cities and towns in Indiana decrease in size, hospital facilities become fewer.

Several constructive suggestions were offered at the conference. One was that rural health centers, instead of the customary monuments, be established as memorials to the veterans of World War II. Another was that local public health departments be developed. A third was that some doctors-to-be serve their internship with county doctors.

No one suggestion was submitted as a cure-all. The final solution is likely to be a combination of several approaches. But the needs are apparent, and the rural health committees of the State Medical Association and the Indiana Farm Bureau, sponsors of the Purdue meeting, have called a rural health workshop in November to examine the problem further.

PROFITS ON AN EGG FARM ARE FIGURED ON A YEARLY BASIS — NOT JUST LAST WEEK . . . OR LAST MONTH.

Consistently profitable returns are what really count at the end of the year, and to make a profit one must have a profitable market as well as an efficient farm.

The firm that consistently gives the greatest yearly return for your eggs is the one which will be the best market for you. One cannot expect to always get the best price by "shopping around." Dependable firms . . . the ones that have been in business for many, many years . . . are interested in your business and attempt to operate to your advantage as well as their own. Because they want your business next month, or next year, as well as this week, they pay the best prices they can every week, and are financially able to help protect your market. The unscrupulous have little regard for your welfare or in continued good prices. They make their money by fluctuations—a high price one week, a low one the next.

URGES RETURN OF PRIMARY

State Auditor A. V. Burch, of Evansville, addressing a meeting of the Muncie Lions club Wednesday night, called for the re-establishment of the direct primary system of nominating all candidates for public office as a means of "returning our government to the hands of the people—where it belongs."

He told the Muncie Lions that the 1947 general assembly, which meets only three and a half months from now, should enact a law outmoding the convention nominating method and restoring the primary method.

"I stand for returning the government to its rightful stewards—you, the workmen, the farmers, the businessmen," Burch said. "You should select the candidates for public office, from the township trustee to the U. S. senator, by a direct primary."

"That tried and tested system is truly a republic form of government in action, and at its best," he added.

"If we have the right, which we do, to nominate our congressmen by direct vote in the primary for a period of two years," the state auditor said,

"is it not more than doubly important that we have that same privilege to nominate a U. S. senator, who serves for six years, which is three times longer than a congressman's term?"

Burch explained to his audience that "these are my personal sentiments," and that he was not "speaking for my party."

Early Salads

According to home economists, the early salads were simply raw green vegetables served with salt for seasoning. The Latin word for salt is "sal," hence the name salad. The name has come to be applied to a wide group of foods made from fruits, as well as from vegetables, and often frozen or congealed. They may be served not only with salt, but with a variety of dressings suited to the ingredients used in the mixture.

Hungry American

The average carnivorous American consumes 25 sheep, 150 head of cattle, 225 lambs and 300 pigs during his lifetime, or enough to stock a good-sized farm.

REGULAR READING

BY RICHARD SEARS

BEGINNING NEXT WEEK—A SERIES OF BOOK REVIEWS BY RICHARD SEARS

As a new development in our continual effort to serve our subscribers by maintaining high journalistic standards, we are going to bring you an exclusive series of book reviews on current literature. These reviews will appear twice a month, starting next week with a brilliant review of Taylor Caldwell's latest novel, "THIS SIDE OF INNOCENCE."

We believe that our subscribers are interested in keeping up with current books, both fiction and non-fiction. We realize that with the large volume of books currently rolling off the presses, it is exceedingly difficult to decide which of them are worthwhile. Consequently, to help you decide which books to read and why, we have decided to bring you this series of reviews. If you like them, please tell us about it!

Richard Sears is a recent discovery of the Mid-West Feature Service. His literary sense is supplemented by his wide and varied experience. His love for his home town and the people in it is tempered by his sense of humor. He has a good formal education combined with a natural intimate knowledge of people. Hence, Mr. Sears' column, REGULAR READING, will be not only constructive, but an experience to be enjoyed by all.

During his high school days, Mr. Sears worked in a grocery store, played in the band, and was president of the local young people's religious group in the small Indiana town where he was born. He subsequently graduated from Indiana University, and later did graduate work at Harvard University before entering military service. He has recently been discharged from the armed forces after several years service, first as an enlisted man and later as an officer in the army of the United States. After a tour of duty in Boston, in South Carolina, in New Orleans, in California, and a year in the South Pacific, he has finally returned to his old home town.

