LIONS CLUB PLANS SCRAP METAL DRIVE

An urgent appeal is being made for scrap metal by the American Iron and Steel Institute's Committee on Iron and Steel Scrap.

In an effort to cooperate with this program and at the same time raise funds for promoting worthwhile civic projects, members of the Mentone Lions Club have decided to make a scrap metal drive on Wednesday, September 26. They plan to canvas Mentone and the surrounding community.

If you have scrap metal or old tires that you would be willing to donate to this project it would help if you would assemble it in a convenient location to be picked up by club members on date of drive.

CHOLERA CAN WIPE OUT ENTIRE HERD

Nothing can put a farmer out of the swine business faster than an outbreak of hog cholera.

So deadly is the virus that causes the disease, that an amount only large enough to cover the head of a pin can spread the disease to thousands of hogs.

In the face of such a fearful antagonist, what can the farmer do to protect his pigs? The only reliable protection is vaccination of pigs at about weaning age.

When this is done properly, by someone who fully understands the precautions that must be followed to insure success, there is very little chance of a cholera outbreak, even though the animals are later exposed to the disease.

Done improperly, vaccination may set off a disastrous reaction, nearly as bad as the disease itself.

Veterinarians say farmers themselves can do a lot to help insure successful vaccination, because pigs must be healthy to obtain the best results. High on the list is good nutrition. Pigs fed a well balanced ration naturally resist disease better.

Proper barnyard sanitation also pays off. Kept in reasonably clean surroundings, pigs are protected against worms and other internal parasites. The parasite-weakened pig is a poor vaccination risk.

Housing should also come in for attention. Pigs stand a better chance of building disease resistance if they are well housed without draughts and dampness.

Thus, veterinarians advise that well fed, well housed, and well cared for pigs, when vaccinated properly against hog cholera, stand little danger of contracting this costly disease.

A PILGRIMAGE TO THE LIMBERLOST

As one passes through the entrance gate the wise old owls on the posts chorus a "Who, Hoo," welcome, then down the pathway through a virgin forest, one comes to the cedar log cabin, where the waters of Sylvan lake laps the shore, in friendly greeting.

The spring under the bent oak tree offers refreshment to the thirsty, in a cooling draft of Adam's ale.

Then, up through a vine covered avenue a vista comes to view of the bird sanctuary where the Cardinal and its feathered friends are enjoying the freedom of bird life.

When you cross the portals of the inner sactum you see the fireplace, built with polished stones from every state.

In this quiet retreat the beloved story teller worked, and wove, the fascinating tales of the Limberlost.

The wraith of Gene Stratton Porter still seems to hover over the scenes of her activities.

Peace to her genial spirit.

Farmers Advised Now Is the Time To Cash In On Your Old Scrap

"Harvest your iron and steel scrap right away. Turn it into cash. It is needed for the making of steel for the defense program."

That's the appeal being made now to farmers by the Committee on Iron and Steel Scrap, American Iron and Steel Institute. Inventories of scrap are critically low at mills and foundries because of their record high production. Bigger stockpiles are needed if steel output is to be maintained and increased.

"How much scrap is there on your farm?" asks the Committee. "Whatever the amount, it is badly needed. And there's money in it for you, if you harvest it now. At the first opportunity, get that scrap together. Take it to town and sell it to your scrap dealer. Or call him to your farm. If that cannot be worked out, ask the local farm agent to help make an arrangement so that the scrap can be moved."

A long step in the goal toward increasing the flow of scrap would be assured if each farmer sold only a few pounds of iron and steel scrap for each acre of farm land he operates. Worn-out parts of tractors, cultivators or other implements and discarded tools are among the items needed.

The total consumption of scrap in the first half of this year was about 20 per cent higher than in the same part of last year. In June 1951, supplies at some steel plants declined to only a few days' reserves.

With winter coming on, when scrap is more difficult to find, and with steel capacity scheduled to be sharply increased, the situation is truly critical, according to the committee. More scrap must be obtained from farms in order to make more steel!

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

"Your school child's breakfast may mean the difference between an 'A' on the report card or an 'A' meaning absence," Miss Margaret Dunham, chief nutritionist, Indiana State Board of Health, said today in pointing out the observance of September as National Better Breakfast Month.

"Since a nation-wide survey shows that one child out of every five goes to school with an insufficient breakfast, the beginning of the school year is the time to start that good breakfast habit," Miss Dunham suggested.

"Studies of food habits of pupils of Harrison and Floyd counties in Indiana show that among 5,400 children, 10 per cent had good breakfast habits and 25 per cent bad breakfast habits.

"A good breakfast starts the child out with a feeling of well being and prevents that mid-morning fatigue. A child becoming nervous, restless and quarrelsome might just be hungry."

Miss Dunham pointed out that a nutritionally sound breakfast is composed of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter which supplies approximately one-fourth of the daily food needs.

A pamphlet on the school child's breakfast is available from the Indiana State Board of Health.

AKRON FAIR SEPTEMBER 12 TO 15

The annual Akron Agricultural Fair will open Wednesday, September 12 and continue through September 15. A tractor pulling contest will precede the Fair proper on Tuesday night, September 11 at 7:30 p. m. An unusual attraction will be that the tractors will pull on a new concrete slab 100 feet long and 12 feet wide. This has been a popular event in Akron and a large crowd is anticipated.

The agricultural displays, livestock, culinary and needlework articles will be brought in on Wednesday and will be judged on Thursday. They will be on display throughout the Fair until Saturday evening. A special feature in this field will be the Betty Crocker Chiffon Cake contest. This is a new type of cake which Betty Crocker invented three years ago. The only requirements are that Softasilk flour and Wesson oil must be used. The first prize is a beautiful hand cut glass cake plate with a 22 carat gold band rim; second prize is Betty Crocker's famous Cook Book and third is a white ribbon with gold lettering. The prizes are given by General Mills, Inc.

The Drago Amusements will be on hand with at least eight rides and many Fair concessions.

The free acts on the platform before the bleachers are also an added attraction this year and different than Akron has ever had. Patsy Montana, Jimmy James, Homer and Jethro, Merle Dobbs and the Prairie Ramblers of the famous WLS Barn Dance will give four different performances every day beginning with Thursday through Saturday at 4:00, 8:30, 9:30 and 10:30 p. m.

The Akron Fair Board members are Lloyd Summe, president; Ivan Boylan, secretary; Al Price, treasurer; Mrs. Forest Higgins, Mrs. John Davis, Al Jennens, Whit Gast and Bernard Shaw. The members and the various organizations of Akron are earnestly working and endeavoring to make this year's Fair the biggest and best they have ever had.

THE AMERICAN WAY

"AS THE TWIG IS BENT"

By George Peck

Can an old dog be taught new tricks? If so something that has recently transpired may mean that there is still hope for America.

It is reported that a set of McGuffey Readers has found its way to Blair House, and it is being whispered along Pennsylvania Avenue that the President is reading them. Better late than never but what a pity that this galaxy of moral inspiration was not made available to a certain Missouri farm lad fifty or sixty years ago. Things would have been mighty different today on the banks of the Potomac.

The Daily Chronicle of Centralia, Washington is slightly optimistic about these McGuffey Readers having reached the President's library. Commenting editorially in its August 2, 1951, issue, it had this to say in part:

"... There was a great deal of worthwhile reading in the McGuffey books, much that should prove of value even to a President turning to their pages in later life... The earnest educator who compiled them sought the best literature and poetry, history and practical instruction to lay before the pupils of the day as they progress from grade to grade..."

For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the McGuffey Readers, I would like to pass on the remarks by the Honorable George A. Dondero, Michigan Congressman, made in the House of Representatives on May 21, of this year. He most aptly and concisely stated the case for McGuffey and his readers:

"Mr. Speaker, in view of recent revelations concerning the socialistic slant of many textbooks, currently used in American schools, and particularly in the primary and secondary grades, we might go far toward curing many of our economic and social ills by a return to some earlier textbooks and teaching methods."

"This thought occurred to me upon reading, in an educational bulletin which came to my desk, a description of the McGuffey School Readers which were used in the primary grades of most American public schools during the middle years of the last century."

"The subject was of special interest to me because I have in my possession a complete set of the McGuffey Readers, which Henry Ford had reprinted in their original format and presented to me."

"No doubt the subject matter and wording of the McGuffey Readers would be considered quaint and somewhat naive by modern teachers, but those textbooks for beginners nevertheless had something that is sadly lacking in present-day school books. Something which children of the present generation need.

Today good will may starve to death. Keep it alive with customer courtesy and careful advertising.

"The first four of the McGuffey Readers were prepared in 1836 and 1837 by William Holmes McGuffey, a Presbyterian minister, who later served for a quarter of a century as professor of political economy and moral philosophy at the University of Virginia. The last two of the series were written by his brother, Alexander, in 1844 and 1854."

"Only a few copies of the first edition of McGuffey's Third Reader, most famous of them all, are known to remain in existence, and they now are book collector's items of immense value."

"It has been said that McGuffey was the first to fit the child's education to the child's world. He illustrated the reading lessons with pictures that appeal to children, such as family scenes of home and farm, with animals and pets in abundance."

"But above all else, these McGuffey's Readers were characterized by the importance they gave to moral and religious subjects. In each of the books, anywhere from a third to a half of the lessons contained material of this nature. At the same time, the moral and religious subject matter was completely non-sectarian, in strict accordance with American law and tradition."

"All this has changed, however. A famous educator recently examined 9 sets of readers comprising 30 books, currently used in American schools, from the fifth to the eighth grades."

"He said the textbooks were filled with fables, folklore, fairy tales, pagan mythology, and jingles and jangles. Two-thirds of them had no Bible references at all, and there was virtually no subject matter relating to morals."

"It seems to me that present-day authors of school readers would help correct a great deal that is wrong in America by reviving some of the great principles and moral teachings which made America great and which were emphasized in McGuffey's school readers."

The Michigan Congressman most certainly hit the nail on the head. There is a crying need in America today for our youth to be taught the basic principles of virtue, honesty, integrity and thrift in the McGuffey manner. For in the words of Alexander Pope:

"Tis education forms the common mind:
Just as the twig is bent, the tree is inclined."

HITLER'S CAR IN ROCHESTER

The late unlamented Adolph Hitler's personal automobile was in Rochester on Wednesday, September 5. It was in that city under the sponsorship of LeRoy Shelton Post 36, American Legion, according to an announcement by Commander Brant McKee.

The car, a 1943 custom built Mercedes, was on public exhibit at the city parking lot from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

The big black car which carried Hitler and his cronies on many a state trip was captured at Berchtesgaden. Hitler's sky-high eagles nest in Bavaria, by the Free French forces in May, 1945. Since then it has been viewed by thousands in the United States where it has been exhibited under the sponsorship of veteran and other patriotic organizations.

Hitler, not unlike some American gangsters, lived in mortal fear of his life and his car reflects this fear. The Mercedes carries full armor plating 1/4 inch thick. The glass throughout is bulletproof and 1 1/4 inches thick.