So watch next week's issue for the first book review under this same heading.

INDOOR WEATHER

Mark Twain would be happy to know that somebody has finally done something about the weather—indoor weather, that is. Engineers have invented a device known as the precipitron which removes dust and dirt electrostatically from indoor air. And it's about time.

Did you know that your living room harbors an estimated 2500 billion dust particles, half a million bacteria, a few hundred pollen specks—and enough water to wash your hands and face? These are the number one enemies of a good wholesome diet of air. They aid and abet hayfever, asthma and other respiratory diseases—to say nothing of adding millions to the cleaning bills of homes, offices, stores and factories.

Already used extensively in factories doing precision work, the precipitron has now been adapted for the home and can be attached to any warm air heating system. Dirt laden air is channeled through ducts into the precipitron. There it is thoroughly cleansed and passed through the furnace for heating or refrigerator for cooling and recirculated over the

The standard method of removing moving dust is to blow air through various kinds of mechanical filters. However, this leaves untouched millions of microscopic particles—such as tobacco smoke—which create a dirt nuisance and a health hazard. In the precipitron these elusive particles are given an electrical charge and then trapped on oppositely charged plates. One elusive quality of air still being Immovable, unshakable and indestructible, it stands; the Eternal word of God which shall never fail. "The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away: But the word of the Lord endureth forever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you." I Pet. 1:24, 25. The earth may be removed and the heavens rolled up as a scroll, yet the word shall stand.

With feet planted on this firm foundation, we face the future with hope and assurance. We lift our eyes to the hills for strength while the rays of the celestial sun light our pathway to the beautiful city of God.

Soap Fingernails

When there's dirty work to be done around the house, don't worry about your new manicure. Dig your nails into a cake of soap before attacking the job and when you're ready to resume your social duties, a bit of scrubbing will leave your finger tips clean and well groomed. Digging the nails into a cake of soap before beginning work is also good cleanliness insurance for gardeners. It keeps dirt from accumulating, and is easily rinsed off after the job is done.

Temporary Marriage

"Handfasting," formerly practiced in Scotland, was a temporary marriage solemnized by a verbal pledge of the couple while holding hands. The pair were then permitted to live together for a year and a day, after which they could either marry permanently or become single again. The child, if any, was supported by the party who objected to making the marriage permanent.

HOOSIER HEALTH REPORTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

It can be expected that sometime, somewhere this year the itch parasite will invade one or more schools and the fight will be on. It almost always has. Year in and year out, itch presents school authorities with one of their most annoying problems.

Itch is caught by direct contact. The parasites make tunnels in the skin and breed, preferring areas between the fingers and toes, about the wrists, elbows, knees and ankles. Tiny as they are, they create a lot of discomfort.

The best barricade against itch is still, as always, absolute cleanliness.

If one, willy nilly, is unfortunate to become infected, hot baths with plenty of soap applied by a rough cloth will often remove the scabs and scales that protect the parasite. Clothing and bedding can be disinfected by boiling; woollens, of course, should be baked. Outer clothing should be ironed with an extremely hot iron. Heat kills the parasite and prevents its spread.

Standard anti-itch ointments cause violent reactions in some skins. Hence, medication should be prescribed by a physician.

THERE'S A MURDERER LOOSE IN MENTONE

Yes, he's right here—and one of these days there'll be another sad funeral, law officials will issue an indictment and another otherwise fine citizen will spend several years of shame behind prison walls.

One wonders when he notices the speeding, drifting through stop signs and other thoughtless driving, just which one will kill first. And who he will kill.

We all secretly hope and pray it won't be one of our loved ones—but we won't all be that fortunate. Death, seemingly, will be the only thing that will bring some of us to our senses. Yes, I'll be to blame, you'll be to blame, shame will hang over the heads of some parents and law enforcement officials will feel the angry glances.

But it won't happen in Mentone! Can you mention anything that hasn't happened here, as in every town, if you will only check back into the pages of history. Name any crime that may come to your mind. Hasn't it happened here? Surely, and so will murder at the hands of a thoughtless autoist. Let's make sure it won't be one of us.

SUGAR STAMP EXTENDED

Because local shortages have prevented many housewives from using their spare ration stamp 49 for sugar, OPA has extended its period of validity another 30 days, through September 30, and will validate spare stamp 51 for use from October to December for five pounds of sugar.