It cost a lot of money to operate the car, but then Mr. Hitler never was one to worry about a mark here or a pfennig there. The gas tank, also protected by armor plate, holds about 70 gallons on which a careful driver might travel 210 miles. The massive engine, a straight 8, burned up a gallon of gas for every three miles traveled, turned up a whopping 400 horsepower and could pound along at 135 miles an hour if you were in a hurry.

The interior of the car is lavish in its luxurious fittings and appointments, in keeping with the importance of its former owner.

PROMOTED TO MAJOR

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamlin, of Etna Green, have learned that their son, Jack, received his promotion to the rank of major on August 17. He has been assigned to teach advance Q. M. and regulation ROTC training at Clemson College, Clemson, S. C. The college has an enrollment of 4,000 boys. Major Hamlin's wife and baby daughter, now with the former's parents at LaPorte, will join him at Clemson as soon as possible. Jack was graduated from Etna Green High School in 1939 and enlisted July 21, 1942 in the army reserves. After receiving his degree from Indiana University in 1943 he was sent to officers candidate school at Fort Lee, Virginia, and then served at various posts in the country. Accepted in the regular army in 1946 he spent two years in Puerto Rico, before getting his master's degree at Ohio State University. He worked at the Chicago market center until February of this year when he was transferred to advance Q. M. school at Fort Lee.

Mrs. W. A. Dick of Talma, who has been in the Methodist hospital at Indianapolis will return to her home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bucey of Ohio visited over the week end with Rhoda Jones and Devone Jones. They returned home on Friday.

BURKET YOUTH EXHIBITS 4-H GRAND CHAMPION AT STATE FAIR

Stanley Scott, of Burket, exhibited the champion ewe and the reserve champion ewe in the 4-H Corriedale sheep division at the Indiana state fair yesterday.

Scott's other placings were first in ewe lamb and yearling ewe division in his breed and first in the pen of three lambs.

Karen Latimer, of Beaver Dam, placed second in the Shropshire yearling ewe division. Wilburta Latimer, also of Beaver Dam, placed third in the Shropshire ewe lamb class.

Ray Jay Giesking, of Atwood, placed tenth in a large class of Chester White barrows. Charles Decker placed 23rd in the senior Duroc spring gilt class.

Chauncy Bennett, of Burket, placed in the "B" group with his first division electric project and Elener Norris, of Beaver Dam, in the "C" group in the same division. Doyle Heckaman placed in the "C" group in the second division of the electric project.

Mr. and Mrs. DeVon Hibschan and family, Diane, Paulette and Phil, Mrs. Bert McGowen and Miss Sherry Shoemaker spent the Labor Day week end in Indianapolis visiting the Calvin Beeman family and spending some time at the State Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bare and family spent the week of August 18th to 25th visiting relatives in and around Lexington, Nebraska.

GOOD HEALTH IMPORTANT FOR PROGRESS IN SCHOOL

Greater use of milk, butter, cheese and ice cream in family meals will help the Nation's school children maintain the good health needed to achieve scholastic progress, Milton Hult, president of the National Dairy Council, a non-profit, research and educational agency, declared recently.

"Human excellence demands healthy bodies as well as healthy minds," Mr. Hult stated, emphasizing that well-balanced meals using dairy foods can do much to improve the good health children have enjoyed while playing out of doors the past summer.

"Milk and other dairy foods generously supply the nutrients which make for better health," he asserted. "These nutrients are calcium for strengthening bones and teeth, proteins for building muscles and body tissues, and riboflavin and vitamin A for promoting health and growth."

He said that milk, butter, cheese and ice cream provide three-fourths of all the calcium, approximately one-fourth of all the proteins, nearly half of the riboflavin and almost one-fifth of the vitamin A consumed in the American diet. In addition, they provide energy and other vitamins and minerals essential to good health.

Recent research showed that teenagers can utilize enormous quantities of calcium from milk, he pointed out. In this research, scientists carried on calcium balance studies with high school students during summer vacations. They recommended that adolescents consume at least one and one-half quarts of milk a day.

These same scientists also emphasized that children of early grade school years should consume at least a quart of milk a day. They said that this amount is important in building stores of calcium prior to the rapid growth during adolescence.

"It has also been revealed by research that milk and other dairy foods are needed by all human beings, young and old, to help them remain healthy," Mr. Hult stated.

He commented that the cost of milk to consumers is low in relation to costs of other major foods and that larger food budgets would be needed in the home if the vitamins, minerals and calories supplied by milk had to be secured from other sources.

The price index of milk today, he elaborated, is only 189 compared with 227.7 for all foods. This is based on the 1935-39 average equalling 100. It is computed from the price series of the Bureau of Labor Statistics on fresh milk delivered in leading cities of the United States.

THE PRAIRIE WARBLER

You might think that the best place to look for Prairie Warblers is in the wide open prairie country. But if you try to spot them there, you will be disappointed. Despite their name, Prairie Warblers don't go any farther west than the eastern fringe of Nebraska.

Most of them, the National Wildlife Federation reports, stay in the east and south. In the summer, they are found in Florida and Mississippi, and northward to Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and New England.

In this region, they like to live in brushy country where low trees grow. There is also a good chance of finding them in a dry, barren pasture. They stay away from thick forests and wet swampy places.

After choosing a summer home, a pair of Prairie Warblers sets about to build a nest in a small tree or a low bush. At a point about four feet off the ground, the parent birds construct a dwelling of plant stems, bark and leaves, with softer materials for a lining. They often use cobwebs to tie the larger pieces together.

The nest is finished by May, which is egg-laying time for the Prairie Warblers. The female lays three, four or five small, greenish-white eggs which are spotted with purple or brown. After she sits on them fourteen days, they hatch.

With hungry young mouths to fill, both parents get busy at the job of collecting food. The entire family lives on insects of all kinds, and each day they devour hundreds of bugs. Throughout the summer, they are a big help in destroying harmful pests.

The young Prairie Warblers thrive on their share of the food, and they are ready to leave the nest in July. By the end of the month, the family may begin its journey to the south, though it may wait until nearer fall.

Prairie Warbler

©National Wildlife Federation

No later than September, all Prairie Warblers are bound for their winter homes in Florida and in the West Indies.

By this time, the young birds are beginning to look a little like their parents. The adult male is plain and dull on top, except for a few chestnut spots. Underneath, though, he is bright yellow, with some streaks of black on his sides. There are also two black marks near each eye. He is fairly small—only four and a half inches long.

The female is about the same size, and almost the same color. The main thing different about her is that the chestnut marks on her back are so faint they can hardly be seen.

When they sing, the Prairie Warblers seem to be saying "Zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zee-zee." Each "zee" is a note higher than the one before it, making the birds sound as though they were practicing a scale.

Another interesting fact about the Prairie Warbler, according to the National Wildlife Federation, is that it wags its tail.

For interesting information about other wildlife species, write to the National Wildlife Federation, Washington 10, D. C.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of our dear husband and father who passed away four years ago.
Memories are treasures no one can steal.
Death is a heartache that nothing can heal.
Some may forget him now that he is gone,
But we shall remember no matter how long.
The Call was so sudden, the shock severe,
We little thought such grief was near.
Only those who have loved can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.

His placings included seventh and eighth in the mature sow division, eighth and ninth in the junior yearling sow division, and eighteenth in the junior spring gilt division. In the junior gilt division, there were more than 100 head on exhibit.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanders have returned home after spending last week in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Delaware.

IT'S UP TO US, MR. MOTORIST

Every motorist must conduct his own safety campaign as children begin returning to school, advises Chas. M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club.

Drivers should keep an alert eye open for the yellow signs warning of an approaching school zone or school crossing. Drivers should also be on the lookout for safety patrol boys wearing the familiar white Sam Browne belt.

Yellow school signs and patrol boys should be an immediate warning to motorists to slow down and be prepared for an emergency stop. Young children especially in the five to nine age group are not familiar with the restrictions placed on them by traffic. After a summer spent largely within the confines of their own block, children are not aware of the dangers at intersections.

Motorists should also make turning motions at the lowest possible speeds at intersections used by school children in order to have cars under complete control at these danger points.

Mr. Hayes warns that if traffic fatalities are to be held to a minimum during the school year, drivers must at all times yield the right-of-way to children.

Mrs. Bertha Trickle and daughter Evelyn of Laketon, visited in the home of Mrs. S. M. Hill on Monday P. M. Being old neighbors of Mr. E. C. Johnson (Mrs. Hill's father) they came to visit with him before returning to the State Soldiers' home near LaFayette.

Mrs. Neva Teel of Burket was admitted to the McDonald hospital, on Sunday for medical treatment.

MENTONE MURMURS

DAVID and SALLY GOSSER

Several weeks ago something was said about Murmurs reporting by portage to Portage account the vacation in the North Woods. The very first entry in their journal is a Portage report, for on Sunday evening, August 19, the Murmurs and three Murrets pulled into Portage, Wisconsin, about eight o'clock. Without incident the drive was made through typical Sunday traffic via Elgin and Janesville. The rolling country of Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin was, like Northern Indiana, beautifully green with the frequent summer rains with which we have been blessed these past few years.

The first night was spent in Ted's Cabin about a half block from the historic Wisconsin River. A ten-foot levee hides the river from view, but no longer are there the great log drives and river rafts to be seen sweeping around the great bend of the river along which the city is built.

During the night a heavy fog crept in "on little cat feet" in pure Carl Sandburgian style. It was mid-morning before it decided to rise from its haunches and move on. Although Route 51 had been driven earlier in the summer by Murmurs, yet caution kept him and his precious cargo behind a truck for what seemed to be the endless miles of a tread-mill.

The concentrated fruit juice and manufactured milk were not adequate breakfast for the captain and crew, and at Caloma some solid food was stowed away. It should be added here that all the Murmurs had been experimenting with powdered milk, because it was understood that the trek into the wilderness would necessitate the use of such provisions.

It was hoped that the sun would shine on the journey early in the day, but it was almost noon before it was seen, and then only for a few minutes. The picnic lunch which had been prepared for the occasion was eaten under leaden skies at the Council Grounds State Forest near Merrill, Wisconsin. The river ran gray with reflected rain clouds, but we were spared the threatening weather for another three or four hours, and the drive along the river on Route 13 was enjoyable and scenic.

Somewhere between Merrill and Tomahawk on that Route was a monument to a Jesuite priest who had been lost in that area when journeying to baptise some Indian refugees in a Huron village in that vicinity, sometime in July of 1661.

About two o'clock Camp Manitowish came into sight. This was the camp which Pierre Ferverda, David Gosser and Charles Urschel attended this summer. For a few minutes the sun again shone, but scarcely had Route 51 been arrived at again when the threats of the weather became reality. So necessary was it for the driver to watch the road that the lakes on either side of it and the water which was descending became one to him. Except for the stop sign at Route 2 and the anticipation of one particular Murrette to see an Indian as we passed through the Bad River Reservation, little else of the afternoon's drive is remembered until Superior was approached.