HOW DO YOU WANT YOUR EGGS?

One very irritated restaurant owner, after spending a couple of days answering: "no meat," finally painted a sign across the entire back part of his restaurant: "How do you want your eggs?"

That's about the situation that exists in Mentone, too, although I believe we are much better off than in the larger cities since the OPA ordered restaurant owners to revert back to June 30 prices with present-day high prices in the black market.

It was bad enough when a decent man had extreme difficulty in doing business on the level, but when he can't even buy a full meal, things are beginning to sizzle—and not steaks, either.

An OPA man in town the other morning would likely have had a neat time trying to get out of town without being chased out.

Shortages, they claim, is why our prices are so high, yet some two to three hundred thousand so-called OPA officials and investigators are living off our income tax payments and aren't producing anything but ugly moods and chaos. If they were on the production lines one might assume that our shortages of new cars, appliances, furniture and everything else people need might be alleviated somewhat.

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION MEETS

The Mentone Merchants' Association held its regular monthly meeting at the town hall. The by-laws were officially adopted and other matters of business were discussed. The attendance was not nearly as good as it should have been.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR F. WARREN

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Warren entertained at dinner Sunday, September 15, the following: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wise and daughter, Evelyn; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Garrison and daughter Maridean and son Warren and Miss Violet Warner, all of Fort Wayne.

It was a birthday surprise on Frank, his son-in-law, Fred Garrison, and grandson, Warren Garrison. All exchanged gifts. A large birthday cake was presented by the hostess in honor of the boys.

Evelyn Smith composed the following poem:

TO GRANDDAD

Somewhere among us there's a mighty man:

Someone said he's the head of the Warren clan.

And a livelier bunch can't be found I vow,

But can he handle them all?

And how!

To this voice of authority we've all lent an ear

But believe it or not, we'll all stand up and cheer

For he's our old man and we think he's grand

And will sing his praises to beat the band.

Michigan Timber

Exhaustion of old growth timber is expected in Michigan within the next 20 years unless there is a sharp reduction in cutting. Some 36 per cent of Michigan timberland is under public management, much of which is being groomed for future controlled cutting. Private owners—who control 95 per cent of Michigan's marketable saw-logs—are being induced to work with the state on forest management problems.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Norris, of Rochester, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday, Sept. 22. A lovely three course dinner was served at the home. Present for dinner were: Mrs. Emerson Loggellow and sons Claud and Earl, of Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Norris, John Norris and Mr. and Mrs. Omar Cox and son, of Mentone; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell and son Herschel and family, of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Vinson Meredith, of Rochester, R. 2; Miss Mary Norris, of South Bend and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Norris and daughter, Mary Ann of Peru.

Open house was observed during the afternoon and refreshments were served to many guests. The Norrises say they are very thankful for the many callers and the many lovely gifts and fine flowers.

VISIT AT 22ND DISTRICT REBEKAH LODGE MEETING

Mrs. Grace Gregg, Mrs. Postle Sill, Mrs. Sarah Blackford, Mrs. Bess McCoy and Mrs. Dora Goodman attended the evening session of the 22nd district of the Rebekah Assembly of Indiana Saturday at South Whitley, with Eel River Rebekah lodge as hostess.

The degree work was given to two candidates by Harmony Lodge of Ft. Wayne.

SHIVERS ON A HOT DAY

Frequently something turns up that sends chills up and down your back even though the day is torrid. Tuesday Arlo Friesner had a lot of driving to do, visiting a number of neighboring towns, and to make it it was necessary for him to drive at a fairly lively clip. The trip was made without mishap, but the next morning, as the car was traveling slowly in Mentone, the tie-rod fell off leaving one front wheel head any direction. Naturally, there wasn't much control to the old bus, but because it was going slow no serious damage was done. But one hates to imagine what would have happened the day before when he was traveling about 50 miles per hour on the highways.

TWINS BORN TO DEANE BOWENS

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Bowen, and other Mentone citizens, this week received the announcement of the birth of twins to Mr. and Mrs. Deane Bowen at Quincy, Michigan Sept. 20th. The new arrivals, Dianne Kay and DeWayne Jay, weighed five pounds and five pounds 14 ounces, respectively.

Adam Bowen, uncle to the twins, is reported stepping a bit higher than usual.