The readers who have traveled Route

2 across northern Wisconsin will recall that the Indian Reservation comes near to the city of Ashland. Because of that particular Murrette who was very much disappointed that there was not a heap-big-chief standing out in the rain with full head-dress and war paint or ceremonial costume when we drove through Odanah, we paused at the lake-port city to dash in and out of the rain for some Indiana souvenirs, the least expensive, you may be assured, for head-dress may cost as much as twenty-five dollars. (The women certainly do not have any thing on the Indians when it comes to bonnets and to think that it's the male species of that race that indulges so expensively!)

As we entered Superior, the sun which had come out in all its splendor for a final splurge of beaming radiance, set behind the fortress-like hills of Duluth. The great grain elevators gleamed rosily in the sun-burst, and the long ore loading docks were bronzed with color which the rust laden earth alone could never give.

Quickly however, the shadows gathered over the harbor and the lights began twinkling on both land and water. We ate at Pete's Place, but were served by a typical Scandinavian lass, tall, blond hair, and angular.

We did not tarry over the meal as it was hoped that the Brighton Beach Tourist Camp would be reached by dusk. The drive through the city of Duluth seemed slow in the evening traffic, and the continuation of Route 61 to the edge of the city uncertain because of a road block. A sign caught our eye as we began the detour, and we swung back on the road "Open as far as Brighton Beach".

Charles Urschel and Fred Foltz were waiting along the highway, and hailed the Black Car from Indiana. Directed to our quarters for the night, we were actually pulled from our seats by the excited families who greeted us. The packs, gear, tent, supplies and provisions were soon unloaded by four pair of helping hands and thrust, pushed and tucked into two other already bulging autos with canoes strapped to their tops. The clothes not to be used on the trek were stored in the cabin which was to house the little Murrettes and the better half of this column.

In a few minutes the chore was completed and Murmurs and family were left to rest from the journey which, for the two older male members, was only the beginning of a great adventure.

LIONS HOLD FIRST MEETING
AFTER SUMMER RECESS

The Mentone Lions club met at the school house on Wednesday evening of last week, with Raymond Cooper, the new president, in charge. Some time was spent discussing the scrap drive to be conducted on Wednesday, Sept. 26th.

The Lions club is a service organization and its prime purpose is to help promote projects that will make our community a better place in which to reside. Many of these programs require considerable funds and the scrap drive was considered as a means of not only raising a cash fund but also to aid the war effort and industry by gathering much needed scrap materials. The club members plan to make a complete canvas and pick up all the scrap iron and old tires that citizens may desire to contribute.

Ladies' and Teachers' Night

The next regular meeting of the club, September 26th, will be a special meeting for the ladies and the teachers of the Beaver Dam and Mentone schools, and their wives, husbands or friends.

Plans are being made for another Dollar Day in Mentone, and a more definite announcement will be made in an early issue.

HAND INJURED BADLY
IN GUN ACCIDENT HERE

George Irvin Mollenhour, Jr., 30, had the palm side of the four fingers on his left hand badly mangled Sunday evening when a German Luger pistol went off accidentally. He was attempting to shoot a ground mole that was burrowing in his yard when the accident occurred. He was taken to the McDonald hospital at Warsaw by Wayne Tombaugh and Elwin Teel. George Irvin suffered considerably from shock and as yet is not exactly certain what or how it happened. He thought he was attempting to load the gun, and the action of an automatic pistol of this type is such that the recoil-operated action can do a lot of damage if a hand or finger happens to be in the way when it fires. X-rays and careful examination of the wounded fingers today showed that no bones were broken and no tendons torn or severed. The little finger was hurt the worst and all were badly burned by the exploding powder. Most of the flesh was torn from the insides of the fingers.

George Irvin is a veteran of World War II and has been recalled to service in the Air Force. He is stationed at Columbus at Camp Atterbury.

Atterbury officials were to take him to the government hospital the fore part of the week, but apparently the lad is still in the Warsaw hospital.

FINE ATTENDANCE AT FIRE DEPARTMENT FISH FRY

The members of the Mentone Fire Department were highly elated at the splendid turn out at their program and fish fry last Saturday evening. One could see a number eating at the tables all the time from 6:30 to 8:30, and if anyone went away hungry they put up a stiffer defense than most of us. The boys really tried to give your your money's worth.

Entertainment, including a concert by the high school band, was presented and the local fire fighting equipment was on display.

The firemen want to extend their thanks and appreciation to everyone. (And from an editor's point of view, I must say that the boys on our fire department are certainly entitled to all the praise and cooperation we can give them. They not only go out night and day protecting our homes and property from fire, but put forth a lot of time and energy earning money that they put back into more and better equipment. Such unselfish service is highly deserving.)

The audio-visual operators, Billie Blackburn, Merrill Peterson, Don Rush and Dick Clark, with their Advisor, Mr. Kelley, will attend a clinic at Claypool on Thursday afternoon. The purpose of the clinic is to better acquaint the boys with the operation of the audio-visual equipment.

Immunization blanks have been sent home with all pupils. Parents should sign the blanks and have them returned to the school at once. The diphtheria immunization and smallpox vaccination will be given on Wednesday, September 19th at the school. The immunizations are free this year.

Parents are asked to return the blanks stating yes or no as to whether the child will participate.

Plans are under way to publish the first issue of the school newspaper, the Mentonette. Subscriptions will be sold at fifty cents for the school year. The revenue will be used to purchase paper, ink, and mimeograph stencils used in the production of the paper.

The first week of school was marred by two accidents, either of which could have been more serious. Mary Quier had her foot injured on the Giant Stride and Judy Wagner was hit in the face with a swing board. Both girls missed school following the accidents.

The junior band will meet each Tuesday at 10:00. Art is given in each grade 1-6 once a week for 40 minutes. Art in grades 7-12 is elective.

To the large number of people inquiry about the lack of display of a flag, it should be explained that the flag cable is broken and it has been impossible to display the flag as required by law. Mr. Tucker is planning to replace the cable as soon as possible.

Again this year, parents are encouraged to visit school. We feel it is much better for you to come while your child is doing well than to wait until you have a complaint to get acquainted with your child's teacher.

JACK KURKOWSKI TO RETURN FOR BIG EGG SHOW

Egg Show patrons of this area will be pleased to learn that the program committee for the 1951 event have secured the famous Jack's Xylophone Band as the feature entertainment for the first night of the show. Jack says, "The show is completely changed and better than ever."

The program also includes educational films, panel discussions, selection and crowning of the egg show queen and many other fine features.

The 4-H Club, Vocational Agriculture and Home Economics Club groups will also have a major part in the coming egg show.

Plan now to attend every session on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 25 and 26, at Mentone, and help to make it a bigger show for more people by spreading the "good news" at every opportunity.

MRS. OTA DICK

TRAINED DRIVERS SAFEST

More than 280 automobile dealers and their wives have been invited to be guests of the Chicago Motor Club September 15, at a testimonial banquet in Chicago's Edgewater Beach Hotel.

Charles M. Hayes, President of the club, lauded Illinois and Indiana dealers for their participation in the 276 driver training programs which were conducted during the 1950-51 school year.

"Cooperating dealers who have furnished cars for the use of high schools in driver education programs are to be congratulated for their efforts to reduce accident rates among teen-aged drivers," Hayes said.

"The effectiveness of classroom driver instruction and behind-the-wheel training is exemplified in a recent survey of 3,252 Cleveland high school students. All had drivers' licenses. Their accident and conviction records were checked for six months after they were graduated. Graduates who had taken driver training had only one-half as many accidents as the untrained graduates," Hayes pointed out.

The average high school student who starts to drive a car doesn't know how the safety equipment on a car is supposed to function. He isn't familiar with the rules of the road. He hasn't developed sound, safe driving habits. Yet eight out of ten high school students drive a car before they graduate or during the first two years they are out of school.

To equip high school students for their roles as drivers the Chicago Motor Club trains high school instructors and arranges for dual control training cars. Under the Club's plan driver training cars are negotiated through local automobile dealers for assignment to schools which have qualified instructors. The motor club regularly conducts teacher seminar courses at colleges and universities in Illinois and Indiana.

In 1946 the Club established the first high school training courses in its area. Six schools participated. Today 276 schools have driver training programs on their curriculum.

During 1950, 22,500 students received classroom and behind-the-wheel automobile training in Club territory. This brings the grand total of students trained since 1946 to 62,500.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank my friends, neighbor, and relatives for the cards, letters flowers and visits; and for all the other acts of kindness during my illness.

WURLITZER ELECTRIC ORGAN

MENTONE MURMURS

Last week Murmurs concluded with the arrival of the party at Duluth, which Lake port along with that of Superior, Wisconsin, harbor tonnage that is surpassed only by New York City. As many as ten thousand vessels enter and leave the twin ports each year.

Before six o'clock on Tuesday morning, August 21, Murmurs and Murettes were stirring about the one-room cabin, trying not to awaken the entire trailer court, but a hasty visit to the lake shore was in order to watch the huge ore and grain boats pass so near that the names of the vessels could be easily read from shore; but there was repacking to do so that clothes for any type of weather would be at hand for the next ten days.

It appeared as though we could begin with fair-weather apparel. There was sunlight and a light off-shore breeze. Soon the Foltz family was stirring, and the Urschels, and there was the criss-crossing of paths from trailers to cabin and back to trailers again. The last of the packs had been heaved into the two autos which carried the canoes piggy-back. Where we would sit hadn't entered our minds to that moment, and then was postponed until after the sumptuous breakfast served in the Urschel trailer. Trying to seat nine active individuals at one time is more than a problem when it is attempted in a trailer, but everyone breakfasted and hastened to the awaiting autos which, by this time, had attracted quite a bit of interest and curiosity.

Pictures were taken, the before and after kind, for this morning was the last we were to shave for ten days. Comments were made, of course, about Murmurs' "butch", and had there been any person to accept the wagers, there were verbal ones placed on the growth of beards and the special "hair-do" which had been acquired for the occasion.

The husbands had little affectionate words of parting with their wives, and the heads protruded from among packs and bundles, were waved to as the cars pulled out from behind trailers and cabins to the open road.

Rout 61 was to be the highway for the next 110 miles. This is known as The North Shore, but a detour of about fifteen miles was necessary almost from the very beginning of the trip. When we came back to the main highway, there was so much of lake and shore and sky to see that the few miles of scenery we passed up were not missed.

At times we were at the very edge of the water, then climbing the bluffs would soon be high over the shore, and then perhaps for several miles be so far inland as we crossed promontories that not a bit of the Lake was to be seen.

One of the bluffs overlooking the lake is known as Silver Cliff. Here we paused to read the plaque and scan the horizon which, by this time had clouded with haze. The highlands of Wisconsin were discernable, however, and perhaps those of Western Michigan (the Upper Peninsula). Ten boats were visible at the time, and to the north-east, a rain squall. Our fair weather was not to hold out very long.

Dr. Dan, David, and Murmurs were in the lead. Charles, Norman, and the two Foltz boys in the rear car. The second stop was made at Gosseberry Falls, a very scenic spot along the highway. Here one can see the water of the river cascading to the lake below in a series of falls and rapids. The highway bridge spans part of the falls themselves. Although the wind had become cool and the sky threatening, there were many tourists assembled along the rails and climbing the trails to and from other parts of the cataracts not visible from the bridge. This was just one of many such scenic areas bridged by this highway known for its panoramic splendor.

Murmurs doubts if any of the drives along the Florida Coasts were as spectacular and comparable to this. There is an evidence of strength and force demonstrated by these rock-bound shores. Until we reached Grand Maris, there was no let up to the unrolling of vistas before us, and each one seemed to abound in greater grandeur than the last. But though the veiling of the sea-scope by mist and rain, our last view was curtailed when we crossed the mountains west of the little port town where we had refueled the cars and ourselves.

Our driving over the Gunflint Trail took us over rugged country, through lands forested with birch and pine, beside beaver dams, and skirting the placid waters of small inland lakes. We climbed higher and higher into the hills, dipping, now and then, to lake studded valleys, but our vision was limited by the dense woodlands and the mists. Here we had the actual facts of the adage, "You cannot see the forest for the trees". Occasional glimpses of fire towers and numerous caution signs reminded us that in this great Superior National Forest there is an attempt to keep this fact.

Only when a person has viewed burned-over timber land, can he realize the complete desolation that may be brought to hundreds of square miles of forest land. The rains through which we were driving gave us a certain sense of assurance and freedom from such a wooded catastrophe.

The black top road ended abruptly and we proceeded more cautiously over the graveled "roller coaster" Trail. Lodge signs became more frequent, and occasional references to the Gunflint Trail Map were made to spot our exact location. So abrupt were many of the descents that the driver and occupants strained their necks peering over the hood of the car to see what lay below. There was a definite woody aroma to the damp air and ferns and moss shielded the bare rocks which lay strewn through the white stemmed birches and glommy pines.

An abrupt right turn took us off of the main Trail towards the lodge on Clearwater Lake. This was to be our car depot and supplementary supply base. Here, in the grey mist of a rainy afternoon we arrived to don our parkas and ponchos, unstrap the canoes and load them after they had been set into the clear water of a lake so aptly named. An additional canoe was rented, and much to our satisfaction, we crowded aboard, with bag and baggage into the three canoes, our destination, a campsite four or five miles down the lake. This was a thrill of a life time which rain could not deface or mar.

THE AMERICAN WAY

CEILING ON INCOME TAXES

By George Peck

The entering wedge to first of all socialize and ultimately sovietize America was the passage in 1913 of the 16th (Income Tax) Amendment. This was a grave constitutional error, a mistake which must be corrected if we are to avoid national economic chaos. This Amendment has two major flaws. The first is that nothing was written into it to prevent a progressive rate of income tax. This has enabled the Federal Government to "soak the rich" and with the proceeds embark on a series of welfare schemes and government projects; both basic tenets of socialism and experience teaches that socialism is but a way station on the journey to communistic dictatorship.

The second major flaw was the failure to fix a limitation as to the rate of income tax the Federal Government could levy. The tax started out modestly at 1 percent of income, but since the 1930's it has been upped until it now takes as much as an immodest 88 percent of income. And worse, the Congress is now flirting with the idea of further increasing this to 90 percent.

The most effective way to curb Federal wasteful spending is to place a ceiling on Federal spending and taxation. There would be nothing novel about that. The constitutions of sixteen states have limitations on taxing power and forty-three states have limitations upon the right to borrow. All local governments have restrictions by law or charter which limit taxation power in relation to local wealth. But there is no limitation on the power of the Federal Government, and there should be.

A proposal has been made to repeal the 16th Amendment and to substitute one with tax-limiting provisions. This movement, begun in 1938, would place a ceiling of 25 percent on income, estate and gift taxes, except in time of war. Already twenty-one states, or eleven short of the necessary two-thirds have adopted resolutions asking Congress to call a constitutional convention to consider repealing the 16th Amendment.

Its proponents advance the sound argument that placing a lid on federal taxes would cut down on wasteful federal spending and would fortify our productive economy, which is our strongest bulwark against Communism. Further, they maintain, and rightfully, that it would provide incentives to take risks, thus helping to expand the economy and create new jobs. Risk taken by those with surplus money has been an important factor in our industrial progress. At present there is no inducement for wealthy persons to take what little is left after taxes and invest it in risk-taking ventures, because the net return would be no greater than on an investment in Government securities.

In proposing the 25 percent limitation, the sponsors felt that this rate was the maximum the Federal Government should impose if it is to be able to continue to get sufficient revenue to carry on its legitimate functions, without killing the geese that lay the golden eggs.

"Soaking the rich" has been a favorite means of obtaining revenue. But government can only "soak" so much. Imposing still higher levies will result in diminishing revenue from the "rich" and would shift the burden to us poorer folks.

Great Britain has shown us the way by horrible example. There the wealthy have been completely wiped out and those of moderate incomes almost wiped out, so that a greatly increased proportion of the tax burden has been shifted to the working class. We should call a halt, before it is too late, to the "looting" of the "rich" here; we should profit by Britain's experience. That nation has proved that the plucking of the wealthy today paves the way for the plucking of the working man tomorrow.

CRAFT AND HOBBY EXHIBIT

Everyone in the community who is interested in children or in crafts should stop in at the Library before Friday noon to see the children's exhibit of the articles they have made or collected. The display is very attractive and represents a great deal of interest and effort on the part of the children.

There are beautiful collections of buttons, dolls, stamps, coins, miniature toys, paper dolls, shells, miniature china and paper napkins. The articles made by the children include framed pictures, lapel pins, needle books, ash trays, bracelets, rings, ornaments of many kinds, a sampler, hot pads, table runners, dollies, a billfold, doll furniture, block printed articles and a jewel box.

Grades one to seven are represented. The judging was very difficult as every display was good, but the judges gave special consideration to the amount of time and effort on the part of the child evident in his or her display. The judges were Mrs. Ralph Hoffman, teacher of Home Economics and Miss Nell Harriman, teacher of Art in the High School.

The prizes awarded are as follows:

Grade 1—Boys, first, Chester Walters, second, Timmie Anderson.

Grade 2—Boys, first, Larry Manwaring, second, Donald Hall.

Grade 2—Girls, first, Janet Sue Beeson, second, Mary Katherine Antonides.

Grade 3—Girls, first, Marilyn Sue Sullivan, second, Janice Davis.

Grade 4—Boys, first, Roger Mollenhour.

Grade 4—Girls, first, Janice Mollenhour.

Grade 5—Boys, first, Larry Teel.

Grade 5—Girls, first, Beverly Walburn, second, Rose Marie Drudge.

Grade 6—Boys, first, Lee Markley.

Grade 6—Girls, first, Joyce Anderson second, Sharlene Ware.

Grade 7—Girls, first, Leah Nell Lemer.

The prizes for the exhibit were donated by one of our merchants who stipulated that his name be withheld.

This exhibit marks the end of the Summer Recreation program and we believe it is proof that the efforts of both the volunteer workers and the children have been well worthwhile.

BAKERS ENJOY LAKE CRUISE

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Baker enjoyed a cruise on Lake Michigan last Friday and Saturday as the guests of the Bendix Home Appliance distributors of the South Bend, Grand Rapids and Fort Wayne areas. The trip was an award for attaining a certain quota in the sales of Bendix home appliances, and some 92 people received similar awards.

The group assembled at the Occidental Hotel at Muskegon, Michigan Friday evening, and embarked for Milwaukee at one a. m. All were assigned staterooms and breakfast was served aboard ship before docking at Milwaukee. The day was spent in a tour of the city in special buses, luncheon at Schwaben Hoff restaurant and dinner at Hotel Pfister. They arrived back in Muskegon at about eight o'clock Sunday morning.

SPECIFICATIONS FOR OFFICIAL UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR Quality of Individual Shell Eggs

U. S. Standards for Quality of Individual Eggs with Clean Unbroken Shells:*

(1)—AA QUALITY

The shell must be clean, unbroken, and practically normal. The air cell must not exceed $\frac{1}{8}$ inch in depth and be practically regular. The white must be clear and firm so that the yolk appears well centered and its outline only slightly defined when the egg is twirled before the candling light. The yolk must be free from apparent defects.

(2)—A QUALITY

The shell must be clean, unbroken, and practically normal. The air cell must not exceed $\frac{1}{4}$ inch in depth and must be practically regular. The white must be clear and at least reasonably firm so that the yolk appears at least fairly well centered and its outline only fairly well defined when the egg is twirled before the candling light. The yolk must be practically free from apparent defects.

(3)—B QUALITY

The shell must be clean, unbroken and may be slightly abnormal. The air cell must not exceed $\frac{3}{8}$ inch in depth and may show total movement not in excess of $\frac{3}{8}$ inch. However, an air cell not over $\frac{1}{4}$ inch in depth may be free. The white must be clear but may be slightly weak so that the yolk may appear off center with its outline well defined when the egg is twirled before the candling light. The yolk may appear slightly enlarged and slightly flattened and may show other definite but not serious defects.

(4)—C QUALITY

The shell must be clean, unbroken, and may be abnormal. The air cell may be over $\frac{3}{8}$ inch in depth and may be bubbly or free. The white may be weak and watery so that the yolk may appear off center and its outline plainly visible when the egg is twirled before the candling light. The yolk may appear dark, enlarged, and flattened and may show clearly visible germ development but no blood due to such development. It may show other serious defects that do not render the egg inedible. Small blood clots or spots may be present.

U. S. Standards for Quality of Individual Eggs with Dirty Unbroken Shells:

(5)—STAINED

Individual egg that has no adhering dirt and no more than a combined total of $\frac{1}{8}$ of the shell surface stained or soiled.

(6)—DIRTY

Individual egg that has adhering dirt or more than a combined total of $\frac{1}{8}$ of the shell surface stained or soiled.

U. S. Standards for Quality of Individual Eggs with Checked or Cracked Shells:

(7)—CHECK

Individual egg that has a broken shell or crack in the shell but with no leakage of the contents.

(8)—LEAKER

Individual egg that has a broken shell or crack in the shell and shell membranes with the contents exuding or free to exude through the shell.

*Interior egg quality specifications for the Official Standards for Quality of Individual Shell Eggs are based on the use of a candling light delivering approximately 350 to 450 foot candles of light at the candling opening. The usual box type of candling light, without reflector, using a clean 40-watt frosted bulb about $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches from and in direct line (direct light) behind the opening which should be approximately $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter or a clean 60-watt frosted bulb immediately above and $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches behind the opening (indirect light), provides approximately 310 foot candles of light at the opening. A 60-watt bulb in a direct light candler or a 75-watt bulb in an indirect light candler provides approximately 380 foot candles of light at the opening. (Reference to "usual box type of candling light" should not be construed as restricting use to that type only. Any type or make of candler may be used so long as the resulting light is the same.)