DEMOCRAT RALLY AT WARSAW ON OCT. 1

Kosciusko county democrats will exert their greatest effort of the campaign in a gigantic parade and rally Oct. 1. County Chairman Lloyd Goshert said this week.

One of Indiana's most popular former governors, M. Clifford Townsend, will be the principal speaker for the night, with Mrs. Margaret Afflis, of Delphi, as the secondary speaker.

Goshert said that six bands would be used in the parade, which will be marshaled on the Center Ward school grounds at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, Oct. 1. The former governor, who is now a candidate for the U. S. senate, will arrive escorted by party workers from Rochester, and will head the parade in an open car, meeting as many local citizens as possible. Mrs. Afflis, candidate for U. S. Representative, will be with him.

The parade will move through the business section of Warsaw, beginning at 7 o'clock Tuesday night, ending at the high school auditorium for the meeting at 8 o'clock.

LIONS COMMITTEE LOCATES CALVES FOR 4-H CLUB BOYS

C. O. Herendeen, Dr. E. D. Anderson, Raymond Lash and Forrest Kessler, comprising a committee from the Mentone Lions club to secure calves for the boys in the Agricultural department, Wednesday had a herd of eight Black Angus calves at the Mentone Stock Yards where they were delivered to the boys.

The calves were secured of Otto McMahon of near Rochester and each boy financed his own animal.

Dick Filarsky, who is in naval service, is enjoying a two weeks visit with home friends.

BOY HANGS SELF WHILE PLAYING WITH ROPE

Nine-year-old Max Lynn Stetler slipped on a ladder and accidentally hanged himself late Monday afternoon while playing in the barn at the farm home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Stetler, and his grandmother, Mrs. John Stout, between North Webster and Milford.

The boy went out to play about four o'clock, soon after returning home from school at Milford. When he failed to answer a call to supper, a search was started. The grandmother and a neighbor, Mr. Morehouse, found the body of the boy suspended from a ladder by a rope, the feet barely touching the ground.

(Most parents have warned their children a thousand times to refrain from playing with ropes while in a tree or on a ladder, but it is difficult for inexperienced youth to fully comprehend such dangers.)

ANTHONY NIGO CHAPTER OF D. A. R. MET TUESDAY

The Anthony Nigo Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met in the home of Mrs. Ray Linn at Etna Green on Tuesday evening, Sept. 24. The regent, Mrs. Walter Fenstermaker, had charge of the business meeting. At this time it was decided to participate in the membership campaign suggested by the National society.

The President General's message was read by Mrs. Vere Kelley. The resolutions adopted by the National society were reported by Mrs. Orpha Blue. During the social hour, which followed, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Sherman Bybee, served delicious refreshments.

Chapter will meet Oct. 29 at the home of Mrs. Porter Williamson.

MARRIED SATURDAY

Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock Mr. George Herbert Finch of Pierceton, and Miss Virginia Mae Menzie, of Larwill, were united in marriage by Rev. Edward Emery DeWitt, in the DeWitt home in Mentone.

Mr. DeWitt was a former pastor of Miss Menzie at Larwill.

WINS FINE TROPHY

Janet Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Reed, won the trophy for the under-13-year-old class in horsemanship at the Fort Wayne horse show held a week ago Sunday. The trophy also included a complete riding habit which Janet is justly proud of.

One of the rules of the contest was that the two entrants had to exchange horses and then put them through the regular maneuvers, and Janet was sufficiently capable to get her animal to perform while the other girl wasn't able to make Ace High go through his paces properly.

Should Editors Be "Wet Nurses"
To Their Towns' Civic Programs?

(The following article recently appeared in a printing publication.)

"Are Editors Wet Nurses?"

That was the interrogative title of a story in Newsweek magazine recently occasioned by a survey conducted among 25 of its members by the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The ASNE asked these editors, all of whom serve on city dailies: "Can editors spare the time for civic activities?"

The reaction of these daily newspaper editors will, The Auxiliary believes, be interesting to country weekly publishers, who are accustomed to spending long hours outside their shop each week in community activities, serving as presidents of chamber of commerce, on civic committees, sponsoring the programs of service organizations and acting as public officials.

Find Time Somehow.

While a cross-section of answers to the ASNE question said "No," most editors frankly admitted they somehow found time to be bogged down in outside activity.