FROSTBURG,

MARYLAND

THE AUXILIARY MEMBER

By Lola Wallace, Membership Chr.

Membership in the American Legion Auxiliary is limited to women who have direct personal connection with World War service through a member of their immediate family who served with the armed forces during those wars, or through their own service with the armed forces. Upon establishment of eligibility, such women may become members of a local unit of the Auxiliary. A member of a local unit is also a member of the state department and the national organization, just as a citizen of Mentone is also a citizen of Indiana and of the United States. By the payment of dues in the local unit a member also contributes to the support of the state and national organizations.

There are three classes of eligibility. All women who are eligible to membership in the Auxiliary come under one or more of the following classifications:

(1) Mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of members of the American Legion.

(2) Mothers, wives, daughters and sisters of all men and women who were in the armed forces of the United States during either of the following periods: April 6, 1917 to November 11, 1918; December 7, 1941 to September 2, 1945; June 25, 1950 to the date of cessation of hostilities as determined by the United States Government, all dates inclusive, or who, being citizens of the United States at the time of their entry, therein, served on active duty in the Armed Forces of any of the governments associated with the United States during either of said World Wars or hostilities, and died in line of duty or after honorable discharge.

(3) Women who of their own right are eligible to membership in the American Legion.

The only form of membership that is authorized is active membership of which there are two classes, Senior and Junior, and there can be no granting of special or honorary membership for any purpose or reason whatsoever.

Once accepted as an Auxiliary member, women eligible under classification "1", may continue their membership from year to year whether or not their male relative continues to be a member of the Legion. The fact that her service relative is no longer a member of the Legion does not compel the Auxiliary member to lose her membership.

The phrase, "died in line of duty," applies to all those persons who were killed in action, died of wounds or disease, were killed by accident or otherwise came to their death other than as a result of their own misconduct. The term "wife" as used in the eligibility clause, does not necessarily mean that the wife occupied that status at the time her husband was in war service. Any woman who marries a member of the American Legion at any time is eligible to membership in the Auxiliary. The term "wife" also includes widows.

Every applicant for membership in the Auxiliary must fill out an individual membership application blank as proof of her eligibility.

Anyone eligible for membership and wishing to become a member of Mentone Unit, No. 425, contact the unit president, Mrs. Joe Boggs or membership chairman, Lola Wallace. We will be honored to have you.

The western red cedar is the most important tree in the northwest Indian history. The Chinook Indians used the wood and bark of this cedar for such things as dugout canoes, fishnets, women's skirts, totem poles and plank lodges.

Dear Friend,

We just returned from a 3-day trip into Ontario and Manitoba. We passed through Dale's favorite fishing country around Kenora, then visited Winnipeg and came back to Duluth through North Dakota and N. W. Minnesota.

We will all be glad to be home next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nelson and family came home last Friday after spending their "hay fever" vacation at Traverse City, Michigan. Mrs. Ora McKinley and son, Dewayne and Mr. and Mrs. Artley Cullum and son, Jon, returned home Saturday. They had been at Indian River, Michigan for hay fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Elick, who have spent the summer at their cottages on Scott Lake, near East Jordan, Michigan, returned home Monday evening. They report a good season. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ward and family, who had been vacationing there for Ralph's hay fever, returned home also.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meredith were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Stephens and son of La Fountain.

OVER A HUNDRED ATTEND
LIONS CLUB MEETING

The Mentone Lions members played hosts to the teachers, wives and husbands of the Mentone and Beaver Dam schools, the trustees of the two units, and the wives and friends of the Lions members at their regular meeting held at the Mentone school Wednesday evening. President Raymond Cooper was in charge, with H. V. Johns leading the group singing and "Tid" Bybee at the piano. K. A. Riner, chairman of the program committee, introduced Hobart Creighton who spoke about Europe and the conditions he found there on his recent trip to the World Poultry Congress.

Mr. Creighton's remarks made us all very thankful that we lived in America, and said there was really no place in the world where people enjoyed the privileges or had the opportunities we do here in what is generally termed "capitalist America." In most European countries no one, generally speaking, has any opportunity—not even hope—of ever having anything but a bare existence, and that literally "sweated" from the soil. There's no land for sale and that which is owned has been inherited down for generations. Their methods of farming or manufacturing are so outdated and backward that we would consider them almost amusing—inconceivable. The political philosophy has completely buried all hope and initiative. The governments have taken over and are operating the major industries and there is no such thing as service or efficiency; government rules and regulations do not permit a farmer to buy or sell grain, they direct where, when and the price when he does sell, and high taxes have not only confiscated the former holdings and earning power of the middle and upper classes but have further impoverished those in the lowest earning brackets. There are very few automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, etc. because such are classified as luxuries and the government officials consider that if one can afford such luxuries he can well afford to pay a tax of well over one-half their value.

And all of this still floundering in the very whirlpool of disaster after the United States has expended $37 billion dollars in direct relief to those countries. Mr. Creighton, like many others, stated he didn't know whether we

SCRAP DRIVE NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Mentone Lions Club scrap drive will be held next Wednesday, Sept. 26. Trucks will endeavor to call at the farm homes within a four mile radius of Mentone, and those beyond that distance who may have scrap iron or old tires they'd like to contribute to the Lions Club charity fund should notify Raymond Cooper so that the truck drivers can be directed to your place. In town, also, it won't be possible to call at all homes, and if the scrap cannot be seen from the street, would you kindly call Mr. Cooper and tell him where the scrap is located.

The Lions members will appreciate your assistance in making this project a success. The funds will be used on various community projects that they may sponsor in the future.

However, the picture of conditions there could not be given without casting a frightening shadow across our own Main street.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HAS NEW HAY THERMOMETER

The Mentone Fire Department recently purchased a new thermometer especially designed to test the temperature of hay in a mow. The thermometer is enclosed in a cutting head of four blades and attached to a long shaft which makes it possible to insert the unit about ten feet into stacked or mowed hay to determine whether or not it is heating and if so, to what degree.

Many barn fires are caused by spontaneous combustion caused by the heat that generates in hay that is placed in the mow before it is sufficiently dry. There's no definite explanation what causes this heat, but it happens just the same.

Interested in not only putting out fires, but preventing them as well, the Mentone department is constantly adding new equipment.

Heating of hay usually occurs during the first few days after putting it in the mow, but if any farmer suspects or sees evidence of his hay heating, he is invited to call the fire department and they will send one of their men out to test it with the new thermometer. There is no charge for this service.

As a precautionary measure, a farmer is advised to use extreme caution when hay is suspected of heating. Never work with the hay when you are alone, for if it is moved and fresh air reaches a spot where the temperature is high enough to ignite, you may find yourself enveloped in flames or an explosion. The safest thing is to have the fire department on hand before any of it is moved.

CONTRACT FOR NEW STREET LIGHTS AT MENTONE

The town board has contracted with the Northern Indiana Public Service Company to add nine new street lights within the city. The ornamental lights will be increased to 600 watts from 400 and those on the out streets will be 400 instead of the 250 watt lights now in use.

The new and brighter lights, under the new contract, will cost no more for operation than those have in the past. The utility has been lowering rates on street lighting, and in order to maintain the same price contract level, the nine new lights were required.

THE MONARCH BUTTERFLY

If Monarch Butterflies could be marked with identification bands, just as birds are, we might learn some amazing stories about their journeys. For Monarchs are among the strongest fliers and most famous travelers in the butterfly world.

In the winter, they may be seen only in the warmest parts of the south. But in the summer great swarms of them appear in the most parts of the United States.

There are many mysteries about how they carry on these migrations, says

Monarch Butterfly

©National Wildlife Federation

the National Wildlife Federation, but it is no secret that they go where they can find milkweed. They feed on the plant and lay their eggs on its stems and leaves.

The tiny green eggs hatch about four days after they are laid. From each egg comes a caterpillar which grows to be about two inches long. It has a yellow and black head and a white body with black and yellow bands. It, too, feeds on milkweed.

In about three weeks, the caterpillar goes through all the steps of becoming an adult butterfly. The new member of the Monarch family has brilliant, reddish-brown wings and black veins and borders.

Along the outer borders are rows of white spots. When its wings are stretched out, the Monarch measures three and a half to four inches across.

Since there is less than a month between the laying of an egg and the appearance of the adult butterfly, the Monarch population grows rapidly each summer. Although some of them may be eaten by birds, the losses are not great because most birds do not like Monarch caterpillar and butterflies. This, too, enables them to thrive and multiply.

While they become numerous, they do not cause any trouble. The only growing thing which they relish is milkweed—a plant which has no value to man.

Monarchs are natives of North America, and the National Wildlife Federation reports that they have spread to parts of Europe, Asia, Australia and New Zealand. How they got abroad is another of the mysteries about the winged tourists.

Interesting information about other wildlife species can be obtained by writing to the National Wildlife Federation, Washington 10, D. C.

Most of the group trained at Camp Haven. Ten recruits received their basic training at Camp McCoy.

HEALTH FACTS FROM YOUR STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

The story of the heart and its care will be highlighted in October with the release by the Indiana Heart Foundation of a kit called "The Heart of the School Health Program."

The Indiana School Health Committee of the Indiana Heart Foundation of which Mrs. Margaret Mercille, of the Education Department, Indiana University, is chairman, and the chairman of the program committee, Robert Yoho, director, Bureau of Health Education, Indiana State Board of Health, have been highly complimented by national health authorities on the material in the kit and the program planning according to a letter received by T. A dissectible model heart will also be available for each county for use by the various schools of the county.

CHRISTMAS PARCELS FOR MEMBERS OF ARMED FORCES OVER SEAS

Christmas parcels for members of the armed forces serving overseas should be mailed between the period October 15 and November 15, except for parcels destined for delivery in Japan, Korea, and the islands in the Pacific. These should be mailed as early as possible, preferably not later than November 1, in view of the distances involved.

The term "Armed Forces Overseas" includes Military and Civilian personnel who receive their mail through an A. P. O.

Boxes for overseas must necessarily be of strong construction on account of the great distance these parcels must be transported. Addresses must be legible and prepared in typewriting or ink. It is highly desirable that a slip of paper containing the names of sender and addressee together with a list of contents be enclosed in each parcel so as to provide identification in the event the address on the outside becomes defaced in transportation, or the parcel becomes broken open.

Mrs. S. M. Hill was called to Terre Haute several days last week because of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. John Knecht. The illness not being serious she returned home Sunday evening.

CONSERVATION URGES REPORTS OF SICK DOVES

In this state, as in a number of other states, the dove is a protected bird, safe from gunfire or any other form of hunting.

However, the dove is not immune to the deadly disease known to state conservation departments as Trichomoniasis or "dove canker."

In a number of states this disease has made great inroads into the ranks of the little gray bird whose mournful note is to be heard not only in rural communities but in cities as well.

Thus far Indiana has been free from the dove disease, but reported cases of the infection in nearby states has caused the Division of Fish and Game Department of Conservation, and attaches of the Pittman-Robertson agency no end of worry.