Because of the pertinent nature of the Newsweek article on this subject, The Auxiliary (publishers' trade journal) reprints it herewith:

"In most American cities, the editor is more than the man who gets out the daily paper. He is the man the chamber of commerce makes chairman of the airport committee. The Red Cross and the Community Chest not only demand that he give columns of space to their fund campaigns, but insist that he serve as publicity chairman, too. The Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions all want him as member, luncheon speaker, or head of their latest project. He often finds himself foreman of a grand jury investigating graft that his own reporters have exposed.

Country Editor Tradition.

"All this stems from the tradition of the country editor whose duty outside his shop ranges from town councilman to peacemaker between feuding bankers and father confessor to wayward youth.

"Recently the American Society of Newspaper Editors asked 25 members this question: Can you spare the time for civic affairs? A cross-section of the

THIS SIDE OF INNOCENCE, by Taylor Caldwell; Charles Scribner & Son

If you are faced with the problem of whether to marry for love or money, you may get a helpful idea from Taylor Caldwell's latest novel. Despite the fact, though, that THIS SIDE OF INNOCENCE has been leading the best seller list for several months, it is hardly worthwhile reading for most of us. It is interesting, however, as a prolific authoress who has had six books published since 1938.

This story is about the prodigal son of a wealthy family of a small upstate New York town, who returns home after three years in the Civil War and five years of profligacy to prevent his cousin and adopted brother from marrying. The young lady in question, although beautiful and charming, does not, it seems, measure up to the family standards. Jerome's sudden interest in home town and family are a bit difficult to explain even after reading the book; but nevertheless, he does come home, and his second encounter with the girl, Amalie, proves to be love at second sight . . . And the plot thickens.

Amalie makes no secret of the fact that she is marrying Jerome's brother, Alfred, for social position and financial security; and hiding her love for Jerome under a mask of hate, she goes through with her wedding. Unfortunately (for her, if fortunately for the plot), Jerome is so attracted to her that he decides to stay at home and compete with Alfred for control of his father's bank. Torn between her loyalty to herself and her husband, and her strange and violent love for Jerome, Amalie has become almost a nervous wreck; then, one stormy day, she and Jerome, left alone in Hilltop House, succumb to their mutual love. The results of this infidelity are calamitous; and the rest of the story, the major portion of it, is the story of the emotional interactions and ramifications among these people caught in the resulting family upheaval.

Alfred divorces Amalie and beats Jerome unmercifully with a cane. Jerome's father, who has an ailing heart, dies of the shock. The family is divided and Amalie and Jerome are left with Hilltop House. However, they (and the authoress), undaunted, are married; and the story goes on for eighteen years and three hundred more pages. The climax is finally reached when Jerome forgives all just before his accidental death, leaving his daughter free to marry Phillip, Alfred's crippled son; and Alfred once again comes calling on Amalie.

Several features of this novel make it interesting reading. It takes place in a small town and is about people we know and understand. The story is romantic, and the authoress is quite apt in her objective descriptions of human drama. Furthermore, interspersed throughout the book are snapshots of the authoress' own philosophy of life which stimulate one to think on social, economic, and political questions, not unlike those which we face to-day . . . All of them focused in a humanitarian point of view.

On the other side, numerous complaints can be made. The novel is longer than need be; and in many places, the description is tedious, especially Miss Caldwell's inclination to make all inanimate objects live. Also, she is quite free in changing the weather to fit the moods of her principal characters and character situations. However, the crowning blow arrives when, after having already resorting to "coincidental" dreams to complicate the plot, she brings back grandfather's ghost to add drama to the story. This is unfortunate because the story itself is not lacking in drama, and these trips into the mystic detract more than they add to her story.

THIS SIDE OF INNOCENCE is fun to read if you have the time.

answers published in the ASNE's monthly bulletin said 'No,' but frankly admitted that most editors somehow found the time to be bogged down in outside activity."

Sample replies from editors reproduced in the story included:

Walter W. Krebs, editor of the Johnstown (Pa.) Tribune: "I consider the amount of time I give to such activities entirely out of reason." What is he going to do about it? Slough off his outside tasks and "train a young man who in time will represent the newspaper in many civic activities."

W. J. Hooten of the El Paso (Tex.) Times: "I have been wondering for some time if I were gathering too many goat feathers."

A. M. Piper, of the Council Bluffs (Iowa) Nonpareil: "An editor has (no) business on hospital boards, planning commissions, or similar civic groups because his editor's work is exacting enough if he does it right, and he may become biased in favor of specific projects with which he is wrapped up."