Once the disease has made its appearance it is tough to stop. The birds die by the thousands. There are not too many thousands of doves left and that is the reason the dove is a protected bird.

The Division of Fish and Game is seeking information on the occurrence of the disease in the Hoosier State. Early discovery may prevent the death of thousands of doves in this vicinity.

Infected doves develop a yellowish was in the throat. This sometimes is accompanied by swelling on the neck. Once infected, the dove dies of starvation brought about by windpipe blocking and inability to swallow food. The disease is caused by a parasite passed from bird to bird through their habit of billing or feeding of the young. Also wide migration trends, combined with flocking habits, tends to spread infection.

Persons who have noted sickness or death among doves are urged to report such information to the Indiana Department of Conservation, 311 West Washington Street, Indianapolis 9, Indiana.

SCIENCE DEVELOPS SPECIAL PRODUCT FOR WASHING

Here are the basic facts about the new product being introduced in this territory under the trade name of "Cheer."

It has been scientifically perfected for household use.

It has been specially designed for tough-job washing.

The new heavy-duty detergent, unlike soaps, does not react with minerals in hard water to form chemical scums or films which stay on clothes and leave rings on tubs or washing machines.

ALWAYS HOUSE GOOD PULLETS

Although the laying flock may be housed any time during the growing season, it is best to house pullets when they are laying around 20%. Some poultrymen already have moved their layers from range to laying house, but others who have yet to transfer their pullets should keep the following information in mind. Housing time is extremely important, and the selection of the prospective layers has considerable influence on the productivity of the flock.

There are certain characteristics which are indicative of a pullet about ready to lay. For one, she usually becomes tamer. And her comb grows or enlarges and becomes brighter red in color. Upon inspection, a raiser may notice that the vent is moist and that it is beginning to lose some of its yellow color. In addition, the pubic bone (the bone on each side of the vent) will begin to spread apart when the pullets start to lay.

Look for Well Grown Birds

Any pullet that is placed in the laying house as part of the laying flock should be well developed. For example, pullets of the lightweight breeds, such as Leghorns, should weigh 3½ pounds or more when housed. On the other hand, Barred Plymouth Rocks, White Plymouth Rocks Rhode Island Reds, New Hampshires or Crossbreds should weigh 5 pounds or more. Bright red faces, combs and wattles should be characteristic for all of these birds.

In choosing healthy pullets, look for a bright clear appearance of the eyes, the smooth well-finished condition of the plumage, and the deep yellow pigment of the skin, shanks and beak. Birds which lack a comparative amount of color usually are of poor quality. Such birds are likely to have feathering which is not fully complete and dull in appearance.

Give Others a Chance

For those birds that do not measure up to all the standards of a good laying pullet, do this: Leave them on range until a later date and give them an opportunity to make further growth and development. If some of the pullets in this group are laying, confine them temporarily in a separate pen. If they show irregular production and low vitality as the season advances, it will be wise to market them.

Remember—choose the best pullets for your laying flock. House birds that are healthy, full-fleshed, heavy, deeply pigmented and sexually mature. adv.

MIGRATORY FOWL SEASON SET FOR OCT. 26 — DEC. 9

Rules and regulations governing the hunting and taking of migratory waterfowl have been issued by the Indiana Department of Conservation in cooperation with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Indiana's 1951 waterfowl season has been extended an additional ten days making this year's season a 45 day one. However, hunters are to be reminded that since Sunday hunting is prohibited in this state, the above total is reduced to 38 actual hunting days in the season.

Duck, goose and coot season opens at noon, October 26, and extends to one hour before sunset December 9. Five geese may be taken in one day. However, no more than two Canada geese or its subspecies, or two white-fronted geese, or a combination of one Canada and one white-fronted geese may be taken. Possession limit is five. The bag limit on coot is ten, with a possession limit of ten. No more than one wood duck may be taken daily or kept in possession.

The woodcock season opens October 15 one half hour before sunrise and extends to sunset November 13. The daily bag limit is four with a possession limit of eight.

Migratory waterfowl may be taken only during the open season and solely by means of a shotgun not larger than ten gauge and fired from the shoulder. Rifles are taboo, but bow and arrow may be used. Conservation officers also point out that automatic or repeating shotguns may be used, provided that a plug is inserted in the magazine thereby prohibiting the use of more than three live shells in the gun. The plug must be so inserted as to make removal impossible without dismantling the weapon. Indiana laws comply with and have the same enforcement effect as all federal laws pertaining to the migratory fowl act.

The federal duck stamp, which the law requires be attached to the hunter's license, may be purchased at post offices throughout the state. All hunters, age sixteen included, must have this stamp.

CONSERVATION GROUP TO MEET AT McCORMICKS

Several hundred Conservationists will trek to Camp Na-Wa-Kwa, McCormick's Creek State Park near Spencer as of September 22 and 23 to attend the annual Fall Conference of the Indiana State Conservation Advisory Committee.

Last year the organization met at Turkey Run State Park. This year, however, it was decided to hold the meeting in the camp at the state park in order that camping facilities can be used to house those in attendance. A large convention hall, used during summer months by various groups, will be used for the affair. Those in attendance will be bedded down in true outdoor fashion.

Registration will take place Saturday afternoon followed by business sessions and discussions by attaches of the Indiana Department of Conservation of which Kenneth M. Kunkel is director.

J. A. Craw, superintendent of the public school system of Newcastle, Indiana, and the Henry Township School, will be the principal speaker during the Saturday evening session. The subject of his talk will be "Youth and Conservation."

Following business sessions Sunday morning, the group will tour McCormick's Creek State Park. The two-day meeting will adjourn shortly after noon Sunday. Officers of the Advisory committee, which embraces sixteen districts in the state, are John F. Taylor, Guilford, President; Armen Best, Corydon, Vice-President, and Bert Myers, Bloomington, Secretary-Treasurer.

MENTONE MURMURS

by
DAVID and SALLY GOSSER

A fine gray mist driven by a light east wind greeted us on the shores of Clearwater Lake as we emerged from a green DeSoto and a black Ford. The packs which had been so laboriously filled with clothes and provisions were hauled forth and placed as duffle between the thwarts of the canoes. Ponchos had been donned for this chore, and tarps were tied down to keep bed rolls and sleeping bags dry.

The boat motor and gas were at last brought forth and readied for the lake trip. Norman secured it to the nineteen-foot canoe. The cars were driven behind the lodge, the passengers stepped cautiously into the aluminum crafts, and the voyagers began the long paddle to a proposed camp-site which the Urschels had used on their previous trip to the lake last year. Norman Foltz, Jonnie, and Charles, however, soon left us far behind as the motor lifted the prow of their canoe clear of the water and sent them skimming the gray rippling surface of the lake.

It had been planned that they would be responsible for finding the camp site and begin setting up the tents. We pulled hard on our paddles, trying to make the bluffs far down the lake appear nearer. These stony cliffs, we had learned from the lodge keepers. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schliep, were called the Clearwater Lake Pallsades. They glowered frowningly upon us through the mist, and on several occasions later were partially veiled by low sweeping clouds.

The rain ceased, and we threw off our parka and poncho hoods without letting up on the forward thrust of paddles and steady pull of the blades which eased us continually eastward until the lodge landing was out of sight. Three miles of dipping and feathering the paddles brought us abreast of the Pallsades. They loomed high and menacingly above us, and we speculated on the date when the falling rocks had swept a path through the pines and birches to the very depth of the lake. We rested our paddles across the gunwales of the boats and sat in respectful silence, awed by their grandeur and suggestive strength. Later we applied the names "Citadels" and "Sentinels" to them.

Resuming our paddling we slowly passed beyond them to the "narrows" where the lake shores came within about two hundred yards of meeting. Dan called across the water, "We're almost there. The camp site should be just beyond the farthest point to our left." We slackened our dipping paddles to observe a neatly built cabin set at the base of the mountain on the edge of the lake. It had been with exhausting labor that the rocks had been removed to make a wall behind it and soil scraped from their pockets to make a lawn, small, but attractive.

Anxious to arrive at camp, we increased the rhythm of our blades, rounded the point, and were hailed by the crew of the motor-canoe. The big tent was up and the sites for the various camp activities selected. Emerging stiffly and gingerly from the canoes onto the rocky shore, we checked out time and estimated that we had paddled almost five miles in the hour and three-quarters we were afloat, and then set about to finish the camp which for the next nine days would be our supply base and home camp.

Tent pegs were driven into rock crevices and under the roots of trees, for the land is too rocky to hold more than a shovel of soil in any one place. The latrine detail found this a rock-bound fact when they began their duties that evening.

As Dr. Dan had previously camped here and had so well chosen the site, and had been the source of inspiration, along with Charles, for the trip, we made him camp boss. He designated tasks for each of us. David and Fred were to keep us supplied in fire-wood, Jonnie Foltz was the waterboy, Norman the dish washer, Charles the chief cook, and Murmurs his assistant. No, Dr. Dan didn't leave himself out. He was chief fire maker, the most undesirable and exasperating job of them all, as we each found out in turn.

With an ample supply of food and a good roaring fire, when we were able to get one going, the meals were no chore. Charles had seen to that when he had so well planned the menus (the ones Murmurs kept mixing up and confusing) and packed the foods.

The early dusk hastened our preparations for the night. We had our evening meal, looked eastward across the remaining part of the lake we had not yet traversed, and planned the first portage trip for the next day.

Darkness and silence settled about us, and sleep came quickly to our eyes, for it had been a long and exciting day.

COMMITTEE MEETS

On Tuesday evening the new P. T. A. president, Carol Elller, met with committee chairmen to discuss problems and plans for the coming year.

The first P. T. A. meeting will be held next Wednesday evening, at 7:30. Mr. E. S. Castor, who is superintendent of the Rochester public schools will talk on "The Child's Needs." Each parent is invited to hear Mr. Castor and his thoughts of vital interest to each of us.

Another panel discussion is being planned for the October meeting. Again the questions to be discussed are to come from the parents, and Earl Smalley urges all who have such questions to hand them to him before the week of the October 24 meeting.

Mrs. Delford Nelson, who is hospitality chairman, says that there will be special rooms for taking care of the children this year. The groups are to be divided, with "sitters" to take care of the smaller ones and planned handwork or entertainment for the older ones. This plan will do away with much noise and confusion.

This year promises to be one of much interest. As has been stated many times previously, the Parent-Teachers Association has much to offer, so why not be there to receive your share?

Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson and children of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Mary Johnson, of Churubusco, mother of James were Sunday afternoon and evening guests of Mrs. Martha Welch.

Comrade John Lackey is giving the Post the charter of Post 197, the first American Legion Post formed in Mentone. This post was chartered on December 17, 1919. Earl R. Shinn was the first commander, John F. Lackey, the adjutant and Rea H. Ward, the treasurer. They had a total of 24 members. The following are the names that appear on the charter: John F. Lackey, Granvil Shirley, Dewey V. Baker, Lee V. Bybee, Foster Z. Jones, Don Ernsberger, Mace Warren, Bert Nevell, Rea H. Ward, Kenneth Coplen, Dean G. Nellans, Earl R. Shinn, George Emons, Dale L. Kelley, Verl Haltermann.