On the affirmative side, William M. McBride, of the Passaic (N. J.) Herald argued: "A newspaper editors gets to be a wet nurse for every worthwhile community undertaking, but he doesn't have to see the baby through school and married off. He can slide out when it is weaned . . . Civic work is good for the editor and his paper."

HOME EC. CLUB MEETS.

The Country Neighbors Home Economics club met Thursday, Sept. 19, at McClure Lake 4-H camp for an all day meeting with Mrs. Elnora Craig and Katherine Teel as hostesses.

Soon after our arrival Mrs. Clase gave us a very interesting talk and demonstration on stencil printing. At the noon hour we all went down stairs to a very nice cooperative dinner.

After dinner our president, Mrs. Mildred Meredith, called our regular club meeting to order after which we all sang, "Let's Be Friends," followed by Mrs. Dora Norris giving the history of the song of the month, "I Want a Girl." The club creed was repeated in unison and roll call was responded to by hints for storing clothing. The minutes of the last meeting were read and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Beulah Cook. An auction was held with Mrs. Wilma Nellans as auctioneer.

After the business meeting we all tried to do stencil painting. Those present were Mrs. Beulah Cook, Mildred Meredith, Uda Maxwell, Arlene Walters, Elma Zent, Dora Norris, Helen Shunk, Dorothy Herendeen, Lisetta Notz, Wilma Nellans, Emma Zolman, Sylvia Richardson, Katherine Teel, Elnora Craig, Faye Long, Mary Konneck and our two guests, Mrs. Clase and Mrs. Weise.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 17 at the home of Mrs. Mary Konneck with Mrs. Doris Newton as assistant hostess.

SOME OPPORTUNITIES FOR CONSERVATION

by
The Conservation Clubs in Indiana,
by Ralph F. Wilcox, State Forester.

C. O. Mollenhour, who has worked for many years with local Conservation groups, recently attended a three-day conference with conservation men throughout the state.—Ed.)

(The following letter to Conservation clubs contains many valuable pointers to land owners, citizens and sportsmen.)

Real true conservation forms a complex pattern. It is not a narrow thing. It consists of many integral phases and subjects dealing with such things as land, forests, minerals, waters, wildlife, soils and man. They are all interrelated in such a way that the State and Nation must have all of them go forward in balanced relationship. All thinking conservationists know this.

textbook manuals for teaching at long last conservation in the public schools. A summer training camp for teachers was started this summer at Versailles State Park.

Conservation clubs can check with the teachers in the local schools to see how this school training program is going; assist in preparing teaching and exhibit material; and sponsor field trips to teach forestry, wildlife, water and soil conservation problems and constructive practices actually applied to the land.

b. Exhibits:

Clubs can devise and build portable exhibits in all phases of conservation work, especially those things which will illustrate local conservation problems and measures. These can be used in the public schools, local business meetings, sports events and conferences. The high school manual training courses might build the frames and patterns as a part of the school conservation training courses.

c. Press, radio, etc.:

Nothing appeals locally as much as those things which the local people are planning and doing in conservation work. A good public relations officer or committee in each club can do a great deal to capture and develop public conservation interest.

d. Assist the Extension Conservationists of Purdue, County Agents, the State Soil Conservation Committee and local people in establishing Soil Conservation Districts:

Mr. Ward Studor explained (at the recent meeting) the work in conservation being accomplished by the Soil Conservation Districts. Only 34 in 92 counties are organized. Conservation clubs have a big opportunity in becoming familiar with the organization and operation of these districts and in carrying on an active educational program locally to help organize new ones and assist those already organized in getting effective work carried out by the farmers in these districts in the waters and on the land.

Action Work.

a. Demonstrations.
Talk and meetings will never solve the big conservation job. It must be applied on the land and in the waters. Conservation Clubs and individual members have already accomplished a great deal of applied conservation but it never can be enough. This involves such enterprises as establishment of better habitat conditions, winter feeding, tree planting, prevention and control of soil erosion, stream and stream-bank improvement, leaving fence rows, establishment of wildlife travel ways to food and water sources, prevention and suppression of forest fires.

Clubs undertaking some of these enterprises as local demonstration projects on the land will have tremendous educational and training value to induce land owners and operators to carry on other work of a similar nature. This work, to be the most effective, ought locally, to be cleared and channeled through county agricultural agents and the local farmers and with the district supervisors in Soil Conservation districts.

b. Soil Conservation districts:

These are local units of government organized under state law. They are organized to analyze problems and devise complete programs of conservation. They are dedicated to the application then of every phase of conservation applied directly on the land. This application is field by field, good land use practice by practice, farm by farm and county by county. The supervisors are local people. The cooperators are the land operators and owners. All the elements of a sound, permanent conservation program applied on the land are present.

Isn't this the vehicle everyone has been looking for in order to bring the efforts of everyone possible, including sportsmen and land owners, to bear directly on complete conservation practices applied on the land and in the waters?

Conservation organizations cannot afford to miss this new and significant opportunity to get applied results in conservation. The districts need and welcome constructive assistance from every possible agency and resource. Their first steps are (1) to study and analyze the conservation problems of a county or district, (2) set up proper corrective measures and then (3) get land owners and operators to apply them on the land. This is not a talk or propaganda program. It is a concrete planned work program. The extent of accomplishments to date in these districts speaks for itself. Even though the first district established in 1940 in Indiana was a small one in Vanderburg county, only a few are even 4 years old, and four are only about six months old, already the following accomplishments have been possible. They are taken from district records and annual reports submitted.

Individual farm conservation plans, 2,849.

Cover crops, 10,790 acres.
Strip cropping, 1,797 acres.

ROBERT BLODGETT

Terraces, 370 miles.

Tree planting, 1,736,000.

(Note—Because of the tree planting in existing districts and the expansion of new districts, the Division of Forestry is expanding nursery production from 3,375,000 trees in 1946 to 6,000,000 in 1947 and 10,000,000 in 1948. It is typical of conservation progress as a result of the Soil Conservation district programs.)

I personally know about the effectiveness of these Soil Conservation districts in getting conservation applied on the land for I have been in some of the districts and visited a number of the farms where a conservation plan has been applied. It is my urgent recommendation that Conservation clubs in districts do everything to advance their conservation programs. Where there are no districts, Conservation clubs should become active in assisting their organization and activation.

c. County Forests (Community and Memorial).

Although it is becoming more and more evident all the time that the National Forest area in Indiana will eventually expand from 250,000 to 500,000 acres and the State Forests from 500,000 to 750,000 acres, these are long-range programs taking years to accomplish. They will not reach down to the innumerable small county areas of land which should be developed as county and community forests.

These small publicly-owned forests would have a definite place in water conservation and flood control; in wildlife, forest and recreational development. Best of all it will bring about real tangible action programs of conservation, applied on the land right down in the hands of the local citizens where eventually success or failure must be measured.

The Marshall County Forest is the first and outstanding example of what a few beavers started when they plugged a roadway channel, and what a few determined conservationists, the press and the county commissioners finished for them when they established the first 80-acre unit of a Marshall County Forest in Indiana. The agitation, public hearings and reforestation work already accomplished has made the people of Marshall county conservation determined and conservation-minded. Their example has stirred other counties to preliminary action.

Conservation clubs can be the hub to the wheel in this movement. If they are sufficiently aroused and determined they can bring many of these county forests into actual public ownership and development. This thing is real in the conservation of wildlife, soil and forests. It is tangible. It represents what is needed, conservation ON THE LAND.

d. Classified Forests:

Woodland pasture has "sandpapered" away and destroyed the young forest growth and the natural habitat of wildlife, trees, shrubs, wild flowers and vines from thousands of the remaining woodlands in the state. Woodlands classified under the 1921 tax exemption Act are protected natural areas, where trees and the biological balance of the flora and fauna of the forest can flourish. The borders of these classified forests of 2,100 owners in 115,000 acres of scattered privately-owned tracts are ideal for wildlife propagation. If the Conservation clubs want habitat areas and permanent woodlands, they should put on a campaign to get more of the remaining woodlands classified. Their value has been pointed out for years, yet the clubs give little or no assistance to this important conservation program.

Celebrated Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary Sunday, Sept. 22

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Norris, of near Rochester, shown in the photo above, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Sunday by having open house at their home

e. Reforestation:

Innumerable conservation clubs have tree and wildlife shrub planting opportunities around their club houses, or local town and city properties. In strip-coal land areas, it is believed that coal companies would donate or lease at a very small cost to conservation clubs, areas where mine lakes, tree planting and wildlife could be developed into multiple use conservation areas.