The following were members of that post but are not listed on the charter: Turner Boggs, Robert Reed, Earl Carbinier, Maurice Dudley, Bent Julian, Walter J. Lackey and Dr. F. B. Davison.

There will be a Second District meeting at Logansport on Sunday, September 30, at 2:00 p. m. CST and the next Post meeting will be on Tuesday, October 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Groves of Mishawaka called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Bowen Saturday.

The five-tiered cake, decorated with pink bows and featuring a bride and groom at the top, measured 36 inches in diameter, and weighed 50 pounds.

The Andersons, aged 82 and 81, respectively, were married in Rochester, September 12, 1891, moving in 1894 to the farm where they now reside. Mr. Anderson had the misfortune of losing his eyesight 16 years ago. Both are members of the Mentone Church of Christ, and have attended the Tiosa Brethren Church since residing in this locality. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are parents of 2 children, Harley R. Anderson, of South Bend, and Mrs. Ona Hedrick, of North Manchester; they also have three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

MOTHER DIES IN OHIO

Mr. and Mrs. Mott Bryan and family went to Athens, Ohio last Thursday where they were called by the sudden death of Mrs. Bryan's mother, Mrs. Olive Johnson. Funeral services were held on Sunday.

Mrs. Johnson, who was 82 years of age has visited in our community at the home of the Bryans, and will be remembered by many.

ATTENTION—WOMEN OF MEN-TONE AND NEARBY AREAS

Unfortunately, there is no public recreation room for women in Mentone. We have often heard expressed a desire for a place where women of the community might feel free to stop and visit while they wait for other members of the family on Saturday evening.

Therefore, the members of the Mentone Library Board and the Librarians are extending an invitation to all women of the community to stop in at the Library between the hours of 6 and 9 on Saturday evenings and visit with your friends or rest after you finish shopping. There will be plenty of chairs and a rest room available.

This is your Library and we want you to feel at home here. On Saturday evenings you may feel free to talk to each other and enjoy yourselves as it will not interfere with the Library work being done on that evening because it is purely routine work.

TO CELEBRATE 50TH WED-DING ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Robbins, of northwest of Mentone, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary with an open house for friends and relatives from 2 until 4 o'clock Sunday, September 30, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Mildred Flenar, of Mentone. They also have a son, Ralph, of Ft. Wayne, 12 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

WALTER KENT NAMED "CRU-SADE FOR FREEDOM" CHAIRMAN

Walter Kent, principal of the Mentone schools, has been named county chairman of the 1951 "Crusade for Freedom" movement.

In Indiana this year, the crusade is being sponsored by the American Legion as a public service and has the active support of the Legion's auxiliary. The campaign will continue thru October in an effort to enlist at least one million Hoosiers to enroll in the freedom movement to help suppress the advances of communism. A goal of $175,000 in voluntary contributions has been established for Indiana.

Success in the 1951 national campaign for 25,000,000 members and $3,500,000 in funds will permit establishment of two more powerful radio transmitters for Radio Free Europe which broadcasts daily programs of truth to the enslaved peoples behind the Soviet iron curtain.

Your contribution to raise Kosciusko county's quota of $1,350 can be mailed to "Crusade for Freedom", care of the local post office.

FISH FRY AT BURKET OCT. 5

The Burket Volunteer Fire Department will hold a benefit fish fry at the Burket gym on next Friday, Oct. 5th. The proceeds will be used to complete the fire department building.

DAYLIGHT SAVING NEARING THE END

Daylight Saving Time, like the playboy's bankroll, is about shot. Sometime over the week end you can throw the old alarm clock into a 90-minute reverse and you'll be on legal time again. You can also catch up on that hour of innerspring yodeling you were chiseled out of last April.

About the only difference we'll notice, perhaps, is that it will be CST instead of CDT.

LIONS TO HOLD SPELLING CONTEST HERE ON OCT. 6TH

The Boys' and Girls' Committee of the Mentone Lions Club has announced plans for a spelling contest to be held in Mentone on the evening of Oct. 6th, starting at 7:30 p. m. The contest will be open to students in the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades of the Beaver Dam, Burket, Tippecanoe, Talma and Mentone schools. Suitable trophies, and possibly also cash prizes, will be awarded the winners in each of the grades.

In case of inclement weather, the contests will be held in the gymnasium.

The principal, or his designated representative, of each of the five schools, will do the judging.

Each contestant is advised to bring along the spelling book he used the preceding year. The spelling master will pronounce the word, and if the contestant desires, he may ask that the word be used in a sentence. The contestant will pronounce the word before spelling it, and he will have only one trial, and that orally.

The contest will be the final event of a day featuring many attractions. Friday and Saturday will be Dollar Days in Mentone, with the merchants offering many unusual bargains. Saturday is Volunteer Fireman's Day and the boys of the fire department will have their equipment on display, and the youngsters will be taken a ride on one of the fire trucks. They will be carefully supervised and each boy or girl will be given a lesson on safety. In the afternoon there will be several athletic contests for the youngsters, starting at 2:30.

We'll be looking for you in Mentone Friday and Saturday of next week—Oct. 5 and 6.

The entire student body, faculty and school patrons extend their sympathy to Mr. Pavlick at this time of sorrow.

DR. WENDELL H. KINSEY

From an editorial appearing in the Connecticut Campus, the publication of the University of Connecticut.

Wendell Kinsey played his final round of golf sometime last spring. Early Monday morning a campus that has come to know this man as tradition itself learned that Professor Wendell Kinsey died in his home on Willowbrook Road.

Strange that a man should be considered tradition before death, but Wendell Kinsey was an amazing man. Few men possess the ability to leave with a university those intangibles that remain forever.

Ordinarily the first editorial of a college newspaper expounds on the greatness of the school and things you inherit. But this is not an ordinary day.

Unfortunately the freshmen have missed the privilege of knowing Connecticut's Wendell Kinsey. His memory, however, will forever dwell among the rolling hills, the hills that this man had loved dearly for 22 years.

A newcomer could certainly be forgiven should he ask, "Just what was it that made Wendell Kinsey Connecticut tradition?" The older folks could answer that easily. And if you were a student before the war you would have known what made him such a beloved figure here.

If few men become tradition at a university fewer still can share memories that would recall being voted by the students "The most popular professor on campus." That honor was given Wendell Kinsey in 1934, and yet at the same time the students of 1934 voted him the "hardest marker." So you see there was a quality about the man that words can not quite capture.

There were other things about the man, things that his friends will always remember. J. O. Christian, Connecticut's director of athletics and a very close friend of the Kinsey family, remarked, "I think Wendell had one of the soundest policies on intercollegiate athletics I've ever heard of. He was chairman of the school's athletic advisory committee since 1929 and his interest in the individual boy was very keen."

Always close to the athletic picture here, Kinsey, after his graduation from the University of Indiana, was generally considered one of the top high school basketball coaches in a state that is known the world over as the "basketball hotbed of America."

As an athlete himself he was par excellent. People close to the Storrs scene shall never forget how the man year after year monopolized the golf, ping-pong and bowling championship of the University.

His work never stopped. Even when he first learned he was ill he continued to teach. One day, for example, he was lecturing to his physics class. Standing on his feet he knew something was wrong, but the class didn't. He couldn't continue his lecture and instead moved to the blackboard where he finished out the day with the students working problems.

His life was running out then. A tremendous competitor, he was finally forced to set a slower pace last March. He taught through March 23. His last planned trip with Connecticut's baseball team in the spring never materialized.

Wendell Kinsey was one of the pioneers in athletic action movies and since 1929 diligently caught Connecticut's greats on film. He was to go south with the baseball team last spring, but was operated on in the Hartford Hospital March 30.

His last official University films were taken of a Connecticut basketball team that had risen to its greatest heights, the NCAA tournament game on March 20 in Madison Square Garden. And perhaps it was fitting that his last job was with a Connecticut athletic team at its greatest moment. Somehow that's the way you might expect Wendell Kinsey to end his work for the University of Connecticut.

His work has ended, but he shall always remain as a part of your school's tradition.

Mrs. Earl Meredith spent Tuesday evening and Wednesday visiting with her son and family at Akron, while there she also attended the Beaver Dam Club meeting.

BEAVER DAM P. T. A. MEETS

On September 18 the Beaver Dam P. T. A. held its first meeting of the 1951-52 year. There was a very good attendance at this meeting, getting the year off to a good start.

The meeting was called to order by Eldon Cumberland, the new President. He spoke of the plans for the coming year and stressed the fact that next month would be the annual P. T. A. supper.

Mr. Cumberland introduced the new Principal, Mr. Swanson. Mr. Swanson, then, in the absence of Trustee Jones, introduced the teachers.

After a business discussion the P. T. A. members enjoyed some fine entertainment. Doug Kehler, of Warsaw, known as the Prince of Pantomime, very ably and amusingly gave his interpretation of Spike Jones.

A quartet of Beaver Dam boys sang two numbers which were enjoyed by the crowd. Larry Tucker, Ernest Heighway, Wayne and Gerald Smalley comprised this group. Another Beaver Dam young man, Sam Summe, sang two numbers very well. Shirley Igo played for the quartet and Mrs. Maynard Summe accompanied Sam.

TURN LAYERS INTO PAYERS

If you own a laying flock that comes from good breeding stock, you have a right to expect profitable results. But your layers will not produce good results unless you, their manager, provide the right kind of feed, good housing, good sanitation, and good care to keep them healthy and productive.

With today's birds capable of long production records, it is more or less up to the raiser to keep the flock performing well. Through good management a raiser can contribute greatly to the overall production record of his birds. He can guide them to the production and profitability which can be rightfully expected from good stock.

Intensity — Persistency

Birds which come from good stock have what is called high intensity and long persistency. Intensity may be defined as the number of eggs the birds lay in one cycle without missing. In some flocks, hens have been known to lay more than 200 eggs in that many days before missing a day. Persistency, on the other hand, means the ability of the hen to continue to lay eggs through the full calendar year or longer. Today, the best hens may lay for 15 or 18 months, and sometimes longer, without interrupting production for more than just a few days at a time.

A raiser must exercise careful management to get the most out of his layers. In doing this, there are many details he must consider. As a brief reminder, or refresher, here are some of the more important ones:

Management Rules

1. House birds in a tightly constructed, yet well ventilated house. Have enough windows for good light in the house.
2. Provide ample floor space (not less than 3 sq. ft. for each Leghorn, and not less than 4 sq. ft. for each dual-purpose bird).
3. Provide general sanitary conditions for birds. Clean and disinfect equipment regularly.

4. Use good feed and provide a balanced mixture. Use hoppers to keep feed clean, fresh, and palatable. Have plenty of hopper space.

5. Keep water fresh and clean and have it easily available to birds.

6. Provide plenty of clean nesting space. adv.

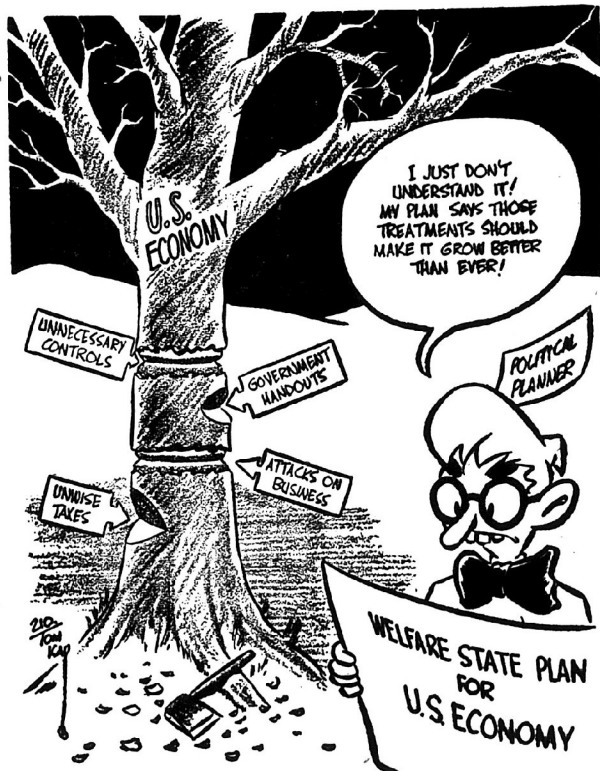

Mr. and Mrs. C. James Paris of South Bend, and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Tracy and Forrest Lee and Kathy Ann, of Plymouth, were Sunday dinner guests of their grandmother, Mrs. Effie Personett.

Guests in the Frank Wise home on Saturday evening were Sergeant and Mrs. Bud Wise, of Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

Mrs. Lizzie Longfellow, an aunt of Mrs. Barkman, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Longfellow and daughter, of Warsaw, spent Saturday evening visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Barkman.

THE PIUTE TROUT

As every good trout fisherman knows, the place to look for cutthroat trout is in streams and lakes along the west coast, from Mexico to Alaska. They are found all the way from sea level to altitudes of 10,000 feet, but never east of the Rocky Mountains.

Piute Trout

©National Wildlife Federation

There are many varieties of cut-throats, says the National Wildlife Federation. One of the most colorful is the Piute Trout, which lives in the small streams of Fish Valley, California. This is a remote region in the mountains, east of the Sierra Divide.

Like all cutthroats, the Piute has a red streak or gash on both sides of its lower jaw. Inside its large mouth, there are teeth in both the roof and the jaw. Its slender body is dark on top and ivory-white underneath. The most striking marks are rows of blotches—some light brown and some reddish—on its sides.

The size of the piute depends on its home. If it is living in a large lake, where there is plenty of food, it grows to be a good-sized fish, weighing from four to six pounds. But in a small stream or lake, where it has less to eat and not much room in which to roam, it may never tip the scales at more than a pound.

Whether large or small, the Piute Trout likes to stay near rocks and logs and under overhanging banks. It also looks for deep pools in which to idle.

Because it is a fish of the high country, the Piute does not lay eggs as early in the season as some cutthroats do. It usually waits until summer to spawn. Then, when the water is getting warmer, the female lays from 3,000 to 6,000 eggs in the gravel bottom of a stream or lake.

The Piute family eats flies and other insects, crawfish, worms, minnows, and fish eggs. A fisherman can attract them with a spoon or artificial fly, a minnow, or a grasshopper.

When hooked, the Piute puts up a good fight. Like all cutthroats that live in cold water, it is a vigorous, high-spirited fish. There are cutthroats though, which are much less energetic than the Piute. According to the National Wildlife Federation, cutthroat trout found in warmer waters are more sluggish and less likely to resist when caught.

Interesting information about other wildlife species can be obtained by writing to the National Wildlife Federation, Washington 10, D. C.

DIG A LITTLE DEEPER

Indianapolis, Sept. 25 Taxpayers of Kosciusko county will be called upon to bear an increase of approximately $978,963 over present federal taxes if the new tax measure now pending in the U. S. Senate becomes law, the Indiana State Chamber of Commerce said today in a statement which questioned the need for additional taxes at this time.

Additional taxes which would be paid directly or indirectly by citizens of the county if the tax increase bill becomes law would amount to an average of about $29.78 per person or $119.12 for a family of four, the Chamber said.

INTERNATIONAL DAIRY SHOW

Several hundred dairy cattle have already been officially entered in the Senior cattle show at the International Dairy Exposition, according to H. W. Walker, general manager of the big dairy show.

The International is set for October 6-13 at the Indiana State Fairgrounds in Indianapolis. The Exposition is the largest show of its type devoted exclusively to the dairy industry and its component parts. At each of the past two shows the Exposition had over 2600 purebred dairy cattle entries from 32 states and three Canadian provinces at its senior and junior cattle shows. Exposition directors point to the record books and claim that this is more purebred cattle than have ever been shown in one place before.

Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Teel entertained Sunday, September 23 in honor of Gary Wayne's 2nd birthday. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herschberger, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Grevians, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Clouse, Bud and Martha Clouse, Mrs. Norman Hodge and son, all of Bourbon, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoover and son, Tommy, of Palestine, Mrs. Howard Williams and children, of Plymouth, Mrs. Snowden Halterman, Mrs. Jake Kesler and Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Teel and family of Mentone.

THE AMERICAN WAY

SOAKING THE POOR

By George Peck

To meet his huge running expenses Uncle Sam already has been forced to attach considerable of the incomes of us fellows in the lower income groups.

Apparently, we "ain't seen nothin' yet." By the time this appears in print the elongated chap with the chin whiskers will be reaching still further into the pockets of American workers.

In 1939, a married man with an income of $2,500 a year was exempt from Federal taxation and was able to keep all his earnings. In the current fiscal year, he is compelled to work 22 days to pay his Federal income tax. In the next fiscal year he will sweat for a longer period for his greedy, squandering government.

Of course, the wealthy chap really gets taken to the cleaners. A person in the $100,000 class works nearly one half of his time for the Government, or more than three times as long as a person with a $5,000 income who toils ONLY 34 days to meet his income tax bill.

The progressive rate of taxation now in effect is socialistic in concept and communistic in result. Bradford B. Smith, Economist for the United States Steel Corporation, most aptly stated the case against progressive taxation when he pointed out:

"There is no justification in the morals or in the principles of individual liberty for progressive taxation. It is simply looting through law of the more productive by the more numerous but less productive. Its appeal is demagogic, and its result is communism, which in turn is but a transitory stage in the evolution away from liberty into dictatorship . . ."

This looting of the wealthy is not only unjust but it impairs incentive. Further, the revenue to be obtained from this source is comparatively small. If all the personal taxable income of $25,000 a year of over were confiscated by the Government, the amount would be sufficient to pay the current running expenses of the Federal Government for only about ten days. One does not have to be the seventh son of a seventh son to divine that as our tax burdens expand, we poorer folks will be forced to spend an increasing number of days working for the government.

Our poor, unfortunate British cousins have had a most unpleasant taste of progressive taxation. In Great Britain the tax burden is being shifted to the lower income groups. In 1938 the lower income group contributed only about 20 percent of total personal income taxes; in 1949 this had increased sharply to 40 percent.

England has practically destroyed her high income group just as we are in the process of doing here in the United States of America. For example, the British group with incomes of $50,000 or over contributed over 30 percent of total personal income taxes in 1938; in 1949 this had dropped to 13 percent and is still falling.

England's experience is a dire warning to us as we are travelling down the same road to insolvency. England is just a short way ahead of us. We must stop destroying our high income group not because we particularly love those who comprise it, but because they are vital to our own welfare. Unless we call a halt to this procedure we shall find, as has England, that the day will come when Uncle Sam will have no other recourse than to soak us poorer folks to the point where our standard of living will be reduced to that of the Hottentots.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smythe and daughter, Jalaine and Monna Lou Darr have returned home after a visit with Pfc. Don A. Smythe who is stationed at the Francis E. Warren A. F. B., at Cheyenne, Wyoming.

FREE PRESS SPREADS LIGHT ON DARKNESS OF IGNORANCE

"Your newspaper lights the way of freedom." That is the theme which has been chosen for the 1951 observance of National Newspaper Week.

The choice is a fine one, for the slogan has far-reaching implications.

First of all, it suggests that where there is no light there is darkness. In this case, the darkness is ignorance, "a night," someone has said, "without moon or stars."

The National Newspaper Week theme presumes the right to pierce that darkness with the light of information and it presumes at the same time the right to keep that light burning in face of all odds. "Ignorance," as referred to above, does not imply that we are mentally impotent, but merely uninformed of fact.

For free man has a right to know. If there is a right to know, there must be a right to tell.

The men who made this nation considered the right to tell so important that they wrote it into the No. 1 Amendment to our Federal Constitution: "Congress shall make no law . . . abridging freedom of speech and freedom of the press."

But the right to tell is more than a privilege, it is a duty.

Elijah Lovejoy, abolitionist editor at Alton, Ill., believed in his right to carry the lamp of the free press and he knew his duty to light it and keep it burning. Three times mobs destroyed his printing presses. While he was protecting his fourth press, Lovejoy was shot to death.

Don Mellett, the Canton, Ohio, publisher, kept the spotlight of publicity focused on the racketeers in his community until they ambushed him and shot him at his own doorstep.

Racketeers, international or smalltime, know the power of the press. That is why they must control that power, why they must black out the light of public information if they are to attain and maintain a grip on the people.

That is why half the population of the world is under some form of censorship today.

That is why Gen. George C. Marshall said, "Americans should keep constantly in mind that no people have lost their liberties so long as their press remained free."

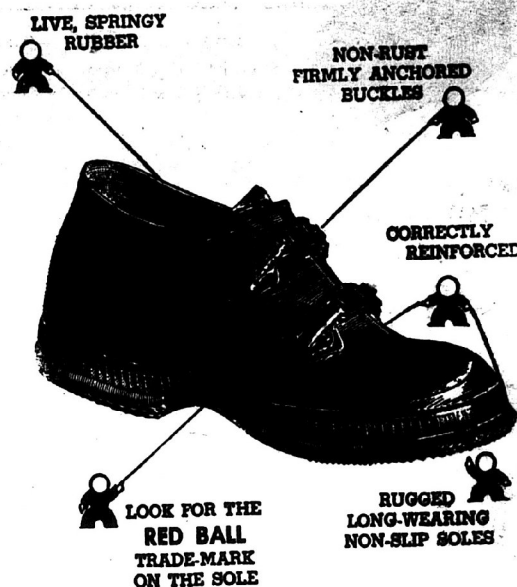

That is why in the interest of world understanding—and hence in the interest of peace—our nation seeks actively to spread throughout the world the freedom of the people to learn the truth.

A free press — a free people.

"Your newspaper lights the way of freedom."

The vital truth of that message is the one thing National Newspaper Week has to sell.