A small amount of 2,4-D left in the sprayer after using on weeds will kill valuable plants. The sprayer should be thoroughly cleaned after each use.

PSI OTES ATTEND

PROVINCE MEETING

The following attended the Northern Province meeting of the Psi Iota Xi Sorority held at the Tippecanoe Country Club Saturday, Sept. 21: Mrs. Harold Utter, Mrs. Ralph Ward, Mrs. Wayne Nellans, Mrs. Esther Shoemaker, Mrs. Delford Nelson, Mrs. Lucille Whetstone, Mrs. Ralph Mollenhour, Mrs. George Yehlik, Mrs. Max Nellans, and Mrs. Lyman Mollenhour.

The Goshen chapter was hostess and the Grand President, Mrs. Ruth Ball Harker was the presiding officer. After the meeting a Pennsylvania Dutch luncheon was served and a very interesting talk was given by Mr. Albert Spruner, a Goshen Art professor, on the Art of the Pennsylvania Dutch people.

GEORGE CLARK PRESENTED WITH LORD ELGIN WATCH

Saturday evening a group of Mentone citizens presented George Clark with a Lord Elgin wrist watch, as a gift from a number of ex-service men and citizens in appreciation for Mr. Clark's work during the war in helping keep up the moral of the troops. (Mr. Clark spent many hours while we were at war corresponding with boys and girls in service, maintained an accurate up-to-date address file and frequently compiled news-letters from the information in the letters he received and then mailed them to all those in the service.)

Plans had been made to present the watch to Mr. Clark at previous public gatherings, but it was desired that it be a surprise to him and he was not present on any such proper occasion.

Mrs. Kenneth Mollenhour has received word that Bobby Herendeen left Seattle, Washington, Sept. 20th for Alaska. Friends may write him at the following address: Pvt. Bobby D. Herendeen RA15209232, 266 Chemical Service Platoon, APO 942, c/o Postmaster, Seattle, Wash.

NAVY BEATS ARMY

The Navy boys, by virtue of nine hits and eleven runs, defeated the Army team at Veterans' Park Saturday evening. The Army scored five runs on five hits.

The Legion post gave away four major prizes following the game, with Ralph Arnsberger getting the Philco refrigerator and Herschel Linn the radio-phonograph console.

THE GOSPEL OF CHRIST...

In the SPIRIT of CHRIST

Sunday Morning;
 "Don't Forget to Pray!"
 Sunday Evening;
 "God's Power to Save"

"Tis so sweet to trust in Jesus
 Just to take Him at His word,
 Just to rest upon His promise,
 Just to know "Thus saith the Lord."

THE BIBLE TEACHES that
 "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (Gen. 1:1). The universe we behold is not the product of chance. By the power and through the Word of God were all things which we see created.

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. All things were made through Him; and without Him was not anything made that hath been made." (John 1:1-3). And again, "For in Him were all things created, in the heavens and upon the earth, things visible and things invisible" (Col. 1:16).

"By faith we understand that the worlds have been framed by the word of God, so that what is seen hath not been made out of things which appear" (Heb. 11:3). This is the Bible answer to that oft asked question, "Whence came all of this?"

Not only was the earth created by the word of God but it is upheld by that Word today. The writer of the Hebrew letter said, "Upholding all things by the Word of His power" (Heb. 1:3), and Peter, the apostle, said, "But the heavens that now are, and the earth, by the same word have been stored up for fire, being reserved against the day of judgment and destruction of ungodly men" (II Pet. 3:7).

Let us have faith in God and in what the Bible teaches.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST WANTS TO SERVE YOU.

"The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."
 "Yes, we are always wondering, wondering how Because we do not see
 Someone, unknown perhaps, and far away
 On bended knee."

GEORGE SMITH BARN BURNS

Saturday night a fire of undetermined origin destroyed the barn on the George Smith farm, a few miles northwest of Akron. Mrs. Smith awakened and saw fire in the roof of the barn, but by the time George got out there, it was too late to back out the milk truck. A Farmall B tractor and several bales of hay were also destroyed in the blaze. Mr. Smith's son, Bud, lost 120 steel traps, which he had planned to remove the next day. The Akron fire department was called in time to save a small quantity of corn stored in an open crib near the barn.

George says it is pretty rough milking in his outdoor stable these cool mornings. No livestock was reported lost.
